DEDICATION

Mrs. Ellen Skaggs

Proof of the power of this pert, pocket-size patrician is the manner in which she maintains perfect order and drills facts and figures into her perverse pupils while being called "Shorty", "Red", "Mom", and countless other endearments.

Faithful and persevering in her positions as senior sponsor and advisor of the Searchlight, she finds time to be endlessly interested in the activities and welfare of her little charges.

To Mrs. Skaggs, our teacher and companion, we, the class of '49, affectionately dedicate this year's Yellow-jacket.

CENTER HIGH SCHOOL

Each time we view the classic, modern lines of our school building, as fine as there is in the state; each time our eyes observe the beauty and convenience of our classrooms; as each day we enjoy the benefits of living in a community which applies the basic factor of democracy--a good education for all--we, the pupils of Center High School, are filled with gratitude. The untiring labor, boundless enthusiasm, and free-hearted appropriation of funds by our parents and patrons, teachers and officials, are recalled and considered often. To a community of far-seeing, responsible people, we offer our sincere thanks.

Class History

At the opening of the 1945-46 school term, fifty-seven delicately chartreuse freshmen rushed eagerly up that third flight of steps, ready to meet anything the forthcoming years had in store. Under the guidance of Miss Bloomer and Miss Harris, we managed to live through that first hectic year without a single major casualty.

Our class had diminished to thirty-seven at the beginning of our sophomore year, but the valiant survivors, with the help of Mrs. Sutor, planned and enjoyed several parties and picnics.

The added responsibilities of the junior year did not faze the thirty-eight buoyant juniors, whose advisor was Mrs. Swetnam. Our main objectives were to produce the junior play and have a successful junior-senior prom.

With the true spirit of hardy pioneers, the 20th century forty-niners began their relentless search for knowledge--and a good time--in the uncharted wilderness of the new junior-senior high school building. Our labors were well rewarded, and as we, "hitch our wagon to a star," we leave all our gratitude and best wishes for those who have given us a happy high school career.

Class Prophecy

Forty-niners set out with diplomas and picks.
Their motto, "Success or we'll bust!"
Ten years have gone by; did they do it or die?
Let's see if they hit payin' dust.

Dividin' his time between savin' and buryin'
Is Reed Rings, our prominent veterinarian.

Bookkeeper Billie, with studied precision,
Can add and subtract and do simple division.

James Ogle, a carefree, adventurous critter,
Has come into fame as Champeen Flagpole Sitter.

Her days as a soda jerk haunt her no more
For Florence is manager, now, of the store.

Jacque Ann can be found with her head in the stars;
She owns her own golf course and seventeen cars.

"Listen to me--stay away from the bar, son."
That is the doctrine of Larson, the parson.

Myra Phelps is a star! Three performances daily.
She's Queen of the Midgets with Barnum and Bailey.

Elizabeth's office is furnished in chrome.
She edits both "Charm" and "American Home."

Take your car to the man with the grease-gun and trumpet.
Dick Kuhnoff will both serenade and de-bump it.

Marilyn Abbas, still gentle and kind,
Runs a nurs'ry and has forty babies to mind.

Why it's Carl Van Pelt with his mouth full of pins!
He's the very proud papa of four sets of twins.

Shirley Hook's patient's slumbers are healthfully deep.
If ether won't work, then she sings them to sleep.

Demure Bev McGee is the perfect homemaker.
She'll soon have as many "Wee ones" as Foraker.

Don't challenge his title, or you will get dents an'
Abrasions from heavyweight champ, Killer Jensen.

Sweet Betty Burnett, from the time she could toddle
Was destined to be a most ravishing model.

Our calm Shirley Self married, (you all know who).
Her family's enormous, and Shirley is, too.

Blue-eyed li'l Marilyn has not lost her drawl.
Men fall at her feet when she murmurs, "You all."

Our Danny's demeanor's efficient and frank
As second vice-president of People's Bank.

The boys are crowding the busses and trolleys
To see Helen dancing the lead in the follies.

