The face of a student, 1966-1967. . .
reflections of an expression which told a story of a mood, an emotion, an attitude.
At Shawnee Mission East there was a multitude of faces. . .flooding from busses, hurrying to classes, forming lunchlines, crowding halls.
Each identified a unique individual. . .the face of possibility in sophomores, of probability in juniors, of responsibility in seniors.
An expression revealed the intricate reactions of a student, of a crowd, of a school.
The face of determination in an athlete, of transformation in an actor, of argument in a debater, of harmony in a musician.
The responses exposed by one face became the opinions of a small group, the feelings of a moderate crowd, the impressions of a mass.
Shawnee Mission East . . .the merger of 2016 faces forming one face. . .a face with aspirations and goals . . . the face of a student body. . . 1966-1967.

administration

The face of an administrator. . .one that sought to maintain equilibrium among students, officials, and district regulation.

A superintendent who, in his last year before retirement, faced the educational needs of an enlarged district with personalized dominance. . .a face marked with the lines of concern for 15,000 teenagers, the friendly eyes of understanding, the white hair signifying years of service.

The well-known face of a principal. . .

a stern look of organization that represented the focal point of school unity. . .one that dealt with individual and collective problems.

The face of assistance. . .a vice-principal, a counselor, an office attendant. . .each searched for precision and perfection in clarifying the puzzled faces of confusion.

And these faces governed a school. . .faces so involved with our high school that Shawnee Mission East became an engrained part of their lives.

The face of control. . .the face of an administrator.

DR. HERBERT I. BRUNING—Assistant Superintendent

Dr. Howard McEachen and the board of education headed a team of specialists as they worked to maintain a school system of 17,484 varied pupils.

The administration dealt with three new problems this year: hiring a competent staff to fill expanding teacher's positions, finishing SM South and Trailridge, and obtaining needed additional supplies.

From seventh grade "live" science to senior psychology, programs fostered by the administration aimed to provide technical and individual skills tailored to each separate student.

Officials Work For An Efficient System

Mr. Carl Ison led the SM East faculty as he interpreted district policy to fit school problems. Working for the maintenance of a smooth-running school, he supervised teachers and presided over every facet of school life.

Mr. Art Newcomer directed the club program as he endeavored to involve every student in a school activity. He served as athletic coordinator as he helped organize athletic events.

In his initial year as an administrator, Mr. William Vick brought new programs to assemblies each week. Checking attendance, he noted absentees and tardy students, and discussed missed eighth hours with errant pupils.

Discipline, a major job, required the efforts of all three. In keeping order, they combined firmness with interest in the individual.

MR. CARL ISON, Principal. Kansas State College, B.S.; University of Missouri at Kansas City, M.A.

MR. RICHARD FISHER—Kansas State University, B.S.; University of Kansas, B.A., M.S. Counselor.

MR. HAROLD GERSH—Counselor. University of Missouri at Kansas City, B.A., M.A.; University of California; University of Kansas; Columbia University.

MISS GENE CRILEY—Counselor. Battle Creek College, B.A.; University of Texas; Northeast Missouri State College, M.A.; University of Iowa; Colorado College; Stanford University; Utah University.

Counselors Discuss Many Future Plans

Class scheduling and college preparations were given individual consideration by an efficient quartet of counselors.

After a year of further study at Kansas University, Mr. Fisher returned to his former counseling position. Miss Criley began the 1966-67 academic year with renewed enthusiasm after a summer in Malaysia with the highly selective pilot program of Teachers Abroad. Finding that most problems of youth are internationally shared, Miss Criley augmented her understanding as Shawnee Mission East's AFS sponsor. Mr. Gersh and Mr. Larson continued personal consultations and aided students technically by administering the DAT and National Merit standard tests, respectively. Such tasks as party chaperoning and endless phone calls completed the counselors' duties.

Office Personnel Aid In School Management

The unending tasks and minute details required to efficiently run a school were capably handled by the office staff.

As bookkeeper, Mrs. Walter recorded the school's financial ups and downs. Mrs. Rhue, the counselors' secretary, was busiest at semester's end arranging college transcripts. Through her job of switchboard operator, Mrs. Piper's voice became familiar to all. Among their many duties, registrar Mrs. Parks was responsible for grade cards and Mrs. Myers, attendance clerk, checked absences and tardiness. Taking dictation from Mr. Ison became one of Mrs. Hoffman's regular jobs, while Mrs. Dorn, new school nurse, gave first aid to pupils. Student volunteers provided a finishing touch to the school office.

