

'70 Teresian

St. Teresa's Academy
Kansas City, Missouri
Volume XXI

Warm, friendly, out-going, this young girl is our generation. Living a "now" life involved in community, church, and school, on the go, seeking unique new goals. Ever changing, yet always remaining in love with life.

This 1970 Teresian is filled with the joy, love and experience of young girls discovering life in the light of the sun.

Warm Life

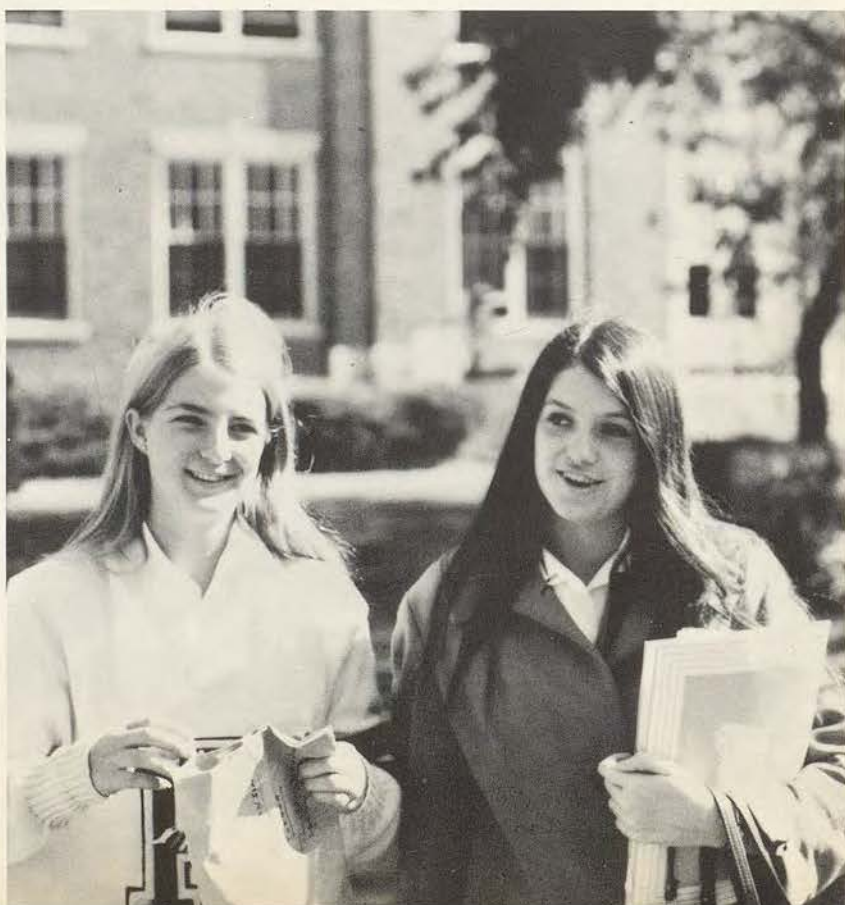

The moon and all the stars
but one, are cold.
Our day-star is warm life.

