Changing Times

By Flawn Barber

When the doors of Lincoln opened this year, there was a new wave moving through them. It wasn't the students. There were the same old faces with the exception of the new enrollees. And it wasn't that we'd received any new materials, for we hadn't. English students were still reading "The Great Gatsby" and trying to analyze "The Catcher in the Rye." We were still trying to solve problems for  $x$  and still being baffled by Einstein's theory of relativity.

Perhaps it was the music we were listening to. The punk rock sound was crossing the line between it and soul. We were moving to the beat of a different drummer.

Or maybe it was the clothes we were wearing. The preppy and designer look were putting plain jeans and tennis shoes to shame. "It's not so much what we're doing or listening to, or even wearing," said Lorna Johnson, junior, but how we do it. That's the big change."

CALM BEFORE THE STORM: Lone passer by crosses South Campus square soon to be filled with throngs of seventh and eighth graders.

TIGERS' OFFENSE is ready to attack Pirates' defense at annual Lincoln-Paseo rival game.

INTENSE IN STUDYING, Michael Brown, junior, complies to the demands of a rigid schedule.

THE 23RD ST. COBRAS can truly say art comes in many forms, as they represent Antony Miralda's work in the American Royal parade.

RAINY DAYS AND SATURDAYS can't dampen students' spirits as they near the end of the 12 mile walk-a-thon.

Changing Times

Change was evident in the students' attitudes toward themselves, their classes, and their responsibilities. "We care more," said Darrin Greene, senior. "It's not like it used to be with everyone looking out for number one."

"The students realize what a controlling force they are and care enough about correcting their school's faults to take advantage of it," said Student Government sponsor Mrs. Judy Morgan.

Facing the loss of several good teachers and a sizable debt, students channeled their concern into sound affirmative actions. Mr. William Rowan, North Campus Dean, interested faculty members, and the Parent Advisory Board planned the school's first walk-a-thon.

Various organizations put their best foot forward. Cheerleaders turned in the most money as an organization and Chareese Higgins turned in the most money as an individual.

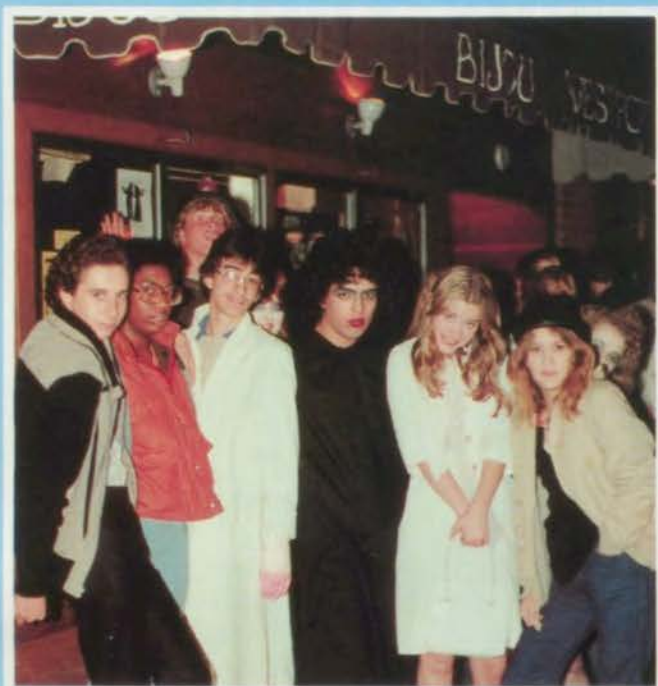

Yet through all the good and bad times, the victories and defeats, we all moved with the tide, for we were changing times.

WHETHER IT BE the thrill of victory or the agony of defeat, Tigers can always see the lighter side to any situation, as displayed by sophomore, John Kemp and Darrin Greene, senior.

Living It Up

By Flawn Barber

At 2:35 school fun ends for some. But the real fun for most begins afterwards. Thrill seeking students attend such happenings as "The Rocky Horror Picture Show," school games, dances and going to the local show.

"A student does not live by books alone," said Randy White, sophomore.

"It's true," said Larry Holcomb, senior. "Students need an outlet for all of their anxieties, and out of school activities provide it for them."

If not for the sake of "letting it all hang out," then for the sake of sheer fun. Whatever the case may be, students still and always live it on up.

Fashion Not Key to Acceptance

By Flawn Barber

Solving Rubik's cubes, Jordache jeans, and Nike tennis shoes at any other school would mean ready acceptance, but not at Lincoln. "It's not what you wear, but how you act when you wear it that makes you accepted here," said Tracie Gee, junior. Statistics have proven that the high school student experiences a period needing attention and acceptance. This need is carried into their actions, whether it be participating in school sports or the clothes they wear.

"I used to wear designer clothes to grab people's attention, but now I wear them because I like the fit," said Sue Barkony, sophomore.

"If people can't accept me for what I am, they can't accept me for what I wear," said Sheila Fitzgerald, junior.

BACK IN STYLE again: Tamika Pearson models the new long look in basic black.

STEPPING OUT in style means Nikes, Florsheims, Thom McCann's, C-Q's and K-Mart for these fashionable feet.

BASIC ACCESSORIES for the well-dressed gentleman are a briefcase, Izod socks, and boat moccasins.

"YOU SURE LOOK FINE in your Calvin Klein." This famous phrase sets the style for the look in blue jeans. Also popular are Jordaches, Britannias, Sergio Valentis, Sassoons, Lees, Red Devils, Gloria Vanderbilts, Chics, and Levis.

COMBINATIONS TO CUBE cause ultimate confusion among challenge-seeking Joyce Smith, junior.

