HEADING FOR A CHANGE

A DIFFERENT STEP

By Ken Trantham

REGISTRATION. No matter how hard you tried, you couldn't escape it. From September 8 to May 28, school was a major aspect of teenagers' lives in Lee's Summit. You couldn't avoid it; and, you couldn't run and hide from it. But, why would you want to?

Where else could you open new doors, meet new friends, sing a song, build an engine, paint a picture, cook up a storm, write a story, balance a checkbook, check out a book, give cheer, solve a problem, read King Lear, run a mile, say "bon jour," and stand in single file? No where!

No where else could one give a speech, take a hike, learn to teach, ride a bike, sell some doughnuts, jump the hurdles, heal some cuts, learn the past, be late to class and run really fast!! No where else in the world except in

LSHS remained a unique high school in 1987-1988. Student attendance hit 2,503. The number of administrators grew by one, and the faces changed. Mr. Tom Flint became the full-time activities director, and Mr. Stan Elliott was promoted to assistant principal in Division II. Division I also welcomed a new assistant principal, Mr. Scottie Grisell.

New to LSHS were four mobile classrooms, added to accommodate the increased number of students. One hundred thirty-four teachers, thirteen secretaries, six teachers' aides, two healthroom aides, eighteen custodians, and seven counselors were employed at LSHS. Five foreign exchange students attended school, and fifteen students visited for three weeks in the fall from Italy.

DAY IN and DAY OUT

TAKE A LOOK AT OUR DAY

By Ken Trantham

SCHEDULES. At Lee's Summit High School, the day began at 7:45 a.m. and ended at 2:32 p.m. The halls before school filled with noisy students attempting to get to class on time, although some stood in the halls and talked to friends. Other students stopped at the Tiger Post, the school's store, to buy the necessary items for proper learning: folders, pencils, gum, and candy. As first hour rapidly approached, students scurried and even ran on some mornings to beat the ominous tardy bell.

The mid point of the day consisted of lunch and seminar. Students spent time in seminar studying or doing homework. Seminar was also a time when assemblies were scheduled. Lunch enhanced the social and physical needs of the student. At the beginning of the year, students claimed their lunch tables. Also, a much awaited addition appeared in the cafeteria. The pop machine added a variety of soft drinks to the school's lunch menu. A time to break from the daily routine, lunch and seminar provided the half-way mark for the school day.

Around sixth hour, some students and teachers began clock-watching, awaiting the final hour of the day. Once seventh hour was reached, the students anxiously counted down the minutes. When the bell rang, students clamored into the hall. Some students talked; others rushed hurriedly out to their cars or to catch their buses.

Once students reached the parking lot, they faced the gruelling task of exiting along with 550 other driving students. However, when they made it through the long line of traffic, they engaged in activities outside of school, such as going to work or completing homework.

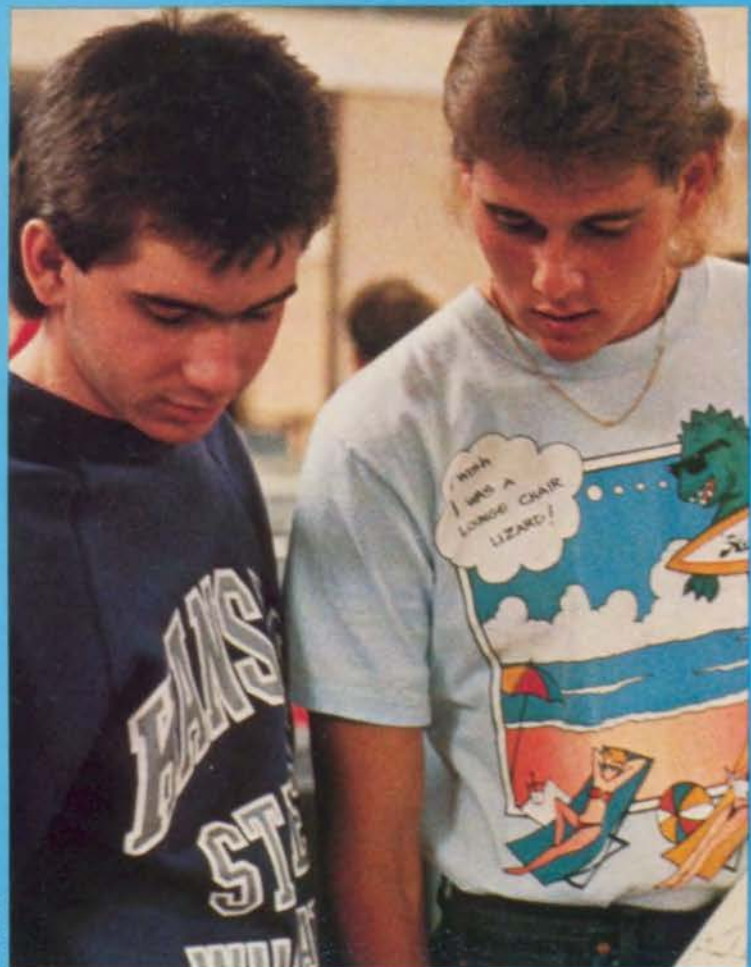

For some students, however, school did not end at 2:32 p.m. Some students participated in a large array of activities which took place after school. After-school activities contributed to school life at Lee's Summit High School.

SPIRIT. Students at Lee's Summit High School displayed their school spirit throughout the year. Members of cheerleading squads, Flag Corps, and Drill Team, faithfully wore their uniforms on days with after-school activities. Other students and teachers donned their black and gold garments every Friday to support the Lee's Summit High School pride in sports activities.

Spirit Club played a major role in keeping school spirit alive. Wearing their black and gold sweaters, members boosted spirit at games and during school. They held fundraisers and sold food to raise funding for their activities. Before the games of each week, some members of the Spirit Club selected secret pals from various sports teams to give gifts. Sometimes, the halls were decorated with black and gold streamers, as well as, banners.

In showing their spirit, cheerleaders, Drill Team, and Flag Corps members all endured early morning and after-school practices. The squads also met during the summer vacation to learn routines and dances. At pep assemblies and games, teams showed their spirit with outstanding performances. Even at cold Friday night football games, the girls kept Lee's Summit High School spirit burning!

School spirit could be seen in classrooms as teachers decorated bulletin boards with Tigers and black and gold streamers, students carried folders displaying the school emblem, and administrators walked the halls in black blazers, white shirts, tiger ties, and black slacks.

At football games, fans cheered, cheerleaders spirited the crowds, the Marching Band performed, and the football teams fought...all for school spirit. During Spirit Week, students dressed according to the theme of that particular day--inside-out clothes, "biker" attire, opposite day, the Tarzan and Jane look, and the traditional black and gold day. In 1987-1988, students displayed their school spirit at Lee's Summit High School.

FAD OR FASHION

we're doing it our way

By Ken Trantham

FASHION. Students at Lee's Summit High School displayed fashion etiquette in 1987-88. Students wore a variety of clothing including Preppy, New Wave, and faddish clothes. Most of the clothing worn reflected popular trends seen in magazines and on television.

The Preppy look debuted in the Eastern preparatory schools and made its way to Lee's Summit High School. Izod sweaters and double-breasted blazers dominated the prep scene. Penny loafers and solid color socks walked all over the halls. Pleated pants and pleated skirts completed the classic preppy look.

New Wave clothing jumped onto the scene at Lee's Summit High School from the pages of popular magazines from the West coast such as Interview and Rolling Stone Magazine. Dark and drab-colored clothing, fantastic hairdos, and oversized trenchcoats complimented the New Wave look.

Clothing fads invaded Lee's Summit High School. The popular stone-washed, acid-rinsed, and frosted jeans, mini-skirts, and jean jackets dominated the fad scene. Silk scarves and jeweled pendants constituted some of the fads for girls. Reebok tennis shoes and khaki canvas pants enhanced the fads for boys.

PLAYING HARD

and having fun

By Ken Trantham

SPORTS. The Lee's Summit High School Sports program accomplished many goals this year. Often braving unfavorable weather conditions, most teams won a majority of their games. Win or lose, supporting them were a large number of proud parents and students.

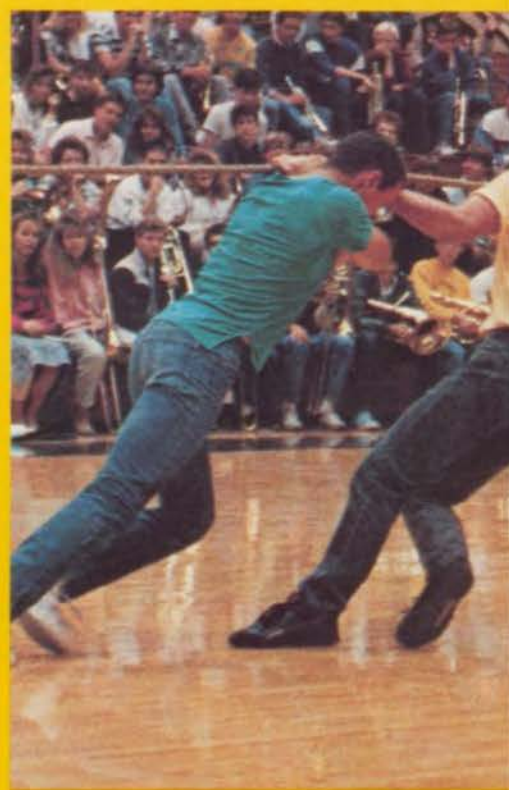

A wide variety of sports activities took place during the fall sports season. The Gymnastics team succeeded in securing several championship titles and remained undefeated. The girls' varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams, after hours of drills, enjoyed competing in matches. The soccer team gained experience this year at regional tournaments and competitions. Running their way over treacherous terrain, the cross country team captured many titles. In addition to trapshooters amazed observers with their proficiency in using firearms.

On Friday night, the climax for the week in sports, the football bleachers filled with cheering patrons while rugged football players filled the field prepared to defeat the opposing team. Friends met with other friends and rallied the Tigers to victory. Other fans waved banners and signs and, with the charismatic cheerleaders, shouted their support. Also, the school colors of black and gold radiated a spirited glow from the stands. In 1987-1988, students, as participants and fans, engaged in sports activities.

Students enjoy a pleasant afternoon watching the Tiger soccer team. George Harding blocks an Oak Park player to give Bread Ranville an opening.

SPECTACULAR!

a successful Homecoming

By Ken Trantham

HOMECOMING. The mere mention of the word brought excitement. Many participated in spirit-related activities. During Spirit Week, students dressed according to the theme of that particular day. In addition, students waited in eager anticipation to learn who would become the 1987 Homecoming King and Queen. After several elections, senior Danel Welt was crowned Homecoming Queen, and senior Tim Connors was crowned Homecoming King.

The Homecoming Parade highlighted Spirit Week. The parade, comprised of the Lee's Summit High School Marching Tiger Band, floats, and various other entries, made its way downtown to the sound of spectators who cheered and shouted. First place winners of the parade contest were the Junior Class in the float division, International Club in the club division, and the cast of Annie in the miscellaneous division.

The major events were yet to come. The Varsity Football team defeated the William Chrisman Bears. The next night brought a time of royal grandeur, as couples enjoyed the time of their lives. Some students planned Homecoming evening to include dinner reservations at area restaurants, the dance at the school, and all-night parties afterwards. Perhaps one of the most important events of the school year, Homecoming '87, provided a highlight to fall activities.

