Queen Reigns

On October 7, at the home of Dr. & Mrs. Tom Fritzlen, parents of senior Tom Fritzlen, there was a party for seniors and their dates. That night the queen candidates had the opportunity to meet members of the senior class. Candidates & their escorts included Kathy Welsh escorted by Dave Dunn, Martha Neenan by John Franke, Patti Russell by Dan Geha, Nancy Lombardino by Joe Glynn, Sue Coppinger by Jim Jantsch, Brigid Neville by Tim Johnson, Anne Feierabend by Jim Kelly, Laurie Youngblood by Kevin Kruse, Kim Klein by J. J. Mirabile, Paula Chapell by Herman Ransom, Lisa Marietti by Jerry Rauschelbach, Lorie Orpin by Greg Stubbers, Katie O'Connel by John Van Gilder, and Patty Zahner by Steve Goodwin.

The Homecoming Dance was held Saturday night in the school gym, which was decorated to reflect the theme of "Everything's Up to Date in Kansas City." The decorations set the tone for the dance, which featured the band Backtalk. At 9:30, Sue Coppinger from St. Teresa's Academy was crowned Queen of the 1979 Rockhurst Homecoming.

- 1) Steve McGurren, Mike McQuillen, and dates strike a pose in the quadrangle at the Homecoming Dance.
- 2) Joe Martin and his date dance the night away.
- 3) The first-place senior float lies in solitude.

Students Prepare for Homecoming

On Sept. 11, Student Council chose as the '79 Homecoming theme "Everything is up to date in Kansas City." After the theme was announced, student officers and their committees started putting together theme ideas for their float, and the dance committee began construction of the dance.

The seniors recreated a graveyard scene with a dead Southeast Knight as a corpse and the slogan "The End of the K. C. Knight Life." This float was built at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fern, parents of Mike Fern. The juniors constructed their Concorde jet streaking through the "Heart of America" at Mr. and Mrs. Rollo Faubion's, parents of Dan Faubion.

Mr. and Mrs. James Grier, parents of John Grier, donated their home for the sophomore construction site. Their float displayed a Hawklet player slaying a Knight on the walkways of Loose Park. The Frosh constructed a miniature Truman Sports Complex at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Crippen, parents of Todd Crippen.

On Friday morning before school, a faculty committee of Mr. Mike Edler, chairman, Mr. Rick Staihr, Mr. Doug Bruce, Mr. Ned Carlin, and Mr. Bill Munninghof voted on the floats, basing their evaluations on 1) construction 2) originality and 3) appropriateness to the theme. Helping these faculty members were students John Geisel, Greg Krissek, and Jeff Waechter.

While students were busy with the float construction, the dance committee members, Steve Dorie, Ken Behrmann, Paul Bradley, Mike Hunter, Jim Jantsch, J. A. Keller, John Lewis, Paul Thompson, Vince O'Flaherty, Tom Fritzlen, John Atchity, Steve Schleicher, Barney Barry, and James Grimaldi created the atmosphere for the dance. They used scenes from around the city to set the mood for "K.C. night life."

- 1) Pat Monks occupies himself with dance decorations.
- 2) Seniors flaunt their float victory before the juniors.
- 3) "I'm cool and I know it."
- 4) Jeff Mincher ogles at pictures of the Homecoming Queen candidates.
- 5) "Jerry, why are all the boys staring at me?"
- 6) Mr. Ruby supervises junior float construction.

Friday Launches Homecoming '79

This year everything was up to date in Kansas City, especially the annual fall extravaganza—Rockhurst's Homecoming.

The day started early with the class floats' arrival in the front circle. A faculty committee selected the winner, which was announced later at the pep rally immediately following classes. The rally began with the introduction of the Homecoming Queen finalists. The candidates included Sue Coppinger, escorted by Jim Jantsch, Lisa Marietti, escorted by Jerry Rauschelbach, Nancy Lombardino, escorted by Joe Glynn, Brigid Neville, escorted by Tim Johnson, and Kathy Welsh escorted by David Dunn. Then John Garlich, this year's guest speaker, inspired the crowd with a talk about the importance of this year's Homecoming.

After John's speech and following a suspenseful moment of silence, the seniors were named as the float contest winners.

The parade, which started soon after the pep rally, journeyed from Rockhurst to Notre Dame de Sion and to St. Theresa's Academy.

Homecoming Day ended with the long-awaited football game pitting Rockhurst against Southeast. Alex Staab led the offensive assault with 141 yards rushing. Quarterback Jerry Rauschelbach completed over 30% of his passes to help the Hawklets take a 24-0 lead at halftime. The defense, led by linebacker Tim Johnson, was the key force behind the Rockhurst attack. Southeast was held to 14 total yards offense, the defense's best game of the season. Rockhurst defeated Southeast 31-0.

Class of '83 Welcomed

The class of '83 was quickly integrated into the Rockhurst community the week of Sept. 4-8. This Freshman Welcome Week consisted of activities aimed at better orientating the newcomers.

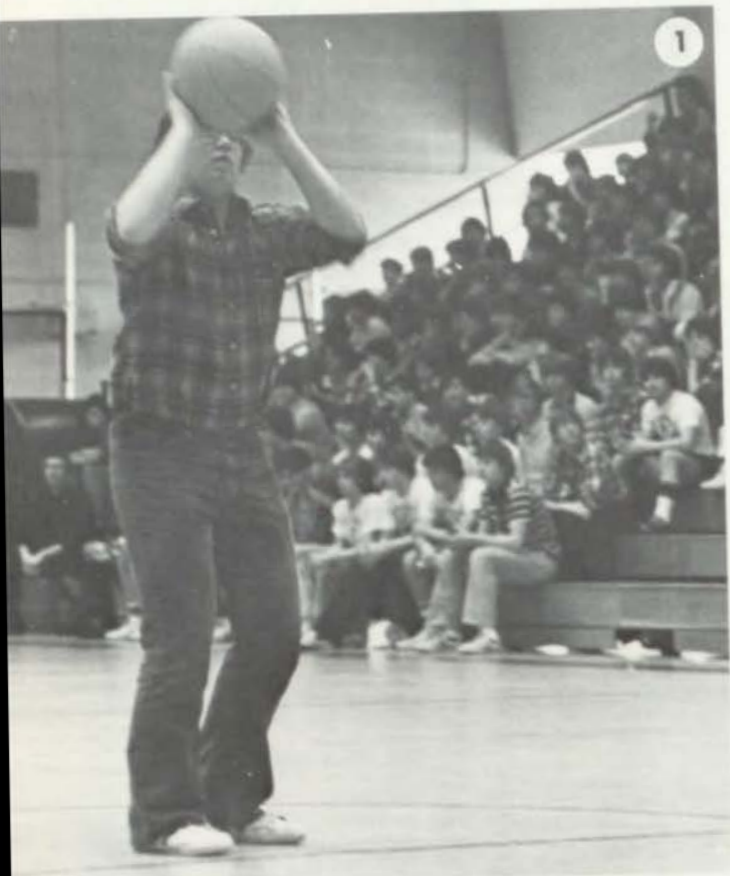

Freshman were introduced to their big brothers on Tuesday, Sept. 4, with a pre-school donut breakfast in the cafeteria. The following night both big and little brothers participated in a rec-night, which consisted of dinner and athletic competition.

Thursday the freshmen and seniors were encouraged to participate in "Old Crony day" where everybody dressed in the 30's-40's styled clothing.

The week ended with a Big Brother football game, when seniors supplied rides for their little brothers to the varsity football game Friday night.

- 1) What happened to the ball?
- 2) A freshman on the run.

Many Participate in Mission Week Activities

In keeping with a year of changes in the school's activities, the Mission: Possible Week was modified in meaning and schedule. Chris Pinné, Director of Student Activities, said, "We wanted to get away from rewarding people for being Christians. The purpose of Mission: Possible Week is not only to make money, but also to help others in need."

With this idea in mind, the week's schedule was altered to emphasize more daytime events, giving students an opportunity to see more of the competitive events as an entire group. No admission was charged at the only nighttime event, the volleyball game, but instead students stood at the gym entrances asking for a contribution for Honduras. The overall emphasis during the week was not on the old race by the four classes to see who could raise the most money and thus receive those precious spirit points, but on how many students in a class participated during the week's activities.

Another major change was the fact that three students went to Honduras over the Easter holidays instead of the two who have traditionally gone in past years. Mr. Pinne said this change was made partly because of the high quality of the essays students wrote explaining why they wanted to go see the progress made in the impoverished country.

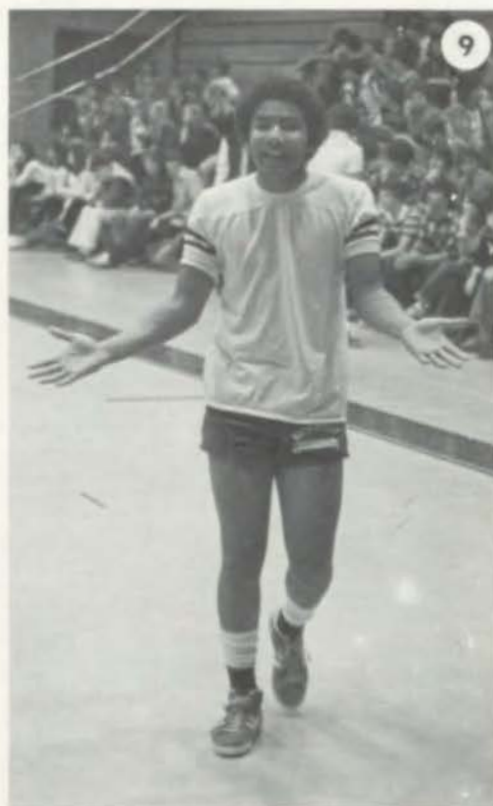

- 1) The man with the golden touch.
- 2) Meeting of the minds.
- 3) "Buddy" Whittaker waits for fame to strike.
- 4) Father Poirier sings at Mission Mass.
- 5) The choir entertains the multitudes.
- 6) "Boom" Munninghoff saves the faculty again.
- 7) The "Fruit-of-the-Saloon" Gang rides in.

Students Make Missions Possible

Freshman Joe Hodes and sophomores Adam Bruns and Richard Poskin were the ambassadors chosen to report on the progress made in the tiny impoverished South American country from the money raised in the school throughout the year.

Monday began the week with an all-school mass. Father Jarrell Wade, a Jesuit priest living in Honduras, came to school to share thoughts about living in a country such as Honduras where many people live in extreme poverty. Tuesday was class competition, which included contests in free-throw basketball, in obstacle-course racing against the clock on a scooter, in armwrestling, and in tug-of-war between the four classes. The seniors took first place, with the sophomores in second. In Tuesday night's student-faculty volleyball game, Sion and Saint Theresa students joined in the activities.

On Wednesday, the student-faculty basketball game brought a surprise, with the students winning for the first time, 35-17. The revamped Hunger Walk was Thursday, with the number of walkers rather than sponsors being emphasized. Friday wrapped up the week with the talent show. Again, the number of entertainers contributing rather than the stress on the most-talented was the theme.