Controversy Can't Alter Big Event

by Flawn Barber

Blue and gold streamers, the sounds of drumbeats drifting through the halls and the faint cries from the football field were all recognizable signs of Homecoming. Yet for those who spent long hours preparing for the big event it was much more.

Homecoming activities were divided between the Athletic Department and Student Government. Controversy arose over nominations between the two units, making this year's Homecoming more stimulating.

However, the Homecoming fever had hit Lincoln. In spite of the cold weather, fans huddled in blankets and were treated to a winning game against Westport.

Half-time activities were carried on by the Pom Pon Squad, climaxed by the crowning of King Eric Williams and Queen Tami Cole.

With another victory under their belts, the Tigers and fans returned to the school for the victory dance.

Reaganomics Program: 'Now You See It, Now You Don't'

By Larry Dixon and Daniel Moffet

A part, the name Reagan and the word economics mean nothing. Reagan, the name of our president, and economics, meaning the study of wealth and natural resources to mankind's needs. Put them together, they make up President Reagan's famous budget cuts "Reaganomics."

Because of the way Reagan

REAGANOMICS IS A MAJOR concern for students at Lincoln. Teacher cutbacks, increase in school lunch prices, and the loss of programs are just a few ways the school was affected. Randy Kurtz, junior, checks out the presidential elections.

IN SPITE OF the increase in lunch prices, lunch time is the busiest time in school.

cut the money supply, all state agencies were ordered to cut spending by 10%. Lincoln Academy was no exception to the rule. Approximately 17 teachers, one media specialist, and eight others were furloughed from Lincoln North. One teacher was rehired as a building substitute and at least nine other teachers were recalled.

One General Math class had four different teachers at the beginning of the school year because of the cutbacks. The class had about 22 students.

Dwayne Matthews, freshman, said, "I don't feel too good about having so many teachers in one class. Once you got used to one teacher, you got another. I didn't learn very much math."

Karen Gilmore, freshman, said, "I didn't really like having so many teachers, because once you got used to having one teacher, you got another one."

There was an increase in food prices. Lunches went up by approximately 20¢ for students. Last year student plate lunches were 75¢ and teachers' lunches were 95¢. Even so, approximately 700 plate lunches were served each day.

The debate over the federal role in education was not finished, however, and one thing was sure. The students didn't allow the federal budget cuts to spoil their school year.

Heading in a New Direction

by Jaclyn Kennedy

Back to basics was the emphasis in the English Department. Basics were used to improve BEST test scores. Although the department returned with only two teachers from last year, the cutback didn't have any other effects.

The six new teachers assumed their responsibilities readily. Mr. David Hutton, one of the new teachers and department chairperson, taught Composition and Black Literature. His Black Literature class studied excerpts from "Uncle Tom's Children" by Richard Wright and made up special packets of poems and records read by Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis.

On the whole, the Foreign Language Department was sacrificed because more stress was put on taking required courses. Mrs. Grace Swinton said second and third year French students were given an opportunity to do enrichment projects.

Mr. Hutton as the new chairperson said, "I like it up here very much and will try to keep the department together having teachers sharing more."

Mathematics Science

Budget Cuts Can't Hinder Progress

by Latrice Scott

“Students are working very diligently, both individually and in groups, as far as modifying and adding to their units,” said Mr. Stephen Kohl, Dissecting Team instructor. He felt that the dissecting team did great in spite of the budget cuts which limited trips and art supplies 75%, thus limiting their hands on demonstrations.

“I’m very proud of the science department,” said chemistry teacher Mrs. Joanne Sabatka. She felt the department had a lot to offer and that students were getting more oriented in their sciences. However, classes were larger. Loss of teachers and budget cuts limited laboratory use as well as field trips and supplies.

“The math department is trying to improve students’ attitude about math,” said chairperson Miss Gerry Zaner. Teachers are also trying to encourage students to take as much math as possible so that a math related career is possible. Career-oriented math classes are offered such as accounting, computer programming, calculus, and trigonometry.

Real Life Roles Teach Leadership

by Steven Grant

Except for money cut backs, progress in the Social Studies Department was still the same. Mrs. Judy Morgan, department chairperson, felt that cut backs and loss of good teachers was severe. "I would like to see more money spent on supplies instead of the School Board spending it on the Strategic Plan," she said.

The department was doing things with its Youth in Government program sponsored by Mrs. Suzanne Settles and Mrs. Theya Lewis. Mrs. Settles said that Youth in Government was a model legislature and model Supreme Court for Missouri's high school students sponsored by the YMCA.

Students played the roles of senators, representatives, lawyers, reporters, and different political positions. Mrs. Lewis felt that the students were learning how the State Legislature and Judicial branch operate. "The program gives students first hand experience in seeing how a bill becomes law," said Mrs. Lewis. "It's also a chance for students throughout the state to meet together and prepare bills and pass them in the State Capitol Building."

GIVEN THE QUESTION: You're building a fall out shelter. Who would you let in? Seniors Diane Carr and Lonnie McNeil carefully weigh the question in Mrs. Judy Morgan's Crime and Juvenile Delinquency class.

Fine Arts Practical Arts

Art, More Than Cut and Paste

by Gregory Page

Art is a huge three letter word. It combines the individual as well as his talent.

"Art never comes easy" said Mrs. Brenda Rivette, drama teacher. "It comes gradually step by step. Art has grown from more than cut and paste."

Drama department students were chosen as special guests at the performance of the play "Pippins" by Park College drama students. They also visited Waldo Astoria, a dinner play house.

Art is also singing. The Concert Choir enabled the students to be themselves. "The students enjoy singing, so let them sing," said Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd, choir director.

