Spirit shines through

Small groups of Tiger fans slowly filled the stands at Bryant Stadium. Everyone huddled together as the cold rain dropped down upon the blue and gold blanket of fans.

By halftime, both the Tigers and the O'Hara Celtics were covered with mud. The Tigers went into the locker room behind 16 to 0.

Afterward, winners and candidates cruised around the stadium track to conclude the crowning ceremonies.

Head Coach Jerry Price gives the Mighty Blues some final words of wisdom.

It was time for the Tigers to make their comeback, but the Celtics added seven more points to their total and now led 23 to 0. It seemed hopeless for the Tigers, who were now looking at their first defeat. As the fourth quarter ended, the Celtics had gained a victory. Coach Jerry Price told the team, "That's okay. We have six more and we can still go to the playoffs."

SPIRIT

The dictionary defines spirit as enthusiasm and loyalty. But what is the True Blue Spirit? This spirit is something from within yourself. Something that makes it a must for attendance at a game. Something that makes you holler and cheer when they win and that makes you sad and cry when they lose. The something that never allows the Tigers to sit down and die. The something that allows you to say "good game," win or lose. This is the spirit of a True Blue Tiger at heart.

Blue and Gold — big and Lincoln South

The Lincoln Academy South Campus is special for many reasons. Lincoln is known for its high academic achievements, a reputation which the student body strives to uphold by acting, thinking, and behaving with pride and commitment, because Lincoln South is the best.

Staff members are here to help us along on the road to our education, and in doing so, become some of the most influential persons in our lives.

And most important are the students. Our accomplishments come from thinking, experimenting, and getting involved, but most of all by being ourselves.

Lincoln with regard to any single quality is a good school, but with all these elements combined, Lincoln Academy is fantastic!

The Great Year Was Here

Any Senior in the Class of 1986 would have been glad to tell you that our long-awaited year was finally here. "I could finally say I was a Senior — my last year," said Judy Hadley, senior. Through years of struggling, striving, and endurance the Seniors finally received their reward of graduation.

The Class of 1986 strived to be the best class ever. We feel we succeeded. Through hall decorating contest, fundraising activities, the prom, a junior trip, and other activities, we've shown our great ability to succeed. "Even though we had different personalities, we always came together when work was to be accomplished," said Orchid Fulbright, senior.

Of course the Class of 1986 also liked to add a little fun to things. A Junior skip day, a Junior picnic, a New Years Eve party,

Halloween rendezvous, along with the Senior skip days, picnic, talent show, and parade are just an idea of the fun events. "We had some of our best times when Halloween was here," said Craig Tyson, senior.

Along with the work and fun came disappointments. The 2.5 GPA standard that went into affect this year left the Senior Class with only 96 students. "We were small in number but great in power," said Melissa Mahone, senior.

Through our academic and social life, the Seniors feel that they are ready for the challenges ahead with success as our destiny.

Band members James Ward, senior, and Marcy Goode, junior, warm up for a marching band performance by playing concert number "Through the Fire." James also this year went to District music festival playing a solo on tuba and trombone.

Marching and Concert Band along with Concert Choir went through many changes this year like the decreasing enrollment in these courses and the arrival of new choir director Dr. Tom Garrison.

Concert Choir made many appearances this year around the Kansas City area such as the tree lighting ceremony at Gates and Son's and Christmas caroling at the Plaza.

The marching band, small in size but big in sound, performed at football games and parades. The Concert Band, after going to district last year, made a return to the festival at William Jewell.

Both groups felt the year was a success. "I feel that I have been able to get more out of the students and that the students were willing to push harder," said Mr. Calvin Whitmore III, band director.

Tigers end season with smiles

The 1985 Varsity football team had one of their best records in a couple of years. They finished the regular season with a 7-3 record. "The main key to our success was plenty of hardwork," said Paul York, junior. Every afternoon at 2:30 players slowly trickled into the lockerroom to begin another rigorous day of practice.