- 1) DeLuna surveys the situation carefully.
- 2) "Wouldn't I make a lovely ballerina?"
- 3) Howard sends home a winner.
- 4) "Not with my hair unteased!"
- 5) The juniors struggle against the tide.
- 6) Seniors enjoy yet another victory.
- 7) "You want to go home now?"
- 8) Seniors pose for "Wide World of Sports" camera.
- 9) "The Greatest" pauses to be immortalized.
- 10) Hey, only two freshmen can fit into a trashcan.

Sale-O Grosses 75,000 Despite Weather

Despite a heavy snowfall on the weekend of February 7, 8, 9 and 10, Sale-O-Rama grossed over $75,000.

Donors were invited to shop before the general crowds on Thursday. But the number of shoppers was smaller than in the previous years because of the five-to-seven inches of snow which covered Kansas City on Thursday. The donor's sale grossed $15,000.

On Friday, thanks to quick snow removal the night before, sales picked up again. A tremendous throng showed up for Saturday's sale. Close to $20,000 was collected before Sale-O closed at 5:00 p.m. Sunday's half-price sale, advertised for the first time on local radio, made over $13,000.

Several booths were eliminated to provide more space for existing sections and booths. The "Green Thumb" booth was discontinued to make more room for televisions and stereos. Every television was sold this year at full price. Rock-O-Rama cups designed especially for Rockhurst shoppers and Alumni were sold in the booth which replaced last year's "Arts and Crafts" display.

The many donations and workers helped to make Sale-O-Rama a great success. The donations were numerous and the workers "fantastic," according to Mrs. Barbara Decker, chairperson of the Sale.

- 1) Mrs. Steinbacher and Mrs. Decker, in the final stage of delirium, consult Sally Sale-O.
- 2) The Rockhurst success story.
- 3) "I hope he doesn't buy that mug."
- 4) Fr. Purcelli, SJ, checks his antiques.
- 5) "Does that spatula come in chartreuse?"
- 6) Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. VonMeyerhauser take a break.

School Cashes in on Auction

Cache '80, one of the many successful fund-raising events held throughout the school year, opened its doors on Saturday, March 29, 1980, from 6:30 P.M. in the school gym, netting over $45,000.

As in past years, the Cache '80 auction was organized primarily by the Fathers' Club and the office of the President. This year, Mrs. Jean Aher, Cache secretary, worked with the Fathers' Club as an administrative assistant.

Close to 600 bidders attended the formal sit-down dinner, which was prepared by the Food Service, Inc., at a cost of $10 per person.

After dinner, Mr. DeWees and two other professional auctioneers, along with five members of the Fathers' Club, opened the bidding at the oral auction, declaring the minimum value established for each item by that item's donor. Among the items was George Brett's autographed third base, which sold for $170. The auction also featured five used cars, including a 1936 Dodge, which sold for $1,900.

By far, the most profitable aspect of the Cache '80 event was the money jar passed around by Rev. Jack Hunthausen, S.J. Contributions to the jar totaled $2,600.

Meanwhile, a silent auction was held in the Gym, where people went to examine items of interest and submit bids in writing.

When all the figures were in, the silent auction netted $14,000 and the oral auction netted $31,000. The total, $45,000, was $5,000 less than last year's total and $15,000 less than the expected goal of $60,000.

- 1) Anybody for a dip?
- 2) The Tyrer's and the Shore's overwhelmed with the cuisine.
- 3) "That fish is just too much."
- 4) Mr. Merker overjoyed with his wife's latest purchase.
- 5) Scott Wedman down to his last pair of shoes.
- 6) Bob Tamasi pleads for more food.
- 7) Mrs. Morman wonders what she just ate.

Beautiful Weather Graces Carnival Profits

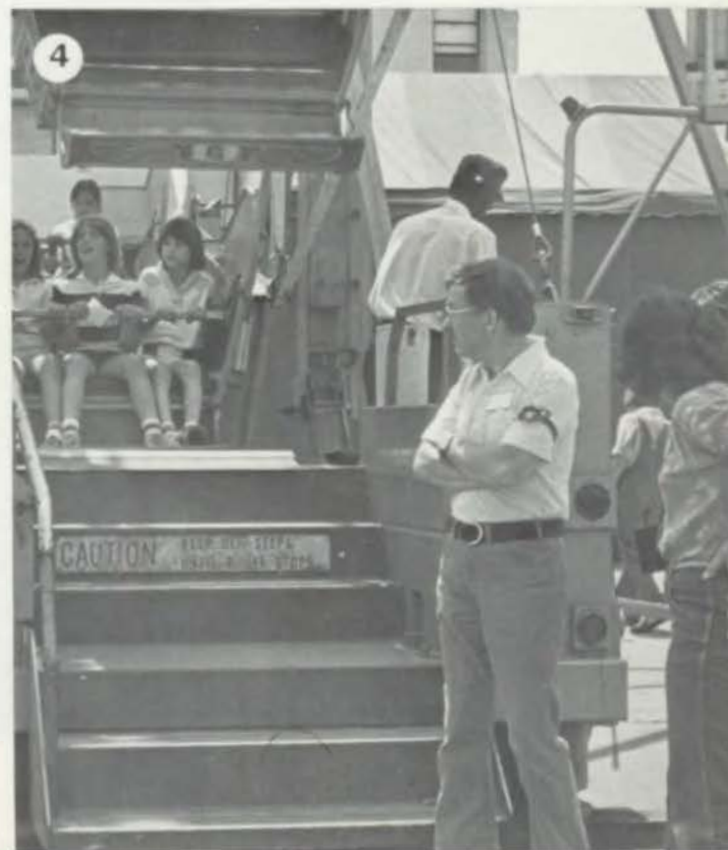

Students canvassed neighborhoods, stationed themselves at shopping centers and churches, called friends, and contacted relatives in an effort to sell tickets to the 14th annual Rockhurst Carnival, held May 2,3,4. These ambitious salesmanship tactics resulted in a $6,000 increase in pre-sales. This, coupled with perfect carnival weather, helped vault net profits to a record total of about $22,000, $6000 more than the 1979 carnival total.

Mr. Ed McGurren, carnival chairman, acknowledged that even if the weather had been unpleasant the Fathers' Club was ensured a success because of excellent ticket pre-sales. "This year the students did a better job selling tickets. It was the students who sold their quota that made the carnival so successful", emphasized Mr. McGurren.

Ticket sales were on the Spirit Contest by request of the administration. The fact that sales were on the Spirit Contest may have helped the carnival to surpass its 20%-increase goal by nearly $3,000. The juniors sold the most tickets, clinching first place in the Spirit Contest.

Freshman Anthony Lulo sold $450 worth of tickets, meriting the best-salesmen ranking and winning $150 and a free pass to all rides and games at the carnival.

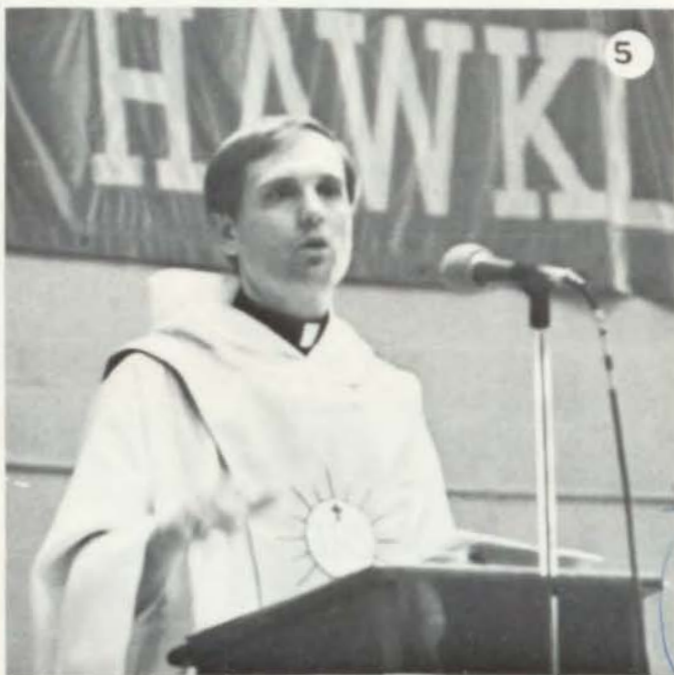

- 1) "You look like another Staubach to me, kid."
- 2) "He rides tall."
- 3) "I see a Bird struggling to fly out of you."
- 4) A volunteer father watches over his turf.
- 5) Look at that man's form.
- 6) Fathers plan positions throughout the carnival.
- 7) "It's a living."

Major Changes Made In Pastoral Program

The 1979-1980 pastoral program saw many changes. Perhaps the most important change was the discontinuation of ID days, which had occurred once every month in the preceding year. Fr. Bob Poirier, S.J., coordinator of the Pastoral Committee, said the mixed response to the discussions and topics at the ID days was the reason for their discontinuance. Instead, all-school masses were offered once or twice every month. Special masses were held for Paul Bagby, when Fr. Pilgram took his final vows, and when Fr. Hunthausen was inaugurated as President.

- 1) Seniors gather last thoughts before retreat.
- 2) The Passion story is recreated.
- 3) Barney catches forty winks after an exhausting day.
- 4) Mass is given to students.
- 5) Father Heinsz makes a particular point.
- 6) Pat reads a selection at retreat.
- 7) "Calling cosmic wonderlands beyond."

Retreat Program Expanded for Students

The retreat program was expanded this year, as well. The entire freshman class held an overnight retreat at Rockhurst in February to familiarize themselves with what an education at a Jesuit institution meant. The sophomore class held a "Day of Recollection" in March at Savior of the World in Liberty and one in April at Camp Western Hills in Odessa. The juniors held a two-day retreat in May at Savior of the World, and the seniors made periodic retreats in small groups.

The parents of Rockhurst students were given a chance to participate more fully in the program, too. In the fall and again during Lent, special discussions on moral development and the Gospels were offered interested adults.

- 1) Edler's angels practice for upcoming Mass.
- 2) A choir member takes a Keebler break.
- 3) The Jesuits open Mass.
- 4) Paul helps out cheerfully.
- 5) What's she doing here, anyway?
- 6) Sophomores prepare a cross for Passion Story.
- 7) Father Byrne gives his blessing.
- 8) A senior reads at Mass.

Fall Plays Open Season

On October 5, 6, and 8, the Rockhurst Cuesters, under the direction of Mr. Stark, presented two one-act comedies, "Cast Up by the Sea" and "God."

In "Cast Up by the Sea," John Hastings and Scott Starkey played Captain Amos Foredeck and his wife Miranda. Mark Scovill embodies their amply endowed daughter Penelope. Arnold the orphan boarder was portrayed by Marvin Webb, while the melodrama's villain was Thomas T. Trouble, played by Todd Crippin. With the help of Sam Gromowsky as Sidney Scvm, Tom plots to marry Penelope after disposing of her true love, Jeffrey Jaggars (sigh), portrayed by Michael Franklin. But Jaggars saves the day and Trouble is escorted to prison by Constable Checkerboard (Terry Shea).