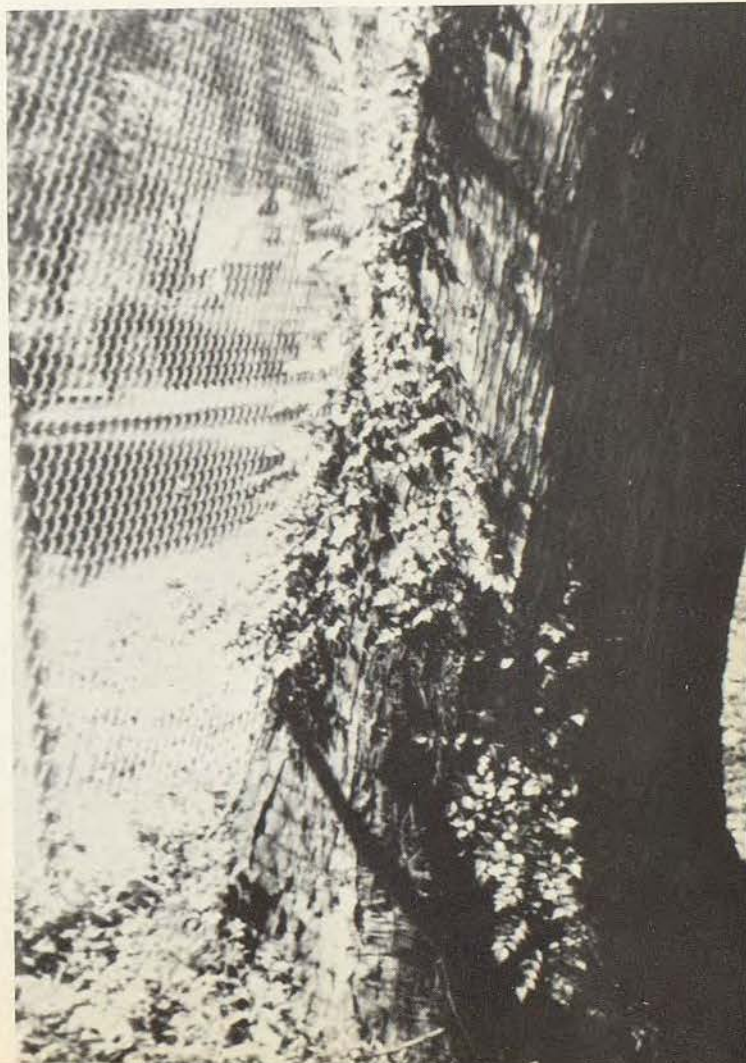

Brings a

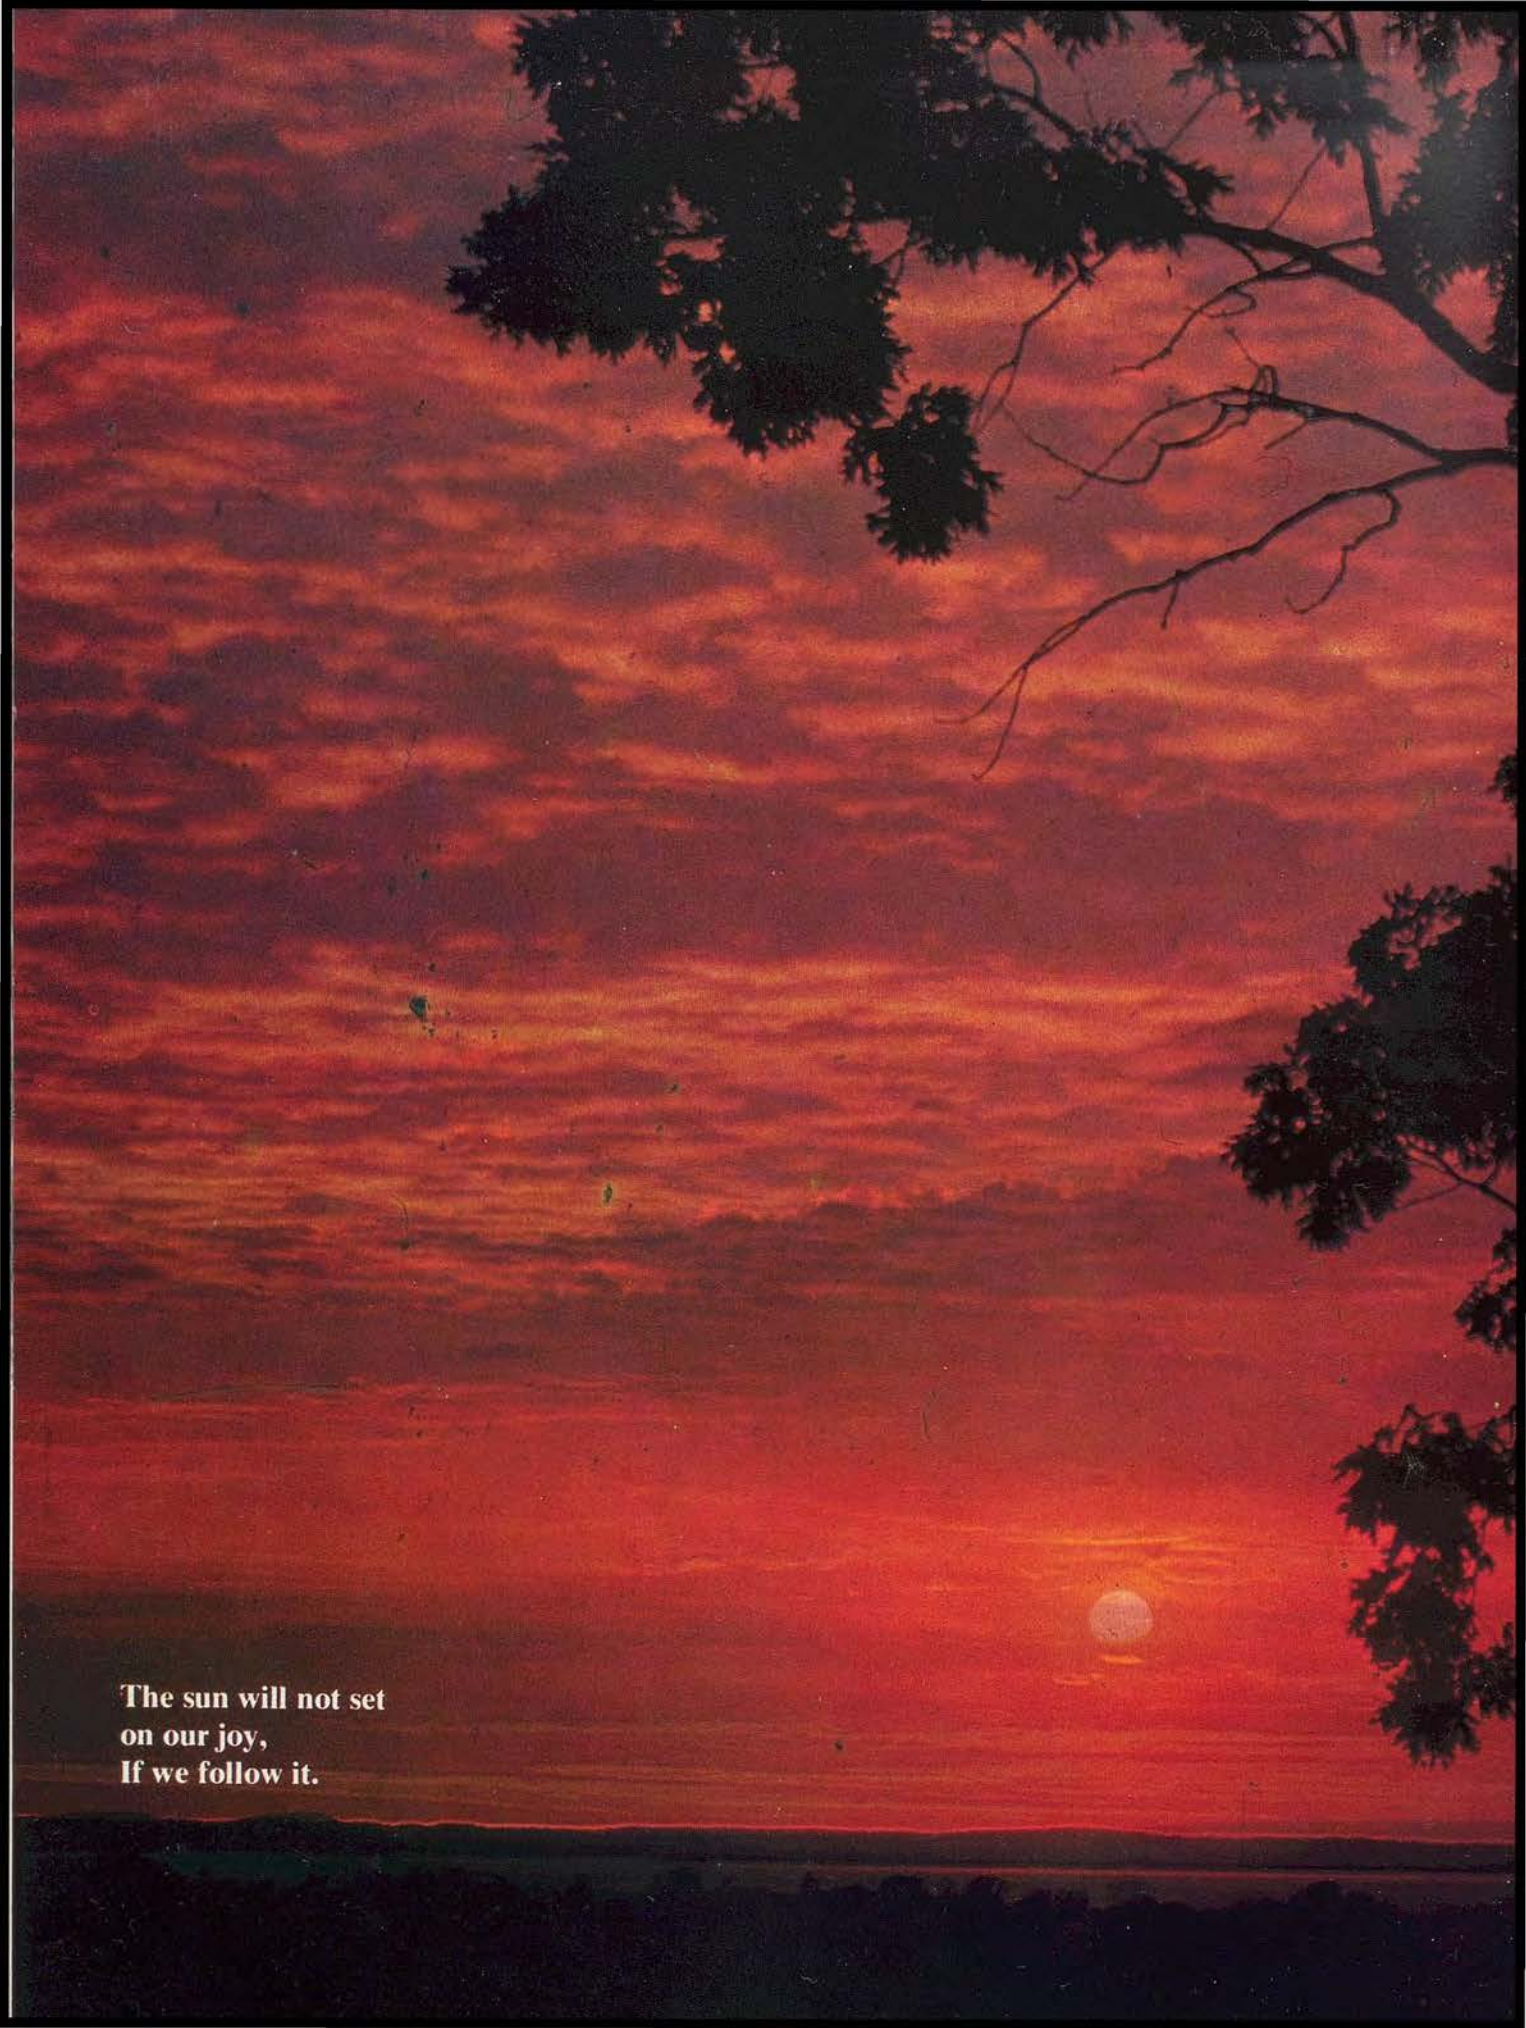

With jubilation it brings a new day.
Catching lightly in the trees,
Spilling gold on the ground.