Division I Student Council towers over the Homecoming parade. Robin Campbell, Rob Rimel, Nicki Walton, and Ken Trantham, participate in spirit week to show their enthusiasm. Sophomores struggle to beat the freshmen in tug of war.

Homecoming 1987. A week to take pride in Lee's Summit High School. A time to show your true black and gold colors. As the Tigers prepared to "cage the Bears" at Friday's football game, many forms of school spirit appeared.

TIGERS—"Go for the GOLD!!"

by Evelyn Nichols

Winter Sports Week was celebrated the week of February 8-12 by the traditional spirit week. The theme was "Go For the Gold," echoing the spirit of the 1988 Olympics. Monday, students dressed to the theme of "No Sweat" day. Tuesday, students were seen wearing purple and gold to "Hex" the Blue Springs Wildcats. Wednesday, boxer shorts were worn to show that the students were "Behind the Tigers." Thursday the students went "Wild" with their outfits. Friday was the traditional black and gold day.

Friday was the highlight of the week. The seniors voted on their choice for king and queen. A pep assembly was held to get the students psyched for the up-coming night's double-header basketball game against the Blue Springs' Wildcats. The Tiger girls won their game 46-44, and the Tiger boys won 75-62. Half-time events of the girls' game was the crowning of the Winter Sports Week King, Joey Sadler. At the boys' half-time, Stacy Wood was crowned Winter Sports Week Queen.

A dance at the Division I gym concluded the evening. Mr. Lou, from KBEQ-104 FM, disc-jockeyed the dance. The night ended with everyone feeling they had won "the gold."

PLUS... Peers, Listening, Understanding, and Sharing. PLUS was a group of students selected by their peers as the students they would most likely talk to in a time of trouble. PLUS did not take the place of teachers, parents, counselors, or church counselors, but the members were there to listen when someone needed to talk.

Eighty-five students and members of the faculty were involved in PLUS. A two-day session was held to train new members in active listening skills.

A new student luncheon, during fourth and fifth hours, helped the new students feel more at ease. PLUS students also showed new transfer students around the school.

T.L.C., Teens, Loving, and Caring, was a seven week program that the PLUS students put on for sixth graders at some of the elementary schools. Each week emphasized a different theme. Some of the topics included alcohol, peer pressure, and active listening.

"I think that PLUS is a lot of fun, and I enjoy it! It's a time for me to be serious, but silly too!" co-leader Carol Feugate, junior, said.

Walking into a seminar towards the end of the month, one would find students quietly reading the school newspaper, the "Hi-Life". Through the newspaper, students kept up with events about their fellow classmates, teachers, and sports' teams. Students were informed about changes within the school and district.

Several additions and changes occurred in the '87-'88 newspaper. Some changes included a cartoon called "Mirt," created by Ryan Schritenthal; "Night Owl," a column, written by Darren Magady, which gave a review of restaurants and movies along with the month's listing of events in the Kansas City Metro area; "Sidelines," written by Jason Baker, which told of things happening in major league and college sports; "Kyle's Korner," written by Kyle Richardson, which featured areas of concern with a serious, yet humorous approach.

Good times, laughter, new places. . . Is this how memories are made? The Reflector staff looked at making memories a little differently. Forming new ideas, working on layouts, and writing copy dominated yearbook activities.

Editor Chris Mathews attended a yearbook workshop at MU. "Working with the staff to meet deadlines is very important. It is so satisfying to meet a deadline and know that the finished product will be something to be proud of."

Managing Editor Ken Trantham and Design Editor Pam Shatto worked together to complete pages.

"My biggest frustration was trying to write stories before we had pictures," Ken Trantham said.

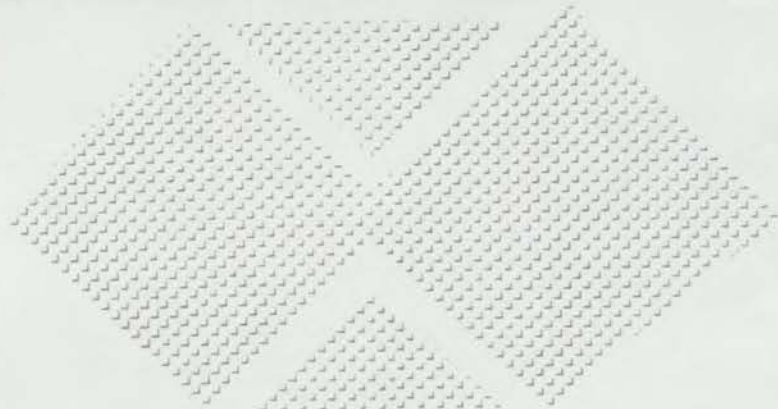

"Although we had to sit in classes which lasted three hours, the CMSU yearbook workshop was the highlight of my year," Pam Shatto said.

The LSHS debate and forensics squad, sponsored by Mrs. Cheryl Bramlette and Mrs. Esther Wagner, traveled across Missouri claiming trophies in 1987-88.

With the growing varsity squad, a second Debate II class was offered.

The team debate squads argued affirmative or negative on the following: "Resolved: The United States government should adopt a policy to increase political stability in Latin America."

Lincoln-Douglas debate, named for the famous debates of 1858, was a two-man style of argumentation.

Branching from basic debate were the individual events: prose, poetry, duet acting, dramatic and humorous interpretation, and extemporary speaking.

Individual event students had to memorize ten minutes of published speeches and were also required to attend weekend tournaments.

Debaters were expected to maintain a B average and attend tournaments held on Friday nights and Saturdays.

Students in these classes averaged two hours of homework each night, researching their cases and memorizing.

Although very demanding, National Forensic League members agreed it was all very rewarding.

"ACT WELL YOUR PART.."

Whether it was comedy or tragedy, the LSHS Drama Club was in control of the stage. Thespians, named for the original actor Thespis, was a club for all students who enjoyed live theatre.

The members created their own haunted forest at Halloween, held many social functions, and initiated new members to the selective troupe

NHS

NHS students were in the top of their classes. To become a member of NHS, one had to achieve a 3.5 GPA and be either a junior or senior.

Throughout the year, NHS sponsored many events within the school. Before school on Wednesdays, doughnuts were sold to help raise money. On December 12, NHS sponsored the annual Christmas dance which featured a live band, "9 Angry Possum," and a disc jockey. December 22 the thirty-second annual Candlelighting service was held.

In October, fifteen students from Geneoa, Italy visited for three weeks on a student exchange; and in February, fifteen students from LSHS visited Geneoa for three weeks.

"We spent a lot of time and effort on various activities, but overall I think it was worthwhile and also a lot of fun," NHS member Kelly Cahill, senior, said.

NAHS

By Evelyn Nichols

Walking through the halls of LSHS, one noticed the many colorful and artistic designs on the walls. Who put them there and why? The answer was NAHS.

As a freshman, if one received above a B in all art classes, that student was invited to join NAHS.

Meetings were held once a week before school, where members discussed new ideas to "spice up" the school's atmosphere. A major project was to repaint the mural in the lunchroom. They also painted doors, trashcans, and posters as different activities. They had several social gatherings which included visiting area museums and going to an opera. Mr. Tom Christiansen sponsored NAHS.

"National Art Honor Society gives me a chance to expand my artistic abilities outside the classroom," Mason Lovell, senior, said.

Many teachers feel they would not have made it through the year without the help of their teacher assistants. Student T.A.'s and clerical aides were expected to file, run errands, type, grade papers, and to record scores. English teacher Mrs. Connie Sokoloff said of her T.A.'s, "I couldn't live without my T.A.'s! They do three hours worth of work for me everyday. I think the students appreciate being a T.A. as much as the teachers do."

Trying to keep up with the Jones' meant getting a job for most teenagers.

The SOE and CO-OP programs helped students get the experience and extra dollars they wanted.

Supervised Office Experience (SOE) was a program in which boys and girls had a chance to use the secretarial skills they had learned in LSHS business classes in a real-life situation.

CO-OP gave teens jobs that employed them for about half of the school day.

Having a job during the school year could hamper grades, attendance, extracurricular activities, as well as, dampen friendships. However, studies indicated that most students go to work on time, enjoy doing a job well done, and learn to be persistent when performing a task. Jobs taught responsibility and the value of money.

"CO-OP affords students the opportunity to learn valuable, practical job skills and still attend school," Mr. Hunter, sponsor of the program said.

Distributive Education Clubs of America. The legacy of success for DECA continued another year. DECA students were given the opportunity to demonstrate acquired competencies and receive recognition and awards at local, state, and national levels. This year's competitions were held at Salt Lake City, Utah. Students competed in nine events. These competitions helped students prepare for, and advance in, marketing, distribution, merchandising and management careers. Through DECA, students developed a sense of leadership which they could use for themselves, the community, and the nation.

For the varsity cheerleaders, 1988 was absolutely spectacular. Not only did they entertain the crowds at games with routines, but they also received nation-wide honors.

The varsity cheerleaders, with sponsor Steve Ferguson, Captain Wendy Shapely, and Co-Captains Amy Avise, and Kaila Breon, took second place in their summer competition which made them eligible to compete at Nationals in Hawaii. After many fundraisers, the cheerleaders raised enough money to fly to Hawaii over Christmas break. Overall, the cheerleaders ranked second in the nation.

The Tigerettes Drill Team kicked off the year by attending a KU summer camp. The members stayed up all night and practiced for the competition at the end of the week.

During football season, the Tigerettes performed with the Golden Tiger Marching Band. "As we were walking out to perform, I took a look at the scoreboard and saw thirty seconds till time to go on. All eighteen of us dashed to beginning positions. I was panting before the performance began." Shani Gorman, co-captain, said.

The tigerettes Basketball season was short, but sensational "We only had eighteen kicks in our first routine. Our last performance was at MU for State basketball where we had seventy-eight kicks. WHAT AN IMPROVEMENT!" Shannon Donaldson, captain, said. The tigerettes had a year long job and many hours of practice went into each performance. but they said all the applause was worth it.

TIGER PRIDE!

By Amy Meiners

For the Lee's Summit Golden Tiger Marching Band, 1987 was a year of dedication and pride.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Jim Oliver, began practice in August. When school started, the band met each day during first hour.

All of their hard work paid off when the Golden Tigers earned first place at the Mo-West contest for the sixth consecutive year.

"We won first in street and second in field at the Carrollton competition also," Jennifer Turner, sophomore, said.

The band was complimented by Junior Kellie Lemons' twirling abilities. Kellie entertained the halftime crowds with her many talents, including her skills to twirl fire.

Lee's Summit Flag Corp also added sparkle to the band. These talented girls, sponsored by Ms. Carla Szanjuk, held summer practice and attended a summer camp to perfect their outstanding skills.

Adding dazzle and pizzazz to the marchers and twirler were the high-kicking Tigerettes drill team.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

by Evelyn Nichols

As one walked through the Performing Arts Center, sweet band melodies drifted out of the rooms. Concert Band met during first hour. Throughout the school year they performed at several concerts and toured the elementary schools. At the beginning of the year, Concert Band combined with Symphonic Band to make the Lee's Summit Golden Tiger Marching Band.

During second hour Cadet Band met, and third hour Varsity Band met to rehearse. They also performed at several concerts throughout the year. Varsity Band played as a Pep Band during basketball games.