Personnel Aim For Nutrition, Operation

Daily the cafeteria ladies and custodians continued in their behind-the-scenes tasks of balancing meals and maintaining school property.

Under the capable authority of head dietician Mrs. Marietta Jacks, cafeteria personnel prepared a variety of lunches. Two complete meals as well as a varied assortment of sandwiches, fruit, and ice cream were available. A festive mood was set by the special holiday menus and unusual cuisine.

Directed by Mr. Ralph Reed, custodial duties ranged from grounds maintenance to effective heating control. Frequently, these men remained long after hours to clean up following school dances, hectic basketball games, or a day-long-carnival. Faculty and students alike looked to the custodians for efficiency in operating the school's complex facilities.

The Parent-Teacher Association strove to bring into a closer relation the home and school by presenting various annual programs.

On September 26 the PTA sponsored Back-to-School Night, designed to recruit members and introduce parents to faculty and classroom procedures. The October 23 College Clinic offered the entire community first-hand information about ninety colleges and universities. Representatives from New York to California acquainted several thousand clinic participants with scholarship availabilities as well as aspects of college life. At the Careers Workshop in February, professionals in diverse fields guided students in choosing an appropriate vocation. Educators and parents united to fulfill their highest advantages in physical, mental, social, and spiritual education.

MR. ART NEWCOMER — Principal of Summer School.

Seemingly tired from summer activities and heat, students succumb to the confinement of pre-semester classes.

Beverly Gordon tries the cool approach to master summer heat before returning to regular classroom routine.

Courses Offer Additional Learning Opportunities

A mixture of academic pursuit and informality characterized the 1966 sessions of summer school. Scholars tackled concise courses in driver's education, American History, and personal typing. Field trips provided biologists and artists with first-hand subjects.

Summertime afforded students learning opportunities at national camps and conferences. Student Congress leaders returned from the East Coast, Estes Park, Colorado, and Lawrence, Kansas, with new ideas for school-wide participation and unity. In Chicago and Manhattan, Harbinger and Hauber editors prepared for the upcoming year's publications. Varsity cheerleaders perfected versatility of cheers at a Minnesota camp. Musicians improved voice control at a Kansas University workshop.

Summer activities prepared learners and leaders for active participation in the forthcoming academic year.

The heat of orientation week prompts a student to abandon her sandals in favor of the cool comfort of a nearby metal desk.

With warm weather and memories of lazy summer months still prevailing, SM East students met for three half-days of orientation.

The Student Congress had been preparing for this preliminary week by attending summer workshop camps, compiling an explanatory newsletter and greeting new students. Chris Montgomery, Student Congress President, spoke of the youth of today, their patriotism, and their convictions in a speech given separately before each class. Prior to Chris's address, Mr. Vick and Mr. Newcomer, vice-principals, stressed the importance of cooperating with the faculty.

Pep Club orientation for sophomores created interest and urged participation in the 1966-1967 Pep Club. Following a demonstration by varsity cheerleaders, each Pep Club officer explained his duties. Orientation signaled a return to routine for juniors and seniors while initiating sophomores into high school life.

Profitable Study Time

The crowded rush of the halls and the demands of the classroom were momentarily forgotten during the lull of a study hall. Endless note taking, complicated lab exercises and baffling test questions were left behind as students completed homework, began a new assignment, or caught up on reading.

The library was always available, facilitating research with thousands of books, pamphlets and periodicals. Both entertainment and education were encouraged by the wide range of literary, informative and reference materials. Hundreds of paperback books and a photo-copier completed the convenience of the library.

Conscientious students utilized study hall time and numerous library resources to enrich and expand routine classroom work.

Classic Style Of Shakespeare Inspires Students

Rick Old exhibits a contemplative attitude as he thoughtfully evaluates his English theme.

Ranging from the study of grammar basics to a thorough investigation of diverse literature styles, English classes furnished pupils with a comprehensive background of our spoken and written language.

