1968 TERESIAN

Saint Teresa's Academy
Kansas City, Missouri
Volume I, No. 19

Youth is springtime blossoming forth to a new awareness of the world. Ideals and goals lay before like the green valleys of summer that wait to be entered. Youth is never alone, but takes with it joy and sorrow, memories of close friends, and renewed faith in the promise of time. The purpose of the 1968 Teresian is to nourish this faith and prepare for the future while remembering the beauty of spring.

Convent of the Holy Spirit

for the future is the present well done"

"Trust God; fear nothing." A motto for many, a motto for one, particularly Sister Anna Joseph, principal of St. Teresa's Academy. Sister has concentrated all her interests and energy into every aspect of St. Teresa's development. A result of her unselfish devotion is reflected in the spirit of each student by a bond of unity and an ideal that S.T.A. is the best. Sister Anna Joseph's faith and trust will long remain the standard of school spirit.

Knowledge is of things one hears, sees, and does. A beam of light piercing the darkness of one's mind. This knowledge grows and expands into ideas and judgments to be nourished by the spirit of truth.

Dedication and prayer help religion teachers Father Harry Berendzen, Father Bruce Heininger, Sister Monica Mary, Sister Margaret Louis, and Sister Anne Edmond express the love of God in a busy world.

FAITH IS THE ROOT OF EXISTENCE

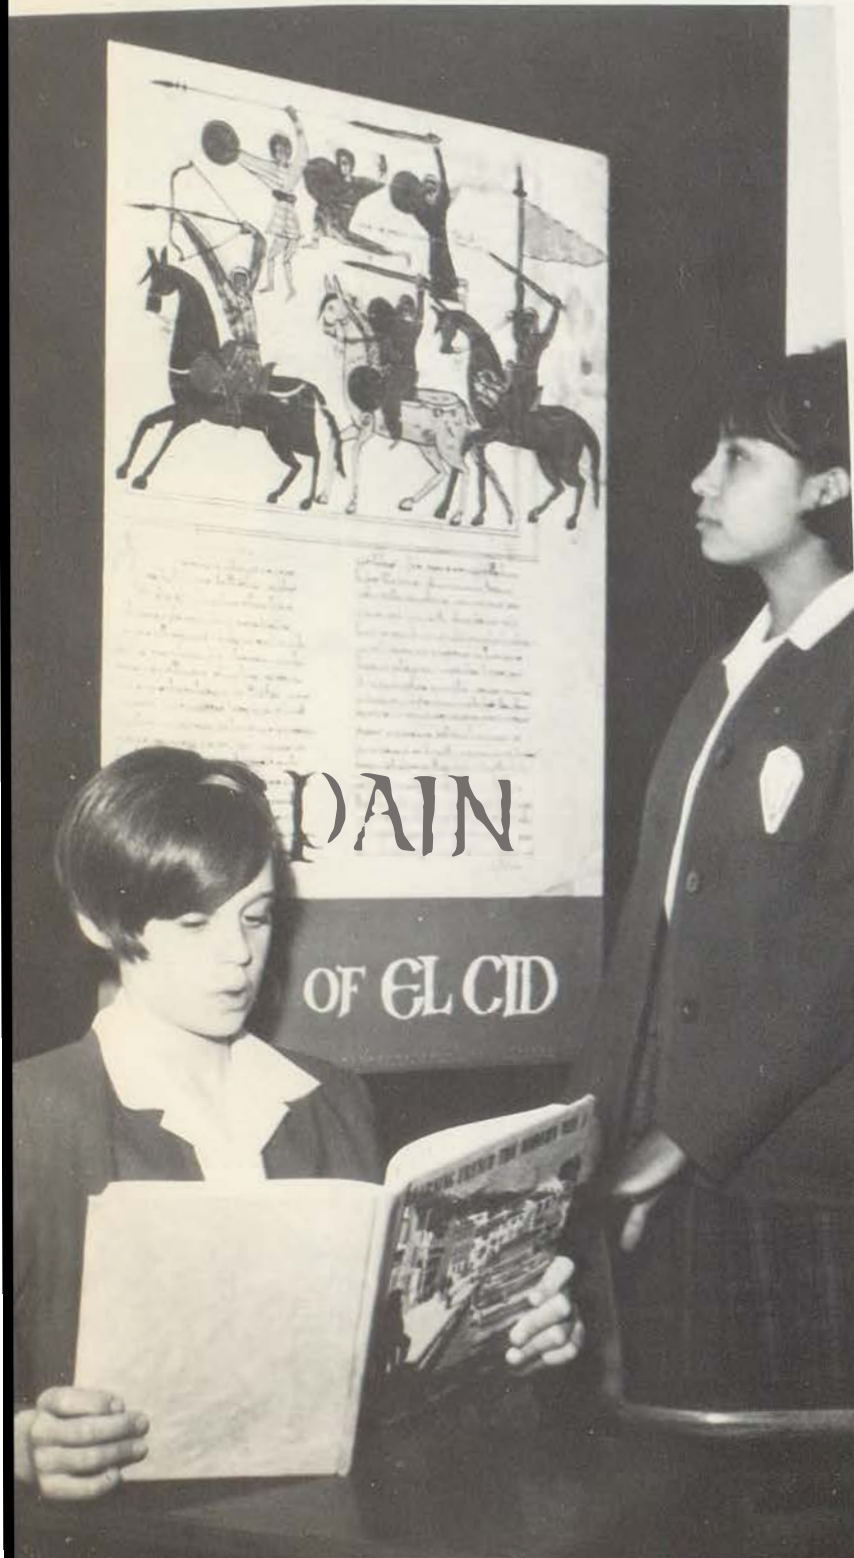

Religion was an integral part of life at St. Teresa's. Daily classes, attendance at Mass, investigations of truths and doctrines, and especially discussions, enriched the spiritual life of each girl in Christ.

UNIVERSAL UNDERSTANDING A COMMON GOAL

Speech is universal. It is the main source of expression and communication. In Spanish and French girls learned about the customs of foreign countries as well as basic dialogue. Latin students were transported to ancient Rome with the stories of Hannibal and Julius Caesar and other classics.

Sister Teresa Paul explains the symbolism concerning the Latin banner to Sister Mary Sebastian and Mr. Isidro de la Herran.

Misses Sue Christenson and Pauline Reardon admire basketball and volleyball trophies.

Screams and shouts, the shrill blow of a whistle, a burst of applause were the most likely sounds heard from the lower regions of Music and Arts building. Tennis, track, volleyball and daily exercises were other gym activities.

ABILITY GROWS WITH PRACTICE

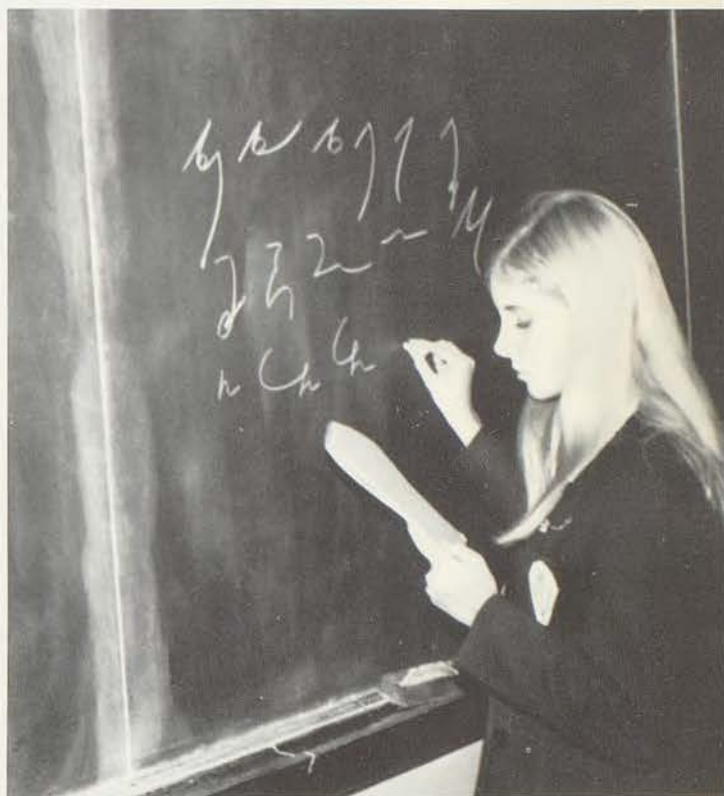

Skills for the future were the main aims of the practical arts courses taught by Sisters Joseph Marie, Marion Joseph and Marguerite.