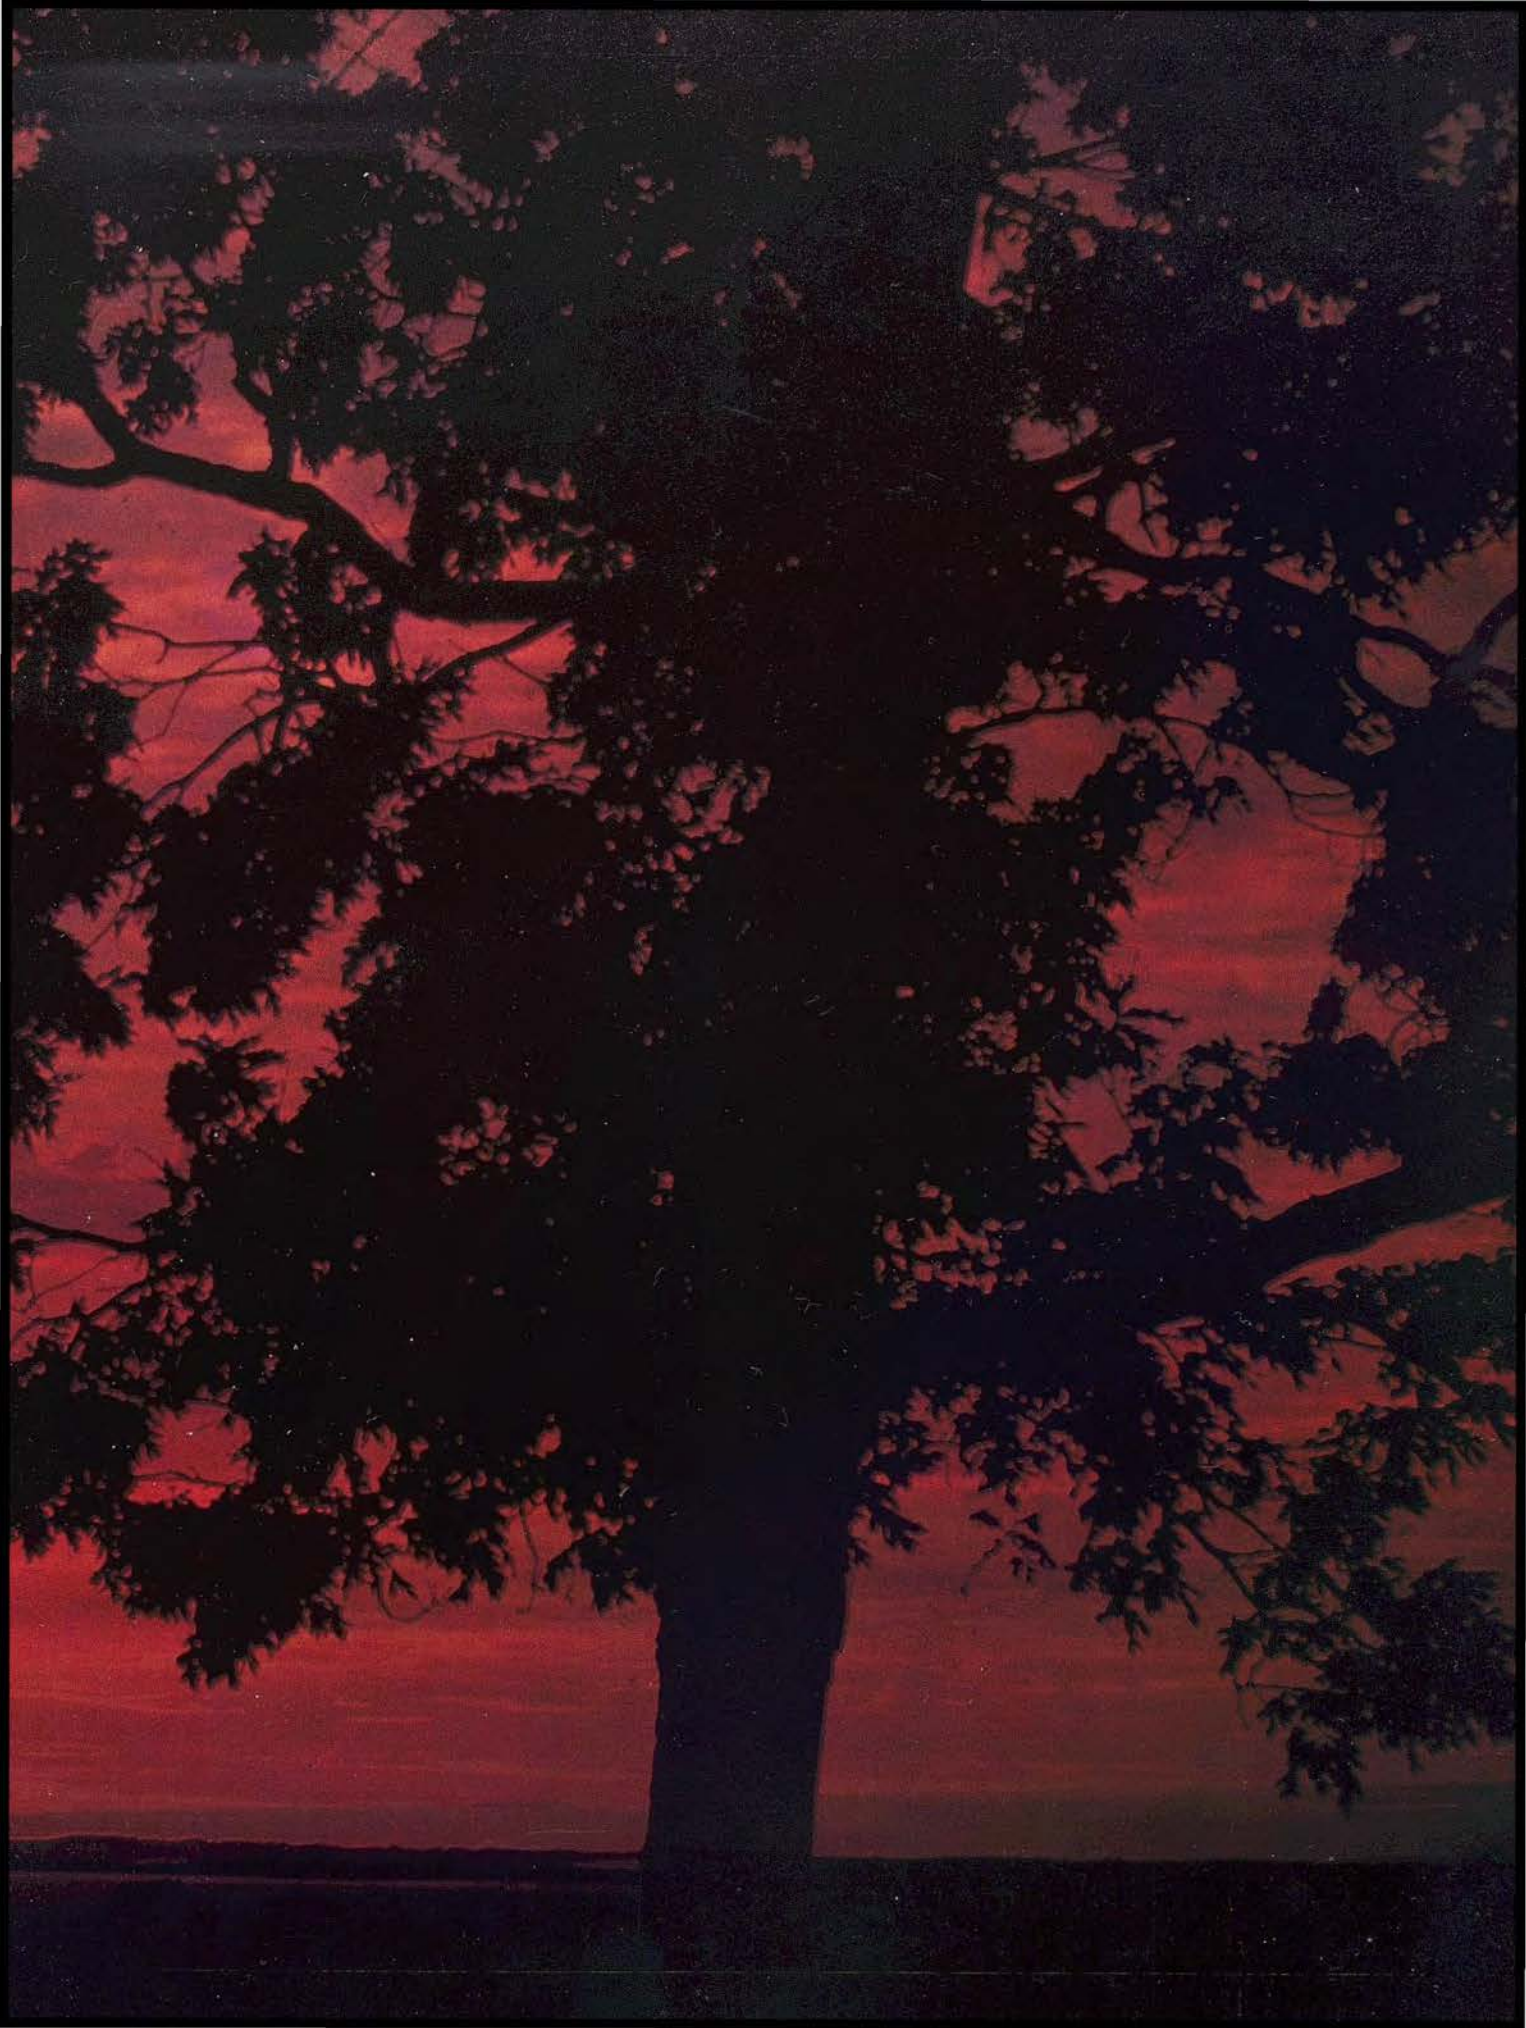

New Day

A dramatic sunset over a body of water. The sky is filled with vibrant, layered clouds in shades of orange, red, and purple. The sun is a bright, glowing orb positioned low on the horizon, just above the water. In the foreground, the dark silhouettes of tree branches and foliage frame the top and right sides of the image. The overall mood is serene and inspiring.