"I think Concert Band is cool because not only do we play well, we have fun and that's important." Mark Lanio, senior, said.said.

Symphonic Band, directed by Jim Oliver, met during first hour. Throughout the year, Symphonic Band held many concerts. They were selected to perform at the Missouri Music Association Convention at Tan-Tar-A in January. Some of the selections performed at the convention were: "Emperata Overture," "American Overture," and "The Italian Girl in Algiers Overture." The band received a standing ovation at the end of their performance.

LSHS had more students than any other school in both All-District and All-State bands. Three members were chosen for All-District Jazz Bands and two of them were selected for All-State Jazz Band.

During the month of March, Symphonic Band went to All-District Music Contests at Warrensburg. "It's always a privilege to play in one of the top bands in the state." Sean Christy, senior, said.

Hit It Boys!

Black tafetta, sequins, white tuxes...the Prom? No! The 1987-88 Sounds of Now and Then. This select choir was under the direction of Mr. Steve Perry. The 26 students chosen not only had to sing well and maintain their grades, but they were also required to learn difficult choreography and lifts taught by Mr. Brent Barr, a Worlds of Fun instructor.

Practicing each day in seminar and every Monday night, the students perfected each step for contests. Sounds placed 2nd in Missouri at the Maryville competition. In April the students attended a competition in St. Louis in which they placed first in Missouri.

The group performed at halftime of a Chief's game, community functions, and seminar assemblies, plus they were invited to perform at the National Education Convention in July.

An ordinary nursery rhyme? When 23 of Lee's Summit High School's most talented vocalists recited this familiar tune, it became a beautiful selection for competition. Summit Singers was a chamber choir consisting of juniors and seniors who were members of Concert Choir and interested in serious, mature music. The group, led by Ms. Carla Szanjud, practiced daily during seminar and on Tuesday nights. They performed at numerous community functions: the Renaissance festival, a halftime show at a Chief's game, and many Christ-

Choir is not just singing! Men's and women's choirs spend many hours strengthening their vocal cords, diaphragms, and facial and vocal muscles. By learning more about music, men's and women's choirs improved from excellent to superb.

Men's choir, with fifty-six men, and women's choir, with eighty-five ladies, each performed five times this year: Fall concert, Christmas concert, Pre-contest concert, Contest, and Parade of choirs. Contests were held March 26.

Together - at Last

By Amy Meiners/Ken Trantham

With the performance of the fall musical, the LSHS Theater Department rose to success with the production of "Annie." The 116 member cast worked relentlessly on blocking, dancing, and memorization. Striving for perfection, the cast could be found staying after school as late as 9 or 10 p.m.

"Annie" was the saga of an eleven-year-old, red-haired orphan. In the play, Little Orphan Annie (Tanya Allen, 9) lived with 60 other orphans at the Hudson Street Orphanage for Girls in the tense years of the Great Depression. The orphanage was run by the tyrannical Miss Hannigan (Melanie Reed, 12). During the course of the show, Annie was whisked away from the confines of the orphanage by invitation from the domineering billionaire Oliver Warbucks (Ken Trantham, 12), Grace Farrell (Vicki Baker, 12) accompanied Annie and "Daddy" Warbucks on their adventures as they encountered such delightful characters as radio personality, Bert Healy (Aaron Hostetler, 12) and "FDR" (Stephen Rinehart, 11).

Plotting to ruin Annie's adventures were the villains: the mischievous Rooster Hannigan (Hugh Ryan, 12) and the voluptuous Lily St. Regis (Kristen Holmes, 12). However, in the end, good won out over evil, and Annie and Daddy Warbucks were united forever.

The success of the show was proven in the community all three nights, due to the sell-out performances. "Selling out is a director's dream," Director Phyllis Balagna said. The cast of "Annie" worked together, played together, and remained "Together Forever. . . ."

Changes Benefit Students

Susan Geoghagan

As a part of a new school-wide system, the English department developed Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate, and Honors classes. These courses, taught on a more advanced level, benefited many students.

LSHS recognized Shakespeare, American Winners of the Nobel Prize, English Literature, Expository Writing/English 110, World Literature, and Debate II as honors courses in the English department. According to Mrs. Mildred Mitchell these courses were designed to help in planning a student's future in college.

The department separated between the two divisions. This change required two department chairpersons. Mrs. Mildred Mitchell acted as chairperson for Division II, and Miss Cathy Thogmorton fulfilled the duties of chairperson in Division I.

A Part of the Past

In the Social Studies department, students found no problems choosing among the offered courses. Lee's Summit High School required students to take one year of American History, one year of World History, and one semester of American Government to graduate.

Honors courses, including Non-Western History, Classical Age, and Advanced American History, increased the variety of courses offered by the Social Studies department.

In addition, the department separated into two departments, one in Division I and one in Division II. The faculty chose a department chairperson for each division. Mr. Manne Magady chaired Division II and Mr. Jeff Gall Division I. This change benefited both the teachers and the students while making the teachers' duties specific to each division.

TIGERS GO UNDEFEATED IN BIG 6

The Tigers started the season with a 13-0 victory over Grandview. The first touchdown of the season was executed by Ron Embry. The team faced a tough loss to Rockhurst with a score of 17-0. They came back with a strong 43-7 win over Winnetonka. The Tigers went on to dominate their next seven confrontations with at least a ten-point difference in each score.

The Tigers made it to the MSHSAA District tournament. Their first opponent was Rockhurst, and after a grueling game, Rockhurst won 42-10. The team ended having a record of 9-1 in the regular season. The team was victorious and went undefeated in the big six conference. Roy McFarland and Chris Works, were appointed first team all-metro.

Districts Give Tigers Something to Shout About

by Sarah Hooker

The varsity volleyball team endured a tough season. Although the experience needed to have a successful team was abundant, the Tigers did not have "lady luck" on their side for a good part of the fall.

Returning letterwomen consisted of seniors Debra Dew, Carrie Hickman, Debby Master, Beth Nichols, and Janie Weaver. Janie Weaver and junior Kim Faler served as team captains.

The season's highlight consisted of a three game victory in the district championship at Grandview. The Tigers' hard work payed off when they pulled together to beat top-ranked Ruskin, Belton, and Grandview. This placed Lee's Summit in the sectional championships.

"We had a really tough conference this year. Four of the teams ended up in districts. The girls never let up throughout the season. Most of the matches went through all three games," Coach Kristie Fox said.

In the end, the season closed with a 7-22-2 record.

"The highlight of the season for me was when we beat William Chrisman after we had lost a close game to them earlier in the season." Heather Oberrieder.

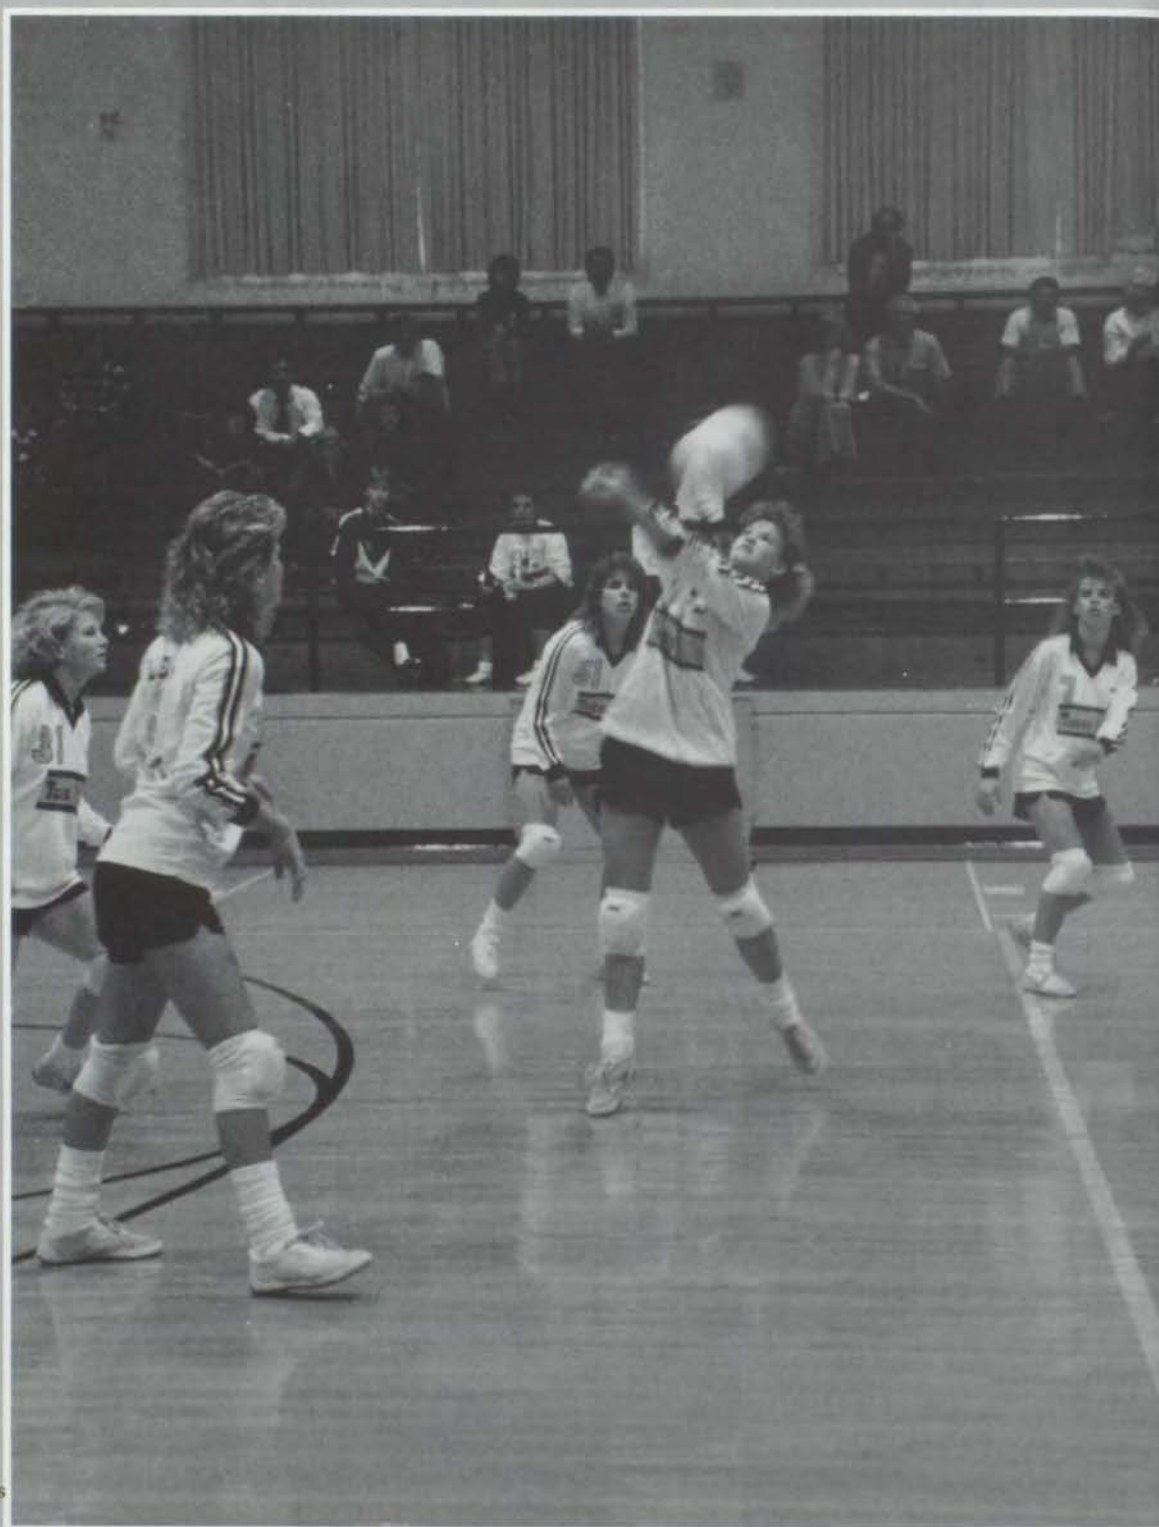

"The most memorable part of the junior varsity season was when we took second place at the William Chrisman tournament." Melisa Koehly.