"God" is the story of a second-rate playwright and a has-been actor (Tim E. Johnson and Brian Van Buskirk respectively). Tim's girlfriend is promiscuous Doris Smircase, and Andrea Maleta portrayed Blanche Dubois. Jeff Waechter, as Trichinosis, saves the playwright by supplying a Edeus ex machina, complete with Jabin Funk as Zeus. Finally, Mike McGonigle, the wretched slave Diabetes, is offered freedom if he will undertake a perilous mission. He struggles with the Fates and the effeminate King Oedipus, played by Tom Schroer. But at the climax, the machine breaks down and God dies.

- 1) "Oh, kill me, you thilly fool!"
- 2) "Oh, Zeus, great god, we are confused and impotent."
- 3) Lon, John, and Todd bare all to exhibit the newest fashions from Greece.
- 4) Arnold sweep away the scene.
- 5) Todd and Mark show John the way to the bathroom.
- 6) Tim "Valentino" Johnson charms Kimme ♀ to rigor mortis.
- 7) "Hey Jeff, look at the blonde in the third row with the big . . ."

Cuesters Present First Winter Musical

Mr. Jerome Stark and the Cuesters presented Rockhurst's first winter musical, The Fantasticks, in the cafeteria, December 13, 14, and 15. The play is a parable of love with a boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl, boy-wins-girl back plot.

Jeff Waechter and Tracy Iverson portrayed the lovers, Matt and Luisa, attracted to one another because of the efforts of their fathers, played by Duane Sharp and Brian Van Buskirk, who conspired to bring their children together by building a wall between their yards.

Then to reconcile the two families, the fathers hired El Gallo (Herman Ransom), a pair of bumbling "actors" (Tim E. Johnson and Chris Lanter), and a mute, Todd Crippen, who were to abduct Luisa and then lose her in a fight with Matt.

Soon, however, Matt and Luisa felt frustrated in their "love," and parted to go their own ways in the world. In the end, they returned, having learned mature love through their experience.

The musicians, under the direction of Mr. Kit Kubis, included Mike Birket, Joe Salvato, and Mark Lomax. Doug Juergensen, Mile McGonigle, Blair Bieser, Ken Behrmann, Steve Dorei, Pat Monks, Craig Brady, and Tom Schroer managed the stage, lights, and sound.

- 1) "Oh Todd, your black tights turn me on!"
- 2) "My truss runneth over."
- 3) Duane Sharp, Tracy Iverson, Jeff Waechter, and Brian Van Buskirk strike a pose.
- 4) "Try to remember..."
- 5) "You mean that's how babies are made!?"
- 6) Gee, Brian, who looks like an "ass" now?
- 6) Tim scans the audience for an easy date.

Cuesters Revisit Dogpatch, U.S.A. for Musical

It was a high-kicking, freewheeling time for all as the Rockhurst Cuesters presented "Lil Abner," the musical version of Al Capp's famed comic strip, at the Sedgwick Theater on Rockhurst College campus, March 20, 21, and 23. The musical dealt with the adventures of a lovable, but dumb hillbilly, Lil Abner, his long-suffering gal Daisy, his salty Mammy Yokum and wise Pappy Yokum, and the rest of the dirty-but-happy citizens of Dogpatch. The fast-paced plot was enhanced by some superbly witty songs.

The musical told of Lil Abner, played by Jim Russell, being wooed by both the government and Daisy. The government wanted Abner's fantastic tonic, which could turn ugly, whimpy losers into muscular bronze hunks. If he sold the tonic, it would mean all the riches in the world—including Daisy Mae, who hoped to convince honest Abner to allow her to snare him on Sadie Hawkin's Day, the traditional footrace for forced matrimony between any reluctant bachelor Dogpatch man and any marriage-hungry, fleet-footed Dogpatch girl who can catch her prey. However, a sinister third party interrupts the happiness. A greedy diabolical billionaire, General Bullmoose, and his voluptuous assistant, Passionata Von Climax, have other plans for the tonic. Together they plot to use the alluring Passionata and the dastardly magical eye of Evil Eye Fleegle to trap naive Abner into choosing Passionata on the big day.

- 1) The country's in the very best of hands.
- 2) "Progress is the root of all evil."
- 3) "I wish I had a man, not a floor."
- 4) Dave Stanfield presently rotting from the inside out suddenly realizes he has an arrow through his head.
- 5) The three stooges drool over Miss January.
- 6) "But Bullsey, what if I mess up?"
- 7) Mike overwhelms the audience.
- 8) Jim sits on a tack.
- 9) Pappy reels off another lascivious limerick.

- 1) Brady prepares for the house to fall.
- 2) Conner does it the hard way.
- 3) Chorus girls play buck-buck.
- 4) Look what came out of the swamp!
- 5) "Oh damn, the stage has moved!"
- 6) Mayor enjoys a "Dog" nap.
- 7) "I've ripped my pants."
- 8) The forgettable foursome.
- 9) Jim gets sick on stage.
- 10) Tim Johnson eyeballs the merchandise.
- 11) Daisy and Abner look to the promised land.

Hillbillies Come to Life in "Lil Abner"

The plot works and Abner finds himself in the hands of Bullmoose, but the Dogpatchers fight back to regain their beloved Abner; led by the wheeling-dealing, conman-preacher, Marryin' Sam, all of Dogpatch descends on Washington to beat the city at its own crooked game and rescue Abner.

The performers' characterizations were sharp and spirited. As Abner, Russell made an excellent "good ole boy" torn between Dogpatch and the glamour of Washington. Herman Ransom combined a strong voice with a commanding performance to make the ultimate conman-preacher, Marryin' Sam. Kim Johnson and Bill Wiedeman played the appropriately cranky but loving parents of Abner, Mammy and Pappy Yokum, and Gretchen Longhafer made Daisy Mae an appealingly faithful and long-suffering girlfriend. The supporting cast also boasted several standout performances. Chris Lanter made a hilarious Nixonesque billionaire, General Bullmoose, and Connie Coyne was a nicely sensual Passionata. The rest of the cast played Dogpatch residents, Washington bureaucrats, and assorted oddballs with vitality and touches of lunacy.

Debaters Prove Forensic Skills at Rockhurst Tournament

- 1) Mike Woods with Steve Butler, former Rockhurst debater and judge at the tournament.
- 2) Paul congratulates a winner.
- 3) Debaters in action.
- 4) "I'll take my trophy and run before they change their minds."
- 5) Debate coach Don Ramsey seeing to the judges' needs.

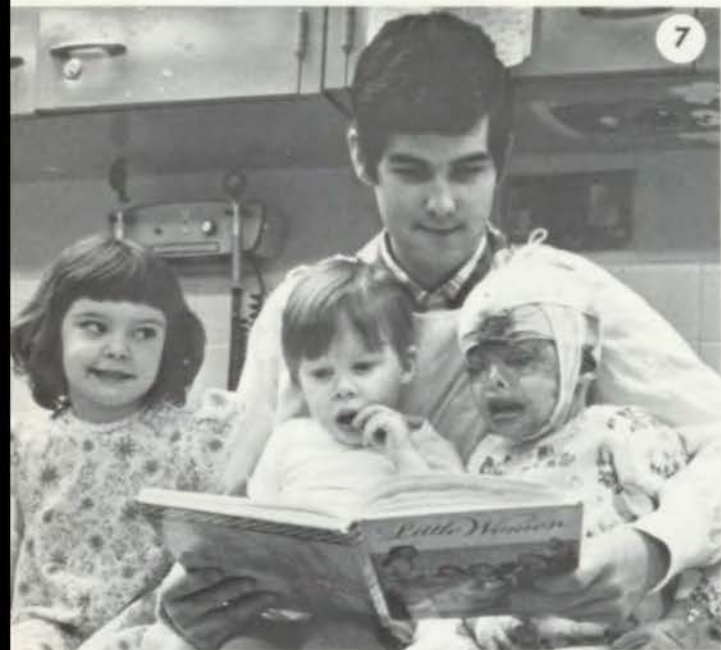

Rockhurst's annual Speech and Debate Tournament once again proved to be an important inter-scholastic event made possible by the combination of many talents. For the two days of October 26 and 27th, the speech and debate squad set aside its travels and preparations for competition and devoted its energies to the hosting of a major invitational debate tournament. Students on the debate team spent hours scheduling, providing judges, preparing materials, and attending to countless other tasks essential to the success of the tournament.

Twenty schools from four states, fielding over sixty debate teams, participated in the tournament. The tournament was truly a cooperative effort, involving students as tournament workers and faculty, parents, and alumni as judges. The tournament's quality attracted the best local schools, as well as teams from cities as distant as Dallas, Texas. The tournament provided many enjoyable experiences not only to those who came as Rockhurst's guests but also to the students, parents, and teachers whose work made it possible.

- 1) Maurer's all tied up.
- 2) Hunter gets no respect.
- 3) Stillely transports mother and child to St. Luke's Hospital.

- 7) Steve McCurren reads to a captive audience at the burns unit at Children's Mercy Hospital.
- 8) "I think it's the pig's move."

Senior Help Less Fortunate

Seniors logged at least 90 hours each at various projects between March 17 and April 4.

The Senior Projects planning committee's goals included providing the seniors with opportunities to work in unfamiliar surroundings and with people they hadn't known before and enabling them to help people less fortunate than they.

Before the project period, each senior made a selection for his project site; most projects were at institutions for the disadvantaged. These sites included schools for the blind, retarded, and physically handicapped, nursing homes, and clinics for the poor.

Although most of the projects selected were nearby, ten seniors selected out-of-town projects for the three weeks.

On the Friday before projects began, the school sent off the seniors with a prayer service. During the project, the seniors and their advisors held two meetings to discuss their work at their projects.

The planning committee consisted of Mr. Peppino Lynas, chairman; Mrs. Maridella Andrews, Darrell Brooks, Mr. Tim Godfrey, S.J., James Grimaldi, Mike Fern, Mike Hunter, Rev. Henry Kennington, S.J., John Lewis, Bill Metzler, Mr. Rick Staihr, Tim Summers, and Paul Whitmore.

Seniors End Their Stay at Rockhurst

The seniors' four years at Rockhurst culminated with Prom (May 9) and Graduation (May 20). Many seniors and their dates attended the prom held at Arrowhead Inn. The J.T. Cook Band entertained the crowd until midnight, when the scene shifted to King Louis East for After-prom. About half the couples attended the after-prom, which in past years had been held at King Louis West, while other couples rented hotel rooms and arranged their own after-prom.

The seniors' years at Rockhurst ended in graduation night at the Music Hall in the Municipal Auditorium. The ceremony, emceed by Bill Barbieri, began with a speech by Mike Hunter. Then a group composed of Herman Ransom, Jeff Behan, John Haynes, Glen Gray and freshman Brian Whittaker performed three numbers in "Forever Friends," written by Herman for the senior class.

The diplomas were conferred by President Jack Hunthausen, S.J, as principal Paul C. Pilgram, S.J., announced the candidates. Finally, Bishop John J. Sullivan congratulated the graduates and told a few anecdotes from his past experiences with Rockhurst.