Sophomores were introduced to the general concepts of writing through reading examples of various literary periods. Junior courses emphasized English literature, from the Anglo-Saxon period up to and including modern authors such as T. S. Eliot and George Orwell. Senior English, a composition course, delved into study of contemporary poetry and novels, with importance placed on Shakespeare's Othello and three others. Vocabulary and practical reading and writing skills completed the English curriculum.

Actors, Orators Exhibit Talent At State Contests

Self-expression embodied the goal of drama and speech students. Hard work to perfect diction and express emotions enlarged appreciation for skillful public speaking and acting.

A course offered for the first time in stagecraft enabled seniors to explore in depth theatre techniques, such as make-up and character portrayal. First year students concentrated on fundamentals, including presentation pantomimes, monologues, and readings from plays including Our Town and Pygmalion.

Extemporaneous speeches tested orators' ability to think on their feet. Assigned talks showed preparation on such varied subjects as summer vacations and values in life.

Speech and drama students acquired new poise and self-confidence as hallmarks of their study.

Refresher math students dealt with decimals as they reviewed mathematical fundamentals. Algebra pupils solved equations and graphed hyperbolas. Compasses aided geometry classes as they concocted figures of a symmetrical nature and investigated theorems dating from Euclid, while trigonometry teachers encouraged students to explore the depths of a triangle. For more talented mathematicians, honors courses terminating in calculus offered learning on a college level.

Whether as a basis for a career or a background for college, math courses gave each student a knowledge of mathematics.

American History

Casually comprehending the various motives for the American Revolution, Bob Worth adds his own conclusions mentally.

The relationship and influence of the past on the present provided an underlying theme for learning, as social science classes stressed concern with the study of man in space and time.

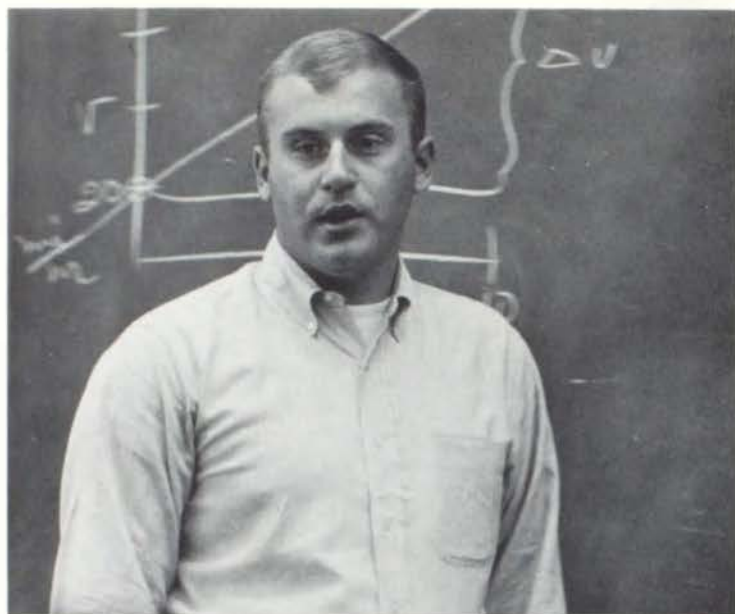

The advancement of humanity in underdeveloped continents as Africa was examined in World History. Juniors pursued American History as a state requirement for graduation. Offered for the first time, a college psychology course guided seniors to a deeper understanding of man's behavior. International Relations students sought knowledge of United States' roles in Europe, Asia, and Latin America, while Economics study involved the GNP, balance of payments, and gold flow crisis. A course newly titled American Government equipped seniors to become better citizens of tomorrow, as they sought to further knowledge of political, economic, and social living.

Biology, Chemistry

Classroom lectures and laboratory experiments taught modern science to students of biology, chemistry, physics, and applied science.

In conjunction with textbook assignments, Biology I students dissected specimens of the two major phyla. Botanical lab blocks were also included in their course of study to provide visible examples of plant growth and development. Often using elaborate equipment, as the oscillator and stroboscope, physics classes gained insight and precision in the study of matter and energy. A new textbook was introduced in the chemistry department, Chemistry: Science of Matter, Energy, and Change. In honors classes, exceptional students endeavored to learn the axioms and properties of science on a level equivalent with college freshmen.

Combined with individual research investigations, the four science courses gave students a fundamental knowledge of scientific procedure and its related principles.