The sun will not set
on our joy,
If we follow it.

Administrators Direct Goals

Behind any fine school is a dedicated administration. Through shrewd control and loving discipline, our administrators keep school affairs pointed toward the goals of STA. Office personnel assure efficiency through their competent handling of business affairs.

Upper right, Sr. Thomas Marie, principal; lower right, Miss Pauline Reardon, guidance counselor; middle right, Sr. Leo Christopher, business manager; Mrs. Donovan, secretary; and Sr. Marguerite, registrar. Left, Sr. Ruth Marie, assistant principal; upper left, Sr. Ann Albrecht, librarian; lower left, Mrs. Fahey, receptionist.

As the darkness diminishes,
the sun shines through

Light and Depth

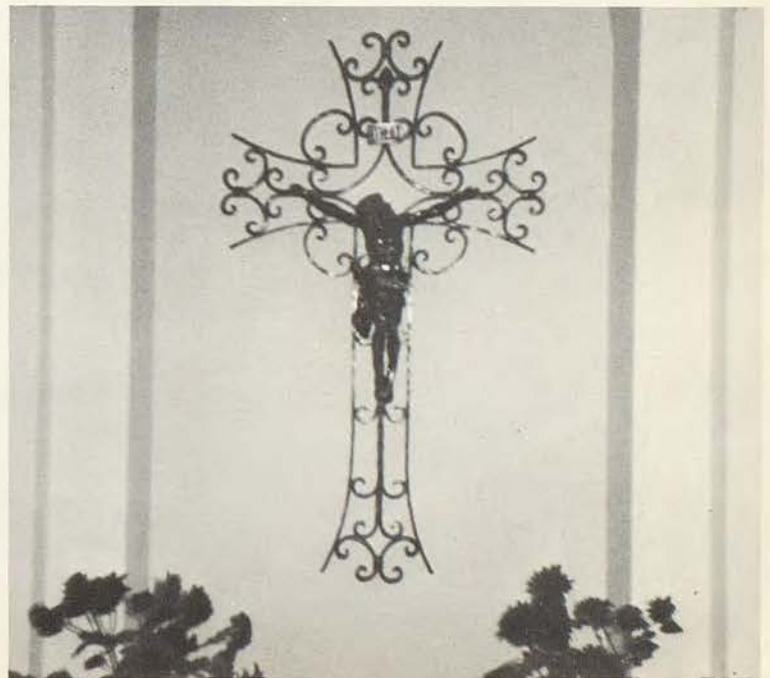

Hope in Change

Amid the clamor for change and revolt, the church too is changing. Our religion classes are discussing the vital questions of today, "Is there a God? Could the church have emerged from one chosen man? What place does the community hold in the church?" By becoming more conscious of faith in ourselves and others we know the love of God.

Solving Life's Complexities?

Spaceships and heart transplants are fast becoming a part of our life creating a great demand for knowledge of math and science. Solving trigonometric functions, learning the complexities of the human body and understanding the bonding of molecules, are all a part of our preparation for the space age.

Mrs. Bessie Koshland, Sr. Anne Rita, and Mrs Margaret Loschke, Math teachers, at upper left. On the lower left is Mrs. Mildred Hazlett, biology teacher. Sr. Cornelia, Math teacher, is pictured at center right. Sr. Patricia, Biology teacher, and Sr. Ruth, Chemistry and Physics teacher, are at lower right.

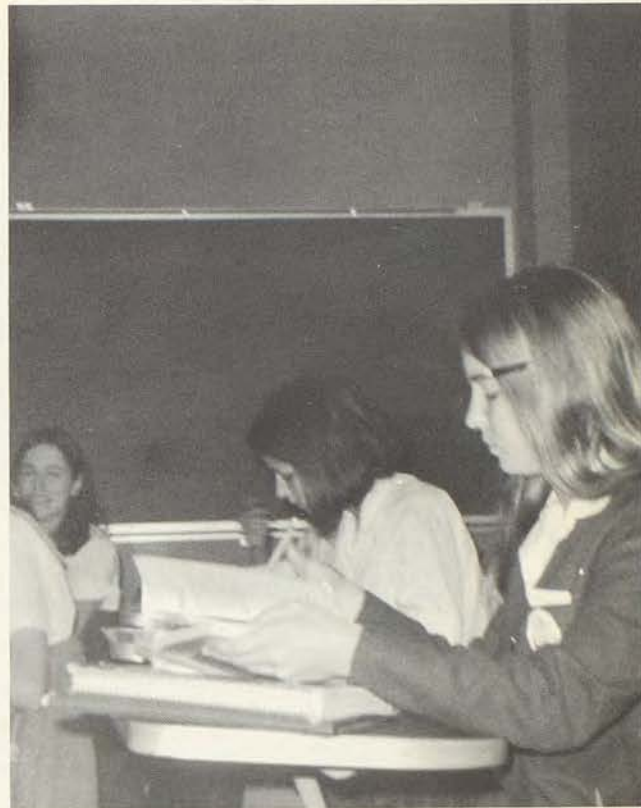

All Peoples Together

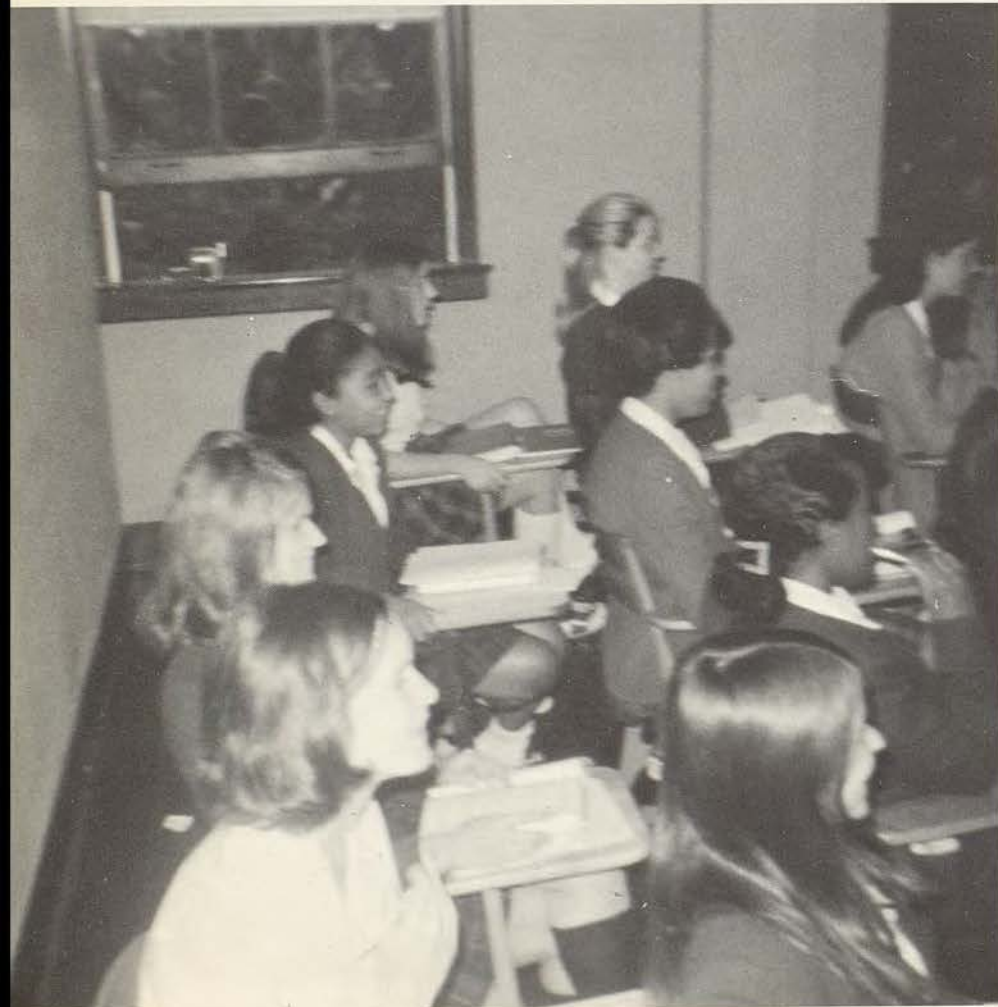

Rattling off A,B,C's in French, translating Virgil's Aeneid, and declining Spanish verbs are all a part of our foreign language classes. We learn not only the basics but also the different cultures. Through this study we better understand the peoples of the world.