Mr. Harold "Pete" Peterson, who has taught thirty years at Rockhurst, and Fr. Frank Fahey, S.J., who is retiring after fifty years of service to the school, were honored along with the graduates at the ceremonies.

Council Prevails

Stuco, under the direction of Mr. Chris Pinné, was involved with many activities during the past year. Before the year began, seniors Mike Hunter and John Lewis, attended a leadership camp at McKendree College in Lebanon, Illinois, in late June in order to prepare for the coming year.

At the beginning of the year, a new format for the Spirit Contest was organized. During the year Stuco was involved in many activities, such as Freshman Welcome Week, Homecoming Parade and dance, the canned food drive, and Mission Possible Week, which also was reorganized in order to put more emphasis on the Honduran Missions.

The first-semester officers included seniors Jim Gorman and Henry Massman, juniors Pat FitzGerald and Greg Reintjes, and sophomores Mike Novosel and Andy Oldham.

The second semester officers included seniors Jim Gorman and John Hense, juniors Greg Reintjes and Richard Poskin, sophomores Joe Gravino and Tim Thompson, and freshmen Jim Cosgrove and Pat Williams.

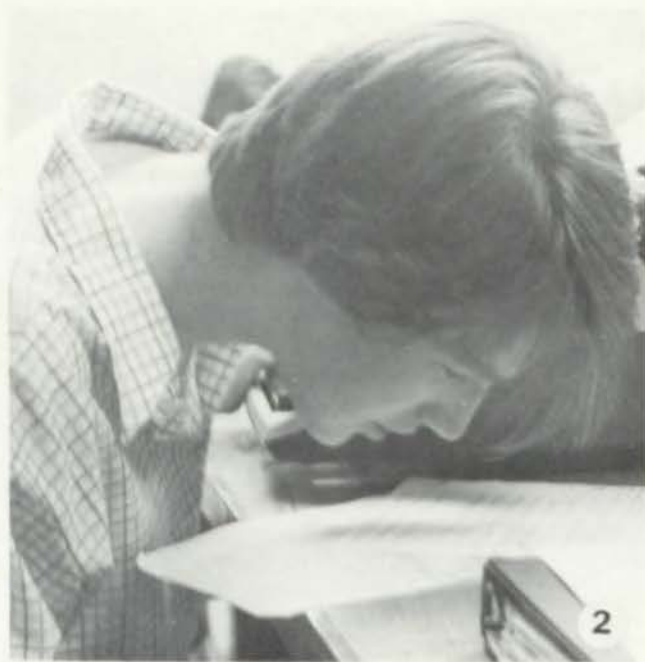

Overall, the members of Stuco were very cooperative and helped organize many events. They worked together as a group and were very generous with their time, leading the student body in some of the year's major activities.

PN Informs Rockhurst When Changes Occur

The Prep News staff's editors and regular contributors emphasized design, accuracy, and competent editing. The paper's Editor-in-Chief, James Grimaldi, coordinated all stages of the production of the PN. After serving as copy editors, Tim Brice and Jerry Mulligan became Associate Editors, where they worked in the production stages of the paper. Grimaldi worked with Brice and Mulligan to design and plan the layout and appearance of the Prep News, for which the paper won third place in the Journalism Educators of Metropolitan Kansas City contest.

Mike D'Agostino was appointed Copy Editor after Grimaldi got tired of listening to him complain about the copy-editing. After Chris Kenny bartered for nearly a whole page on Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes, his favorite rock group, he consented to become Features Editor and later became Editor-in-Chief of the Junior Edition.

Doug Juergensen and Tom Schroer each wrote several articles and took and printed most of the photographs for the PN. Blair Bieser created a bizarre comic world in his cartoons. Mike Odrowski, Tim Herr, and Russell Gentile, three ambitious frosh, contributed articles, while Joe Brenneman epitomized all that a freshman can do. He pestered the staff while they worked on the first issue; he critiqued the second issue; he wrote for the third issue; and he became Campus Editor by the fourth issue. In spite of occasional disagreements, with the help of PN Advisor Jim Heiman, staff members worked together well to produce the monthly issues which informed Rockhurst students, faculty, and parents about current events at the school.

QUARRY Staff

Records Changes

Led by co-editors Barney Barry and Tom Schroer, the Quarry staff became a close-knit group as staff members worked together to gather photographs, design layouts, and write articles and captions.

The 1979-80 year was one in which several major changes occurred within the school, so the yearbook staff focused on the theme of change, depicting the presidential change which took place mid-year and showing changes in the curriculum, the pastoral program, extracurriculars, and sports programs. Within the yearbook staff itself, several new faces appeared. While senior Barney Barry, juniors Tom Schroer and Doug Juergensen, and sophomore Jim FitzGerald were all returning after one or two year's experience, members new to the staff included freshmen Joe Brenneman and Eric Schudy, who put together the freshman section; sophomore Robert Lang, who helped Jim FitzGerald organize the sophomore section; sophomore Mike Dolson, who edited the faculty and administration section and the spring sports pages; sophomore Tim Thomure, who joined the staff in the second semester to become organizations editor; and junior Ellsworth Ware, who co-edited the junior class section and wrote articles for other sections of the book.

Besides managing production of the book, Barney Barry prepared the senior class section, while Tom Schroer edited the junior class and activities sections and Doug Juergensen edited the fall and winter sports pages. Newspaper editors James Grimaldi and Jerry Mulligan contributed their journalistic skills to the yearbook with articles and photographs.

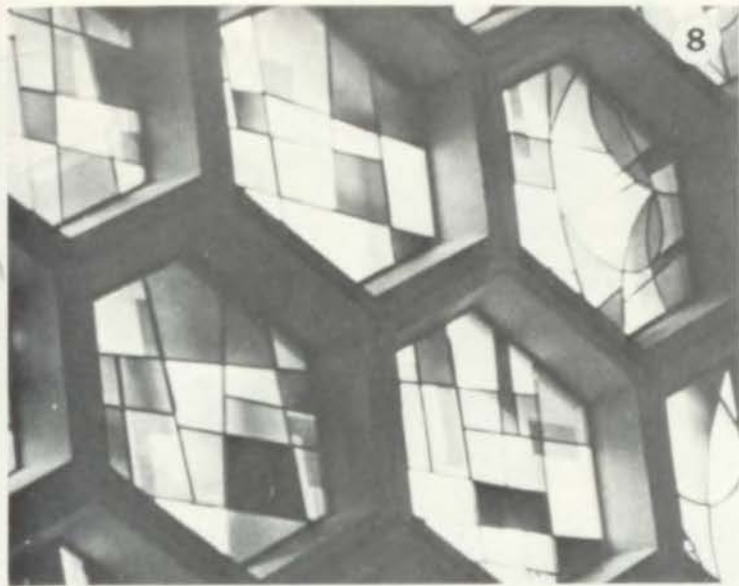

Another important new contributor to the yearbook staff, Mrs. Viki Vogli-Phelps, joined the Rockhurst staff to become darkroom coordinator; she guided staff members in their selection, production and finishing of yearbook photographs. Meanwhile, Mrs. Maridella Andrews returned as Quarry advisor.

An active photo club contributed to the school's publications and provided the students with another opportunity to participate in an extracurricular. With the guidance of moderator Ms. Viki Vogli-Phelps, students worked diligently to produce finely photographed and printed negatives for the yearbook and newspaper.

Ms. Vogli-Phelps purchased new cameras, enlargers, and other photo equipment to bring the Rockhurst darkroom up-to-date. She also taught club members basic processing and printing methods of cropping, burning, dodging, and composition, as well as introducing them to new techniques such as color-slide developing, photo retouching, sepia-toning, and pushed processing.

Poster Club Keeps Students Well-Informed

The Poster Club is an informal group who paint announcements for extracurricular events throughout the year. The Poster Club's products are not Picassos, but the club performs an important task by informing the students. Students can gaze at the club's works, which adorn the cafeteria, and be informed about a host of upcoming activities, such as Cuester plays, pastoral events, debate tournaments, the canned food drive, the United Way campaign, and sporting events. In the fall, the football posters that promote slaughter of Rockhurst opponents are transported from the cafeteria to the football field, where enthusiasts drape them on the goalpost at the halftimes of home games.

Although Mr. Christopher Pinné had never seen a paint brush before this year, he nevertheless took on the task as the new poster club moderator. Mr. Pinné has encouraged the production of posters that promote the many Student Council events during the year, including the magazine sales contest, mixers, and Mission: Possible.

Some of the many people who grabbed a brush and helped to create cafeteria art were Tim Herr, Joe Breneman, Brian O'Halloran, Tim Thomure, James Grimaldi, Doug Hengeler, and John Lewis.

The S & L Crew Light Up The Rock

With Mr. Harold Petersen as moderator, the Illumination and Communication Committee began the year with the following members: senior Pat Monks, juniors Ken Behrmann, Steve Dorei and John Cabrini, sophomores Jim Bradley and Shawn Meschler, and newcomer freshman Paul Bradley.

The crew provided lighting effects for all the mixers and the Homecoming Dance. They prepared the sound and lighting for football and basketball games and provided sound for school masses, assemblies, Sale-O-Rama, Carnival, as well as lights and sound for Cache. They also offered their assistance in such ways as repainting the football scoreboard and distributing prizes during carnival.

Yiggers Learn About Government

Youth-in-Government has found a perch in the Rockhurst community for the past four years. RHS participants found this year yielding more success than in previous years. Nine Rockhurst students traveled to Jefferson City March 13-15 and filled spots in three of the branches of Missouri State government.

Two RHS students, seniors Greg Sturgil and Jeff Waechter, completed four years in the judicial and executive branches and participated as attorneys and Supreme Court justices. These two joined with senior Tim Summers and Junior Tim Wilkinson to argue an appeal before the Supreme Court over an issue of constructive partial-eviction. Senior Jeff Waechter was heralded Outstanding Attorney 1980 despite the fact Sturgill defeated Jeff in court.

Senior Greg Krissek joined junior Jeff Durbin as they paraded the Senate in hopes to have their "Living Will" bill passed, while sophomores David Walker and Mike Dolson "gerrymandered" their bills on the House floor. David's bill dealt with a tax relief to children who attended private schools. Mike's bill offered a more efficient means of providing for the collection of Child Support.

Senior James Grimaldi spent his first year as the Press Corps Legislature Editor. James did a fine job and was offered the position of Editor-in-Chief for Youth-in-Government 1981.

Choir Sings Under a New Director

Tim Godfrey, S.J., a new face in the RHS community and a very accomplished musician, directed the Rockhurst choir. Senior Greg Krissek on the twelve-string guitar and senior pianist Joe Salvato also helped the choir's contribution to the pastoral program. The choir consisted of many veterans, principally singers, but many new members also added to the choir's successful performances. The choir's members included Paul Jantsch, Tim Thomure, Tom Schroer, Greg Reintjes, Kevin Connor, James Grimaldi, Jim Russell, Mike Fern, Matt Wurster, Dave Muma, John Decker, Rick McCarthy, Jim Salerno, Frank Garcia, Ron Betzer, and Herman Ransom.