Success at the Net

The Junior Varsity volleyball team, coached by Bob White, played most of their matches to the full three games. They were consistent but not always conquering.

The William Chrisman tournament served as the major success of the season. Lee's Summit took second place.

"A predominately sophomore team with one freshman shows much potential for the upcoming years. Skills were developed, and we saw improvement in every player. This was the primary goal," Coach White said.

Coached by Cathy Battles, the freshman volleyball teams had a successful season. The final records were "A" Team 8-7 and "B" Team 12-1.

"These kids have a lot of potential. If they are willing to pay the price, the future looks good," Coach Battles said.

"When we went into 'sudden death' against RaySouth, we scored. This gave us a 2-1 victory and a District Championship." Junior Greg Wood.

The Lee's Summit High School Soccer team completed the season with a strong finish. Varsity received first in district competition and third in conference. However, they began the season with a slow start.

The team lost their first two games and tied the third.

"We were a young team, but we were all willing to work hard, do the best we could, and most important, not give up," Junior Greg Wood said.

"Once on track, they won many conference and non-conference games," Coach Tim Richardson said.

Although the team did not have the best of luck in the beginning, they showed their abilities and strengths as a team to work together. By not giving up, they won districts. "This season's major contributors were Mike Meyers, Greg Wood, Brian Schneider, Ken Rutledge, Scott Finnerty, and Craig McMichael," Coach Richardson said.

"The highlight of the season was the conference championship when we had four All Conference runners," Andy Tarry, senior.

"The highlight of the season was taking second place in the JV Conference Race," Ron Hicks, junior.

Boys Take Conference Title

A great amount of hard work and encouragement from other teammates and Coach Russ Childress made the Boys' Cross Country Team strive for excellence.

Their workouts consisted of five one-mile relays, six to eight miles of road runs, a trip to Lake Jacomo to run up the steep hills, and what they called the "torturing device," a machine resembling a slanted bicycle creating resistance while pushing and pulling with their legs.

The boys won their conference meet for the second consecutive year. Overall, placing fifth in the District meet and sixth in the Sectional meet, Andy Tarry qualified for State. He was the top runner for the L. S. Boys' Cross Country Team, and he succeeded in placing second on the State level. "The reason only one runner continued to State was due to the injuries and illnesses," Chris Staples explained. Other contributions to the team were All Conference runners: Jamie Holland, Chris Staples, and Brandon Edwards.

"The highlight of the season for the team was taking third in State. It was a great accomplishment," Melanie Ornes, junior, said.

"The highlight of the season for me was winning the opening race of the season," Missy Bolbecker, sophomore, said.

Running to Victory

Another successful season for the Girls' Cross Country Team was completed this year. Placing first or second in most of their regular season meets, the girls showed that determination and hard work paid off.

Great coaching and encouragement contributed to the girls' success. Coach Diane Black was awarded for being the best coach for the metro area. "Our season was the best ever! Standing on the platform at State placing third as team was the highlight of my coaching, and I feel the team feels the same way," Coach Black said. The team was very balanced with one exceptional runner, Melanie Ornes. The runners next year have many things to live up to.

"The key to our success was excellent coaching and intense competition within the team," Sarah Hooker, senior, said. "We accomplished many things this season as a team, and I will miss all the fun times we had when I am away at college. It was hard work, but it all paid off in the long run."

Grueling practices officially began in August for Lee's Summit's girls' tennis team. Many pre-season hours were put in by team members to achieve their goals.

"The team goals for this season were to repeat as conference champs and to place in the top four in districts," Coach Amy Merritt said. At conference Varsity held a 5-1 record, and JV held a record of 4-2. The team took second at districts.

Returning letterwomen consisted of Seniors Jill Chullino and Heather Wallace and Junior Jenny Wallace. Jill Chullino won state for the second year in a row and did not lose a game in the state tourna-

"The JV players that were back from last year really improved and outclassed the JV players from the other teams," Coach Merritt said.

TIGERS GO UNDEFEATED

by Jeni Bartlett

The basketball team started out with practices in early November to get ready for the oncoming season.

"During the long month of November, we would practice for three hours while anxiously awaiting our first game," Tim Connors said.

The first game of the season turned out to be a 69-40 victory over Winnetonka. The team's next conquest was the Winnetonka tournament, in which they dominated their opponents.

"We are still improving," Coach Glen McDonald said.

The team demonstrated just how much better they got by winning the next two tournaments in which they participated. This included their own, Lee's Summit Tournament.

"The combination of hard work by the players and the coaching staff paid off," Coach Glen McDonald said.

The Tigers finished the regular season undefeated.

High standards were set for the Junior Varsity and Sophomore-Freshmen Boys' Basketball Teams. It was a season full of accomplishments.

"They were hardworking, and they realized that we expected a great deal out of them," Coach Kevin Harrison said. "They are next year's Varsity Team."

The team practiced long hours to improve their skills to perform their best in every game.

"The success isn't measured by how many games you win; it's how much you learn," Coach Harrison said. "It's also how well you're prepared to be a Varsity player."

According to the coaches, the Sophomore and Freshmen Teams' main objectives were to strengthen their skills and prepare them for the seasons ahead.

"The season was pretty much a roller coaster," Coach John Picerno said. "We were up and down struggling for consistency."

For some, it was their first high school season of basketball and for others, a second; but, for everyone--a season of accomplishments.

"The boys are young and inexperienced but are full of potential," Coach Picerno said. "The future holds promise."

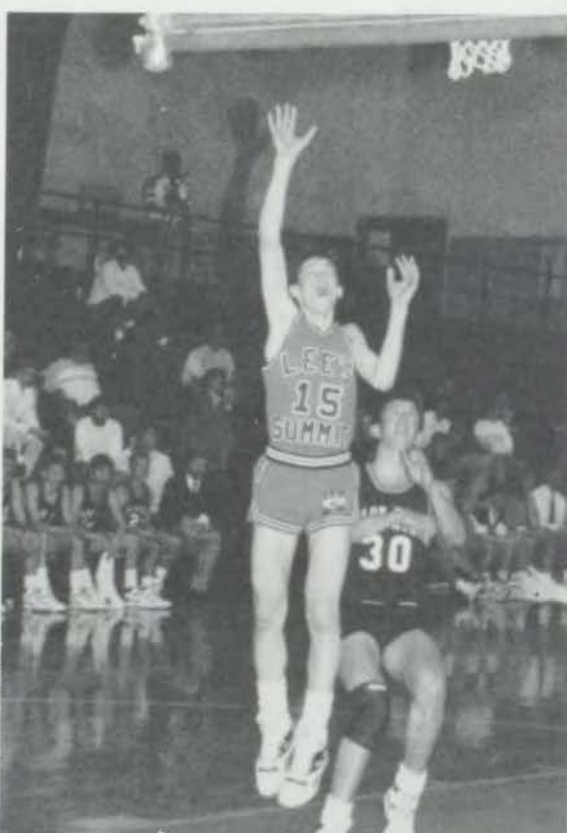

Coaches Kim Rohlfing and Kimble Akard led the freshman boys to a victorious season.

"We had an excellent season," Coach Rohlfing said. "This group of freshmen has the potential for an excellent Varsity Team in the future."

The "A" team finished with a record of 16-4 and the "B" team, 12-2.

Being ranked number one from the first game to the last, Lee's Summit girls' basketball team had an outstanding season.

The overall record for the regular season was an impressive 23-1.

The starting lineup consisted of Seniors Julie Pinson and Janie Weaver, Junior Stacie Guenther, and Sophomores Sonya Harlin and Shelly Metzger. Weaver and Pinson acted as team captains. There were seven returning letterwomen this year; Pinson, Weaver, Guenther, Harlin, Metzger, Junior Robin Campbell and Samone Harlin. The Varsity team was coached by Larry Jansen and Paula Zimmershied.

Success was attributed to not only talented players and good coaching, but also to the close-knit team.

Conference was taken undefeated and the goal of continuing the tradition of winning districts looked positive.

"The team will be losing two outstanding seniors, but in having such a young team, the next two years should be successful ones," Coach Jansen said.

Future is Lookin' Good

Coached by Paula Zimmershied, the Junior Varsity team had an excellent season winning all but one game.

The team captains were Juniors Binky King and Robin Campbell.

"The Junior Varsity team gives the Varsity strong competition to practice against. Most schools aren't so lucky," Coach Jansen said.

The freshmen also had a successful season. The conquering of a major rival, Grandview East, served as the highlight for the freshman team.

Ending the season, freshmen Kristen Falkenburg, Aundria Yeager, Kit Deister and Jennifer Johnson moved to the Junior Varsity team. Coached by Tom Reynolds and Amy Merritt, the "A" Team finished with a 10-5 record, and the "B" Team finished with a 6-1 record.

"I think the team started out slowly because of injuries but as the year progressed, we got our act together." Terry Chapman, senior.

"It was my senior year, and I tried harder and worked harder. The other three years were just working up to it." Jeff Melton, senior.

Take Down, Shake Down

by Rachael Betts

The first meet for the Varsity Wrestling Team set the pace for a season of victories. They won against Rockhurst and continued to excel.

"We were better at the end of the season than at the beginning," Coach Jay Helland said.

The success of the program depended on the contribution of the athlete's themselves.

"The long hours of practicing before and after school and constantly dieting to make weight are examples of our true dedication," Senior Ron Embry said.

Seniors who guided the squad this year were Ron Embry, Mark Wilson, Jeff Melton, Terry Chapman, Randy Brown, and Chris Howell.

"I was extremely pleased with the work habits of the seniors this year," Coach Helland said.

Embry improved his record from last year by more than tripling his number of victories. Wilson and Chapman both entered the season late due to injuries but had successful seasons. Sophomore Roy Martin continued his excellence on the mat, and freshman Buddy Spurk proved his talents by the number of his wins.

"Our goals were to have a 7-3 record in our dual meets," Coach Helland said. "We met that goal with even a tougher schedule."

Five wrestlers qualified for the state meet in Columbia, Missouri: Chad Cronk, 119; Mark Wilson, 125; Roy Martin, 145; Ron Embry, 152; Joe Dyke, 189. Embry finished 2nd in his weight class, and Dyke finished 6th.

"The highlight of my junior varsity season was winning the Ruskin Tourney with three pins." Jay Reistad, junior.

"The best part of my season was that my record was undefeated." Mike Graham, junior.

The Junior Varsity Wrestling Team had a season of excellence.