The season was highlighted by senior tailback Aaron Johnson, who rushed for over 1400 yards and was the state's fourth leading rusher. Sophomore tightend Jerome Tolliver was noted for many spectacular catches in clutch situations.

Other eyecatching spectacles were the famed "Boneshaker" defense and the explosive offense which ran like a big, powerful machine. One of the biggest highlights and accomplishments of the team was when the Tigers earned a spot in the Missouri State High School Football playoffs. another noted accomplishment of the team was the 138-0 victory over Northeast High School. This devastating tally of points was the second highest score in football history. This score put the Tigers in the record books as well as on local and national news.

The Tigers weren't expected to finish very well at all this season. "I had predicted them to play .500 ball," said Head Coach Jerry Price. This year's team was sought by many as the Cinderella Team of '85.

"With a lot of hard work, dedication and determination, anyone can be a winner," said Philip Taylor, senior. Many of the players felt that their key to success was hard work and closeness among teammates.

T.M.C.

When most people hear the initials T.M.C. they think of Truman Medical Center, but around the interscholastic league they stand for Tolliver, McClunie, Canada. Many coaches and players believed that they were the awesomest three down linemen in the I. L. All three received all league honors. Whenever there was a tackle to be made you could always count on them. They were responsible for delivering many devastating hits, making opponents think twice about coming their way.

Moving Marathon

Cross Country is on the rise

The most grueling uphill, downhill and across land sport for the Interscholastic league was held at Swope Park and Blue Valley Park, where contestants strove for the gold. Cross Country is one of the world's toughest events for running in high school.

The man who bestowed the knowledge in the practices was Coach Bernard Williams. He made the team feel good, even when in anger. The team stuck together no matter how bad the weather conditions were.

"One of the hardest things was waiting to run and watching people take on the hill," said Cornell Perry junior. They cheered on those who were participating and helped them to cross the finish line. "The best thing the team accomplished this season was working together as a team and having school members place," said Steve Newman, junior.

The team had a few medals given to Varsity; Cornell Perry, Steven Newman, Moses Jones. JV; Jerome Allen, Alonzo Hill. Freshmen; Justin Duren.

The only mix up at a meet occurred where Jerome Allen, sophomore, didn't receive a medal due to the cause of displacement by judges. They apologized and said he would have his medal in within a few days. That turned into 2 1/2 months.

Other than that dispute, the team was satisfied. "I will remember this year as a battle of the fittest," said Moses Jones, junior, who ran with injuries in several meets. This year was a success toward a new sport challenged by all, who strove for the gold and met the "Agony of the Green Monster."

Moses Jones

Justin Duren, freshman, is congratulated by Coach Bernard Williams for coming in first place in the freshman division.

Striving through the final mile were sophomores Brian Payton, Kenny Zollar and Larry Lee.

Rochelle DePriest, No. 33, watches Dana Booker, No. 15, jump for the ball.

A late start handicapped the volleyball team this year. With no coach or practice the team was thrown into the season.

The girls and new coach, Mr. Herbert Thompson, worked together to rebuild and gain confidence. Coach and team members felt the team made progress. "I look from a rebuilding year to a more experienced and talented team," said Lisa Bond, junior.

"The team had a very good season," said Coach Thompson, "and next year we should win a few more games."

He also accomplished a lot this year getting to know the team members while they overcame the big problems they faced. The team believed next year holds a great deal of promise for the team.

"IT APPEARS THAT THERE REALLY IS A PROBLEM"

Lincoln South won national recognition for its Energy Education Program in 1985. The students have continued the task of finding ways to conserve energy for the future during this school year. The project involved all students and all teachers. It has increased everyone's awareness of the need to use knowledge from many fields to solve present and future problems.

Activities culminated in an Energy-Go-Round on March 26. Students found energy the subject of every classroom activity on that day. An energy costume contest brought out unique and creative talents.