EFFICIENCY FOR SUCCESSFUL ENTERPRISES

The rhythmic sounds of thirty girls striking thirty typewriters was heard as Typing I students strove to reach the goal of an error free sixty-words-a-minute. Speed was essential in shorthand. Frequent exercise at the board helped one with the sound and spelling of difficult words. The ups and downs of the fashion world kept the Home Economics classes on the move.

BEAUTY FOUND THROUGH SENSITIVITY

Fine Arts combines the spirit and intellect to discover the beauty of the physical world. Techniques of art, drama and music were presented, but greater emphasis was placed on enjoyment and appreciation. The importance of being a receptive audience, as well as a gifted artist, was stressed through awareness and sensitivity.

Sisters Donna Loretta, Annette Marie and Edward Georgene review the allied arts schedules.

Sister Mary Vera and Mr. Gerald Bowers plan to give their students a realistic view of World Problems.

LOOK BACK AND SEE TOMORROW

The earth is no longer a vast expanding sphere, but people and places are becoming familiar through scientific and political development. For this purpose the social studies library was available. Girls found time during the day to pick out a book, write a report, or just browse around. In World History sophomores traced the rise and fall of the Roman Empire while juniors participated in panel discussion. Problems such as the draft and the frequent use of drugs provided the Contemporary Issues classes with interesting subjects for discussion.

Scientific ideas and discoveries are discussed by Sister Catherine Anton, Mr. Kenneth Roper, Mrs. Margaret Loschke, and Mrs. Bessie Koshland.

Math and science walk hand in hand through the conquests of space, travel, and modern living. Biology students studied the mysteries of nature and human life. Experimentation in elements with scientific equipment kept chemistry students in the know. Modern algebra introduced the freshmen to the complexities of new math while sophomores saw triangles and polygons as more than just figures.

MYSTERIES OF LIFE
REVEALED

KNOWLEDGE EXTENDED THROUGH READING

Thoreau, Emerson and Hawthorne were familiar names to sophomores, juniors, and seniors who concentrated on American literature in their ungraded English classes. Freshmen, however, worked to establish a firm background in all areas, grammar, literature, and creative writing. Journalism was studied by several juniors to acquire an even more specialized application of language usage.

another down assignment

The members of the English department, Sisters Ursula Marie, Marie Theodorine, and Lillia Marie discuss the American literature theme with two new teachers Miss Kathy Dlabal and Miss Caroline Schneider.

As a child, one plays and thinks within a small world, but soon it is time to mature. A whole new world emerges -- a world which is waiting for laughter, healing, ideals and for the faith and love only youth can give.

Members of the Junior Classical League and Le Cercle Francais produced skits and various projects to broaden their knowledge of the countries whose language they study. The French students were most noted for their plays, while the Latin banquet has become a J.C.L. tradition. Although the purpose is educational, the clubs provided an enjoyable way to understand other nations. Sister Marie de Lourdes, vice-principal, was the moderator of the French Club. Sister Teresa Paul, moderator of J.C.L., procured the film, "The Cardinal" as a new activity.

Rita Leifhelm, President; Marnie Shramek, Vice-President; Mary Beth Rickard, Secretary-Treasurer.

ONE WORLD THROUGH MANY LANGUAGES

Senior JCL Officers: Jean Klein, President; Peggy Fitzgerald, Vice-President; Karen Carney, Secretary; Coke Kelly, Treasurer.

Junior JCL Officers: Mary Morrow, President; Terry Metsler, Vice-President; Beth Retonde, Secretary; Elena Herran, Treasurer.

MATH CLUB

Any third or fourth year math student who could maintain a B average was eligible to join Mu Alpha Theta Math Club. Meetings were held once a month under the guidance of Mrs. Bessie Koshland to study various problems and report on celebrated mathematicians.