Revelation Through Words

Revealing feelings and expressing ideas is part of being a thinking person. In our study of literature, writing compositions and learning grammatical structure we expand our means of expression.

The English teachers are: upper left, Mrs. Carolyn Harp, Sr. Lillia Marie and Sr. Marie, center: Sr. Ursula Marie, Sr. Marie, and Mrs. Frances Anderson lower center.

Essentially

In the computerized world of today, beauty and creativity still thrive. Youth must not only appreciate this wonder, but be able to contribute to its growth. Many unlikely experiences, such as singing to the ceiling, mixing glue, and breathing from the diaphragm lead us to expression in a variety of media.

Shown in everyday atmosphere are Sister Martha Ann, upper left, Art; Sister Donna, lower right, Drama; and Sister Nancy, upper right, Choral.

Expression

Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow

"Sure the world's getting smaller, the problems are just closer together." Life today doesn't allow for ignorance. It is through a study of the past that we can understand the problems of our world and appreciate its wonders. We examine our contemporary world situation also in Social Studies, for in it are planted the seeds of a brighter future.

Sr. Teresa, history and sociology teacher, and Sr. Mary Gerard, geography teacher, are at lower right.

Relax, men! Your doubts are baseless concerning the future woman's ability to baste a chicken, her talent in typing, or her efficiency with a bobbin. Through Practical Arts, we find ourselves more equipped than ever to live practically.

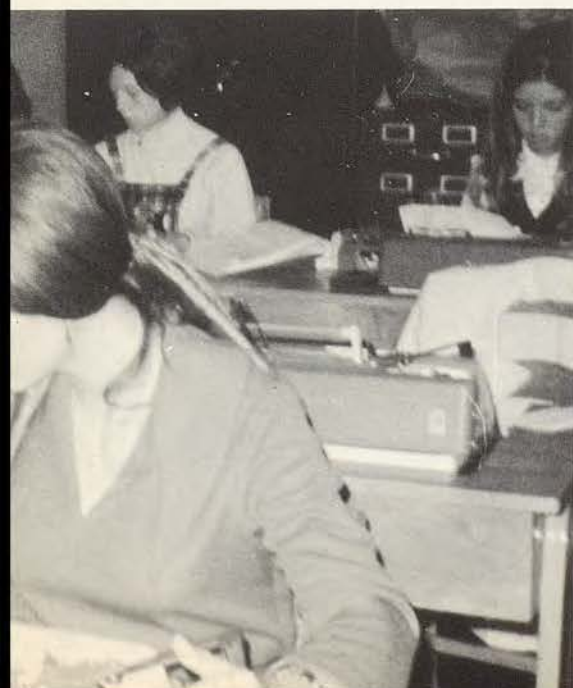

Sr. Jacqueline and Sr. Grace Louise, above, teach the typing and secretarial studies classes. Miss Betty Ann Halbert, right, is the Home Economics teacher.

What's

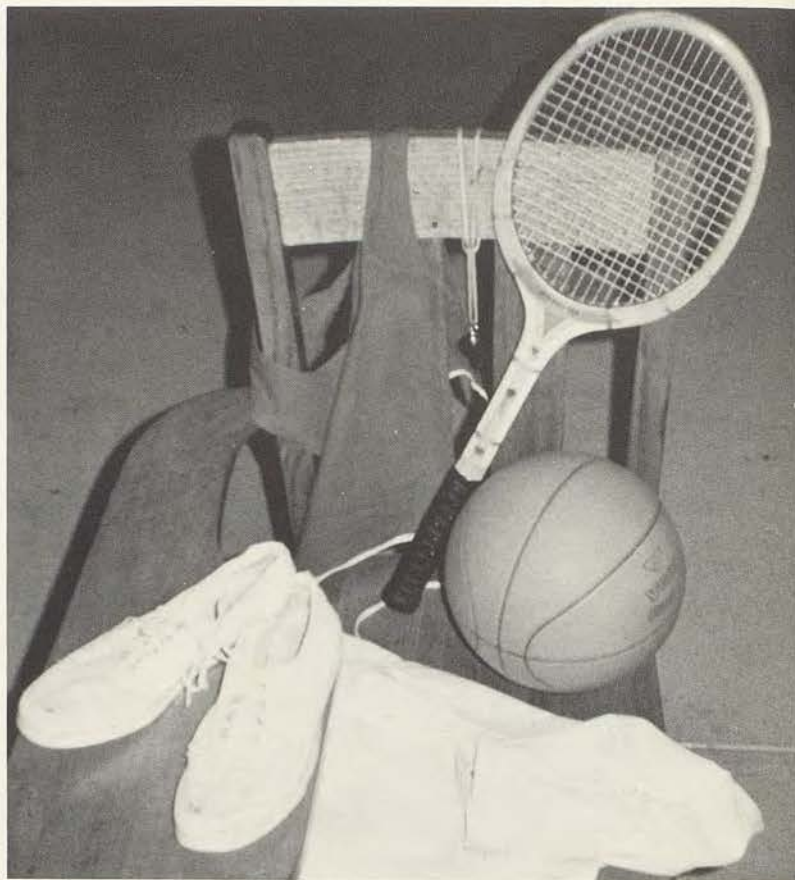

Practical

It's How You

Play the Game

Physical strength is only one factor in P.E. courses. Cooperation, competition and just plain grit come into play. In the interests of health and character, not to mention fun, we comply willingly.