"Winning the Ruskin Tournament was a high point of our season," Coach John Repp said. "We beat some teams that had previously beaten us in dual meets."

The Junior Varsity squad had a different schedule this year. The team competed against a variety of area schools.

"The Junior Varsity team had a great year. We were able to wrestle many boys and still win," Coach Repp said. "That was our goal and we achieved it."

Shooting for State

by Sarah Hooker

Coached by Ron Henderson, Jim Hunter, and JW Page, trapshooters compete in the spring and fall. There are about 25 members including five returning lettermen: Brian Norton, Doug Todd, Phil Inman, Brian Lassiter and Heath Lenahan.

Richards Gabauer and Lake Lotawanna Sportsman Club serve as the locations at which both skeet and trap are shot weekly.

"We took first place at State last year, and we will probably take it again this year," Coach Hunter said.

Enthusiasm for the sport by its members may account for its success. "It's the sport of kings. We really have a lot of fun," Senior Paul Yapple said.

The officer positions are held by Brian Norton, president; Heath Lenahan, vice-president; and Phil Inman, secretary/ treasurer.

Class of 1988

by Pam Shatto

In between applying for colleges, or shaping their futures, 590 Seniors always found time to have fun and make the most of their last year of high school. Even though most seniors suffered from the dreaded "senioritis," they enjoyed screaming the loudest at pep assemblies and forcing freshmen to sing, "We love you, seniors," during Spirit Week.

Holding the class together were the class officers: Bob Rimel, president; Kevin Collins, vice-president; Danel Welt, secretary; and Debra Dew, treasurer.

Seniors Go to College

by Tracy Porter

Some students decided to obtain a head start on their careers by taking college classes at Longview Community College.

Longview offered the chance to take classes that would transfer credits to most colleges. Senior Bobby Thompson said, "I took American History I and II, psychology, and political science which will help me towards my college degree."

Because many students felt unsure about leaving home to stay at a four-year college, Longview provided a way for them to test the "college waters" before "diving in." Senior Danel Welt said, "What scared me the most was not knowing what to expect about the difficulty in academics. Longview helped me prepare for the differences between college and high school tests."

Another reason that Longview remained a good choice related to money. Longview provided a low cost per credit hour price, plus many students received academic scholarships.

Longview appeared to be a logical choice to begin college careers and to get a taste of college life without swallowing the whole thing in one bite.

The Perfect Date

When several seniors were asked what the best or most fun date they ever experienced was, a variety of 'perfect dates' were revealed.

"We went to the plaza. We did not have dinner but instead went to Swensen's, had ice cream, and then played in the fountains." Brenda Zsak

"On Halloween, we dressed in black, picked up Chinese carry-out, and took it to a graveyard. We ate on blankets with candlelit jack-o-lanterns!" Tania Floyd

"Before the WSW dance, we double dated and went to a Greek restaurant in Westport and watched a belly dancer. Then we drove through Mission Hills and looked at the expensive houses." Sean Christy

"When we double dated to King Louie's to go bowling, then drove down to Crown Center and went ice skating. Afterwards we drove around and joked and laughed. It was the best and most fun date I ever had." Shawn Brady

"I picked my date up after work, but it was too late to go out, so we stopped at Price Chopper and we had a snowball fight in the parking lot. Since there was no snow, we threw Hostess Snowball cakes instead." Mark Sims

"My boyfriend and I double dated with his best friend and his date. First, we played miniature golf, and then we rode four-wheelers until we ran out of gas. We had to roll down the hill to Seven-eleven. That's when my boyfriend's best friend bought me a rose." Beth Nichols

Students Able To Adapt

By Pam Shatto

Students at LSHS with physical handicaps had to overcome everyday school problems, plus compensate for their unique situations.

One such student, symbolizing the struggle of so many, was senior Suzanne Carleton.

During her freshman year, Suzanne Carleton lost her benign brain tumor. Since then, Suzanne had various aids to help her take notes and to help her find her way to classes.

Her senior year, Suzanne depended on different types of aids. She took notes with a slate-on-stylus, a device that enabled her to take notes in braille. Also, the summer before her senior year, Suzanne went to Guiding Eyes for the Blind in Yorktown Heights, NY, where she trained with Yianni, a guide dog which led her to each class. "It's nice to be able not to rely on people to go places. With Yianni, I don't always have to wait around for someone," Suzanne Carleton said.

by Constanca Casquinho

Intercultural relations means not only opening our doors to foreign students, but also sending representatives from the U.S. to other countries. Keith Bilyeu, senior, spent a year in Australia as a YFU. "Australia is a totally different country from the USA, a lot more...backwards. And everything is too expensive," Keith said. "But nevertheless, my experience was extraordinary! I grew up so much!" A good part of the shock that foreign students feel coming to the U.S. is the reverse of what Americans like Keith have experienced.

The customs, the way of living, and the culture are differences that are difficult to bear for an exchange student, "but the dividends are high," they say. Most foreign exchange students believe that the learning and the personality growth, which international experience provides, are unattainable by any other way. What about the other part involved in the challenge, the one that stays in the shadows, but that is the most important base for the student: the host families? According to Mike and Mary Bartram, who hosted Casquinho, hosting is a very enjoyable learning experience. "Exchange students come in with so many questions that explaining routine activities, family habits, and life in our community makes a family really think about the way they live. And of course, the students have much to share and explain from their cultures." The successful exchange student becomes a very important part of the family, and the parents take great pride in seeing them explore new ideas and mature so much. Then, the hardest part comes, when it is time to leave.

After all, the motives of the exchange students are the same all over the world. Although their experiences are different, they all develop the same realistic view of life. Similarly, they all contribute to a better understanding between the peoples of the world.

Class of 1989

by Pam Shatto

The Junior Class, known for being the largest in LSHS history, consisted of approximately 657 students. It will be the 100th class to graduate since the founding of LS high school in 1889.

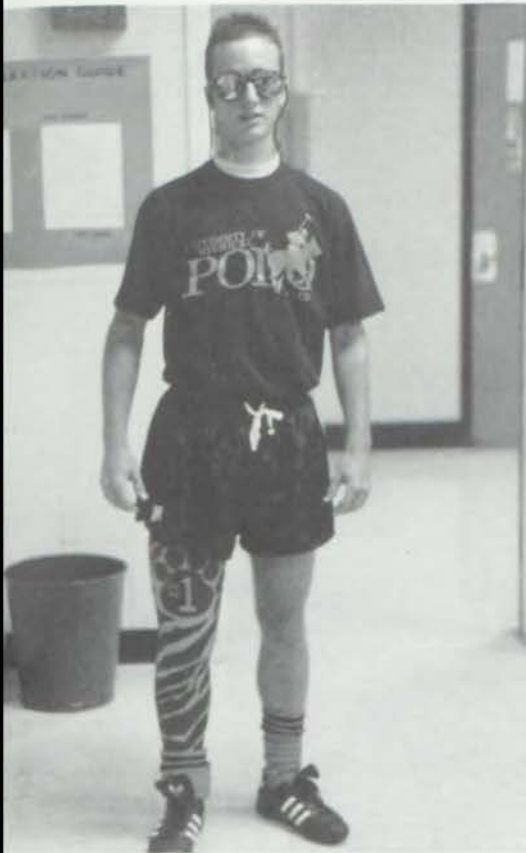

Part of being a junior meant looking into careers and planning for life after high school in the Career Exploration Program conducted by counselors during seminar.

The class elected Libby Meadors, president; Matt Oberrieder, vice-president; Jodi Master, secretary; and Nicky Douglas, treasurer, to represent them as class officers. Also, about thirty dedicated juniors gathered together during homecoming week to produce the first place award float.

Vehicles Show Personalities

In August, Junior Beth Robinson and two of her friends, Chad Albers and Oliver Burnette, armed with spray paint, gave her '79 Buick Road Hawk a little "character." They used Egyptian stencils and free-form painting to make a "truly outrageous" car.

"My car was ugly and rusty, and I didn't want to spend a lot of money for a new paint job. Besides, I think it looks better this way," Beth Robinson said.

(Right) "I just like spray paint," Beth Robinson said about her 1979 Buick.

The class of 1990 could reflect on their sophomore year as a time of change. A time in which students became more involved with school activities.

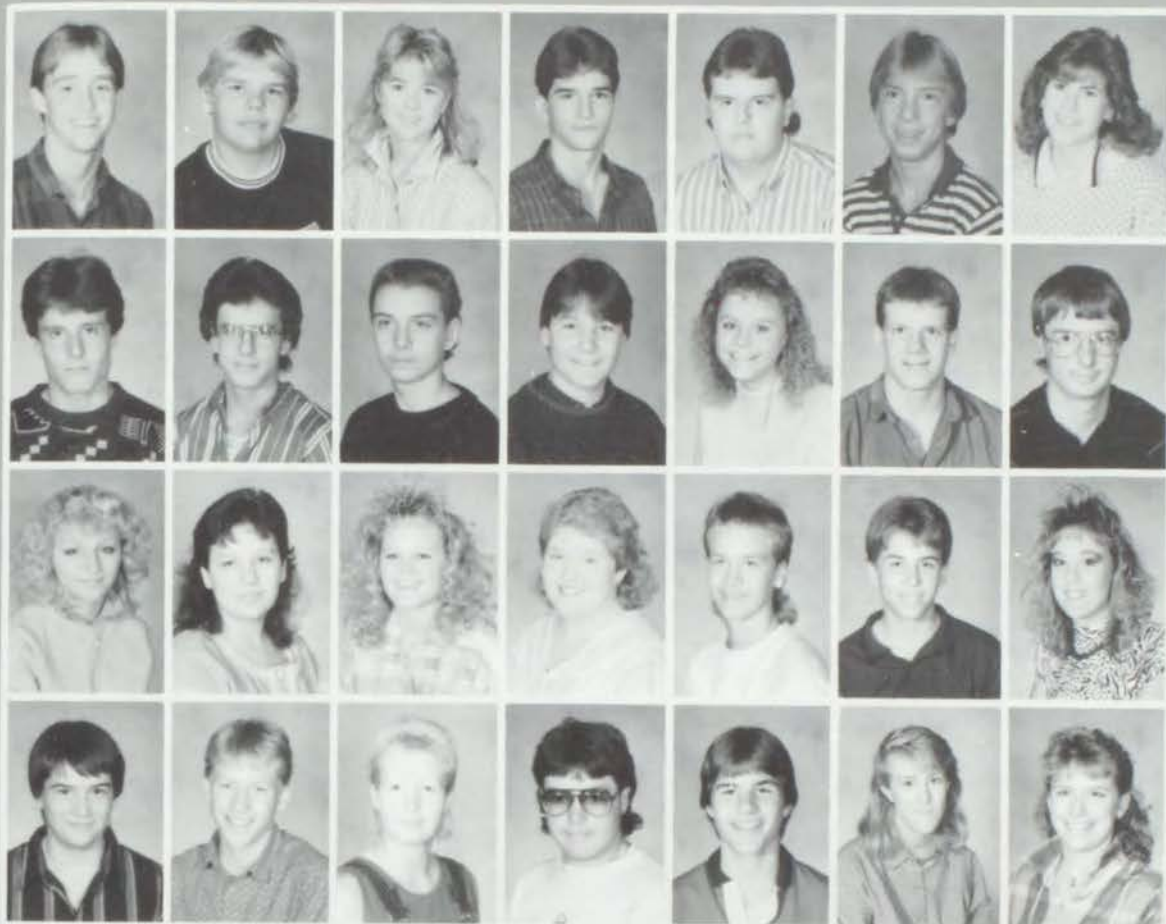

As the school year ended, the class of 1990 completed their half-way mark in high school. With growing confidence and a greater sense of the responsibilities ahead of them, the sophomore class accepted their new role as juniors.