Physical Education

Physical education plays an important role at Lincoln Academy South. Through intramural activities students develop strong bodies, competitive skills, and a sense of sportsmanship and fair play. Approximately seventy-five students twice a week were served by the intramural programs this year in basketball, softball, and swimming.

Practical Arts

Lincoln Academy South offers the only junior high level typing course in the school district. Those who excel in Typing 1 have the opportunity to enroll in an advanced typing course. Typing is extremely popular with students interested in writing and computing. Many of our students testing at pre-college levels need to learn touch typing in order to develop more rapidly with regard to other research and presentation skills.

Industrial arts and home economics classes are offered to provide students with skills needed for daily living in a complex world where work and home life require delicate balance. These courses introduce students to a wide range of personal choices that await them as they continue to grow into adulthood.

There are a number of opportunities for students to develop their musical abilities at Lincoln Academy South.

The Lincoln Academy String Orchestra is composed of students from both North and South Campuses and is the principal performing instrumental group for the South Campus. Membership is at the discretion of the instructor. Most of the members have four to five years of previous musical experience.

The Performing Band also provides students with the opportunity to develop musical skills while learning to perform in an ensemble.

Members of the yearbook staff were selected from a group of students who had filled out applications, submitted essays, and who had been further screened according to evaluations by their teachers as to their classroom performances, comparisons of scores on standardized tests, and grades on report cards.

This issue is dedicated to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., an American hero who led our nation on its march toward freedom, justice, equality, and self-reliance.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was a hero to some and a savior to many. He stood up for what he believed in and thought was right, but did so without harming or stepping on anyone else's rights. He stood up by making powerful sermons and speeches. He spoke at churches to let people know what he

The yearbook class also published the LINCOLN SOUTH ARTS FORUM, a journal established for the purpose of encouraging student expression. Topics agreed upon by the students were examined in depth, through a process of writing, critiquing, and revising. Topics included assertiveness, Dr. Martin L. King, Jr., giving and receiving criticism, and fitting in.

Special thanks for special efforts in helping to complete our task goes to Ms. Kelly, Ms. Simon, Ms. Herrin, Ms. Hughes, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Hill, Ms. Winn, and Ms. James.

OUR LEADERS

Lincoln Academy South Dean, Ms. Linda Herrin, is a strong but flexible administrator whose tenure at Lincoln has witnessed increased student achievement in test scores and expanded educational programs for students.

Mr. William Brooks, Asst. Dean, ably coordinates the complex schedules that assure students of Lincoln South a rich mixture of exciting courses.

Mr. Richard Hill, Asst. Dean, maintains the strict discipline at the Academy which allows learning to flourish. He also coordinates the busing which brings Lincoln its quality student body.

Ms. Karin Winn, Coordinator of Instruction, is the newest addition to the Lincoln South Administration. Ms. Winn has the challenging job of coordinating the 7:00 a.m. in-service enrichment sessions for the teachers as well as encouraging creative teaching techniques to enhance Lincoln's academic challenge to students.

Behind Dean Linda Herrin, seated, are Mr. Bill Brooks, Asst. Dean, Ms. Karin Winn, Coordinator of Curriculum, and Mr. Richard Hill, Asst. Dean.

Here to Help

Autobiographies of famous or successful persons frequently identify a teacher as the spark that ignited their interest in a particular field of study or the guiding hand that led them away from mischief or the inspirational mentor whose enthusiasm and patience caused them to believe in their own talents and abilities. Long after students have forgotten the definition of a quadrilateral, they remember these teachers. Lincoln Academy South is blessed with an abundance of such dedicated and outstanding teachers.

Lincoln South could not function without all the "behind the scenes" help from the secretarial, cafeteria, and custodial staff. The hot lunches, clean halls, and timely reporting of crucial information do not happen magically although the quiet efficiency of our staff sometimes causes us to take them for granted.
