LINCOLNIAN

An aerial photograph of a school campus. In the foreground, a large green rectangular field is visible, with a group of people playing a sport on a smaller field within it. To the right of this field is a baseball field with a dirt infield and green grass outfield. A parking lot with several cars is situated between the green field and the baseball field. In the background, there are more school buildings, a large brick building on the right, and a dense residential area with many houses and trees. The sky is clear and blue. The text "THE LINCOLNIAN" is overlaid in white capital letters across the bottom of the image.

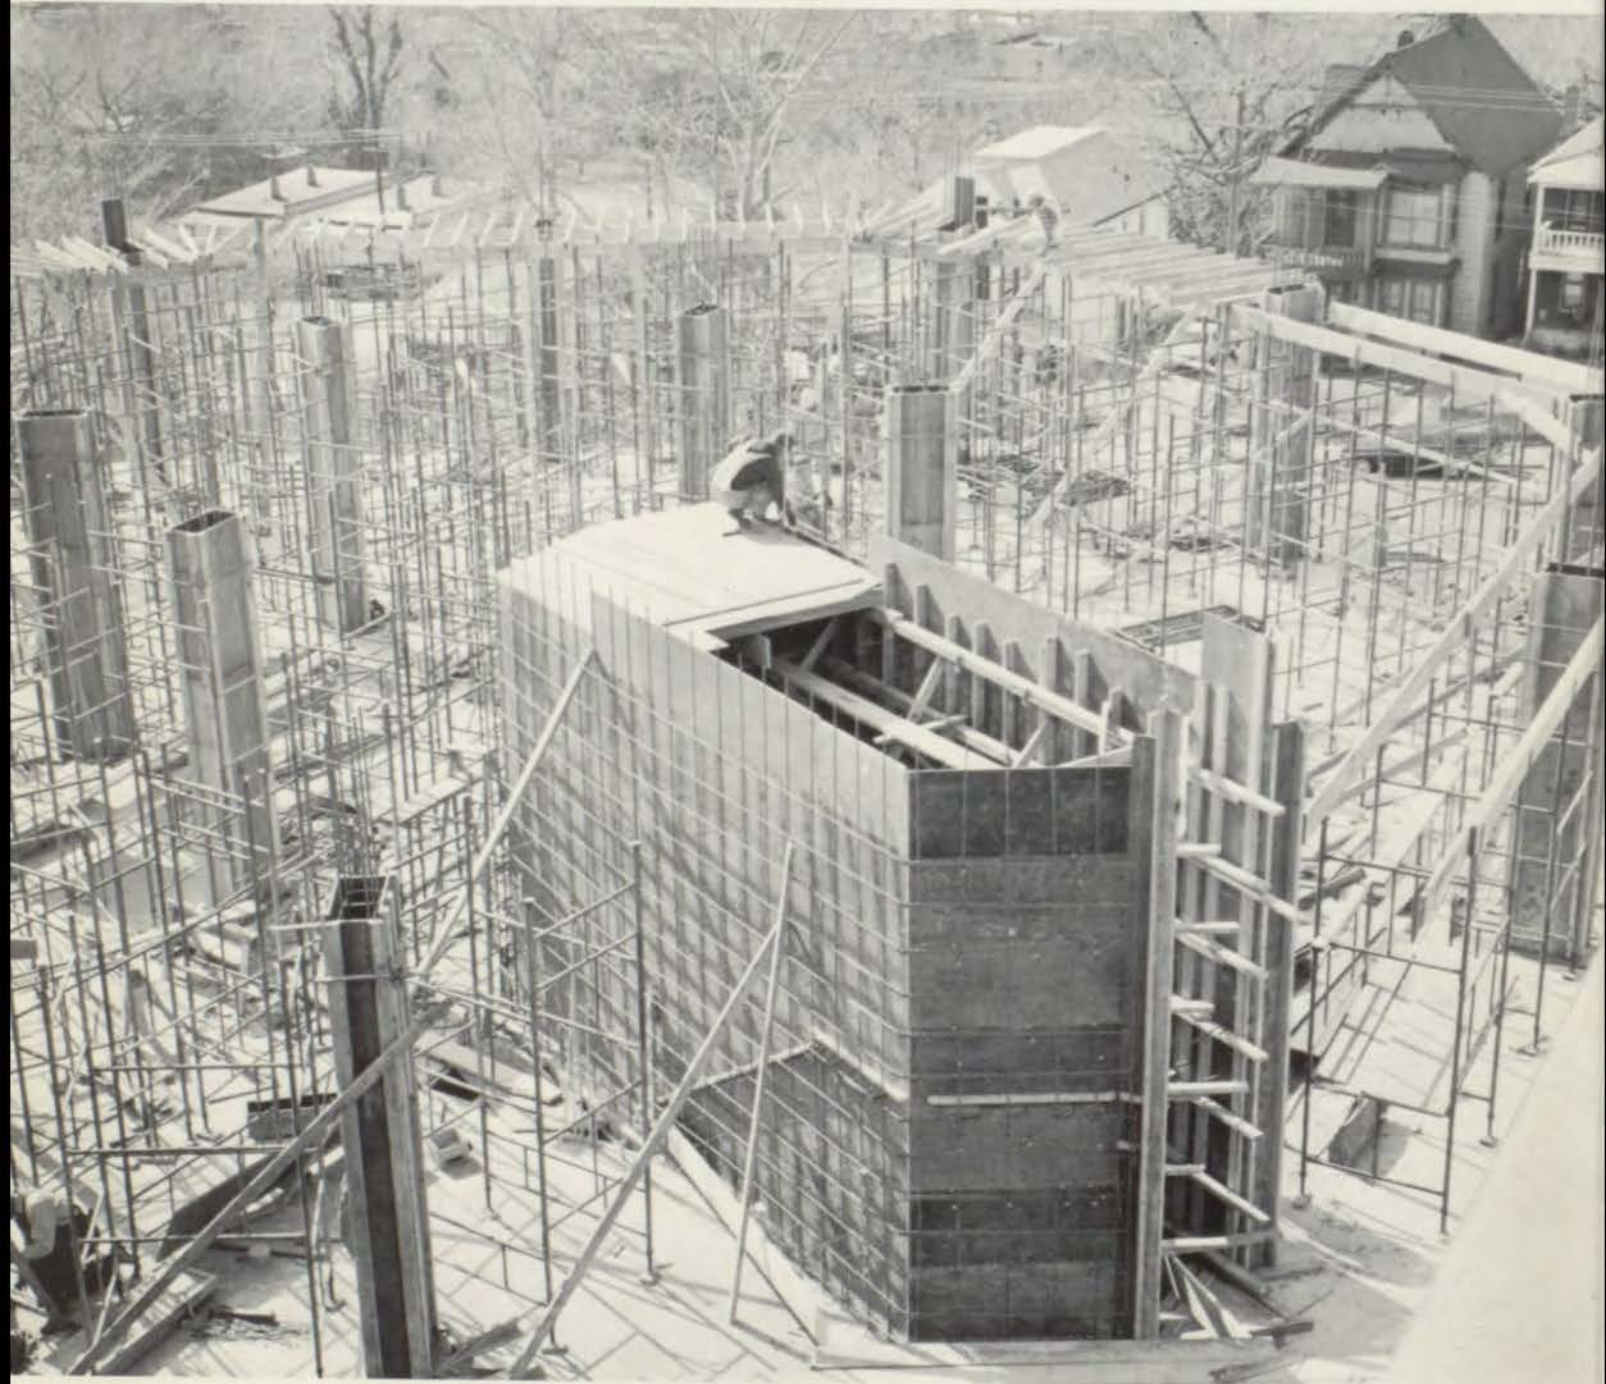

THE LINCOLNIAN

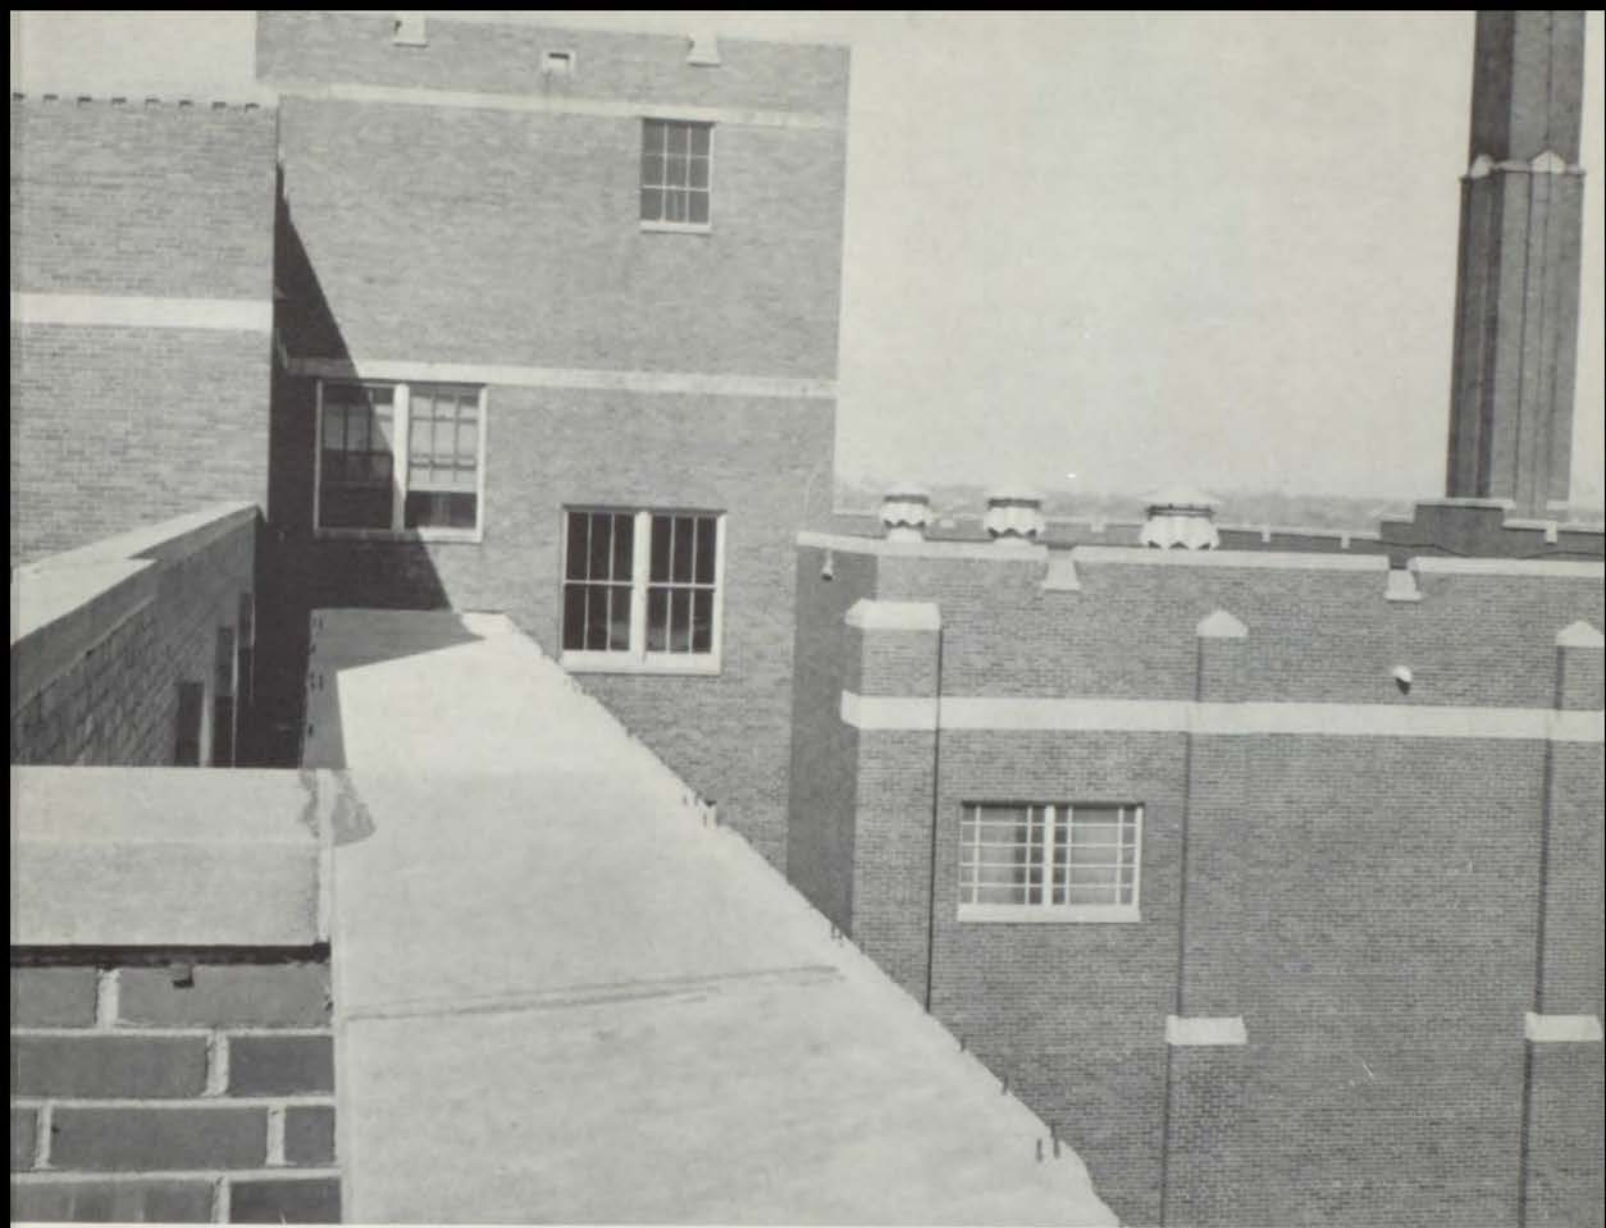

An aerial photograph of Lincoln High School in Kansas City, Missouri. The main building is a large, multi-story red brick structure with a flat roof and numerous windows. To its right is a large, curved