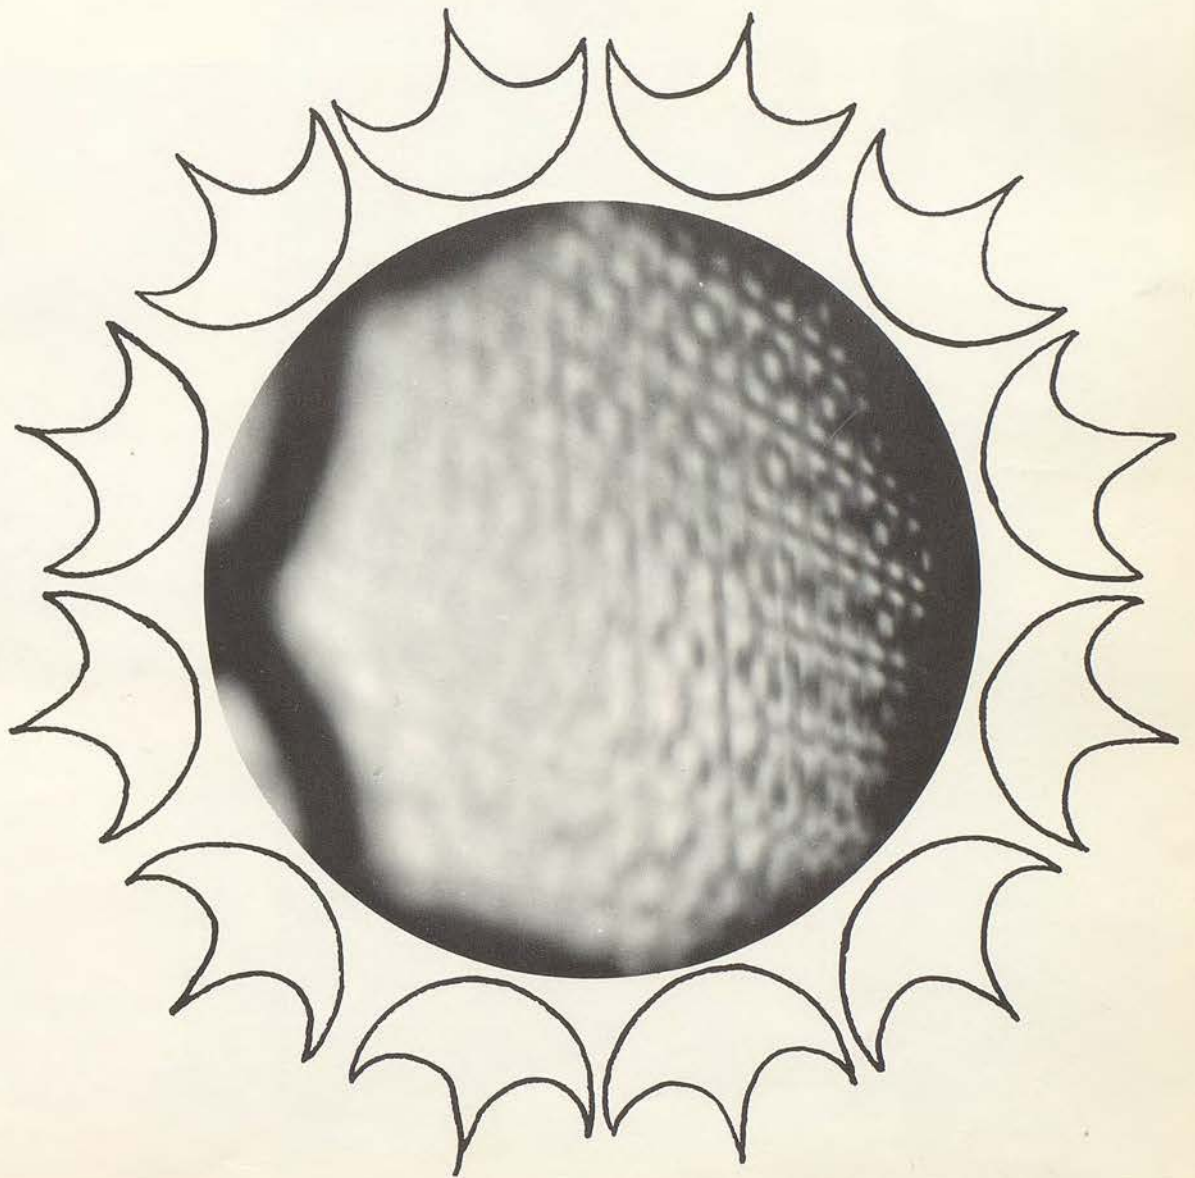

Miss Hill and Miss Christiansen, Physical Education teachers, are pictured at the lower right.

The sun appears,

Spirit and Vigor

The Student

Student Council members are very proud of their ears. They're always willing to listen to student gripes and groans, ideas and opinions. "Hello day" and the orientation skit gave students a chance to get to know each other and the school better. Student Council has kept up the good work catering to tummies and general good spirits with parties and a bake sale. Right in step are the Student Council officers. Jan Stephenson, secretary; Molly McGannon, treasurer; Mary Ann Carney, parliamentarian; Janice Sweeney, vice-president and Ann Franke, president.

Council Meets Our Needs

Class presidents Pam Santaro, Denise McNerney, Terri Owens, and Terry Metzler keep Student Council informed of class activities.

Miss Reardon, moderator, really cares for her students.

With a Ready Ear

The junior reps are taking their duties coolly. They are Vicky Minick, Janet Connar, Paula Farnen, and Mary Kay Van Buskirk.

Meditating on Student Council affairs are Kathy McNeillis, Katy McKenna, Elaine Cass, Margie Thorpe and Mary Beth Dyche, sophomore reps.

A cheery hello is offered by club reps: Peggy Herrington, Teresian; Kathy Kopp, Athletic Club; Patti Jankowski, Drama Club; Diane Dierks, Dart; and Cindy Donnici, Youth Congress.

These smiling Freshman reps are Molly Iwerson, Ellen McCarthy, Janice Toplikar, and Connie Doyle.

to Listen

Checking out on things are senior reps: Jean Letters, Michelle Leonardo, Ann Thorpe, and Beverly DeWilde.

Sister Martha, Teresian moderator, comes right "in."

Biking and coediting are favorite pastimes of Mary Morrow and Beth Bianco who keep in shape climbing up the ladder diagram.

Layout editors Peggy Owens, Debbie Alvarez, and Monique Renaud are really stacked with design ideas.

Teresian —

Kathy Matroni and Amy Bode, copywriters,

“Darn, Darn, and Double Darn!” Strong words are often heard in the Teresian room around “dread-line” time. But then hard language goes with hard work. The work and fun world of St. Teresa’s makes for a complicated picture. Through creative thinking and joint effort the staff has tried to produce the best portrait of life here.

Father Heining, photography adviser, takes time “out”.

Photographers and artists Susie Toplikar and Kathy Gordon practice posing on themselves.

Peggy Herrington and Janice Moore read carefully all signs and contracts as good business managers should.

Catching the Rays

Back to back, ready to duel over who gets to use the one typewriter, are typists Margie Cartella and Denise Halloran.

seem in another world looking for copy ideas.

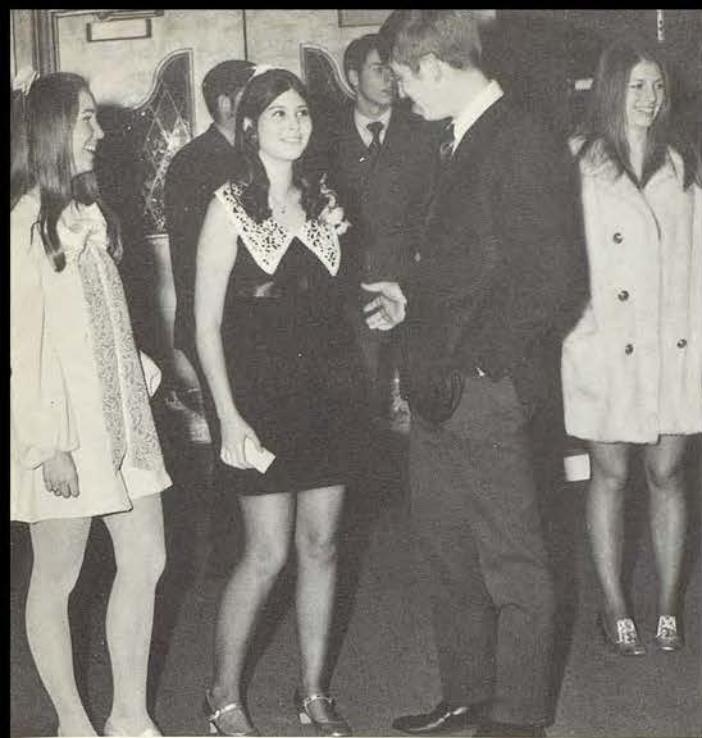

Television has worked its way into practically everything including the Teresian dance skit. It included the staff's version of a soap opera, American Bandstand and King for a Day with a few commercials, a Teresian meeting, and a guest appearance by Satan. The networks probably wouldn't touch it with a ten-foot pole but it did succeed in informing the student body about the Teresian Dance.

Place in the Sun”

November 26th, the dance was held at the Flaming Pit where Anne Clarke was crowned queen with Susan Clabots and Martha Estrada, first and second attendants. Music was provided by the Jumping Jacks. (It could be said that the place was hoppin' but it's better to keep puns out of a yearbook.)

Class of '71—"The neatest bunch of weirdos around.”

On top of the news are sports editor, Diane Dierks; news editor, Debbie Tate; and feature editor, Pat Koehler.

Sister Marie, advisor, gives Mary Jane Trainor, typist, hints on the find and peck method.

The Dart

Mary Kay Barry, business manager; Beth Relation manager, share one of those private

High school newspapers are usually received with polite indifference by anyone outside the school circle. St. Teresa's has a proud exception in the Dart. Published six times yearly, the Dart includes sports stories, features on activities at STA and other interesting spots, thought provoking editorials on everything from dating to pollution, as well as the inevitable funny stuff. The Dart would be a credit to any school large or small.

Elena Herran and Mickey Powers, columnists, look over a swingin' article.

Mary Jo Wallerstedt and Jeanne Wilde fight make-up.

tonde, photographer and copy editor; and Rachelle Hyder, circulator staff jokes.