On the premise that business success rests upon broad insights, business classes were programmed to cover the complexity of many fields. Practical studies of technical skills provided students with a thorough education.

Experimentation and individuality were foremost in the minds of serious art and crafts students, encouraging exploration in various media and techniques. Beginning art students strived for a sound knowledge in the fundamentals of design and color while advanced students sought improved delivery and imaginative expression in basic sketching and such complex processes as lithography. More common implements were replaced by sponges or glue-soaked tissue as students achieved special effects. Crafts students produced interesting results in wood carvings, clay sculptures and silversmithing.

A variety of projects from burnished copper to delicate watercolors were displayed in the showcases throughout the year.

Fashion Modes And Discuss Home Management

In preparation for the future, home economics classes learned the fundamental and often complex aspects of family relations, sewing, and the culinary arts.

Foods I classes stressed nutrition in cooking, while Foods II and III emphasized efficiency in the purchasing and preparation of food. Clothing classes were taught the uses of various natural and synthetic fibers, color coordination, and fashion, while gaining practical experience in sewing. Family and Home, a course for seniors, taught family relations as applied to individual personality development, child care, and family budgeting.

These courses provided the basis for a homemaking career or effective management of the home.

The driver's education program, designed to meet the pressing demand for responsible and capable drivers, emphasized the emotional as well as the mechanical aspects of handling a car. Under the watchful eyes of instructors, students coped with actual driving situations in the parking lot and later on the streets. Classroom instruction instilled proper mental attitudes toward defensive driving. Culmination of this course came in spring when aspiring licensees demonstrated their driving skills.

In the auto mechanics classes, boys prepared for vocations by grinding valves, fixing transmissions, and overhauling engines.

New abilities gained through these two programs proved vital to our car-oriented society.

Striving to represent certain aspects of industry, programs in industrial art gave background to students interested in architectural and engineering careers. Wood shop and metal shop familiarized students with the limitations and skills involved in working with varying materials. Elementary drawing, architectural drawing, and mechanical drawing heightened dexterity in exact figure reproduction.

Supplementing regular curriculum, architecture pupils prepared models for display at the Kansas Industrial Art Fair. Newly installed drafting machines provided practice in additional industrial art fields, while new textbooks for architectural drawing classes fulfilled the need for up-to-date techniques.

Designed to correlate theory with practical techniques, classes initiated students into industrial methods and materials.

The nights of November 18 and 19 brought symbolism to the stage, as the fall play The Madwoman of Chaillot created the atmosphere of a fantastic Parisian world.

The Madwoman, Countess Aurelia, is shocked to discover that her beloved suburban town of Chaillot is threatened by a league of calculating businessmen who conspire to drill for oil. In the cuts presented for assemblies the week preceding performances, Aurelia and her Countess friends conduct a mock trial to convict all greedy businessmen. Then the Madwoman cleverly disposes of them, leaving the world once again virtuous for her vagabond friends.

Special experimental effects, such as colored lighting, music, and blackouts, combined with double line meanings to produce a memorable evening's entertainment.

The deaf-mute draws an interested crowd and worried looks from the Madwoman as Irma translates what his fingers say.

"Funny Girl" Recalls Flamboyancy Of The 1920 Era

While marveling over Fanny's success on Broadway, Mrs. Brice's friends enjoy a poker game in her saloon.

Weeks of rehearsal and backstage work culminated in the mid-February performance of "Funny Girl."

Never before enacted on a high school stage, "Funny Girl" is based on the life of Fanny Brice and her rise to theatrical fame. Fanny, played by Pam Miller, ascends from an obscure, backstreet theatre to the splendor of the Ziegfeld Follies assisted by a combination of luck, pert self-confidence, and kosher comedy. With his poignant love of Fanny, Nick Arnstein, portrayed by Joe Potter, lended the musical an air of romance.

Hours of behind-the-scenes preparation set the stage for the glamour of the Ziegfeld Follies and life in New York during the time of World War I. Joint efforts of make-up artists, lighting and stage technicians enhanced the dramatic and musical performance of East's ninth operetta.

Despite a measure of apprehension, Fanny Brice squeals delightedly at Nick Arnstein's proposition for the evening's entertainment.

Grimacing at her beautiful reflection, Fanny establishes a precedent for her future career in the Follies.