The sophomore class consisted of 595 students. The class officers were: Stacey Duloher, president; Michaelyn Hopkins, vice-president; Mindy Weaver, secretary; and Linda Turner, treasurer.

The young fantasized, and the old reminisced about their first car. Sweet Sixteen--the year life truly began for high school students. The class of 1990 experienced the glory of their new freedom and the agony of THE TEST.

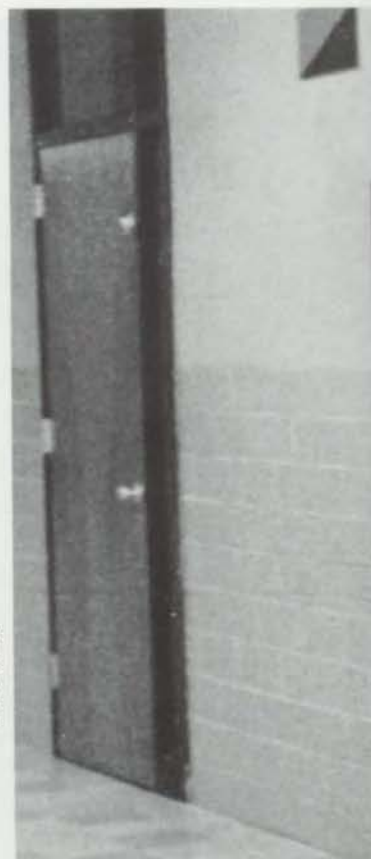

THE TEST--a ritual of torture and humiliation in which teenagers partook to obtain permission to drive. A small souvenir of their bravery for having accomplished THE TEST, was a small plastic card with the word "MINOR" stamped across it in bold, blaring letters.

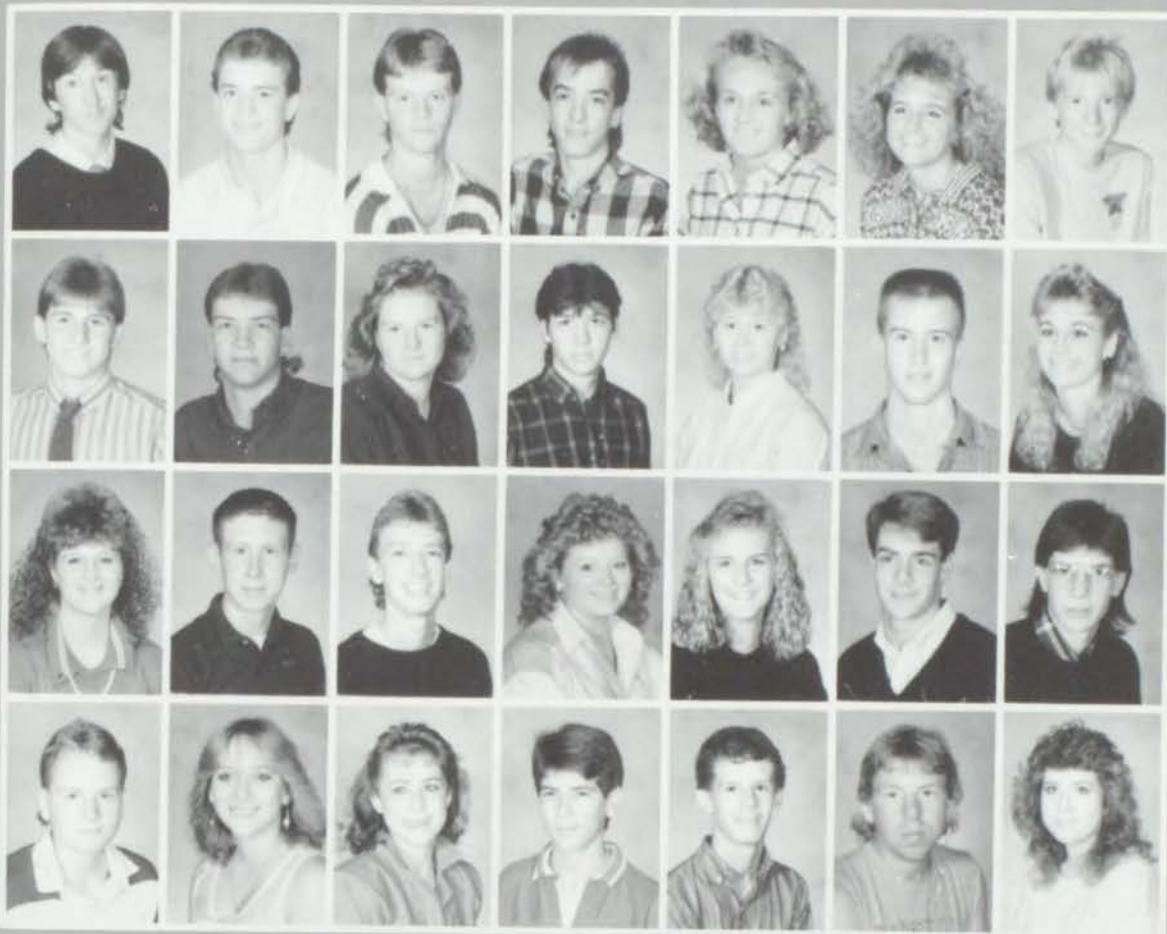

The rewards for having such a card were voluminous. A new world of blaring horns, speeding tickets, car insurance, and screeching tires opened up to them.

By Jennifer Love

The freshmen ventured into LSHS's halls September 8. Events during the first day of school appeared chaotic to the new students. However, within a week they adjusted to their schedule, becoming confident and hopeful. The freshmen class learned LSHS offered opportunities. In return, the faculty and upperclassmen acknowledged the importance of new talents, new friends, and new ideas. The class of 1991 consisted of 605 students. The class officers were: Angela Seaton, president; Mitch Pycior, vice president; Robin Cooley, secretary; and Mike Mathis, treasurer.

Skatin', Dominatin'

(Below) Skaters escape "board 'om."

By Jennifer Love

Bright colored high-tops, hair over one eye, and skateboard in hand, the skaters of the '80's took the new trend seriously. Hours of practice were spent perfecting each move. Students of all ages gathered together to do the Ollie," "Ho Ho," "Invert," "Acid drop," and the "Rail slide." Students skated at areas away from school in order to insure the safety of all others.

'Kick My Heels Up and ...'

by Jennifer Love

Day by day, week by week, the time slipped by. Finally, the time arrived, October 17, for Homecoming Week. For some freshmen, it was neurotic. For others, it was fun and exciting. The underclassmen sang, "We Love You Seniors," and/or did "air raids" throughout the halls.

"Homecoming Week wasn't as bad as I thought it would be. I only had to sing five times, and do one air raid. When I saw a senior coming, I would turn and run the other way," Schelly Bennett said.

A freshman kicks her heels up during an "air raid" for Spirit Week.

Friendship=Love

by Jennifer Love

The transition from junior high to high school was a big step for the freshmen. Meeting new friends and faces made it a worthwhile process. A year longer and a year stronger, old friendships prospered. School provided the students time to grow together and become friends. Friendship, as Amy Weese described it, meant love.

Love is listening when you have problems of your own.
Love is giving even if you have little to offer.

Love is supporting a friend when your own path is unsure.
Love means saying I'm sorry after you messed up,
And love means accepting an apology even if you're hurting.
Love gives second chances when the world won't,
And believes while all else doubts.
Love sees beauty in the ugliest profile,
And creates beauty in the ugliest soul.
Love can be a chill or a tear.
Love is anywhere you send it.

Frosh On T. V.

by Jennifer Love

Many LSHS students became professionally involved in theater performances outside of school. One who participated was Matt Lewis, freshman. He was featured on channel 19, KCPT, in the musical "Try Out." The character he portrayed was a popular football player.

"I was happy with the overall success of the play. It was intense work though. We made many mistakes, so they made us do it over and over again."

Matt began singing in the church choir and participating in musicals such as "Tom Sawyer" and "The Sound of Music."

As Matt got older, he began taking auditioning, improvisation, and scene classes in the Kansas City area.

Now, besides school plays, he performs at the Full Circle Acting Company, and the Summit Players Academy. In his latest feature, "Bye Bye Birdie," Matt performed in front of 2,000 people.

Matt plans on making a future career out of acting and singing. "I hope to become successful, but I still want to be able to live normally. I don't think I could stand having to live a secluded life like some celebrities do," he said.

Boy, did we shout!

Many hours were sacrificed, and hard work was donated to produce the best 1987-88 yearbook possible. With virtually a brand new staff with no previous experience, the dedication that followed soon proved to be invaluable. Each and every staff member was an important part of the accomplishments that we achieved. Although there were many times we all wanted to "Shout," the commitment remained an underlying asset. I would like to extend my thanks to the 1987-88 Reflector staff and Mrs. Toni Horne for a yearbook we can all be proud of.

