PRIDE

Bishop Hogan High School, established in 1940, has looked through forty-two years of pride at many memorable moments. This year our pride was strengthened by every day encouragement given to us by the faculty and student body. In each of our hearts we shared the delights of achievements, the concerns of friendships and the joys of success. Beyond the conquests and defeats in our school activities, we stood tall in dignity. We are proud to save and share the highlights of this 1982-83 school year in the RAMPAGE.

'82-'83 takes off

Orientation activities began on August 23, 1982. They included a prayer service in which Sister Vickie talked of beginnings; following the service was enrollment. The Opening Barbecue, sponsored by StuCo, was held on August 27, 1982. This was the first year Hogan served barbecue beef.

Hogan begins again

Bishop Hogan's traditional Opening Mass was held on September 3, 1982, at St. Peter's Church. It was a day when the entire student body, faculty and staff came together for worship. Bishop John Sullivan celebrated the Mass. He talked of the future of Hogan students and their importance in the community. After Mass the Bishop gave a day off.

"Hogan is Family"

Stuco chose "For You" for the theme of the 1982 Homecoming. Homecoming began with the traditional Mass celebrated by chaplain, Father Stewart. A pep rally was held which introduced the 15 candidates. A parade led the Ram fans to East High School where the Rams met the Northeast Vikings. Queen Andrea Addison and her court were crowned at the Homecoming dance.

Clowning around

For the first time in several years, Hogan's drama department presented a children's theater production entitled "Clowns' Play" by Reginald F. Bain. Children from area schools attended the show staged in Hogan's gym. Mr. Comiskey, a new teacher at Hogan who directed the department's fall offering said, "'The Clown's Play' was a very energetic first performance for the Drama class." The eight cast members turned cartwheels, swallowed swords and juggled scarves to entertain the small fry.

Polar bear hike

This year's Bike/Hike was held in the fall, on October 22, instead of in the spring as it has been in the past. Walkers and riders braved the cold to go ten miles for walkers and twenty miles for riders. The annual Bike/Hike raises money for the operational expenses of the school.

The second annual Donkey Basketball Game, sponsored by the cheerleaders, was held on November 12, in Hogan's gym. The game was dominated by the women with the cheerleaders victorious over the football players, and the women faculty coming out with a win against the men faculty. In the championship game, the victory went for the second consecutive year to the women faculty over the cheerleaders.

Students reflect

This year the school held its annual retreat but in a different manner. The student retreat this year was planned for November 18 and 19, 1982 with the entire school participating instead of each class having a separate retreat. It consisted of many different speakers talking on various subjects. The subjects ranged from abortion to Nuclear War.

On the last day of the retreat Father Tulipana, pastor at St. Augustine's, celebrated Mass in the gym. During Mass, time was taken for students to reflect on the happenings of the days.

Each class contributed to the celebration by making the colorful banners which decorated the gym. They helped to symbolize the theme of the days which was Darkness and Light.

High school life

Eighth grade day was held November 30, 1982. School was let out at 11:20 in order to prepare for the students' arrival. After talks by Sr. Vickie and Marcia Austin, Student Council president, students split into groups and were taken by Hogan students to two different presentations. The day concluded with refreshments and entertainment by the Jazz Band.

Christmas is magic

The Christmas Concert officially began the Christmas Season at Hogan. Mixed Chorus, Choristers, Jazz Band, Concert Band and Beginning Band toasted the season with a variety of Christmas music. The spirit of the evening grew as songs like "Jingle Bell Rock" and "Carol of the Bells" were sung. The entire audience joined the students to sing "O Come All Ye Faithful" at the end of the concert.

“If this world were mine”

Basketball king and queen activities began Friday, January 28, 1983, with an all school assembly, where the six finalists were announced. The activities continued Saturday night where the king and queen, Skeet Spotser and Allyson Blackwell and their attendants, first, Kathleen Pyle and Kevin Bivens, second, Rhonda Gossett and Marcus Parker, were crowned. “If This World Were Mine” was the theme song. The title of Basketball King and Queen is awarded to the woman and man who exhibit the most support, enthusiasm, and participation in the basketball program.