glass and steel structure, possibly a gymnasium or arena, with a dark roof. The school is surrounded by green lawns, trees, and a parking lot. In the background, a residential neighborhood with houses and trees is visible under a clear sky. The text "LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI" is overlaid in white at the bottom of the image.

Robert Roane, COE coordinator, discusses job opportunities with a student

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses, income, and any other financial activity.

The second part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the accounting process. It starts with the identification of the accounting cycle, which consists of eight steps: identifying the accounting cycle, analyzing and journalizing the transactions, posting to the ledger, preparing a trial balance, adjusting the accounts, preparing financial statements, and closing the books. Each step is explained in detail, with examples and practical advice.

The third part of the document focuses on the preparation of financial statements. It covers the balance sheet, the income statement, and the statement of owner's equity. It explains how these statements are derived from the accounting records and how they provide a comprehensive view of the company's financial health.

The fourth part of the document discusses the importance of internal controls. It outlines various control procedures, such as segregation of duties, authorization, and documentation, which are essential for preventing errors and fraud. It also provides tips on how to design and implement an effective internal control system.

The fifth part of the document covers the topic of depreciation. It explains the different methods used to calculate the depreciation of fixed assets, such as the straight-line method, the declining balance method, and the sum-of-the-years'-digits method. It also discusses the impact of depreciation on the company's financial statements.

The sixth part of the document discusses the importance of budgeting. It explains how a budget can be used to plan and control the company's financial activities. It provides a step-by-step guide to developing a budget, from identifying the company's goals to allocating resources and monitoring performance.

The seventh part of the document covers the topic of cost accounting. It explains how costs are classified and how they are used to determine the cost of goods sold. It also discusses the importance of cost control and how it can be achieved through various techniques.

The eighth part of the document discusses the importance of tax accounting. It explains how taxes are calculated and how they are reported to the tax authorities. It also provides tips on how to minimize the company's tax liability through various strategies.