CATEGORIES

In March, Tessies again brightened WSAF-TV with another appearance on the Categories show. Seniors Jean Klein, Peggy O'Boyle, Sherry Leonardo, Jane Shay, Susan Klein and junior, Pat Felz were selected to test their knowledge against that of other area high school students.

LIBRARY CLUB

Officers of this newly formed club are Mary Cosgrove, Kathy Jo Allen and Michelle Liberty.

AUTO CLUB

Troubled carburetors and leaking gas lines were only a few of the problems analyzed by the Auto Club. Organized this year by Ken Roper, this activity gave juniors and seniors a chance to see what really keeps their wheels rolling.

SODALISTS WERE INVOLVED

The Sodality was a very important organization at St. Teresa's. In Sodality the girls became acquainted with people and the world they live in through films and discussions. The main objective of a good Sodalist was to become involved with life, and helping others as well as themselves through their aid to the poor and personal conferences.

The most important activity sponsored by the Sodality this year was the Father-Daughter Dance. This year's dance was held February 16 at the Party House where the girls and their dates danced wildly to both rock and roll and a few of their dad's old favorites. The senior dance contest and games gave the girls and their fathers a memorable evening.

Anne Purcell, Secretary; Nan Tiehen, treasurer; Lynda McDonnell, president; Michelle Santee, vice-president.

Nina Cassata, President; Kris Peterson, Secretary; Beth Gettinger, Treasurer, Mary Regina Matroni, Vice-President.

MISSIONS AID WORLD'S NEEDY

The poverty and depression throughout the world was the driving force behind the Mission Club. Besides weekly mission collections, the club also sponsored various projects such as the Christmas Post Office and a special raffle held this year of a football autographed by the Kansas City Chiefs. The dedication and work of Sister Catherine Anton, the officers, and club members paid off in the self-satisfaction they derived from helping those less fortunate both here and in foreign countries.

APOSTOLIC WORK SEEKS TO UNITE FRIENDS

Service organizations are plentiful today and the girls at S.T.A. played a vital part through the Apostolic Work groups. Besides Saturday religion classes for the handicapped and mentally retarded, other regular services were given to many unfortunates. Senior citizens were visited and consoled. At Guadalupe and Brown Centers weekly craft classes and tutoring programs were held. By helping the retarded, handicapped, young and old, students gained a great insight into a world they might never have known.

ATHLETIC CLUB ENCOURAGED

For those STA'ers who were full of energy there was the Athletic Club. This club not only gave the girls a chance to engage in sports, but also sponsored activities with the help of Miss Sue Christenson. "Happiness is Having a Dance" was the theme of the September project. Colorful Peanuts decorations transformed the gym and the music provided fun for all. On February 18 the fearless Athletic Club members met the mighty Rockhurst Letterman's Club on the Rockhurst court. A spirited game of morale breaking volleyball proved to be very entertaining as well as humorous.

FRIENDSHIP AND ABILITY

The belief that Freshman never win was shattered when the Frosh A-team defeated their upperclassmen in intramural basketball. Senior B proved that "68" was great by running away with the coveted team trophy.

1968 TERESIAN—
A NEW NAME FOR NEW IDEAS

Karen Teague and Susie Shannon, Photographers.

Deenie Hawk, copy writer; and Ja-Na Bordes, typist; Nora Mulloy, copywriter (not pictured).

This year's staff changed the name of the yearbook to the Teresian because of the confusion with Avila college. Besides having a new name, the yearbook was also smaller, thus resulting in a more reasonable price for student purchase. Every Wednesday and Sunday the clicking of the typewriter on 3-R forms and the constant chatter of the staff could be heard as they rushed to meet that ever creeping deadline. Finally the first Teresian arrived bringing with it the end of a hectic, but meaningful year.

Peggy Fitzgerald and Melinda Peck, Business Managers.

Joanie McGonigle, Kathy Di-esko, Kitty Dierks, and Trish Murtha, Lay-Out Makeup.

The yearbook dance with a new name, the Teresian, held to its traditional date, the night before Thanksgiving. Tessies danced to the theme song, "The Impossible Dream" as the "Sensations" played in candlelit Pierson Hall.