The students in the homemaking department enjoyed homemaking. They trained with their hands. "It is always better to do the sewing or cooking than see someone demonstrate it for you," said Charlotte Murray, freshman. The students enjoyed making their own fashions.

Art has been on the rise for a long time. With all the administration cut backs, it was still going even stronger.

Modern Dance, Gymnastics, Swimming, Tennis, Karate and Gym were offered this year in PE.

Not only did Gym courses undergo changes, but the Gym itself underwent physical changes, because this summer a new floor was installed, which really brightened up the gym.

WELDING PROJECT for Leroy Blaylock, Senior, is clearing a well that has already been welded. His teacher is Mr. Jim Niday.

Career Students Learn to Earn

The world of work was one option for Lincoln students. Many chose COE, spending three hours at school in traditional classes and the rest of the day on the job. Budget cuts did not affect COE substantially, according to Mr. Samuel Cofield, COE instructor. New individual books and a larger classroom were additions to the program.

"We have a very visible program," said Mr. Cofield. "COE bridges the gap between school and community relations."

Lack of supplies and equipment hampered the business department program, said Mrs. Osceola Thomas, business department chairperson. But Mrs. Thomas said that the business courses were still able to provide students with a marketable skill that would help them to become employable.

"Students have a positive attitude toward learning," she said. "Some will each go on to succeed in a business related skill."

A third option for career-minded students was the Technical Education Center where students spent two and a half hours each day learning data processing, data entry, commercial art, welding, auto body, child care, dry cleaning, and commercial sewing.

Students who successfully completed the course received certificates which certified their readiness for employment in their field.

In the beginning I couldn't sleep. Getting an anchor person for the cablevision team was a real problem," said Mrs. Miriam Simon, GT coordinator.

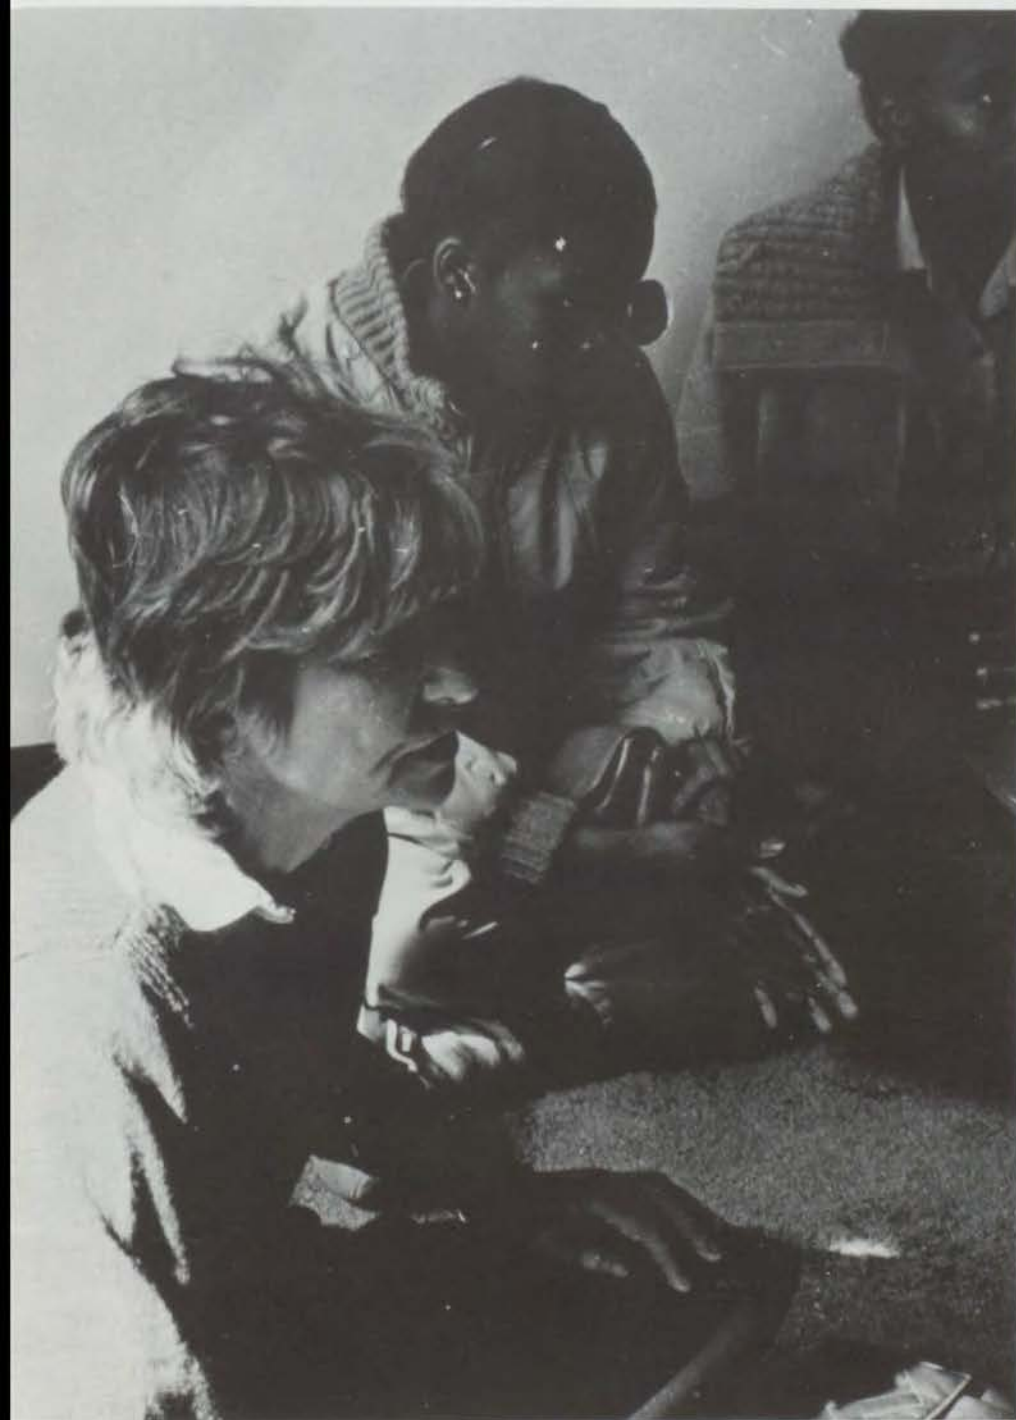

By the third month, however, some of the cablevision students had expressed the desire to be a professional cameraman. "It's a great educational experience," said Joseph Chabot, junior.