The ninth part of the document covers the topic of financial ratios. It explains how ratios are used to analyze the company's financial performance and to compare it with industry benchmarks. It provides a list of common ratios and explains how to interpret them.

The tenth part of the document discusses the importance of financial forecasting. It explains how forecasts are used to predict the company's future financial performance and to make informed decisions. It provides a step-by-step guide to developing a financial forecast.

The final part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed in the document. It emphasizes the importance of accuracy, integrity, and transparency in accounting and provides a final message to the reader.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses, income, and transfers between accounts.

The second part of the document provides a detailed explanation of the accounting cycle. It outlines the ten steps involved in the process, from identifying the accounting entity to preparing financial statements. Each step is described in detail, including the necessary documents and procedures to follow.

The third part of the document discusses the various methods used to record transactions. It compares the double-entry system with the single-entry system, highlighting the advantages and disadvantages of each. It also explains how to use T-accounts to organize and summarize the data.

The fourth part of the document covers the process of adjusting the accounts. It explains why adjustments are necessary and how they are made. It discusses the different types of adjustments, such as accruals, deferrals, and depreciation, and provides examples of how to record them.

The fifth part of the document discusses the preparation of financial statements. It explains how to use the adjusted trial balance to prepare the income statement, balance sheet, and statement of owner's equity. It also discusses the importance of comparing the results of the current period with those of the previous period.

The sixth part of the document discusses the closing process. It explains how to close the temporary accounts (revenues, expenses, and owner's drawings) to the permanent accounts (retained earnings and owner's capital). It also discusses the importance of reversing entries and how they are used to correct errors.