Aiding Murray in landing a job, Sandra tends to final details while Murray confirms the interview time.

Armed with brotherly advice and a box of fruit, Arnold Burns tries to convince Murray he must get a job.

The conflict between materialism and idealism provided the theme for the 1967 spring play A Thousand Clowns presented on April 14 and 15.

The play concerns the values of Murray Burns, an unemployed television writer who is bringing up his nephew. With a fresh approach to life, Murray draws the young boy into his abstract and eccentric world. Complications ensue when social workers attempt to wrest the child from Murray's care. One of the staff, Sandra Markowitz, is fascinated with Murray's nonconformity, and, finding herself personally involved in the case, drops charges. She falls in love with Murray and decides to join him and his nephew in their New York apartment. Murray, meanwhile, returns to society, happily oblivious to the escapist world he has created.

Six actors comprised the able cast, while predominantly female crews brought vividness to the stage through outlandish settings and costumes and special lighting and sound.

To New Languages

Participating in the International Christian Youth Exchange, American Field Service Program, and Exchange for International Living, S.M. East students journeyed to other nations and welcomed foreign students in their homes.

Expectations mounted as five Prairie Village families awaited the arrivals of adopted sons and daughters. Language barriers were overcome in the desire to freely exchange the ideas, customs, and heritage between youth of various nationalities. With the school year came necessary adaptations to different modes of academic and extra-curricular life.

A similar exchange took place in the foreign countries to which five S.M. East students journeyed for either summer or year-long programs. Each of the three exchange organizations, ICYE, AFS, and EIL, contributed to a more complete knowledge of international relations.

With obvious enjoyment, Benoit Guizard, AFS student from France, adapts French words to American folk songs.

Claus Adams is quick to assist his fellow foreign dramatist as they perform in accented English for the banquet audience.

The "Country Fair" Raises AFS Funds

Country dress and piped-in country music provided the atmosphere for a "Country Fair," the StuCo-sponsored carnival, held to raise funds to finance Shawnee Mission East's foreign exchange students for the 1967-68 school year.

Buttons advertising slogans such as "Make hay while the moon shines" were sold as shares during the week preceding the carnival. Each class competed to donate the largest amount of money per student. The winning class's candidates for King and Queen, seniors Harvey Grossman and Janet Winn, crowned at the carnival, presided over the mixer following the fair.

Planning for the booths began in February, when interested clubs and organizations chose ideas and prizes. Final preparations continued until the night of March 17, when homespun ingenuity appeared at "Silo High's" computer center, home movie theater, and wrestling ring.

Combos And Corsages Combine To Produce Memorable Dances

With thoughts of a White Christmas, winter vacation, and no homework reflected on their faces, couples enjoy dancing to the Chessman at a festive Christmas formal.

Jim Ballinger enlivens an apology for stepping on Jenny Manson's toe with a private joke.

Eight school dances enhanced by original decorations and music planned by the StuCo Social Committee created unique reactions, including "sit-ins" and large dance circles. Casual attire and music by the Ravens set the mood for the first school dance, heralding the year's parties. Yellow and orange streamers combined with the sound of the Fabulous Four to produce a semiformal dance climaxing the Homecoming ceremonies. The fall WPA offered girls a chance to invite dates to hear the Trees, Bushes, and/or Tall Grass. A holiday mood prevailed at the Christmas Semiformal, which was held to the music of the Chessmann. The Abstracts played for the Letterman Dance, open free to all athletic lettermen. Royalty again presided at the Basketball Sweetheart Mixer and at the Third Annual Jovial Jig, highlighted by the crowning of the Hauber queen. While bidding the graduating class a festive departure, the Senior Farewell Dance culminated the social season.

Oblivious to dancing couples and the distance ruling, a couple shares a comment over their favorite song.

In the traditional white dresses of the homecoming court, Janet Winn pauses to admire Jenny Manson's commemorative bracelet.

Kieth Jantz listens indifferently as Lydia Tate expresses her enthusiasm for the new soul music the combo has been playing.

Laughing at an apparently funny situation, Mark Robinson jokingly tries to explain it to his date, Maureen Callahan.

Queen Connie graciously receives the traditional red roses from one of her homecoming court as Mr. Ison looks on approvingly.

Seated in the position of honor on the homecoming float, Connie Warman reveals her happiness and surprise before her crowning.