Cablevision was the newest thing in GT. The outstanding feature was that the students were entirely self reliant. The team of 10 students was the only one in the school district. It appeared on Channel 21 every day, featuring events in the district with special emphasis on Lincoln.

Other GT students were enrolled in an internship program at St. Luke's Hospital where they assisted in radiology, physical therapy, nursing, and pharmacy.

Eighth graders chose from computer programming, art, problem solving, and video production. Seventh graders study literature under Dr. Jeremiah Cameron from Penn Valley Junior College. "We read choice literature and poetry," said Melissa Ross. "I wish all seventh graders could share this learning experience."

By Darron Story

Precision Routines, Exciting dance steps, and classy selections of top musical hits made a name for the Marching Symphonic Band.

Ready to take on another summer's worth of long practice, the band was left hanging with whether its Band Director, Mr. Calvin Whitmore III, would be there to lead them next school year. The band still practiced on its own, knowing that Mr. Whitmore might not return to Lincoln.

Three long months went by without Mr. Whitmore, and in that time a band class of 85 students dwindled to 48 faithful ones. The total morale of the band went down to an all time low. Anyone could see that the band's emotions were getting out of control.

The students were rebelling against a move that was killing the total band program that in two years was built from a group of people who didn't know whether they were coming or going to the Number One marching band in the city.

On December 1 the band and student body greeted Mr. Whitmore back. "I feel good about coming back," Mr. Whitmore said after his return. "But then again I feel sad too, because we lost three precious months. I hope we can get over that and pick up where we left off."

"The reason why we're number one, Mr. Whitmore added, "has got to be our style." No one I've seen besides Florida A and M marches or tries to march like us, and how many bands can dance and play their horns at the same time. To sum it up, we are just "cold blooded."

It is very inspiring to know that in your school is a group of students that are dedicated and hard working, and have enough pride in themselves to overcome adversities that might have taken its toll on the spirit, morale, and pride of the organization.

The Lincoln Band found the true meaning of togetherness in the fall of 1981. Sticking together through a crisis that spelled out the word why.

"Why did it happen to us just when we were on our way to the very top? Why?" said Donrick Williams, tuba player.

Having a positive attitude was a major factor in the band's willingness to stick together, saying to themselves, "We're going to make it." And you can bet your bottom dollar they did.

They say give credit where credit is due, and the Tiger Band deserves a lot. They showed themselves and a whole lot of other people that Tigers don't fold under pressure.

“Oklahoma’s” Okay! So Is Concert Choir

By Daniel Moffet and Michael Brown
Familiar strains of “Oh What A Beautiful Morning” floated through Lincoln’s halls before and after “Oklahoma’s” performance. With such positive attitudes brimming from both cast and students it was evident that “Oklahoma” was to be a lively musical.

Romance and rivalry were themes of the second annual festival presented by the choir and orchestra. This story of cowboys and farmers in Indian territory, starred Brian Jones as Curly McClain, Michael Merriweather as Jud Fry and Diane Irby as Laurey Williams. With saucy comments from Tusha Kimber as Ado Annie and Michelle Williams as a stern Aunt Ella, the audience couldn’t help but love this love story.

“Oklahoma” was only one of the choir’s activities. The Concert Choir performed at Thanksgiving and Christmas Assemblies and caroled at the City Hall and the Plaza. They also sang at the South Campus along with the South Campus Choir to recruit students and at C.A. Franklin’s Black History Month program.

The roar of drumbeats and the sound of marching feet are all signs that there will be a Cobra invasion. This doesn't mean that we're being invaded by snakes, but that the number one drillteam of Kansas City, is coming to jam. "The Cobra's have made a name for themselves becoming in a sense a legend in their own time," said Allen Brown, seventh grader, Junior Mascott.

But being a member of the number one drill team takes a lot of hard work. Each member is required to attend a two-hour practice after school every day.

Being a Cobra is one of the most interesting things to happen in my life up until now," said Dedree Bryant.

The team has come a long way from its original conception as a talent show act. They now perform at games such as Kings basketball games and Comets soccer games. And you can bet every major parade that hits K. C., and abroad, is on their agenda.

ROTC - Up and On Their Way

By Carl Harris
and Donald Miller

Competition kept ROTC cadets on their toes, beginning with a city-wide rifle match in the fall and ending with the annual Federal Inspection in April. A Military Inspection team from Second ROTC Region Headquarters at Fort Knox, Kentucky, inspected the cadet batallion while in the ranks, asking questions about the military subjects the cadets learned during the year.

Map reading, first aid, leadership, drills and ceremonies, and marksmanship were among the areas covered.

The cadets planned routes for trips to other cities in Missouri and also learned to pinpoint locations in areas with few roads.

Although we had to make a few changes in the officers, the members of Student Government didn't have many changes getting used to the new president.

Clarissa Reynolds, freshman, thinks Student Government accomplished many things this year.