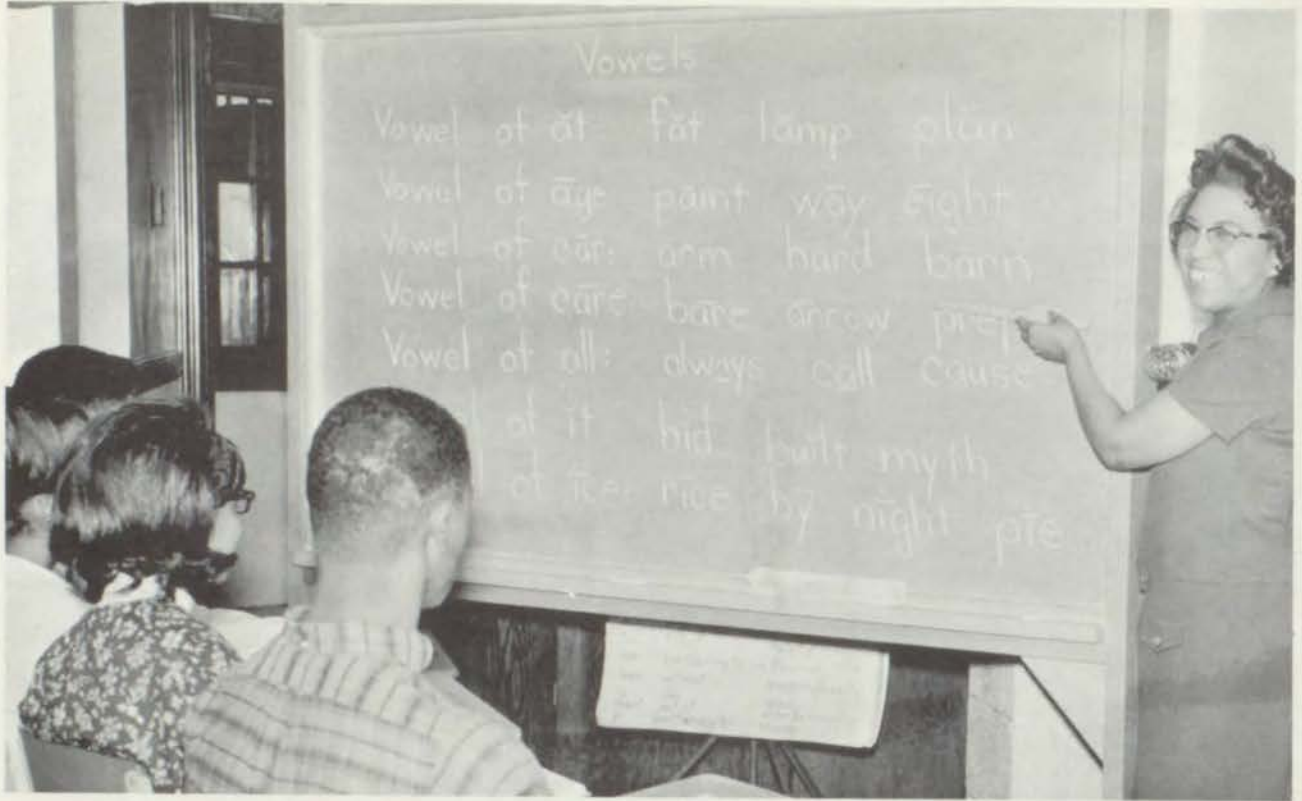

The seventh part of the document discusses the use of accounting software. It explains how to set up a new company in the software and how to enter transactions. It also discusses the various features and functions of the software, such as generating financial statements and performing audits.

The eighth part of the document discusses the importance of internal controls. It explains how to design and implement controls to prevent and detect errors and fraud. It discusses the different types of controls, such as segregation of duties, authorization, and documentation.

The ninth part of the document discusses the role of the accountant. It explains the different types of accountants and their responsibilities. It also discusses the ethical standards that accountants must follow and the importance of maintaining objectivity and integrity.

The tenth part of the document discusses the future of accounting. It discusses the impact of technology on the profession and the need for accountants to stay current in their knowledge and skills. It also discusses the importance of continuing education and professional development.

ACTIVITIES

READING LABORATORY

In the new reading programs an effort is made to improve reading in all areas. Students are screened and tested to find specific problems in reading. The reading teachers plans and works cooperatively with the subject matter teachers. Teaching basic reading skills in correlation with the subject being taught should bring about desired results. Mrs. Charlotte Shelton, Mrs. Mildred Johnson and Mrs. Dorothy Newman are reading teachers.

READING LABORATORY

A class in Special Education learns reading skills.

Students listen to tapes made by native speakers and repeat what they hear.

ROTC

Company A

Company B

The Reserved Officers Training Corps has a broad and comprehensive program which begins with basic orientation in September and ends with summer camp in June. From a study of eleven basic subjects the cadets learn such things as military courtesy, discipline, rank of insignia orders, commands, first aid, personal hygiene, military organization, and weapons.

The purpose is not to build military leaders but to build better citizens.

The voice of the student is heard in heated sessions of the Student Council. Here the varied and familiar problems of the student are brought before the council for discussions and solution, if possible. The council works in conjunction with the administration for the common good. Each year the council engages in such worthwhile activities as the March of Dimes, United Funds and all City High School Day at City Hall. This year they also sponsored the St. Valentine's social.

Y-TEEN

Y-Teens join other members of the Y.W.C.A. in its endeavor to build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians.

School activities included two assemblies- an all-girl and an all-school-A St. Patrick's Day social and a fashion show. Ida Gordon is president of the Lincoln chapter.

NCCJ

Members of the National Conference of Christians and Jews are given an opportunity to participate in panels, plays and tutoring programs designed to encourage brotherhood and foster good race relations. In addition to appearing before school groups and organizations, the NCCJ Panel appeared on WHB and KPRS radio stations. Andrea McThomas is chairman of the Lincoln High Chapter.

Service at home and abroad is the guiding spirit of Junior Red Cross. Students learn early that human beings are interdependent and therefore concerned with each others welfare. The activities of the chapter are directed by a small carefully selected council. In the early full members attended a training conference at Unity Village. A major annual project is the filling of Christmas stockings for veterans.

Members fill Christmas stockings for Veterans.

THE LINCOLNIAN

An aerial photograph of Lincoln High School in Kansas City, Missouri. The main building is a large, multi-story red brick structure with many windows. To its right is a large, curved stadium with a glass facade and a dark roof. The school is surrounded by green lawns, trees, and a residential neighborhood in the background. The text "LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI" is overlaid in white at the bottom of the image.