About mid-term, a new choir group emerged. Directed by Michael Edler and with Joe Salvato on the piano, the group added a new dimension to the pastoral program. This group made use of complex harmony and solos to develop a style new to the choir.

The two choirs worked together for community all-school masses. Though the two groups competed, their competition was in a spirit of fun and enhanced the quality of their performances. The groups alternated for Friday masses.

One of the combined choirs' best performances was at the funeral mass for Paul Bagby. Each choir member seemed proud to be a part of these events, for "he who sings, prays twice."

- 7) Greg hits a sour note.

Success Is the Word

The 1979-80 debate team was one of the most successful the school had in the 70's. Not only was a new successor to Steve Butler's national triumph of last year found in junior Mike Woods, but also the debate teams of seniors Pat D'Arcy—Paul Whitmore and Woods—Eric Hoffman were among the best in the district. D'Arcy—Whitmore took 1st place at Kickapoo, Ray-South, Oak Park; 2nd place at Parkview, Shawnee Mission East, Jefferson City; and 3rd at Harvard, and made quarterfinals at State. Woods—Hoffmann took 2nd at Chaminade and Glendale and quarterfinals at Districts. Mike Woods ran off with five 1st-place trophies in extemporaneous speaking, 2nd place at State, and 5th overall at the nationals.

The underclassmen weren't idle, either. Sophomore Pat Kenny made quarterfinals at Winnetonka and freshman Dan Barry and sophomore Jim Reardon made quarterfinals at Belton as a debate team. Dan Barry reached finals at Oak Park in oratory. The individual events of dramatic/humorous interpretation in single and duet grew into a first-rank outfit this year.

- 1) "Let's use the Time critique this time."
- 2) Paul gets much needed help with his suit selection.
- 3) Mr. Ramsey hands out the debate awards.
- 4) Mike Woods is given a special citation for his fine work.
- 5) Two judges ponder an entry's performance.
- 6) Rewards for a hard season's work.
- 7) The judges pose for an impromptu picture.

Ellsworth Ware made finals at Chaminade with a reading from Douglas Turner Ward's "Day of Absence", the first time a Rockhurst I.E. made finals in dramatic interpretation in seven years. Mike McGonigle made finals at Parkview in humorous interpretation, using a collection of skits from Monty Python's Flying Circus.

Cheerleaders Lead Teams To Victory

This year's cheerleaders, under the direction of Mr. Michael Edler, cheered the Hawklet football and basketball teams to victory with their usual enthusiasm, keeping the crowd on their feet and cheering.

The football cheerleaders were John Geisel, Jim Jantsch, Tom Fritzlen, Steve Sproull, John Hense, Vince O'Flaherty, Jim Gorman, Henry Massman, Oscar Healy, and John O'Flaherty, Jim Gorman, Henry Massman, Oscar Healy, and John Franke.

Varsity Chalks up 8 Wins.

The 1979 Rockhurst football season was a virtual mirror-image of the 1978 season. After an early setback, the Hawklets reeled off seven straight victories, only to miss the state playoffs by a slim margin.

The Hawklets got off to an impressive start with a 41-0 victory over S.M. North. They maintained their winning streak through the ninth consecutive victory. But then a 15-13 setback by S.M. West stopped the Hawklets in their tracks. Rough going continued for Rockhurst as they barely escaped S.M. East 7-6 in a great defensive struggle, led by All-State linebacker Tim Johnson at S.M. South stadium.

Rockhurst returned to Dasta Stadium with a 21-0 conquest over Southwest and traveled to Miege for a 36-0 massacre of the Stags. Homecoming brought lots of pageantry and a 31-0 victory over Southeast.

The Hawklets journeyed to Columbia for a game against Hickman, a perennial state power. And for the second straight year, Rockhurst came back to defeat the Kewpies, this year 17-6. Rockhurst returned home to play Grandview and O'Hara. The Hawklets defeated the Bulldogs with the help of a strong performance by Alex Stabb 14-6. Rockhurst finished strong by defeating the Celtics 10-0, despite losing Tim Johnson to injury.

J.V. Repeat Perfect Season

The 1979 Junior Varsity football team blazed into the season. The J.V. Hawklets posed an unbeaten record similar to that of the 1978 J.V., which is the best in Rockhurst J.V. history. The team's offense benefited from an outstanding backfield. The Defense also proved outstanding, permitting only 13 points scored against them.

The team entered game one against S.M. North following a romp by the Varsity squad. The pressure was great, but nonetheless the J.V. squad pulled off a sound victory, taking North 14-7. The following week, S.M. West attempted to stop the J.V. team but fell short by a score of 14-0. S.M. East threatened the J.V. several times, but the Hawklets took the Lancers 21-0.

The following week, the J.V. defeated the Southwest Indians 48-0. After a very emotional Friday game with the Miege Stags, the team put it all together to capture the Stags 21-0.

In the final game of the season, the Hawklets defeated their arch-rival O'Hara 36-0.

Sophomores Prove Victorious

The 1979 sophomore football team, though it encountered a few hardships, proved victorious more often than not. The sophomores concluded the season with a 5-3-1 record. Coach Steve Ryan worked with the line and coach Tom Warrington handled the backfield, helping the sophomores to their winning season.

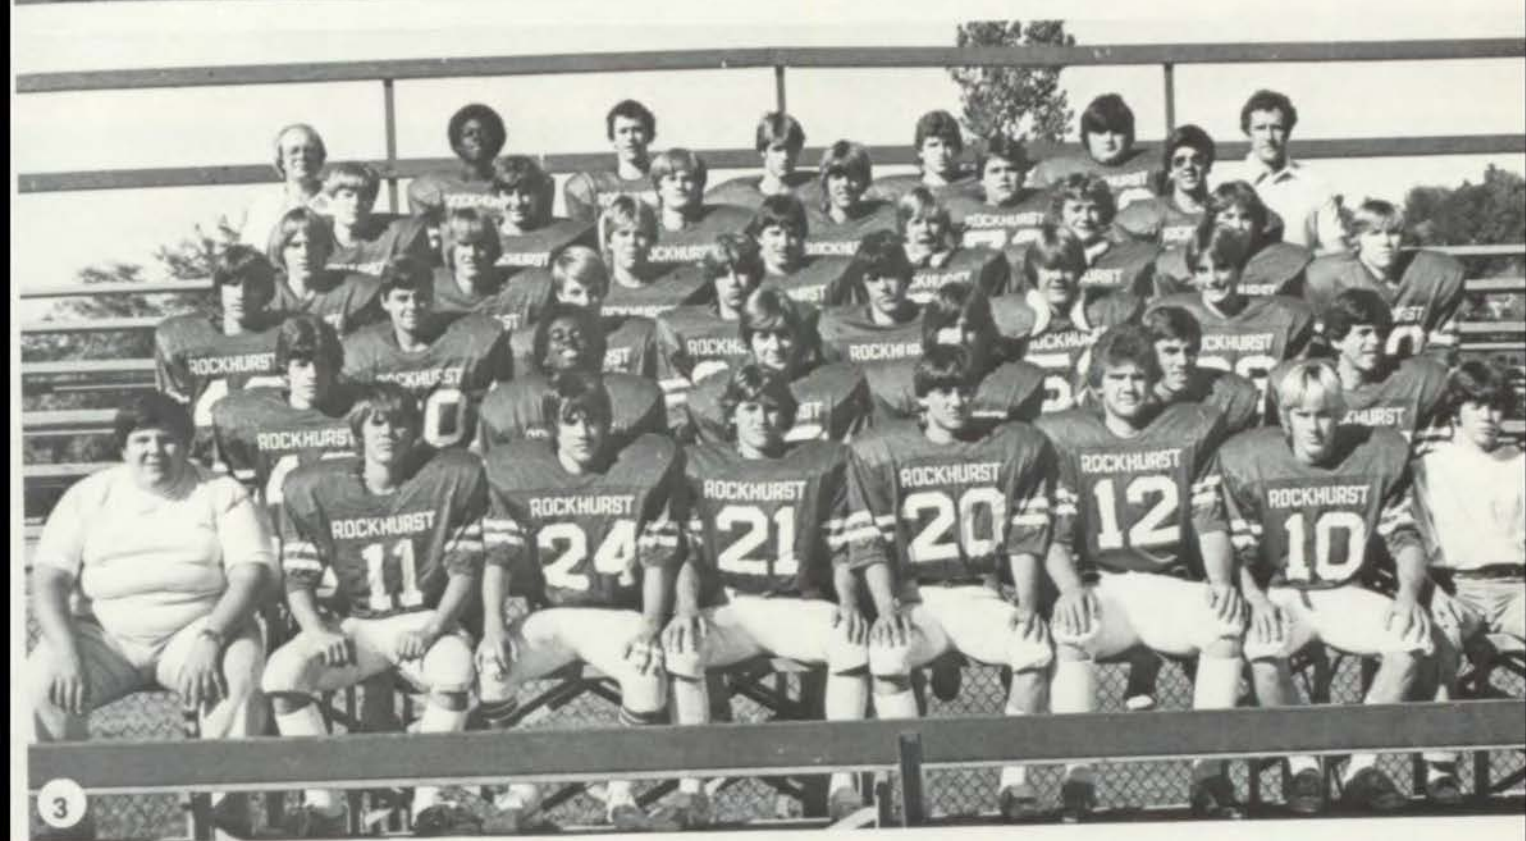

The sophomores opened the season with a defeat at the hands of Shawnee Mission West, who beat the Hawlets 10-7. In the second game of the season, the sophomores tied Shawnee Mission East 7-7. After their first two games, the sophomores won two victories, one over Southeast, with a 9-0 score, and one over Olathe 8-7. They played Blue Springs to a 0-0 conclusion for their second tie of the season.

Two games remained on the 1979 schedule for the sophomores. They lost one of these to Grandview by a 7-3 score. A week later, however, the sophomores concluded their season with a victory over St. Joseph Central by a final tally of 21-7. As Coach Ryan said, "The sophomores had to fight for everything they got," but the team did end the season with a respectable record.

- 7) Pat Griffin grabs one out of the air.
- 8) The Three Musketeers make a tackle.

Freshman A & B Teams Turn in Winning Season

The Freshman football team made their auspicious debut at Rockhurst with a 8-1-1 record under the coaching of Mr. Mike Kelly, Mr. Roger Jackson, and Mr. John McEniry; the tenacious defenses of both the A and B teams held the teams to one defeat.

In the opening game, Rockhurst A-team rolled over St. Pius X, 30-24. Then the Hawklets won twice with victories over Southwest 28-12, and Ward 22-0. The Hawklets suffered their only loss to Miego by the close score of 6-8. After the defeat, the freshmen defense toughened and allowed only twelve points in the next three games. Rockhurst defeated Blue Springs 26-6, Southwest 21-0. The final victory was garnered in the last thirty seconds, with a 14-6 win over O'Hara.

The B-team played almost flawless defense to earn a 3-0-1 record. The team defeated the first two opponents, Ward and Pittman, by the score of 18-0. The the B-team allowed its only touchdown in a tie against Blue Springs 6-6. The team successfully finished against O'Hara 28-0.