"Out of all the things the Student Government put on, the student-faculty basketball game made the year. It was the funnest event to put on," said Pat Isaac, senior.

Student Government put on its second clean school contest, really improving the school's appearance.

From Earthworms To Dogs - Team Expands Program

"The dissecting team is rapidly growing in size," said Mr. Stephen Kohl, sponsor. "It's larger than it's ever been."

The Dissecting Team of about 60 members visited junior highs and elementary schools demonstrating dissecting techniques with 16 different units from earthworms to dogs.

"The group is full of advantages and there is an extreme amount of knowledge both scientific and common to all members of this unique group," said Mr. Kohl.

The team has performed at such schools as Harrison Junior High School and Nowlin Junior High School and schools in North Kansas City. It also went to Holt, Missouri, approximately 40 miles from Kansas City, the longest trip ever made by the team.

"As a member of the Dissecting Team I really enjoy going to the different schools where I can dissect and display my science project for the younger children," said Reshaunda Daniels, junior.

PIG DISSECTION is no easy task for John White, senior, as he demonstrates this art for Elementary students.

VIEWING LEUKOCYTES (WHITE BLOOD CELLS) under the microscope holds the interest of Holt Elementary students.

HANDS ON TRAINING is given by Walter Youngblood, junior as he instructs Elementary student in the dissection of a frog.

THE SWEET SMELL of formaldehyde gains strange reactions from the children of Holt Elementary School as they watch Kerry Greenwood, junior, perform an anatomical dissection of a cat.

Robert Essah, Lincoln's foreign exchange student, was sponsored by the American Field Service. His home is Accra City, Ghana, in West Africa. While in Kansas City, Robert stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stillwell, parents of Garland Stillwell, Class of '81.

I think that A.F.S is the most pleasant experience that any teenager in the world could have. I came to the U.S. with an entirely different impression of America. I expected to see people walking, talking, thinking and behaving differently. Now I know that people everywhere are basically the same in spite of social, cultural, and language differences.

When I first came to Lincoln I couldn't make out what people were saying when they talked. The saddest thing about my first few days is that I couldn't even let my host mother know what things I liked best. But how could I when I was referring to salad as lettuce and hot dogs as sausages.

Some of the things that fascinate me most about the U.S. are American dances, the Black American accent, the way American girls dress, and fashions like the jerry curl, the Sergio Valentès, and the Jordaches.

The most remarkable changes that America made in me were probably in my self-confidence and in my language. Now I'm going to have another problem of readjusting to the Ghanaian way of speaking when I go back home.

Harder Than It Looks

By Flawn Barber

It is easy for those who see them at pep assemblies to say they could do their job any day. But for those young ladies who make up the Freshman, Junior Varsity and Varsity cheerleading squad it's hard work.

Each squad works long hours after school perfecting their cheers. "We may be tired when it's time for assemblies, but we put a smile on our face and give them our all," said Diana Irby, Junior Varsity cheerleader.

Cheering is not the girls' only talent. Most of them belong to the volleyball, basketball and track teams. Even though they participate in other activities they still believe in giving their all to the student body.

They Were Small But Strong, And Always Quick

by Tracie Gee

Blood curdling screams hit the air while excited fans watched senior halfback Glenn Barnes make a touchdown against the Northeast Vikings. "You're probably wondering why the fans and the team were so excited over Glenn Barnes making a touchdown," said quarterback Robert Shackelford. The fact that Glenn was one of the many first year seniors who played varsity football had a lot to do with it.

That was one of the team's two major weaknesses according to Coach Marvin Misemer. "Lack of depth and experienced players hindered us at times," said Coach Misemer. "We even had to start sophomores and first year seniors."

"I'm very disappointed in the junior class. More of them could have come out for football," said guard Charles Lona.

"The number of people who came out was depressing," said defensive end and center Peter DeSimone. "Those who played had to play harder to make up for the lack."

Despite these problems, the team's spirit couldn't be dampened. Even losses to St. Pius and Paseo, two years league champion, didn't get the team down.

The team really worked more together and harder than we ever had. We just didn't have the breaks," said Peter DeSimone.

"We made a heck of a comeback against Paseo," said Coach Misemer. And after the O'Hara game O'Hara's coach looked at Coach Misemer and said, "The best team didn't win the game."

last 19 years. They didn't win because of tradition; they just got a lucky break.

"We are the best team, inspite of our record. We are number one in rushing offense. That must count for something," said Ernest Griffin.

Jeffery Hurd made All Conference Honorable Mention first team all league defense and offense. Pete DeSimone, defensive end and center, and Ernest Griffin, fullback and safety, made first team all league offense.

Is the Pain Worth the Game?

by Flawn Barber

Sometimes the pain feels good," said quarterback Jason Duckworth.

Now to anyone with a reasonable amount of sense, this reply sounds ridiculous. But to the many young men who go out for football each year it makes sense.

"It's the feeling of self achievement than makes us play," said running back Steve Burton.

Most players describe football as a tremendous high. "There's nothing like knowing you made it through a whole summer of Theo Mitchell drill, and a season of being beaten to a pulp," said Jason.

But the real glory comes for most players when they're told they made either All Conference of Honorable Mention. "That," said Jason, "is when the pain feels good."

Lack of Freshmen Doesn't Hurt Team

A large enthusiastic crowd came out showing their support to the freshman team at the opening game against Southwest Indians. "Everyone was very excited, we had more fans at this game than any of the freshman games, because we played here at Lincoln Academy," said Adriane Towns, freshman.

Coach Bernard Williams was really happy because not many people came out for football. Martez Gardner, running back, said, "More people should have come out for football to show their support for the school."