A skit, The Fooly-Wed Game, presented by the staff, began the drive and announced the candidates for queen. The contestants, each couple representing a class, announced the details of the dance and urged their class to achieve victory. Spirits soared high during the next week and were climaxed by the announcement of the queen, Mary Beth Rickard, a senior, and the first Teresian dance.

THE BOSS

Advisor of the Staff, Sister Marie Theodorine with Co-editors Sherry Leonardo and Pam Yax.

Kathy O'Neil and Dodie Castrop, Make-up editors.

Patty Denzel and Karen Schloegel, Typists.

One of the hardest working and most dedicated groups, the Dart Staff, strove to produce a lively and thoughtful school paper. Good taste and sincerity combined to make the '67-'68 Dart a useful as well as an entertaining publication. Always informative, the paper was a forum for all topics of school interest and concern. One of these topics, teacher-student relationships, was clarified and improved through efforts of the Dart.

“PLAYERS” COMBINED
WORK AND FUN
FOR UNIQUE
PERFORMANCES

New ideas and experimentation marked the "Windmoor Players" not only as an adventurous group, but a very talented one. The members, of what is commonly called the Drama Club were engaged throughout the school year and into the summer in projects from speech tournaments to performing "The Little Prince" at the N. C. T. C. in New York. The artistry that was achieved was accomplished only by hundreds of hours of rehearsing, sewing costumes, building scenery and being satisfied with nothing less than the best. Backstage crews, onstage performers and many committees were all part of each success.

NEW IDEAS ADDED VARIETY TO DRAMA PRODUCTIONS

One program the club has participated in for several years was that of entering tournaments. Girls competed in any of the categories. As well as participating in the Missouri Activities Association, National Forensic League and Diocesan Tournaments the energetic "Wind-moor Players" presented several productions. The first was "The Theater of the Absurd" which consisted of cuttings from "The Mad-woman of Chalot," "The Bald Soprano" and a one-act play, "The Sand Box." The blackened stage, absurd dialogue, and lack of plot made the project unusual, but entertaining. Another new enterprize was the children's play, "Winnie the Pooh" which toured grade schools presenting the story of Pooh and his friends.

Mary Franey, president; Mary Jane King, vice-president; Margie Stauch, secretary; Katie Iwerson, treasurer.

With voices in tune and a willingness to work for perfection the Glee Club met tri-weekly under the direction of Sister Edward Georgene to present another year of fine entertainment. Besides, providing the finishing touch to St. Teresa's music festivals and programs, the choral group offered their talents around the city as well. During the Christmas season the girls caroled in front of Swanson's on the Plaza and entertained the staff of Research Hospital at their Christmas Party.

This Spring the versatile group traveled to Rockhurst, Pem Day, and St. Louis as well as performing at school.

A new edition to the music department was Freshman chorus. Besides studying the development of music as a class, the group performed in various programs. The Madrigals were an independent group made up of musically inclined juniors and seniors. Arranging their own material and direction the Madrigals displayed their talent at weddings and organizational meetings.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ACCEPTED CHALLENGES WITH ENTHUSIASM

A dynamic and one of the busiest organizations of the 1967-68 year was the Student Council. Consisting of 18 "Reps", one from each homeroom, and five officers. The Council had the demanding task of coordinating all the activities of classes and clubs. This planning resulted in better support for all activities by the entire school.

The efficiency of the Council's efforts was demonstrated during the N.C.A.'s re-evaluation, which returned favorable reports, especially concerning the enthusiastic spirit of both faculty and students.

Freshman Reps--Denise McNerney, Patty Oades, Donna Katen, and Kristine Darby.

On Valentine's Day the Student Council' held the Student-Faculty Tea. Cookies and punch were served and the girls enjoyed talking to the faculty for fun instead of in class

COUNCIL PROJECTS PROMOTED UNITY

Working for greater school unity the Council pitched-in and joined forces with various clubs and faculty members to produce Career Day, the Advent celebration, and the Honors Assemblies.

The revising of the controversial L-system to allow different violations of rules to deduct points from a 12 point basis took a good deal of the Council's time and energy. The successes and failures of this year were representative of any organization with its many responsibilities, but the spark of imagination, the spirit to reach higher goals and the desire to serve were distinctive.