FRESHMEN FOOTBALL A TEAM: First Row: S. Kenny, R. Welsh, M. McCray, J. Gomerding, P. McCarthy, T. Gauer, T. Scanlon. Second Row: S. Beilman, B. Tucker, B. Farley, T. Fischer, J. Hagge, M. McLiney, J. - 3) Tom Sweeney runs for a T.D.
- 4) I hope the ball hits my foot.
- 5) "Mark, over here."
- 6) Farley shuns away his opponents.

Soccer Fares Well

Under the leadership of Mr. Ron Geldhof, the Hawklets finished a winning season in Varsity soccer. The 1979 squad posted a nine wins, seven loses, and five ties record, which included post-seasonal playoffs and tournaments.

The Hawklets fared well as the first soccer team in three years for Rockhurst. The team battled such teams as Pem-Day, Barstow, and Sedalia Smith-Cotton, as well as several of the Shawnee Mission schools in Kansas.

Rockhurst began the fall season with a 1-1 tie against arch-rival Pem-Day. Following the season opener, the team won four straight victories over Blue Valley, S.M. West, Barstow, and S.M. South.

Some of the most heated contests involved games against S.M. South and Sedalia Smith-Cotton. Both of these Showed high team spirit and impressive talent.

- 1) Nick Hodes hurls the ball into play.
- 2) "Get your leg out from under me."
- 3) This is how you kick the ball.
- 4) "Why is everybody chasing the ball?"
- 5) Chris Kelly pushed the ball out of the way.
- 6) "I hope I hit this ball."
- 7) Rob Hense represents the J.V. team.
- 8) Kevin works on defense.
- 9) Joe Glynn lets the ball fly.
- 10) Connor makes an awkward kick.
- 11) "Get out of the way, guy."

Soccer Returns

Soccer returned to Rockhurst for the first time in four years this fall and the team had a great season, especially for a first-year team. Many other schools started soccer programs, and an interstate league was established with several other schools.

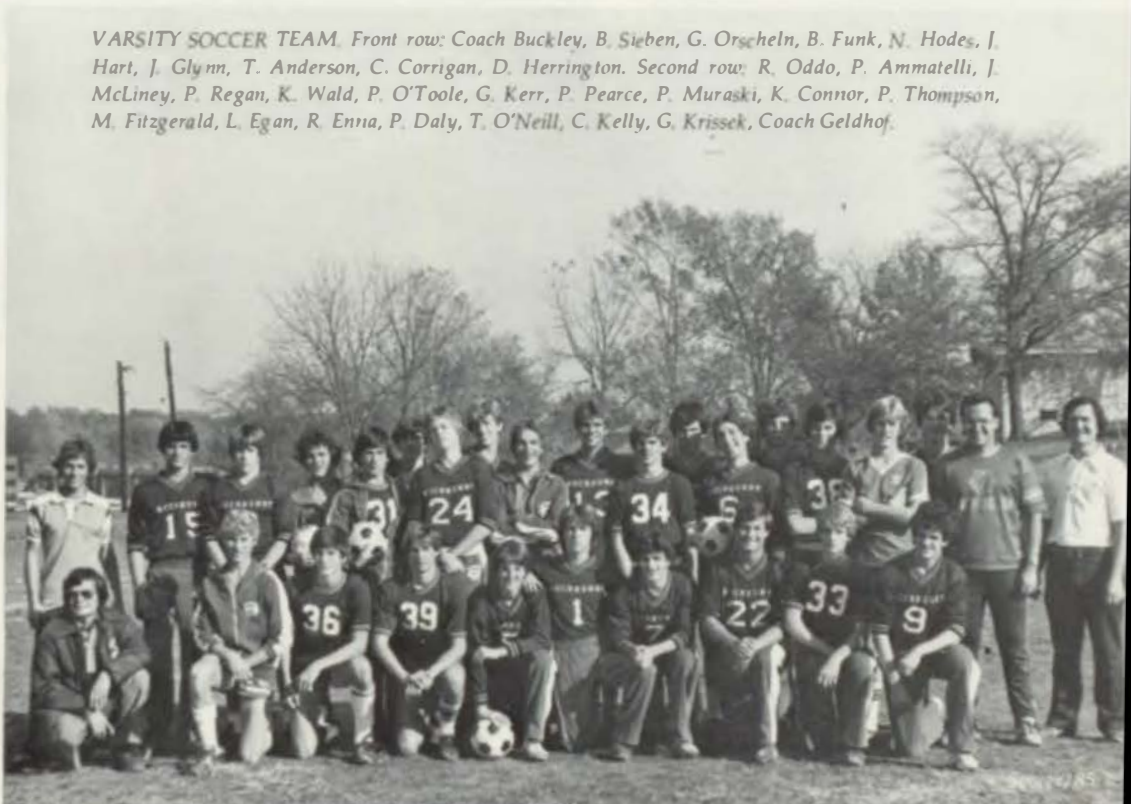

Well over one hundred players tried out in early August and from these, Varsity Coach Ron Geldhof and J.V. Coach Jack Buckley selected the team members. One of the major factors in the team's success was the spirit generated by all the players.

The Hawklets' regular-season record wound up 8-3-5, with the Hawklets placing in the interstate league; most of the Hawklets felt that several of their ties could easily have been wins. This served as a learning experience for many of the younger players. The Hawklets also played two district play-off games, defeating Pem-Day in the first, but losing to Sedalia Smith-Cotton in the second game.

- 1) Joe Glynn kicks the habit.
- 2) Jim Russell learns how to get a concussion.
- 3) "You want this ball in your face?"
- 4) "How shall I kick this?"
- 5) "Oh—like this."
- 6) Joe rushes the ball past an unsuspecting adversary.

VARSITY SOCCER TEAM. Front row: Coach Buckley, B. Sieben, G. Orscheln, B. Funk, N. Hodes, J. Hart, J. Glynn, T. Anderson, C. Corrigan, D. Herrington. Second row: R. Oddo, P. Ammatelli, J. McLiney, P. Guided by their new head coach, Mr. Bill Munninghoff, the Cross Country team showed consistency and great promise for the future. The team steadily improved throughout the year and finished sixth out of a field of fifteen in the District meet at Swope Park. At District, sophomore John Grier finished seventeenth overall and qualified for the Regionals. Other outstanding runners included senior John Cotter, whose best finishes were eighth place in the Miego and Blue Valley Invitationals, and freshman Reid Graham, who placed third in the Ruskin J.V. Invitational. Other runners who contributed excellent performances included sophomores John Capen, Dan Walsh, and Bob Schloegel, junior Jim Shay, and seniors Mike Mullen and Matt Hodes. In its best performance of the year, Rockhurst placed second in the Blue Valley invitational, losing to the eventual Kansas champion, Seaman. Given its consistent record and excellent sophomore and junior team members, the Cross Country team anticipates a successful 1980 season.

Hawklet Varsity Dominates Area Basketball Teams

As best as anyone around Rockhurst can remember, the Hawklet 1980 Basketball team amassed the best Rockhurst record ever. Coach Doug Bruce modestly calls the 22-2 regular-season record "one of the best," but he also acknowledges that neither he nor Mr. Alton Davis, Athletic Director, can remember a better season.

With a wealth of confidence, the Hawklets and their fans conveyed to Center High School for the 4A District Fourteen state playoffs. Center High, though, extinguished hopes of a state championship for Rockhurst when Center defeated the Hawklets 57-54. Coach Bruce said the Hawklets were crippled by fouls.

Despite its disappointment at the state playoffs, Rockhurst has a bright future, considering the performance of some of its junior players at the Center game. Mike Teahan as a junior averaged fourteen points a game, with an eleven-rebound-a-game average; he shot an impressive 50% from the field and 70% from the line.

Anthony Augmon is another key starter who will be returning for the Hawklets. However, Augmon unfortunately had to sit out for ten games with an ankle injury. Before his injury, he proved an invaluable asset to the Hawklets, especially in the crucial Shawnee Mission West victory. Augmon added thirty points in the tight contest that the Hawklets claimed in overtime, 65-63.

22-2

Shortly after Christmas, Augmon suffered an ankle injury and was replaced by senior Glen Gray. After Gray's first game, which was against St. Pius X, Coach Bruce remarked, "We played decent, but shaky at Pius. And then Ray-South obliterated us."

After the 87-56 loss to Raytown South, the Hawklets resurrected to defeat O'Hara 65-46 and then to turn back Columbia Hickman.

The Hawklets carried the confidence from these victories to the North Kansas City Tournament, where they won a third-place trophy. Rockhurst beat Shawnee Mission, but then lost to Oak Park, 56-51. They got revenge on Ray-South to win the third-place trophy, defeating the Cardinals 44-42.

After the North Kansas City Tournament, the Hawklets steamrolled into the Regionals, winning ten straight games against rivals such as Miego, Pem Day, and Shawnee Mission South.

J.V. Bombs Opponents

Their kamikazee style of play helped to give the Junior Varsity an 11-5 record, without consecutive loses. "When you never lose two games in a row, you're doing something right," said the J.V. coach, Steve Howard.

Coach Howard explained what he meant by "kamikazee": "We were a pressing, trapping type of team. We never laid back into a zone defense. We were an 'all-out' team; we played all eleven players in every game." Included in Howard's kamikazee-at-tack style of play was the fast break, which was employed at every opportunity.

Junior Darin Egan led team scoring and rebounding with 177 points and 76 rebounds. Egan's best game, as well as the J.V.'s best performance, was the Shawnee Mission South game, which Rockhurst won in four overtimes, 51-50. Egan led the Hawklets to their first defeat of South in three years by scoring eighteen points.

The Hawklets also beat such rivals as Columbia Hickman, O'Hara, Southwest, Miego, and Pius X.

The team's losses were to Wyandotte; Raytown South; Central in overtime, 62-61; and Shawnee Mission East.

The Rockhurst sophomore basketball team began its season late last November by defeating Turner and Ward to win the Ward Tourney for the third year in a row. The scores were 48-22 and 45-37, respectively.

In the following game, Rockhurst barely got past Ray South 51-49. Shawnee Mission South came to Rockhurst and handed the sophomores their first loss, 56-52. Center found Rockhurst too much to handle when the Hawklets won, 55-51.

In the last game before Christmas break, Rockhurst fought a tough battle at Shawnee Mission North and came out ahead, 60-57, pushing their record to 5-1. The sophomore Hawklets began 1980 with a 45-38 victory over Ward. The Winnetonka sophomore team cancelled its season, but Rockhurst made up the game by scheduling another game with Ray South.

Sophomores Complete a 13-3 Winning Season

Ray South avenged its previous loss by winning in overtime, 55-50. Rockhurst bounced back by traveling to Shawnee Mission East and defeating the Lancers, 56-50. Rockhurst then met the Bulldogs of Wyandotte. In a close battle, Rockhurst's failure to make free-throws helped put Wyandotte on top after four quarters and three overtimes. The score was 61-59. Rockhurst's disappointment from that loss was evident as the Hawklets smothered Center 69-35. Rockhurst was again victorious over East, 68-61. In the following game, Ward came to Rockhurst. Recently, Ward had taken Wyandotte into overtime, and they hoped to make up for the two previous losses to Rockhurst. They came out and fought, but in overtime Rockhurst came out on top, 61-58. Rockhurst then traveled to Grandview, where, for the first time in three years, Rockhurst left the gym as winners, 63-45. For the final game, Rockhurst beat West for the second time in two weeks, 55-50.