The freshman team finished with an overall record of four wins and one loss.

New Rules Big Problem

by Gardenia Davis

Changes in the rule system caused the team's biggest problems, especially in serving and spiking. "The weaknesses were trying to get the serves and spikes over the net," said co-captain Latonya Davis.

Lack of players in the last part of the season hindered the team. "There were only six players on the team, so therefore we had to cancel some of our games," said Andrea Hayes.

The team's losses caused bad feelings among the girls, "If we would have stopped downing each other and thought of each other as all equal on the court, then we would have finished pretty well in the league," said captain Regina Bowen.

In spite of problems, the six that remained devoted themselves to the game as much as they could. "We stayed together as a whole even though we had a losing season," said Andrea Hayes.

Dream of State Crushed In Last Seconds

Nobody knew it then, but it was the last game of the season. The opponents were the Chillicothe Hornets. They were playing for quarter finals for state.

There were a lot of ties throughout the game. Third quarter they were down by 12 points.

"It was a very exciting game, but the best team didn't win, because the referees cheated," said Tracie Gee, junior. Most spectators shared the same frustrations. In the last minutes of the game the Tigers lost by a one-point deficit.

In spite of the disappointing loss to Chillicothe, the Tigers finished the season strong. They became Tri-league Champions behind powerful Central and Southeast, finishing 7-1 in league play and 19-9 overall. What a great year the mighty Tigers had!

"We didn't play up to our expectations, but it wasn't all bad, having a small team in height and being the only 3A School in the league," said Jeffrey Hurd.

"Since we were so small we had to play on our strengths, which are quickness and fundamentals."

JV Tigers Are League Champions

By Tonya Moore and Christina Robinson

Our Junior Varsity basketball team did exceptionally well. This certainly seems true, with the Tigers outstanding record of 11-4 and in the league 7-1. In the beginning of the season Coach Brown said, "Our goal is to win the J. V. Championship." All through the season the Tigers were striving for this goal. Through the season the Tigers went undefeated in the League, until they came up against the Southeast Knights. The Knights defeated the Tigers 39-50. But that didn't bring down the team's spirit. They went on the win the 1981-82 J. V. Championship.

The 1981-82 J. V. team has had a tremendous basketball season this year. They have shown their superiority on the court offensively and defensively. There was a new addition to the basketball team - junior Derek Frazier, who was ineligible to play first semester.

Crack of the Bat Opens Season

By Jzmmie Day
and Latrice Scott

"I love working with the baseball team," said Coach Bernard Williams, "but the budget cut has put a big question mark on the baseball program this year. All funds available have come from one dance."

In spite of this bleak outlook, the team began practice for the new season. Eight veteran seniors returned: Lester Beason, second base and pitcher; Ernest Griffin, third base and pitcher; Jeffrey Hurd, outfielder; Vincent Judon, third base and outfielder; Glenn Rice, second base; Anthony Williams, outfielder; Eric Williams, catcher and outfielder; and Leo Wright, first base and shortstop.

"Our players have talent," said Lester Beason. "If our pitches hold up, we'll be unbeatable." Beason led the league last year with 15 stolen bases.

"As long as we have the support of the school," said Terry Railey, junior, "we'll have a pretty good team."

COACH BERNARD WILLIAMS tests the ability of Terry Railey, junior, and Delmar Coppage, junior, to steal as the baseball team gets ready for the season.

ANTHONY WILLIAMS, senior, and Pete DeSimone, senior, strive for that last leg in track practice.

Snow Blues

Bus drivers in Kansas City were the most relieved to see the last snow covered streets melt away. Winter 1981-82 was a rough winter. With temperatures dipping down to new lows in recorded history and snowfalls as deep as 12 inches in one week. Buses were forced to run late and frequently schools had to be closed.

Sharp Shooter

Super Songbirds

All concert choir members were encouraged to audition for District Choir," said Cynthia Hayes. "But everyone didn't try out, just a few." The few that did try out met with some very pleasant results. Out of those that tried out 10 were accepted. They were: Tusha Kimber, Yvette Bell, Sharon Harris, Michelle Wilson, Cynthia Hayes, Diane Irby, John Murray, Brian Jones, Michael Merriwheather, Gary Proctor. These 10 young people were now moving in the fast lane in the musical world. They performed at all musical festivals for the district. Four of them made it to the State Choir.

Perfect, Simply Perfect

Place four young men with sexy bedroom voices in front of some microphones, let them sing and you have "The Perfections". These four young men formed two years ago when they entered a local talent show.

Walter Davidson, Frank Robinson, Mark Robinson, and Damon Bryant make up this dynamic group. With their use of style, natural grace and an abundance of talent it's easy to see why they call themselves "The Perfections".

What Is Hot?

It seemed this year the trend went toward the do it yourself look. Most fashion conscious people (young ladies) were into sewing things themselves. One such person is Latrice Hudson, sophomore. Latrice has been making the majority of her clothes for some time now. "If I paid for half the stuff I wear I'd be broke," said Latrice. "For me creating your own style is definitely "Hot".

2 min. NIGHTMARES

When you have nightmares what does it look like? Are there little Grimlins running around? These are a few of the questions Eric Root wondered about as he photographed his award winning photo "Nightmare"

Eric got his idea by asking his friends the question, "If no one was around to hear it, what would a tree sound like when it fell?" Eric wondered if someone were photographing it would it look like this?

Seeing It Through

She never seemed to run out of energy or ideas. When the going got rough, Flawn Barber was ready to guide the yearbook staff. It at times she seemed a bit bossy, the staff knew it was because that was what an editor had to do to get quality in a yearbook.

Sometimes the strain of all the responsibility would come down on her. "Flawn did the best she could," said Deborah Collins, junior. "She hung in when things were tough."