Ending the calander of events for the school year

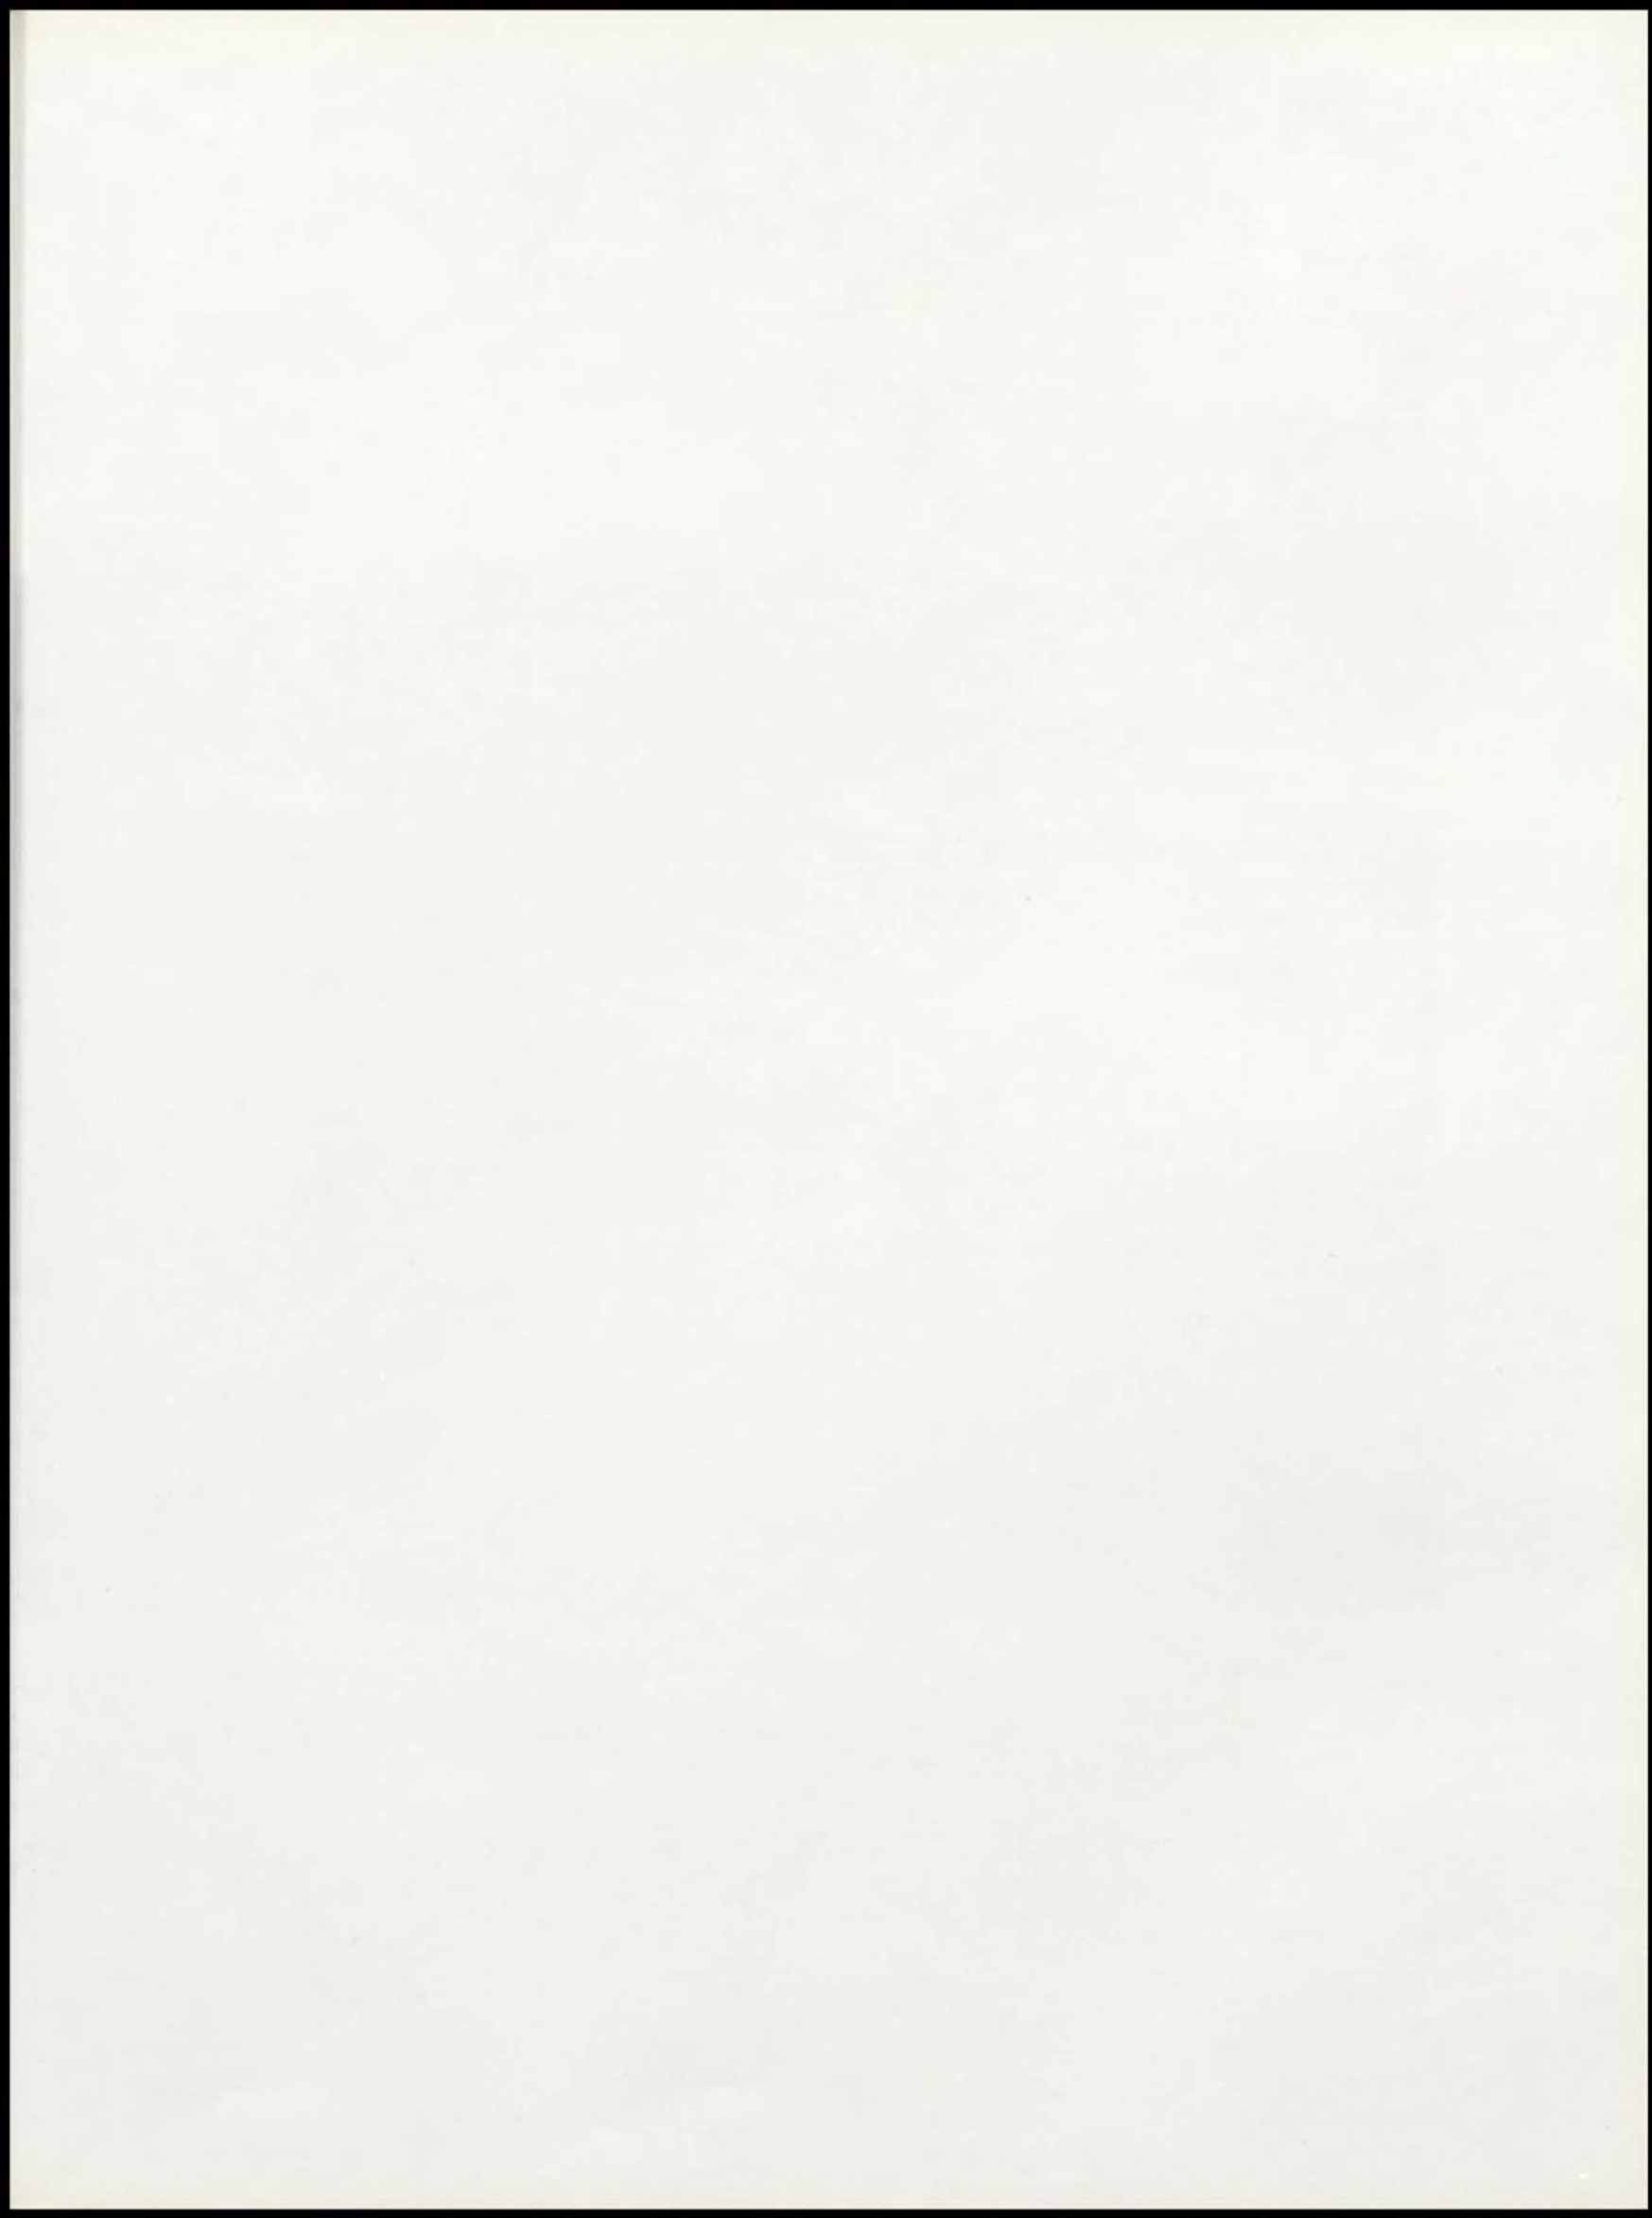

The 1987-1988 school year proved to be a year to SHOUT about. Students excelled in the fields of academics and sports. The North Central Re-evaluation Committee determined that the enthusiasm among students at LSHS was second to none, and that LSHS academic programs ranked highly in all areas. The athletic programs experienced a year full of victories. The sports teams were consistently rated as number one in the area.

Extracurricular activities demonstrated another area of excellence for students during the year. The varsity cheerleaders went to a national competition in Hawaii; the debate and forensics squads won numerous awards; the band, orchestra, and choirs earned "I" ratings in many contests and competitions; and clubs reached their goals. In addition, the drama department experienced continued success in the school and community with the outstanding productions of "Annie" and "Rally Round the Flag, Boys."

In all, 1987-1988 was a year that made you want to SHOUT!