Heralders and kneeling synchronettes honor homecoming candidates as a brisk wind curves the path to the throne.

Climaxing weeks of work and expectation, the homecoming procession moved sedately around the field at half-time. Six Sting-rays preceded the float, decorated with red, orange, and yellow roses in accordance with the '66 theme, "Roses of Love." The Synchronettes knelt, the band played "The Way You Look Tonight," as the queen and court were escorted onto the field by their fathers. After Cathy Robinson, first attendant; Joan Marsh, second attendant; Patty Johnson, third attendant; and Diane McCroskey, fourth attendant were crowned, Connie Warman, Homecoming Queen, was crowned by 1965 Homecoming Queen, Linda Tate. Mr. Ison ended the ceremony with a kiss for Connie.

The following night, Homecoming chairman Lydia Tate repeated the "Roses of Love" theme in the dance decorations. Escorted by their dates, the 1966 Royal Court was presented to alumni and students at the dance, which culminated the week-end of Homecoming festivities.

A radiant queen Connie and her proud father flash identical smiles at happy Lancers who have come to pay her homage.

At the half-time of the Topeka Central-SM East game February 17, the Synchronettes, wearing traditional red and white, formed a lane in preparation for the Basketball Sweetheart coronation. The seven court members, chosen by the Pep Club Executive Committee and the varsity basketball squad, took their places around the throne against the backdrop of a giant pink and gold heart as the band played "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Bursts of applause greeted attendants Merry Cooper and Jenny Manson as they were escorted past kneeling Synchronettes. Then as the watching crowd approved, 1967 Basketball Sweetheart Ty Evans was crowned and kissed by senior class president, John Wilson.

Ty ended her reign the following evening with an after-the-game mixer featuring the Sensations held in the honor of the Sweetheart, her attendants, and her court.

Service Queen Reigns Over "Hauberk" W.P.A.

The first weeks of spring brought warm weather, restless anticipation of prom, and the Third annual W.P.A. Hauberk Dance. Members of the Hauberk art staff spent extra hours completing sketches of original cartoons on giant contemporary cards, capturing the traditional Jovial Jig theme. Crowns of seed pearls accented the regal mood.

Climaxing the evening was the coronation of a service queen, chosen from sixteen candidates by popular vote. Dancing momentarily ceased as Lydia Tate, first attendant, and Sandi McMorris, second attendant, were escorted to their royal thrones. Diane Gray became the center of attention as she was crowned 1967 Hauberk Queen and presented with a bouquet of pink roses. Again S.M. East was given an opportunity to honor a unique combination of beauty and service to the school.

The surprise and excitement of being nominated for Hauberk queen is reflected in the eyes of Ann Foncannon and Sandi McMorris.

Pam Mangelsdorf, boys' gym prom co-chairman, carefully inspects tropical flowers for dead leaves.

Judy Chaiken okays a rearrangement with prom chairman Karen Reeder as crude plans materialize for tropical sets.

Early in the school year, the four junior officers began the selection of committee chairmen and members as initial preparation for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Plans for decorations ranged from a Spanish castle to a gym inhabited by Walt Disney characters. Deciding on a final theme, juniors erected a scale model and concentrated on collecting dues from reluctant classmates. Later in the spring, chairmen chose prom servers from eager sophomore girl applicants.

As the last week in April grew nearer, excitement and junior exhaustion increased. Last-minute improvisation substituted in areas where planned decorations did not materialize.

Attired in formals and tuxedos, juniors and seniors ate on the deck of a pirate ship docked in the girls' gym and danced under the shade of palm trees as they enjoyed the tropical paradise of "Your Own Special Island."

Proposed Legislation

The Student Congress Executive Committee, consisting of all officers and committee chairmen, served to correlate functions of the Student body with administrative policies.

Presidential duties ranged from presiding over executive meetings to presenting Debbie Bryant, Miss America 1966 and S.M. East alumni, with a bouquet of roses. The vice-president coordinated activities, while the secretary and treasurer handled official books and records. Efficient Congress meetings were the responsibility of the chairman and parliamentarian.

The new Honor Committee researched possibilities of establishing an Honor System at S.M. East. Committee chairmen scheduled meetings to administer duties assigned to their respective committees, and thus worked with officers to provide efficient operation of Student Congress procedures and policies.