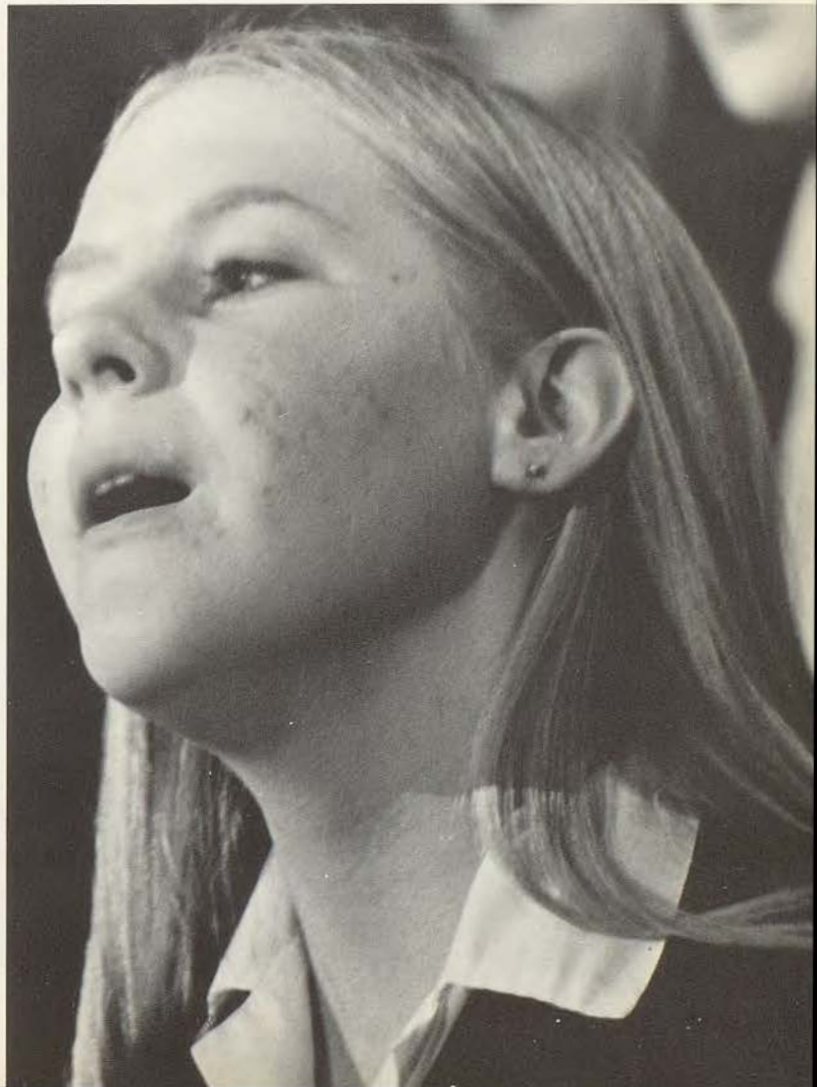

Co-editors Kathy Rost and Anne Clarke lay down the law.

Happy

Singing While Swinging at STA

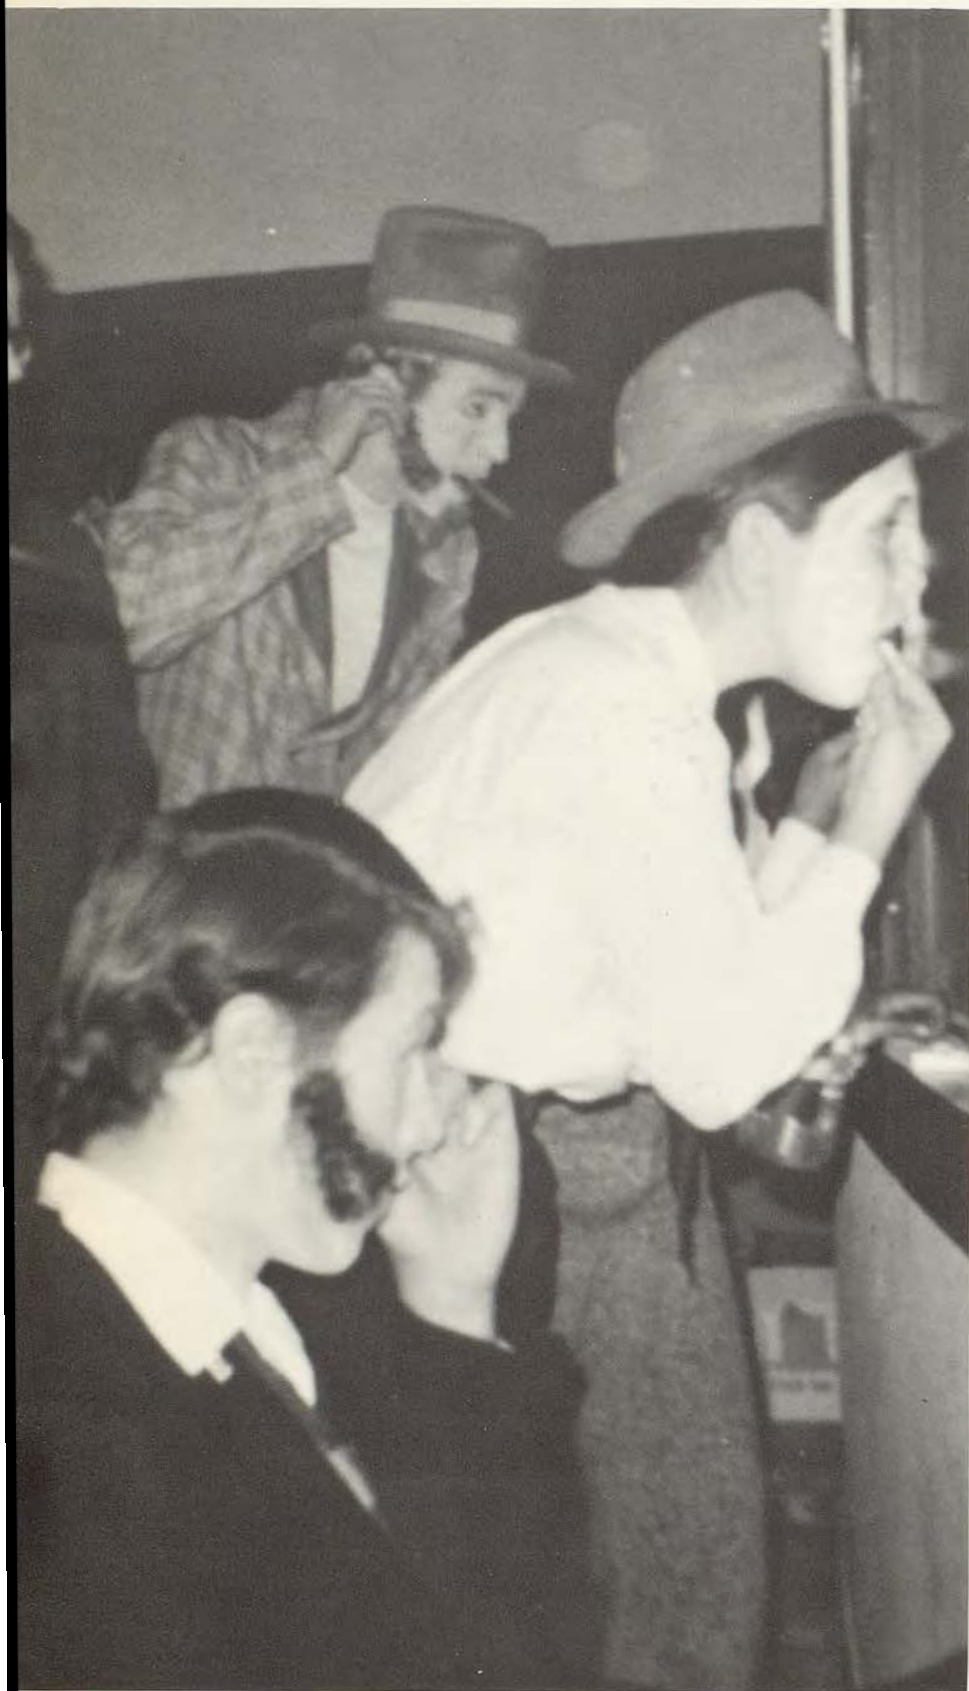

Change is in the air and Glee Club and Madrigals are no exception. In new navy blue dresses they made this year's debut in a wonderful performance for the student body. One thing about the Glee Club never changes—fine performances. Never during their concerts or assemblies did they fail to thrill their audience. The Madrigals, a remarkable a capella group, ranges beyond school activities singing for dinners, weddings, and religious services.

Keeping in harmony are Kelly McLearn, president; Paula Miller, vice-president; Suzanne Hoag, treasurer; Pam Ernst, secretary; and Sister Nancy, moderator.

Great Performances on and Off Stage

Chorus lines, silent movies, and Mark Twain were all a part of the Drama Club's first production of the year, "A Night of American Theatre." Applause was enough reward for the girls involved, both onstage and off. Painting sets, scrounging around for props, mastering the light board, wading through make-up, whipping up costumes all are every bit as important as memorizing lines and tackling techniques. For all these tasks Drama Club needs its large four class membership. It's fun being a part of a group that has a great past but also a great future. As the theatre grows, the Drama Club does too, seeking always a creative means of expression.

Leading Drama Club are Sister Donna, moderator; Patti Jankowski, president; Susie Kratofil, secretary; Tina Garies, vice-president; and Anne Cox, treasurer.