Coach Dick Strohm's sophomores finished the season 13-3, overcoming such problems as losing a player at the semester and playing many teams that brought their J.V. sophomores down to their sophomore teams to play Rockhurst.

Freshman Basketball Teams Prove Talents

The Freshman "A" Basketball team had an 8-2 record, while the Freshman "B" team had nine wins and only one loss; both teams had several young stars who will be assets to the Varsity Basketball team in coming years. The "A" team got off to a good start by pulverizing St. Mary's 76-46. Joe Karl scored twenty-two points to lead the Hawklets to a one-point victory over arch-rival O'Hara, 56-55, in their next game of the season. In his following game, Joe Karl scored twenty-one points to pull the Rock to a 68-45 victory over Blue Valley.

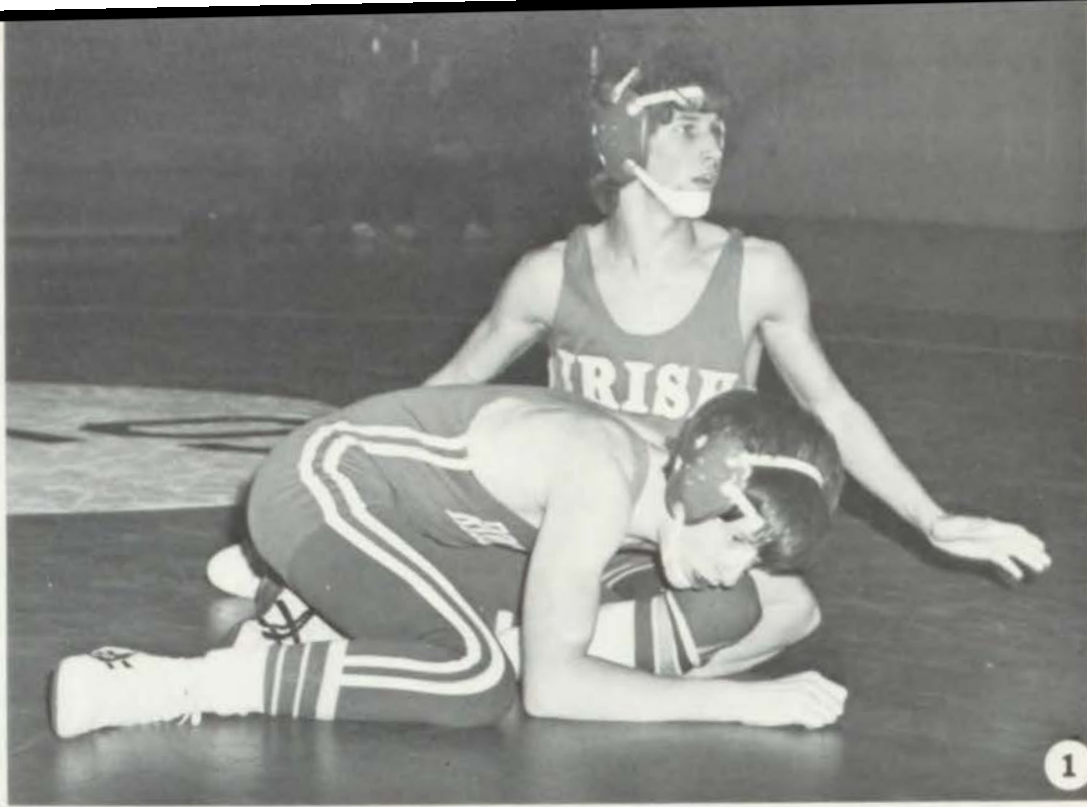

In their first loss of the season, the "A" team was defeated by Raytown in a close 55-54 contest in which Mark Redmond led the team's scoring with nineteen points, followed by Tom Scanlon and Joe Karl, with twelve points each.

Following their disappointment after the Raytown game, the young Hawklets bounced back to defeat St. Pius 61-50 and then Ward 47-45. Then arch-rival Miego defeated the Hawklets 49-47 despite Joe Karl's twenty-six points in the Miego game, but Rockhurst came back to win the remaining contests against O'Hara, Raytown South, and St. Pius X.

Grapplers Look to Future

The Varsity Wrestling Team concluded its season with a second-place finish in the Ruskin Quad, a first-place in the Saint Joe-Lafayette Tournament, and a winning record of 6-5 in dual meets.

Coached by Mr. Beach Tuckness and led by team co-captains Tom McCormack and Pat O'Toole, the team included senior, junior, and sophomore members. The seniors who wrestled on the Varsity were McCormack, O'Toole, Mike Haggerty, and David Dunn.

Junior team members included Tony Marino, Sam Wurster, Donald Poskin, Richard Poskin, and Phil Anderson; and sophomores on the Varsity were Mike Grosko, Mike Novosel, Tim Anderson, and Andy Oldham.

Three of the team's wrestlers qualified for regional competition; by placing third in the district tournament, Sam Wurster and Pat O'Toole won the right to attend the regional meet, and by placing fourth in district, Carlos Sandoval earned a trip to the regional meet.

J.V. Finishes Strong

Mr. John Henggeler coached the J.V. Wrestling team, which took first place in the Ruskin Quad and in the Lathrop Quad. Their record in dual meets was 7-4.

Juniors on the J.V. included Captain Matt Mulhern, Pat Fitzgerald, Frank Maggard, John Decker, and Larry Graham. Soph-

New Golfers go undefeated

Led by Coach Al Davis, the golf team had an unexpectedly successful season. Last year's team saw the top four varsity golfers graduate, which left a younger, less experienced squad. But as the season progressed, the team proved itself with an excellent record of seventeen wins and no losses in varsity matches. Bill Metzler, number one throughout the season, juniors Steve Mehrer and Pete Swenson, and number four Tom Carroll made up the Varsity team.

The Junior varsity had a strong team also, with Jim Sullivan, a freshman, and John Carmean showing outstanding play.

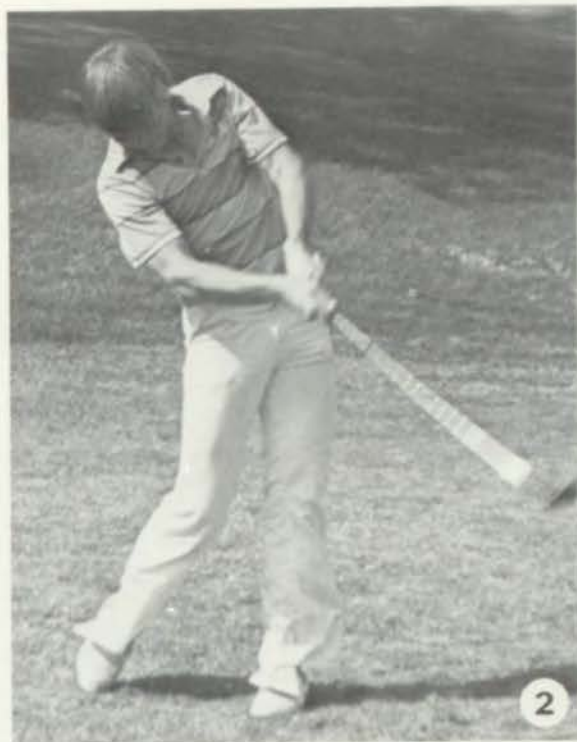

At the Four A District golf tournament, Rockhurst finished in first place by nineteen strokes over its nearest competitor. The team shot 309, which proved the lowest score shot in any district tournament. Bill Metzler shot 75, capturing metalist honors, followed by Tom Carroll with a 76, Pete Swenson with a 78, and Steve Mehrer with an 80.

Although not doing as well as they hoped to do, the team finished respectfully at the state tournament. Overall, the season marked a great success for the school's spring sports record.

Individuals Excel

Despite a disappointing tally in the win column for the 1980 Track Team, several individuals excelled in district and state competition. John Crowe was first in the 800-meter run, with a time of 1:58.5 at the district meet. At the state meet John finished fourth with a time of 1:56.5. The only other Rockhurst Track Team member to qualify for the State meet was Frank Schroer. He qualified at the district meet with a jump of 6'2". At the State meet, though, he failed to complete a jump. Brian Farley amidst stiff competition at the district meet set a new freshman record with a time of 2:01.5. Sophomore hopeful, Pat Keller, peaked out the season with a jump of 6'4" in the meet against O'Hara at Rockhurst. This was a personal best for Pat and he accomplished it in the last regular meet of the season. Dave Alrough excelled in the shot put this year, throwing the shot 53' and 10". He showed even greater promise for next year's track season. John Grier shattered both of the Jantsch's sophomore records in the 2-mile run. John is the only Rockhurst Track Team member besides the Jantsch brothers who has ever run the two-mile race in under 10 minutes. At the district meet, Rockhurst finished 8th out of 16 teams, with a total score of 27 points.

Coach Ryan says that this year's group of sophomores are the best we've had since Rockhurst last won the State title. At the sophomore meet at Shawnee Mission West, the Rockhurst sophomores finished 1st out of 9 teams. If this year's pattern of growth is any indication of future success, the sophomores should have great seasons in the next two

J.V. Track team Scores 4-1 Record

The Rockhurst J.V. track team, coached by Steve Ryan, had an impressive four and one record this season. The team defeated O'Hara, Miego, Shawnee Mission West, Shawnee Mission East, and an entire host of teams at the Shawnee Mission West Sophomore Relay Invitational. The J.V.'s only loss was to Shawnee Mission South.

The team's top ten scorers include the following: Wayne Evans, with 47 points; Paul Migliazzo, 32 points; Darryl Johnson, 29 points; Pat Keller, 25 points; David Blickhan, 20 points; Tony Fritz, 19 points; John Grier, 18 points, Jeff Lewis, 18 points; John Capen, 16 points, and Kevin Wyatt, 16 points.

Frosh Show Promise

In the five meets in which it participated, the Freshman Track Team performed well, showing promise for Rockhurst's future J.V. and Varsity teams. At both the Southeast Relays and the Rockhurst Relays, the team placed third out of six teams. The freshman team defeated Miego 83-42 in the Miego meet and O'Hara 75-53 at O'Hara. The freshmen lost 67-48 to Southwest's freshmen.

Team members with outstanding performances included Mike Murphy, who ran in the two-mile relay, the 880, and the mile relay; Reid Graham, who scored consistently in the mile and two-mile runs; Jim Winne in the high jump; and Byron Walker and Mike Keenan, the team's top sprinters.

The tennis team, coached by Mr. Ron Geldhof, had an outstanding year, with the Varsity tallying a 9-4 record and the Junior Varsity an 8-1 record.