Sophomore Reps--Anne Clarke, Patty Lillig, Kathy Rost, and Terry Hoedl.

Debbie Chassanoil; Queen Ginny Gibson, Loretto; Pam Yax; Peggy Neenan; Chris Hoedle, Sion.

Pam Yax

Cheers, shout and foot-long signs heralded the arrival of the annual Rockhurst Homecoming Parade. This year St. Teresa's was honored to have three candidates competing for queen. Pam Yax, Peggy Neenan, and Debbie Chassanoil radiated the pride felt by all on their trip through the campus. The Hawklets livened the spirit by winning their Homecoming game against Raytown South. The height of the activities was the dance held Saturday night where Pam reigned as first attendant and Peggy and Debbie took their place in the queen's court.

SENIOR CANDIDATES BRIGHTEN FALL HOMECOMINGS

Cathie Nemmers

On October 27, St. Teresa's was again invaded by boys. The excitement this time was caused by the mighty Titans from De La Salle. Despite a mix-up in time, a number of loyal STA'ers braved the crisp air to cheer on senior, Cathie Nemmers. On the evening of the Homecoming Dance, Cathie was chosen third attendant. The music of the Sunshines accompanied the lively spirits.

Pam Williams had the honor this year of being the first St. Teresa girl ever to be presented at a Pem Day Homecoming. In the past all the candidates have been selected from either Barstow or Sunset Hill.