Enrollment plans for 1983-84

Enrollment for the 1983-84 school year began in February. The students took time out to consult their advisors about their schedules for the following school year. Many of the students chose classes which will be beneficial for the careers they wish to pursue after school. This year, for the first time, parents were asked to get involved with their student for enrollment. Parent's night was Feb. 15, 1983 and the enrollment sign up date was February 28.

The theme for the 1983 Miss Hogan High held on February 11, was "Truly". The events began with a Mass that morning followed by an assembly honoring the fifteen candidates and selection of the final five. A dance in their honor was held later that evening. Christina Neal was crowned Miss Hogan High and her court: 1st attendant, Marcia Austin; 2nd attendant, Dayna Brown; 3rd attendant, Sharon Kennedy; 4th attendant, Tammy Sanders; were honored for contributions of time and talent to Hogan's activities during their four years of attending Bishop Hogan.

Students deal with concerns

The Student Concerns committee are representatives of the students at Hogan who deal with the concerns of the student body. They focus on ideas, plans or problems and work to find solutions. The group works with Sister Vickie, principal, and gives students a means of dealing with their particular needs in the school.

Student Concerns: T. Lam, B. Henderson, B. Becker, A. Guess, C. Wirkus, S. Johnson, C. Pyle, J. Becker, D. Harris, E. Smith, G. North and A. Gusman.

Honor students expand interests

The Honor's Section participates in cultural activities designed to deepen their interests. Among the places the group visited this year were: Lyric Theater, Missouri Repertory Theater, the Renaissance Festival, and the Nelson Gallery of Art. Mrs. Joanne Couture is the sponsor for the group.

Honor's Section: A. Couture, C. Neal, G. Henderson, D. Johnson, M. Patterson, M. Williams, P. Williams, T. Ross, G. North, C. Wood, M. Austin, A. Wirtz, B. Harvey, S. Spotser, M. Curls, C. Simmons, and Mrs. Couture.

Stuco sets the pace

The 1983 Student Council planned all the major dances and activities on the school calendar. These included the all-school Barbeque, games night, Homecoming, Basketball King and Queen, Miss Hogan High. Over the Christmas Vacation some of the Stuco members went to Seton Center to help run it for a day. They supplied the food, made crafts for people to buy, and worked in the kitchen as part of their service project. Stuco held a Student Council Exchange day with Stuco members from St. Pius on February 9, 1983.

Ram Tough

Returning a tradition of freshman football to Hogan, the Rookie Rams recruited 19 for a team. Coach Scott Duschen said "I feel the freshman football season was successful because the players not only gained a lot of experience concerning football, but learned to play together as a team. I also enjoyed the aggressiveness and intensity shown by most of the players." The rams posted a 2-3 season with victories over Central and East. # Bump, set, spike . . . victory

The varsity volleyball team had a very successful season under new coach, Mrs. Engler. Seniors, Sharon Kennedy and Kathleen Pyle, led the team to first place in the Barstow Tournament where they defeated K.C. Lutheran, Grain Valley, and Englewood Christian. The team ended up the season with 14 wins and only 3 losses.

Freshmen show their stuff

With an overall record of 6-7, the freshman basketball team improved very much as their season progressed. The first half of their season their record was 2-5, with two very close losses to Pius and East. The second half of their season their record was 4-2 including a victory over Pius. The team shows great promise for the future of Hogan basketball. The freshmen team was coached by Steve Engler.

The women's varsity basketball team pulled through a very tough season by displaying hard work and enthusiasm. The squad clinched first place in the Barstow Varsity Tournament. Second place in the Sunset Tournament was also taken by the team. Seniors Allyson Blackwell, Rhonda Gossett, Wendy Hill, Carla Jones, Lori Morrison, and Kathleen Pyle provided a strong backbone for the team. Though there were five sophomores on the team, the overall talent and agility made for a good season.