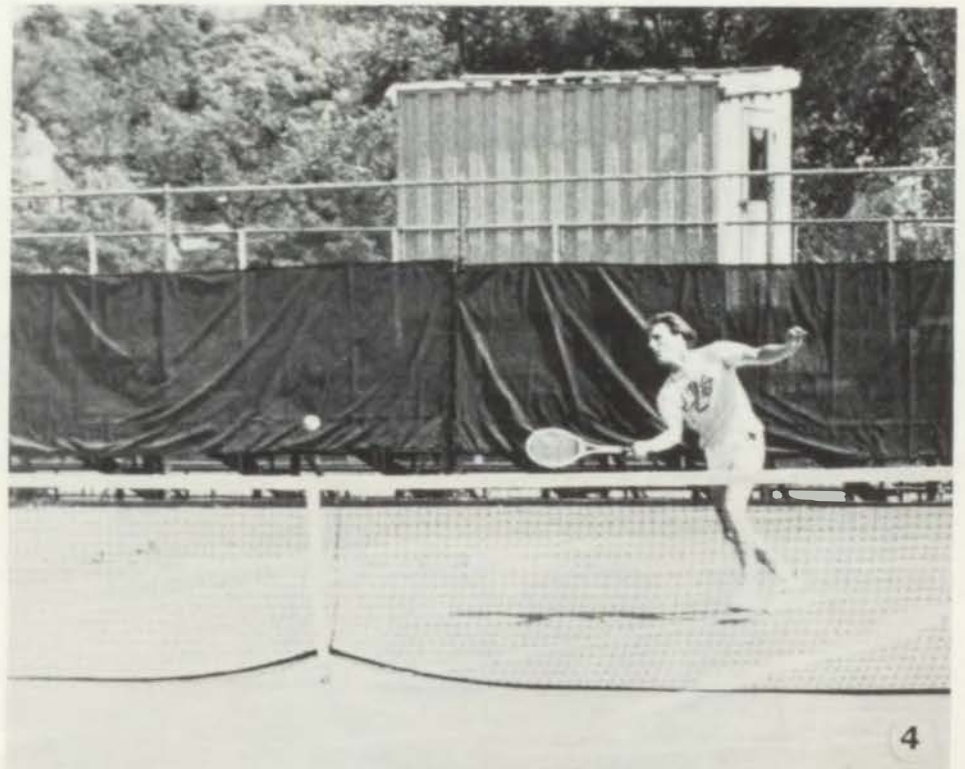

Freshman Tommy Grier, the team's number one man, and seniors Clark Roberts and Bob Schmitt, ranked second and third respectively, played consistently well throughout the season. Seniors Jim Schorgl and Rick Enna teamed to form the number one doubles team, while freshman Mark McCliney, number six man, and senior Kevin Kruse, alternate number six man, provided good support to the team.

The Varsity won first in Districts for the first time since 1975. In singles, Grier won first place, qualifying for state, and McCliney made it to the quarterfinals. In doubles, Jim Schorgl and Rick Enna took first, also qualifying for state.

Administration carries on School Business

In January 1980, Fr. John M. Hunthausen, S.J., replaced Fr. Luke Byrne, S.J., as Rockhurst's new president. On January 21, Fr. Hunthausen took over the administration of Rockhurst's finances as a Jesuit Apostolate. Immediately, Fr. Hunthausen began taking care of organizational matters, such as working with the parents' clubs, representing the school in the public forum, and keeping the school's personnel informed about administrative matters.

As principal, Fr. Paul C. Pilgram, S.J., fulfilled the many routine responsibilities of that office, such as admissions work and class observation.

Mr. J. Michael McWilliams, academic assistant principal spent most of his time arranging and rearranging student schedules and settling academic conflicts. Meanwhile, Mr. Edward Carlin, assistant principal in charge of student discipline and welfare, got to know many of the students through his contact with them in his office and around the building.

The school secretaries also played integral parts in running the school. Mrs. Mary Jane Layne and Mrs. Bernice Wood worked in the main office. Mrs. Carolyn Smith, in Mr. Carlin's office, acted as amateur psychiatrist for many students waiting to see Mr. Carlin, while Mrs. Henrietta "Hank" Garner and Mrs. Jean Maher made possible the smooth running of the president's office and alumni office.

Staff Continues Vital Contributions

Though they often go unrecognized, a group within the Rockhurst community whose unheralded efforts touch every phase of school life is the staff. Their jobs encompass such duties as managing the cafeteria, directing the library, operating the comptroller's office, and maintaining the buildings and grounds.

Mr. Barry Becker began his second year in charge of the food service at Rockhurst. He and his wife Theresa provided students with a large variety of foods. Mr. Becker and his staff endured good-natured student criticism and continued their improvements in food selection and quality.

Librarian Larry Grau and his new assistant, Mrs. Elizabeth Lippert, continued to process a variety of library materials, such as microfiche readers and video-tape machines. Their efficient work was appreciated by all who used the library. Another valuable asset to the Rockhurst staff, Mrs. Viki Vogli-Phelps, served as darkroom coordinator and photo club moderator.

Also important to the smooth functioning of Rockhurst was the work of Fr. William Steiner, S.J., who supervised the installation of the new floor on the basement level, as well as fulfilling his other obligations as building superintendent. Br. Lawrence Eilert, S.J., served another year working hard cutting grass, shoveling snow on the grounds, caring for the athletic fields, and maintaining the cars in the Jesuit residence. Br. John Toller, S.J., assisted the community as Jesuit House Minister. In the comptroller's office, Br. Harold Fleeer, S.J., managed the day-to-day financial operation of Rockhurst and was assisted part-time by Mrs. Margaret O'Brien. Other staff members included Mr. Luke Davis in building maintenance and the ever-popular Fr. Manhard, S.J.

Rev. Luke Byrne, S.J., assumed a six-year term as Assistant Provincial of the Jesuit Missouri Province after finishing four-and-one-half years as Rockhurst president.

In his new position as an assistant to the provincial, Fr. Byrne supervises and coordinates all Jesuit parishes in the province at his new office in St. Louis. Of his new assignment, Fr. Byrne said, "My appointment is a vote of confidence from my brother Jesuits. It is an honor that they think I am capable of the job."

Some of the accomplishments achieved during Fr. Byrne's years at Rockhurst include the construction of the parking lot and tennis courts (1975), final payment of the school debt (1976), and the recent publication of the Alumni Directory. Also during Fr. Byrne's tenure as president, Sale-O-Rama, CACHE, and the Carnival have all increased in size and profits.

Fr. Byrne expressed mixed feelings about leaving Rockhurst: "I love Kansas City, and it will be hard to leave this area, which is my hometown. It will also be difficult to go because my parents are in bad health," explained Fr. Byrne.

Father Luke Byrne, outgoing president

Father John M. Hunthausen, the new president.

Bringing a wealth of knowledge in business and education to Rockhurst, Rev. John M. Hunthausen, S.J., became Rockhurst's fourth president on Jan. 21, 1980. Fr. Hunthausen received B.S. and M.S. degrees in accounting from St. Louis University, and a Ph.D. from the University of Missouri-Columbia.

"My experience in business and educational instruction have helped me feel more comfortable and have given me a sense of direction," noted Fr. Hunthausen.

Fr. Hunthausen's direction emphasizes improvement. "I plan to find the weaknesses and correct them in order to make them strengths," he explained during his first week at Rockhurst. To do this, Fr. Hunthausen first began evaluations of different aspects of the school.

Fr. Hunthausen's priorities are simple: to increase the quality instruction of the school, expand alumni involvement, and strengthen "development programs" that serve as Rockhurst's financial support.

"As president," Fr. Hunthausen wrote in a letter which appeared in the school newsletter, The Review, "my primary goal is to enhance the quality of Rockhurst as a Jesuit apostolate."

New Faculty Added

The 1979-80 school year saw the addition of seven new faculty members, including three Jesuits and four lay faculty.

Fr. John Apel, S.J., returned to Rockhurst after a fourteen-year absence. He taught two classes of junior chemistry and served as Jesuit rector. The other two new Jesuit faculty members were Mr. Timothy Godfrey, S.J., and Mr. Michael Dulick, S.J., both scholastics. Mr. Godfrey taught two sections of freshman English and two sections of freshman French, and Mr. Dulick had three freshman theology classes and two sections of freshman Spanish.

Mrs. Patricia Schudy taught photojournalism. Mr. William Munninghoff served as the only full-time student counselor and coached cross-country. The other two faculty members, Mr. Thomas Warrington and Mr. John McEniry, coached athletic teams, as well. Mr. Warrington taught freshman and junior English, and Mr. McEniry taught math.

Course Changes Made To Better Curriculum

Several course and requirement changes have occurred in the last year, especially in the arts, physical education, and A.P. courses.

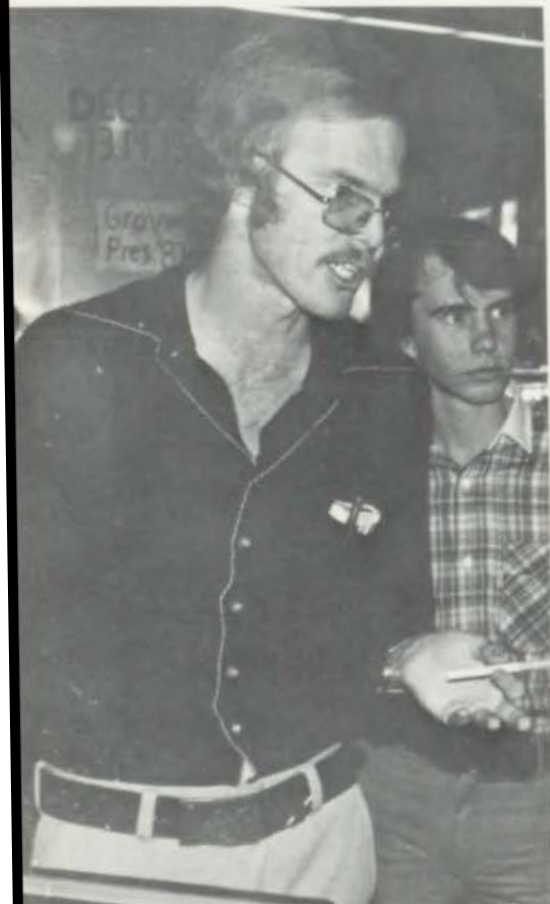

To teach all freshmen basics of chemistry, first-year students now are required to take one semester each of chemistry and speech. Juniors no longer have to take physical education, but along with seniors, may take one of three semester-long, five-day classes, including gymnastics, lifelong sports, and team sports.

A new business department also became a part of the curriculum this year. One new class, accounting, and typing were offered, too.

The communication arts department expanded this year to include in the fine arts drawing and painting, graphic design, and art history. The speech-related courses newly created were mass media and oral interpretation.

In the math and sciences, psychobiology and computer math were offered.

The number of college-level courses available to juniors and seniors were increased. A.P. chemistry, physics, and two classes (A.P. and A.C.C.P.) in calculus were offered for the first time this year. Juniors could gain college credits from Avila by taking U.S. History Survey.

Rev. Paul C. Pilgram, S.J., who has been Rockhurst's Principal for the past four years, will leave Rockhurst to return to Regis High School in Denver next year. Students, faculty, parents, and alumni appreciate the sacrifice of time and energy Father Pilgram has made to the school during the past years.