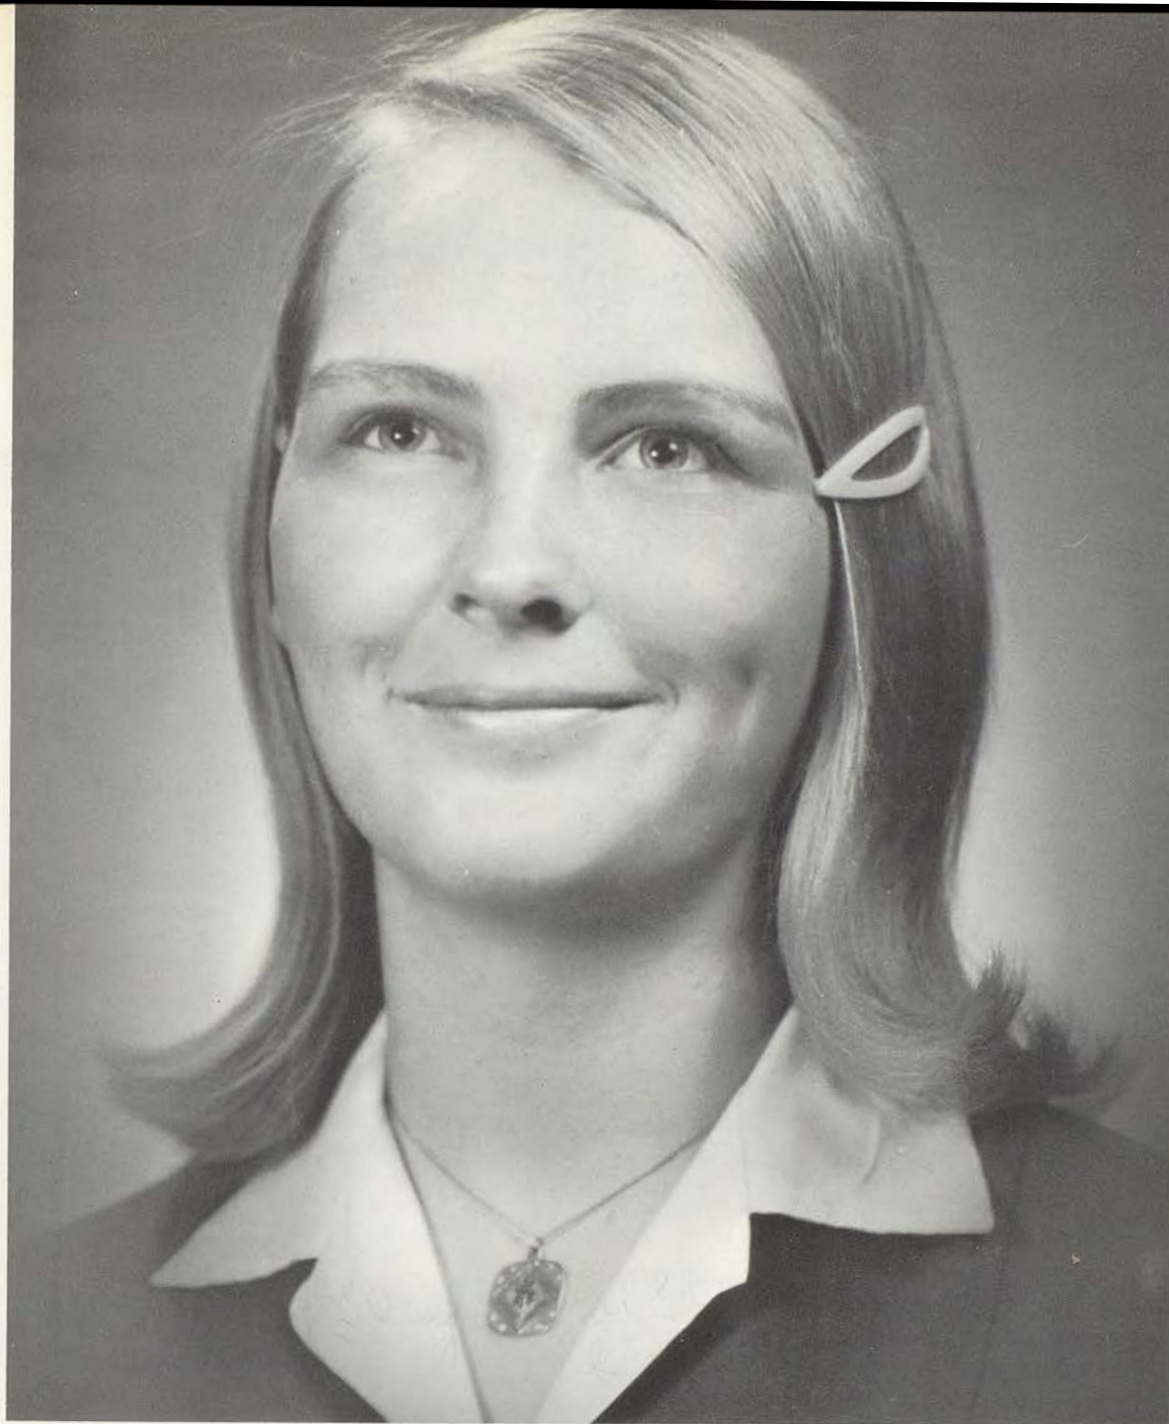

"SAL'S OUR GAL"

All eyes settled on Sister Anna Joseph as she prepared to award the most valued honor at St. Teresa's Academy--1968 Academy Girl.

Blasting applause filled the auditorium as Sallie Stephenson stepped forward to receive the Academy Medal.

Every year the senior class votes for a girl whom they feel is the perfect example of an ideal STA'er. Loyalty and leadership have characterized Sallie's four years at St. Teresa's. Freshman year saw Sallie as president of her class, head of the expansion fund, and a member of the athletic club. During sophomore year Sallie showed her spirit by running for the Student Council and taking part in all athletic events. As secretary of the Athletic club she helped make possible many activities during junior year. This year Sallie was an active member of the Sodality and Glee club. And in her "spare" time she coached the St. Peter's volleyball team. Willingness to help and a bright smile for everyone gave Sallie those all-round qualities respected by everyone.

SENIORS
TACKLED SLOPES

Leaving Kansas City after winter recess, the class of '68 headed for high mountains, low mercury and lots of snow. Four years had been enough waiting for the Senior Ski Trip and Winter Park, Colorado was all set for 130 more "ski-bums".

January 22 through the 26 were filled with skiing, skating and braving 20° weather for a swim. Some, however, decided to return home with an injury or two to make the trip especially memorable. The 14 1/2 seemingly endless hours on the bus added a special eagerness to get home and made S.T.A. an unusually welcome sight.

Individuality, a quality admired by today's world. Unity, a condition demanded by it. All are faced with this paradox, for, each girl, just as each class, must remain unique, yet unite in oneness of spirit.