Determination

We got the beat

There are three bands at Bishop Hogan: Beginner Band, Concert Band, and Jazz Band. Beginner Band teaches the basics of playing band instruments of the individual band member's choice. Concert Band goes deeper to try out a wide variety of music. Jazz Band plays jazz and popular music which appeals more to the public. The Jazz Band performed for the Catholic Black Caucus Group, for Black History Week at the Federal Building, for a Convention at Crown Center, and kicking off the United Way event. Sr. Roxanne, a newcomer in charge of the bands, comments on the progress of the bands: "We just get better and better every day."

Rams develop their talents

The practical arts department consists of classes in typing, business, sewing, cooking, and drafting. Mr. Humphrey and Ms. Harmon teach all business classes. Instructions in domestic arts are provided by Mrs. Brentano and Mrs. Cavanaugh. Students go to the convent for all drafting classes with Sr. Elizabeth Marie.

Sherri gets special attention from Mrs. Brentano.

Jesse Lewis checks his favorite recipes.

Bridging the language barrier

Reggie Holivay finds Spanish very interesting.

Mrs. Patneau listens to her students responses.

Mrs. Patneau, a newcomer at Bishop Hogan, joined the language department teaching Spanish and leading her students to an appreciation of the language and culture of other peoples. Ms. Ott continues to prove that Latin is not a dead language at Hogan.

Ms. Ott enjoys her Latin seminars.

Mr. Day prepares notes for lecture.

Mrs. Engler helps students broaden vocabulary.

Scholars study famous writers

Mr. Day, the head of the English department, stated that the English classes' main objectives were to "help the students develop basic skills such as grammar, writing paragraphs, spelling and vocabulary." Mythology was added to the English electives this year. Other English teachers included Mrs. Couture, Mrs. Engler, Sister Paulmarie, Mr. Read, and Mr. Comiskey.

Mrs. Couture's "scholars" examine Shakespeare.

Search for God

For the first time in several years religion was included in the computation of the grade point average. This action emphasizes the importance of religion in the curriculum. New to the religion department this year were Sr. Roxanne and Fr. Robert Stewart. Sr. Catrina, head of the religion department, teaches Christian Morality and Old Testament. Mr. Engler teaches Christian Action, Jesus and Christian Vocation. Mrs. Heschmeyer and Sr. Roxanne teach Freshmen Religion and Fr. Robert teaches Death and Dying, and Belief and Commitment.

Renewing faith for the 82-83 classes.

Sr. Catrina takes time to help Therressa.

Mr. Engler leaves for Christian Action.

Dealing with abstractions

Ms. McClaran cites examples in Algebra II.

"The important things to remember are . . ."

Mathematics is exploring the world of abstracts. It encompasses simple numerical manipulations to theoretical equations of great complexity. Mr. Arnett, a newcomer and Sr. Charlotte start the basic forms of calculations, Mr. Duschen shows uses of math in everyday living. Mr. Capo specializes in computer programming and geometric proofs. Ms. McClaran advances into workings of probability and calculus differentiation.

Working with CARDIAC, the first step in computer programming.

Beth and Glenn are engrossed in their experiment.

Sr. Charlotte prepares for class.

"Very interesting."

Mr. Dorr explains the fine points of Biology.

Quest for knowledge

Science is the learning of the nature of things. The Hogan Science staff teaches courses ranging from the atomic, microscopic, to the macroscopic worlds in the universe. Mrs. Stimetz shows the components making up our world, Mr. Dorr and Ms. Halley lecture on the intricate mechanics of biological life, and Sr. Charlotte explains the forces governing the cosmos.

History students sample the past

Mr. Read enjoys a response in Ancient Civilization.