"CHICO"

"I'm handsome ain't I? Curly - headed ain't I? And bow - legged from the saddle fer God knows how long now, ain't I?" is the not so modest reply from Curly, the cowboy Romeo in "Oklahoma." Curly is being portrayed by Brian "Chico" Jones. This is not the first starring role "Chico" has been placed in. "Chico" portrayed the lead in "Godspell". He also set musical history by being Lincoln's first 2 year all State Choir participant.

"I'm just an ordinary person," said "Chico". But to the many that see him on stage or in competition he is a dynamic tenor that generates a SUPER positive atmosphere. Appearing on the television show Focus On Minority, being a member of the All District Choir, All State Choir and the Gospel Choir Director are but a few of his accomplishments.

Sophomore Starts Varsity

Look who's at the free throw line, Damon Hopkins. Damon is one of 3 sophomores that start on the Varsity Basketball team. Damon has a very interesting set of vital statistics. This 6'3" forward makes an average of 16 points per game.

"I feel comfortable playing Varsity as a sophomore, it prepares me for later years, said Damon.

Armed with this attitude number 32 strikes the floor with a bevy of tricks up his sleeves from simple lay ups to slam dunks. He also carries with him the determination to play the very best he can for himself and his school. "I have to please myself first," said Damon, "or it just won't go right on the floor. Besides, I enjoy playing basketball."

A Festive Day In Panama

Over half the South Campus staff participated in the annual talent show. This Spanish dance is performed by Señora Ledia Souderland and her husband and is based on a dance Mrs. Souderland saw on a trip to Panama. The gown worn by Mrs. Souderland cost approximately $500. It takes her about three hours to weave the pearls into hair.

IN ONE OF his philosophical moods, Brian Riggs said, "Although there is room for improvement, Lincoln is still tops in the districts. The key to learning isn't by hearing what people say, but by listening and taking heed to what is said."

It's All in the Family

FLAWN L. BARBER

What do Latrice and Keith Madden, Bridgett and Ulanda Upshaw, and Robert and Kim Mitchell have in common?

These students all happen to be a family team graduating in '82. Yet Robert and Kim are special. For theirs is a team complete with a father who happens to teach math at Lincoln.

"There are some disadvantages of having your father at school with you," said Kim.

"Especially when you're doing bad in one of your classes and the teacher for some reason feels impelled to tell your father," said Robert.

Both agreed there were advantages too. You could always turn in a parent permission slip the day you got it and of course math homework wasn't a problem.

A SISTERLY PINCH brings brotherly love to a momentary halt, as Kim Mitchell torments her brother Robert.

There was more to Daryl Scott than met the eye. Not only did Daryl have a numerous amount of 'rather' unusual hobbies, he also had various insights where his school was concerned.

"For instance," Daryl said, "I once tried to memorize all the serial numbers and combinations to Master locks. But that inspiration soon left me. I'm into the cube now, I can put it back together in nothing flat."

Where his school was concerned Daryl felt he had best served and complemented Lincoln by being, his own self at his very best at all times.

'Don't Dream It, Be It'

by Flawn L. Barber

"I'm interested in lots and lots of things," said Andrea Dawson. And she was, Andrea had an attention span that covered a wide range of things from church work to The Rocky Horror Picture Show. Yet Andrea felt people had a tendency to stereotype her, seeing her as this horrible holier than thou person.

"And I'm not!" said Andrea, "I'm just an ordinary teenager who thinks there is no crime in enjoying life. My philosophy for life is 'DON'T JUST DREAM IT, BE IT.' "

SOODW Strikes Again!

By Flawn Barber

When it comes to school spirit, the junior class is not to be fooled with. "We may not support all the sports events, but that's not all school spirit is," said Tusha Kimber, junior.

Even though the class's overall spirit was good, they were not really working together as a whole. This lack of participation within the class has been dubbed the SOODW Syndrome (Same Old Ones Do the Work). This syndrome takes its toll on all classes, but the juniors take a double portion.

Why? The juniors have been chosen to plan the prom. What better activity to have only 10 people working on? "There were at one time many doubts about the prom," said James Armster, junior class president. "But we are so determined to pull the prom off with flying colors, we've wiped most doubts away."

Juniors Have Spirit

By Flawn Barber

School spirit - These two words stir up more controversy than a hall freeze during passing period. The reason being not all students share the same definition of exactly what school spirit is. Some feel it just covers going to games while others think it's having pride in your school.

"If we're not sure of what school spirit is, how can we know if we have it?" said Deborah Collins, junior.

"School spirit is not just going to games. It can't be," said Latonya Davis, Miss Junior. "School spirit is taking an active part in all school activities," said Todd Carr, Mr. Junior. "When we as students do that we have a personal pride."

This personal pride carries over into the students over all attitude toward the school.

Mr. and Miss Sophomore Survive Pressure

They walk into the room and everyone seems to speak to them. This is not really surprising because both students have such dynamic personalities it's not hard to see why they were chosen Mr. and Miss Sophomore. To look at these students it's hard to imagine that they are under the same pressure most sophomores experience.

"We have our own share of pressure," said Miguel Warren, Mr. Sophomore.

Most sophomores agreed that it was not the amount of work being given out that caused problems. But trying to handle the work and extra-curricular activities at the same time gave them headaches.

"It all boils down to balancing your in school and out of school life style," said Keisha Baker, Miss Sophomore. "Deciding how much you can give both and still survive."

Freshmen Build School Spirit

By Reshaunda Daniel

"I think I was picked to be freshman president because I have the ability to talk to people and get along with others," said Karen Gilmore, freshman class president. "I also try to make this freshman class proud of their school."