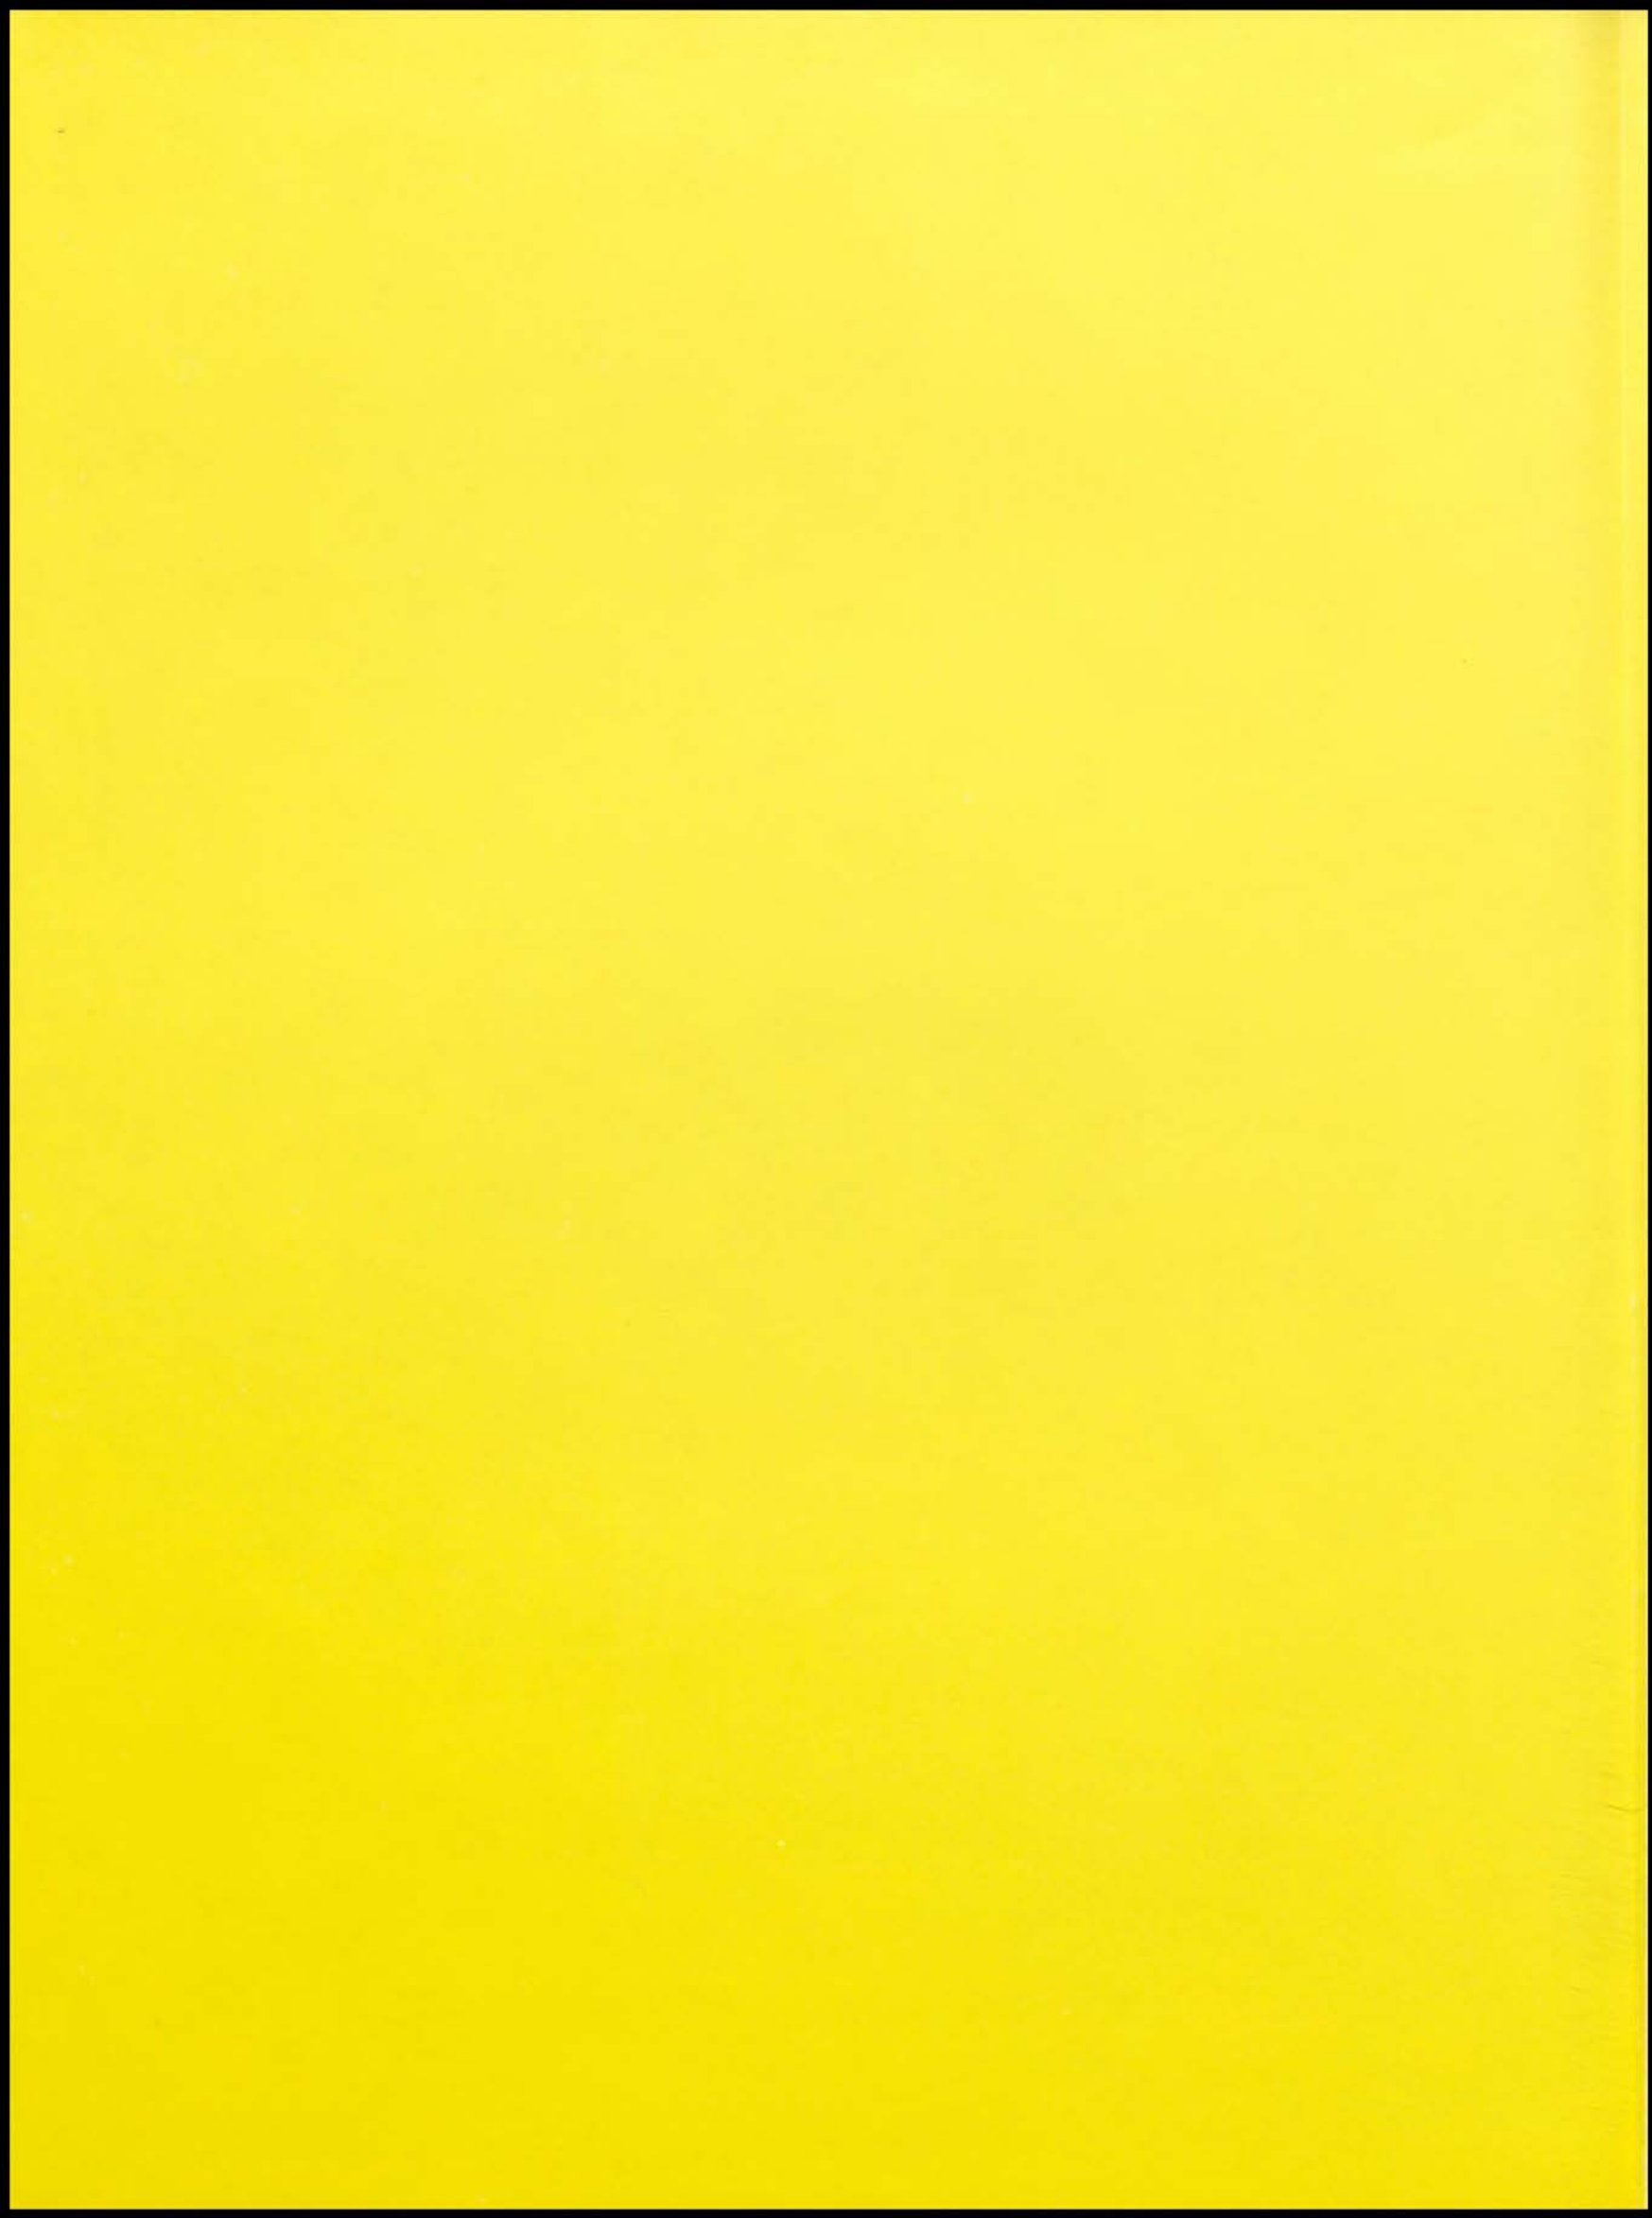

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The document also highlights the need for regular reconciliation of bank statements and the company's records to identify any discrepancies early on.

In the second part, the author provides a detailed breakdown of the accounting cycle. It starts with identifying the accounting period and ends with the preparation of financial statements. Each step is explained in detail, including the necessary journal entries and the use of T-accounts to organize the data. The document stresses that following these steps consistently will lead to more accurate and reliable financial information.

The third section focuses on the classification of assets and liabilities. It explains how to distinguish between current and long-term assets and liabilities, and how to properly value them. The document also discusses the importance of depreciation for tangible assets and the amortization of intangible assets. These concepts are crucial for understanding the true value of the company's resources over time.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the key points discussed. It reiterates the importance of accuracy, consistency, and transparency in accounting. The author encourages readers to apply these principles in their own work to ensure the success of their financial reporting.