History can come alive especially with Mr. Read, department chairperson, who teaches about our past in Ancient Civilization and Medieval History. Sr. Paulmarie teaches cause and effect relationships of World War I and II in Contemporary History. Mr. Williams teaches Geography and American Government and Mr. Lewis teaches American History.

Mr. Williams directs questions to Government students.

American History lecture is serious business with Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Jackson's health class runs drills.

Sr. Michael kicks off with speedball.

Keith returns the ball for a point.

Getting into shape

This year the physical education department consists of a series of sports such as speedball, aerobics, volleyball, basketball, and archery. It is taught by Mrs. Brentano who teaches freshmen and sophomore girls P.E. and Sr. Michael teaching the sophomore girls P.E. while Mr. Andy Jackson teaches the men's P.E. classes.

P.E. provides an early morning stretch.

Freshman P.E. practices kickball.

Mrs. Heschmeyer cuts mats for contest artwork.

“You gotta have art”

The fine arts department offers a variety of art classes from beginning art to advanced art, pottery and crafts. Sr. Sue and Mrs. Heschmeyer both teach art I; Sr. Sue also teaches pottery. The crafts class is provided for students by Sr. Elizabeth Marie.

Michael Jones concentrates on his project.

Sr. Sue centers the clay.

Renee and Barbara search for new ideas in art.

Mr. Comiskey teaches the basics of speech.

Student actors

Hogan was on stage for the first time in recent years. The drama department staged children's plays and major productions during the 1982-83 school year. Mr. Comiskey commented, "The productions have been enjoyed greatly by the actors, actresses, the student body and parents."

Hogan Herald seeks action

Our 1982-'83 student newspaper, the Hogan Herald, includes the following staff members:

Adviser: Ms. Rosie Kolich
Business manager: Tracey Johnson
Editors-in-chief: Marcia Austin and Glenn North
Page editors: Allyson Blackwell, Lynn Hayden, Honora Rice, and Evelyn Smith
Reporters: Debbie Craddock, Micheal Durham, Edwina Fountain, Rhonda Gossett, Stacey Johnson, and Tuesday Mattin
Staff artist: Desiree Johnson and Michelle Patterson

Say "cheese," news staff.

Ms. Kolich observes her class.

Each staff member seeks out information for the Hogan viewers. It is published quarterly and mailed to well over 200 people such as, alumni, advertisers, and Sisters of Charity. Their main goal is to try to keep Hogan students and faculty abreast of what is going on in the school and community.

Marcia assigns news stories.

Staff compiles BOOK OF THE YEAR

The theme of this year's bestseller, the Rampage, was PRIDE. The staff members chose this theme to reflect the student body's PRIDE in their school, themselves, and their activities. The staff, consisting of mostly rookies, with exceptions of Sr. Rita McGinnis, Rodney Gibbs, Kay Duke, Marcus Parker, and Rosemarie Franklin from last year, collected and organized the content of the Rampage. The overall editor was Rodney Gibbs. The book was subdivided into various sections each with its own editor. The section editors were: Classes, Can Nguyen; Clubs, Rosemarie Franklin; Events, Kay

Duke; and Sports, Marcus Parker. Ann Wirtz and Amy Couture, trained at the Kansas City Art Institute, worked on the 1983 Rampage as photographers, developers, and printers of the pictures appearing in the Rampage. Christopher Walker also served as support photographer. The layout designs for the various subjects were done by the following: Classes, Andrea Grisafe; Clubs, Latonia Finnell and Marlayna Meyers; Events, Angela Mickles, Tammy Sanders, and JoAnn Strozier; and Sports, Briana Britt, Amy Duke, and Christopher Walker.

HOGAN RAMS

This year was a big step for each of us and there are bigger steps to be made towards the future. We have shared important moments in our lives together at Hogan and these will echo in our minds. The PRIDE in ourselves and what we are becoming, the pride that is tradition here, will grow in many more unforgettable years.