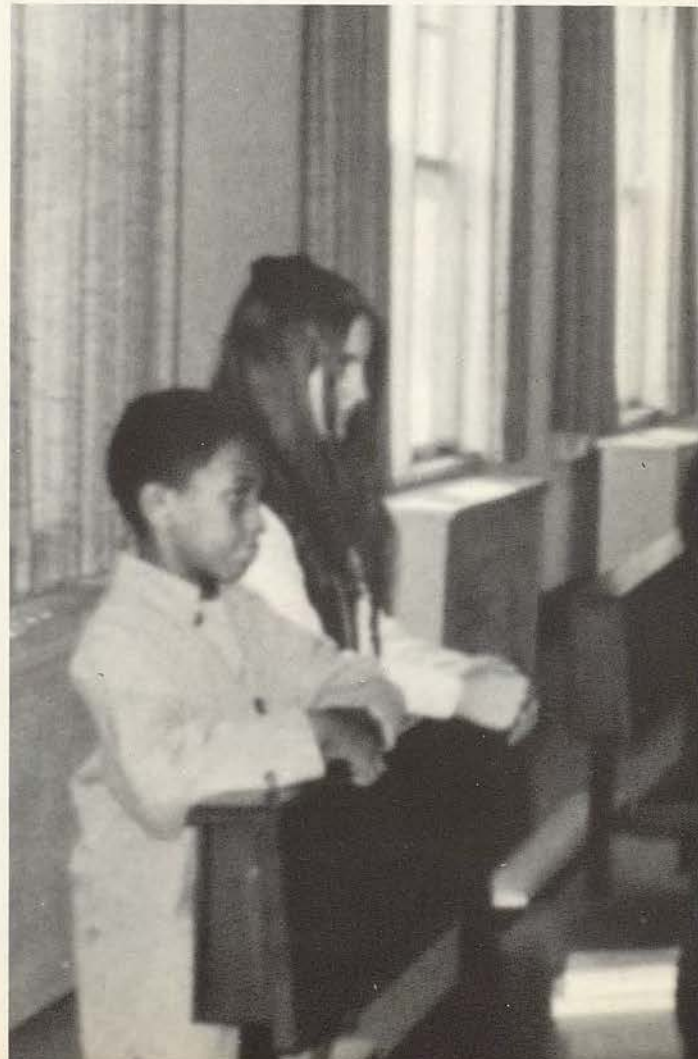

Devotion comes in many forms but none is more rewarding than teaching retarded children on Saturday mornings. Keeping early-risers on their toes is not always easy, as program directors Sister Anne Sauto and Sister Donna will readily testify. But the girls make up for any lack of energy with enthusiasm. They have found that as they strive to instruct they also are instructed and they look at love in a new light. In the face of a child who can't hear or in the eyes of a child who can't speak, love is strikingly simple yet very profound. A declaration like "You're nice" from a child who is slower than others of his own age can mean as much as "I love you." For teachers and children alike, Saturday mornings are always bright.

Saturdays Filled

Finding Ourselves Through

Sodality's purpose is to instruct its members in the art of being a Christian woman. Meetings involve lively discussions on any conceivable topic from communication to getting to know each other better. A generous spirit of giving is shown in sodalists' at Little Sisters of the Poor, helping out a Marillac and Guadalupe Center and Christmas collections for families in the inner-city. Involvement with others helps each sodalist know herself and others better.

Sodality officers are Nancy Hurley, President; Kathy Rickard, vice-president; Kathy O'Connor, treasurer; Carol Pecorara, secretary.

Each Other

Wonder Club Builds

Building strong bodies and good sportsmanship is the goal of the Athletic Club. Besides the volleyball and basketball seasons, a Sweetheart Dance was held, keeping members in shape. The club also sponsored a paper drive with all classes exhibiting a keen spirit of competition.

The Athletic Club officers are Nancy Nigro, treasurer; Mary Ellen Heavenly, secretary; Marily Wilman, vice-president; and Kathy Kopp, president.

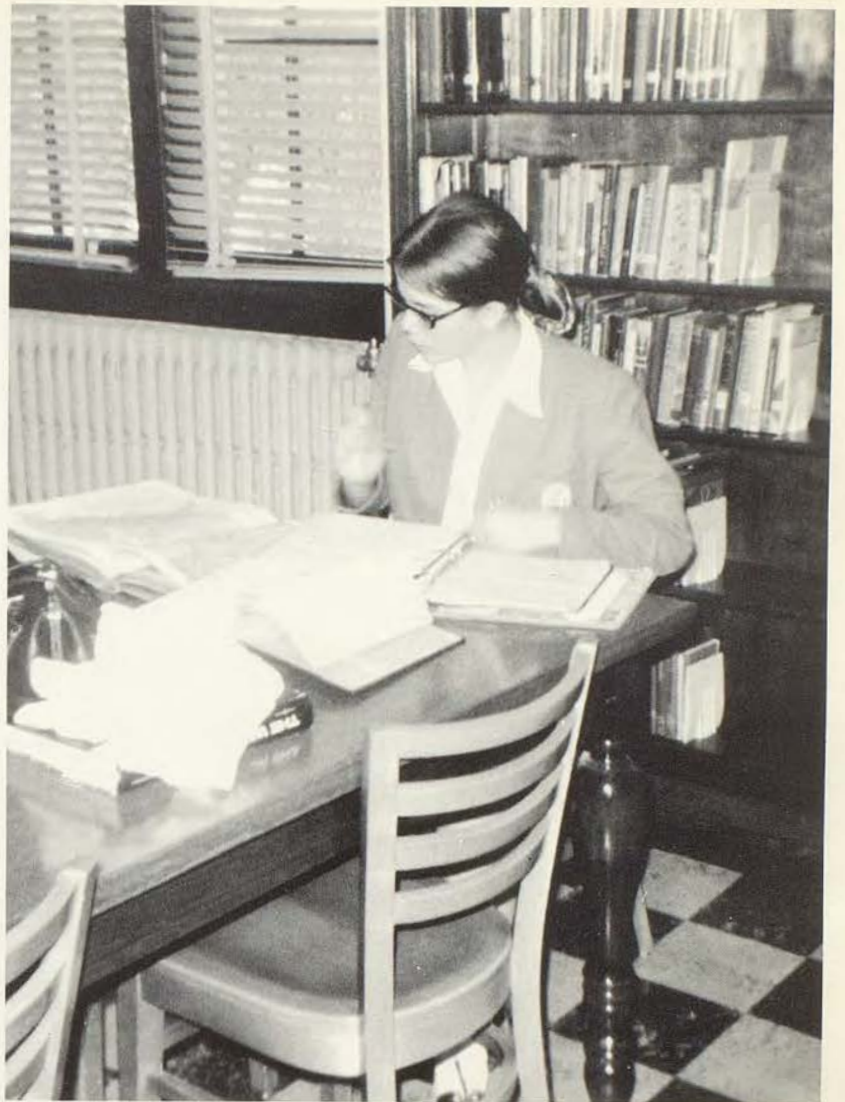

Strong Bodies

Quality Not Quantity

Counts

Who's behind the hottest spot in town? Who put the zip in Dewey Decimal? The Library Club, of course! Meanwhile, the Junior Classical League is not idle. Either handling the school's Christmas postal flood or engrossed in conventions and mythical card games, the JCL keeps itself busy. "Stealing" from the rich to give to the poor, the Mission Club keeps Robin Hooding alive.

Kelly McLearn — Irish Eyes Are Smiling

The STA Academy Girl is a special person. She stands out because her deep devotion and enthusiasm for her school create a unique kind of love which sets her apart. She is alive and happy to be a member of STA. Kelly McLearn is our Academy Girl for 1970. In her, we see a person with a distinct joy for life and what she can contribute to it. With Irish eyes smiling, Kelly works, studies and laughs with the sincerity of an Academy Girl St. Teresa's can be very proud of.

The girls could hardly believe their ears, Ann Franke had been named Betty Crocker Homemaker of the year. More serious reactions were shown when Kathy Rost, Jeanne Wilde, and Monique Renaud were named National Merit finalists. Kathy also won a NCTE Achievement Award. The speech team under Sister Donna's direction, won the Sweepstakes at the De La Salle tournament. Rosie Molanari was crowned Rockhurst Homecoming queen and Patty Crooks first attendant while down at De La Salle Peggy Barr and Dana Cowan wowed the Titans.

Beauties, Scholars, and Betty Crocker

Overcoming fear of high places, extreme cold, and menacing snowbanks, the senior class exhibited courage as they hit the slopes. Whether idling at Idlewild or yodeling at Yodel Inn, good times were everywhere. Not only was the fine art of skiing mastered (somewhat) but also the old art of getting to know each other better.