"Some of the students in the class have dropped in grades but the majority are making big improvements," said Karen.

Karen feels that some of the freshmen are not putting their best foot forward in trying to reach their goals, while some are putting all they have into their school work to make the year successful.

Karen believes in school participation. "The freshmen have pretty good school spirit," she said. "They believe in supporting their school."

More Than Just Freshmen

By Flawn Barber

Making the transition from a junior high to a senior high is a big step for many students, a step that has various effects on them. Some feel it is their duty to walk the halls, acting older than they are.

"They're not really that bad," said Alicia Giles, senior. "They're just freshmen."

Yet this year's freshmen are proving they aren't "just" freshmen. "This is the make-it-or-break-it point in our life," said Josepha Lara, Miss Freshman. "Sure, the transition we made was a big one, but it was also a challenge."

"We are breaking the mold that the upper classmen have made for us," said Harold Wallace, Mr. Freshman. "Being a freshman is not just fun and games, being the babies of the school," said Harold. "It's placing a new chapter in the school's history."

LINCOLN ACADEMY

We believe every student should have the opportunity to develop his potential to the fullest. Innovative teaching techniques and smaller classes make possible a unique academy approach.

Lincoln has received federal funds to build a long-lasting foundation. We offer more classes than some private schools, including foreign languages, American Combo, Ethnic Reading, astronomy, photography, modern dance, tennis, and piano.

An extended campus concept takes many students to special classes at Penn Valley Junior College, on expeditions to study local government, and to internship programs with local businesses.

Students at the Academy learn to work together with others of different backgrounds. We have proved voluntary integration works. Convenient bus service is provided.

We have the lowest absence rate and the lowest failure rate of any high school in the Kansas City School District.

IT WORKS.

Tiger's Paw Into Print

When the January issue of the Tiger's Paw appeared, it was the first paper to be published at Lincoln in some time. "I'm proud of the newspaper staff because of all the hard work we did," said Pamela Wark, sophomore.

Meeting deadlines was the hardest task. "The most difficult thing was to get everyone to begin working on stories," said Michael Brown, junior.

The hard work paid off, however. "It's good to have students come up and say what a good job we've done," said Jammie Day, senior.

The Year in Review

By Flawn Barber

When students looked back on their school year they were filled with mixed feelings. They remembered it as a time of sorrow.

"We thought we were going all the way," was the reply from Tujauana Anderson, junior. Tujauana and other anxious fans shared this view as they watched the Varsity basketball team's hopes for state shot down.

Teachers remembered it as a time of oneness for themselves as well as students. Staff members turned out in droves for their talent show. They showed that they were not limited to only writing on the chalk board and arguing with students. Some demonstrated an uncanny expertise in the areas of dance, song, and dramatic interpretation. "Our unity was carried over into a fitness program for the teachers on their free period," said Mrs. Osceola Thomas, typing instructor. "Although, I believe there was more conversing than exercising done."

The Year in Review

It was a time for activity. "I don't honestly believe there was ever a time when this school was absolutely silent," said Mrs. Jane Brown, secretary. How could a building be quiet when clubs and organizations were constantly on the go? Impossible. Organizations got together and decided to give their all to their school. Through such activities as "Clean School Week," "Lincoln on Parade," "Pearlie Victorious," and "Oklahoma" they accomplished their goal.

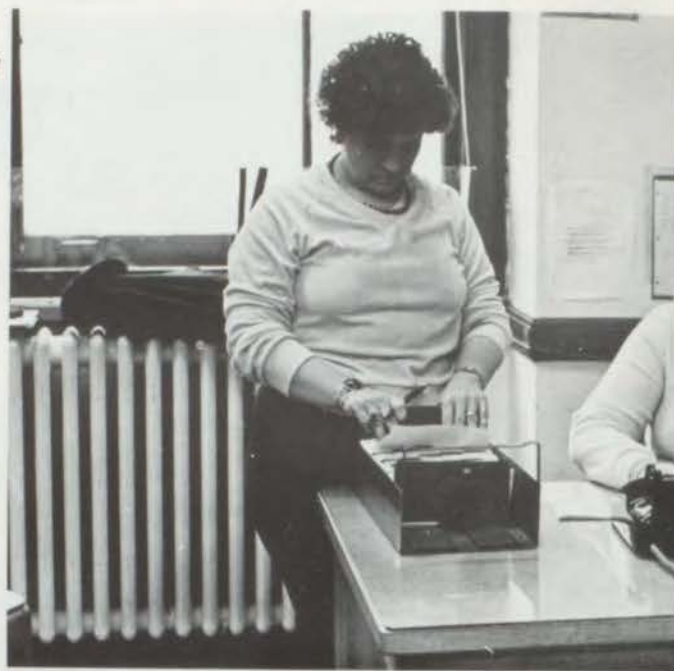

Most remembered the spirit of both basketball and football homecomings. "Homecoming was tres fab, said Carolyn Frazier, junior.

Uppermost in the minds of all was graduation. "We were the first class to graduate from the academy program four years," said Tamika Pearson, senior. "Look out, world!"

Charles Dickens summed it up best in his novel A Tale of Two Cities: "It was the best of times it was the worst of times ... it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us."

SWIFTNESS OF FEET as an important foundation in baseball is stressed by Coach Bernard Williams to seniors Lester Beason and Ernest Griffin.

IT'S A SCANDAL it's an outrage," is the defending his intentions toward Tusha Kimberas Ado Annie, to "Oklahoma."

A WORKING RELATIONSHIPS are demonstrated in the front office by Alicia Giles, senior and Mrs. Jane Brown, secretary.

A COOLING DIP is part of a weekly routine for Sophomores Crystal White and Priscilla Asberry.