Nancy Lee's hair is white, but we really can't blame 'er.
She's "Blako the Great", the first girl lion tamer.

Just lie back and rest as you tell him your worry.
If you need a psychiatrist, pal, you need Murray.

Nadine, whose most delicate health now is straying,
Spends all of her time knitting lace and crocheting.

Don Weir is the mayor of our beautiful city.
He kisses all tots, and their Mas, if they're pretty.

If you don't like her paintings, Aletha won't pout.
They're so modern, sometimes she can't figure them out.

Bert, who's a fellow of very few words,
Lives down near the park and feeds nuts to the birds.

Edna's a joyful mother and wife.
Her only tears come watching Portia face Life.

That Eula gal married and got all her wishes.
She's rearing small red-heads and laundering dishes.

Her heart is as tender and sweet as her smile.
Agnes means "sweetheart" in any one's file.

Harold's a sports writer, byline and all.
How does he do it? He stays on the ball!

Dor'thy made a rich marriage, but still is not acid.
She summers in Hot Springs, and falls in Lake Placid.

Quinton, who always was strong as a derrick a
Mile long, is famous as Mr. America.

With her seven bright brats, Janice lives in the hills,
And they swim and they fish and ignore all the bills.

So, the brave forty-niners are righter than rain.
They've found that all gold does not lie in the vein.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

A wide-awake, enterprising group is the junior class of 1949! In the operetta, the play--"That Crazy Smith Family" ---and the debate squad, they showed their talent and ability for showmanship.

Five junior boys and four junior girls formed a substantial backbone for the basketball teams, and the boys were outstanding in their football activity.

Their crowning achievement, proof of their money-making prowess, was their presentation of the annual banquet for the seniors and faculty in the spring.

In the fall of '48, Center's sophisticated sophomores began the hardest year in their high school careers. These forty "wise fools" proved not only decorative but useful, for they had a helping finger in every pie. In football, basketball, Y-Teens, Hi-Y, debate, and scholastic ability, they proved themselves invaluable.

A clear-headed, close-knit group, the sophomores of '49 give every promise of being one of Center's most successful classes.

The pride of the high school are these small bundles of unleashed energy. In spite of their verdantly green color, they managed to elect their candidate for carnival queen to that royal post by sheer force of dynamic personalities. Their basketball team was one of the top freshman teams in the conference and many of them were in reserve on the football and basketball teams. In all the organizations in school, they disclosed unlimited potentialities.

A previously unbroken record was fractured by the girls' basketball team as they won their last game of the season. The loyalty and perseverance of these valiant troopers, under the coaching of Kuechler and Wills, was inspirational to the whole student body.

Track

Through rain and snow, mud and ice, nothing could stop Coach Kuechler's indomitable track team of nearly thirty Center athletes. A promising group of men, these fellows are ready to do even better in years to come.

Music

Center High School Band

Forty musical boys and girls, under the able and pleasant direction of Forrest Shane, blended their instruments into many harmonious melodies to brighten up the year.

The Harmonians

The pride of the high school are these four popular boys--Eddie Baird, Mike Quinn, David Gish, and Rudy Ruechel--who, under the name of the "Harmonians" won city-wide honors with their smooth spirituals and sparkling personalities.

Boys' Glee Club

Girls' Glee Club

THE GLEE CLUBS

All the joy and satisfaction that comes with group singing was fully indulged in by these two musical groups this year. There were sixty-five girls and twenty-five boys in the two groups; what the boys lacked in quantity, they more than made up for in quality. Mr. Shane's patience and ability were the determining factors in the year's vocal successes.

HI-Y

This thriving organization of nearly half a hundred Center boys, under the sponsorship of Forrest Shane, had an eventful and profitable year. Among their achievements were the construction of a football scoreboard and the gift of baskets at Christmas time.

Y-TEENS

The eighty-five members of this year's Y-teen club experienced one of the club's most successful years. A pie-supper, dance and a $150 gift to World-Fellowship kept the girls pleasantly busy. Unbounded gratitude goes out to the Y-teen sponsor, Miss Bloomer, who was the main-stay of the club.