And Promote Every Objective Of Pep Club

Setting the pace for spirit, the Pep Club Executive Committee spurred members to enthusiastic support of athletic and debate teams.

Representatives to the committee met every Monday after school to plan the Friday Pep Assembly and the week's theme, including Clash, Pigtail, and Bear the Indians Days.

Originality keynoted posters and signs distributed to encourage and congratulate winning teams. Telegrams sent to athletes and debaters competing out of town bolstered confidence.

Program and hospitality committees worked year round to coordinate interscholastic sports, while special groups designed and constructed the homecoming queen's float, and planned the Basketball Sweetheart Dance and ceremony.

Executive organization maintained spirit in pep club throughout the athletic seasons.

Stunts And Chants Bolster Team Spirit

Working hard and practicing constantly, the cheerleaders formed the nucleus and central point of organization in Pep Club.

In preparation for a year of originality in pep assemblies, cheerleaders attended a five day summer conference in Geneva, Wisconsin. A variety of newly-learned cheers, songs, and chants were employed to further school spirit and support of all teams. Student body pep was rallied to an all-year peak preceding the Sunflower League championship football game with Shawnee Mission North by decorating of locker rooms, cars, and stadium stands; pep rallies; and overall excitement. To promote friendliness, cheerleaders gave pre-game dinners for other district cheerleaders. To insure the smoothness of Friday pep assemblies, pepsters practiced routines three times weekly.

At the conclusion of an athletic season, cheerleaders put forth final efforts and demonstrated team support in their decoration for and presence at recognition banquets.

Setting a precedent, the new Tsae Recnal mascot displays school spirit by wearing track shoes.

Heralders and Tsae Recnal provided a visual symbol of school spirit at Shawnee Mission East during pep club and half-time ceremonies.

Chosen in tryouts before Pep Club executives, four regular Heralders and two alternates participated in opening ceremonies at Pep Club assemblies and home basketball games. The girls also aided in the homecoming coronation. Connie Warman, head; Patty Beard, Ty Evans, Jan Martin, Diane Gray, and Terry Williamson wore their traditional uniforms each Friday to generate enthusiasm among students.

Carol Tucker and Scott Pro alternated wearing Tsae Recnal, a 35-pound replica of a Lancer's helmet. The school mascot, its name spelling "East Lancer" backwards, promoted team support.

Mascots Encourage Support For Teams

Leading the Lancer Band during half time football ceremonies, the majorettes and drum majors kept time to the music while contributing to school pageantry.

Throughout the year six twirlers coordinated their own baton and flag routines in daily practice. They performed in three basketball half time specials. Two appointed drum majors took charge of the band on the field and in parades.

Special events in which both twirlers and drum majors participated included a Kansas City Chiefs' game, the American Royal Parade, Kansas University Band Day, and the downtown Christmas Parade. Under Mr. Geoffrey's guidance, both groups strove to entertain the public while representing Shawnee Mission East.

The drill teams of Shawnee Mission East and Shawnee Mission West joined to present the half time show at a nationally televised Chiefs' game. The Synchronettes represented East in the American Royal parade, the Overland Park parade, the downtown Christmas parade, and the NAIA Tournament at Municipal Auditorium. Seven colleges viewed shows at football half times.

The drill team marched for three assemblies and performed at home football and basketball games. Their annual Christmas show featured a routine using twinkling lights, and their participation added extra pageantry to Homecoming and Basketball Sweetheart ceremonies. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Carolyn Howard, the drill team presented precision performances to audiences throughout Missouri and Kansas.

Mixing sharps and flats to produce both classical and popular arrangements, the Lancer Band, under the direction of Mr. Geoffrey, entertained at football games, parades, and concerts.

Playing primarily march music during the fall, the band provided melodies to which the Drill Team coordinated their routines. Besides ninety minutes daily practice often outdoors in rain and mud, the musicians worked many hours overtime to perfect special performances, as for the Kansas City Chiefs' game. Two drum majors assumed leadership of the band until after Christmas, which ushered in the concert season and different musical strains.

Voluntary Pep Bands and ensembles were formed by the seventy band members. Talented musicians won honors in local and state music contests, in which soloists and entire band participated. Assembly performances rounded out the many activities embraced by the band.

Shawnee Mission East's fifty-piece orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Geofrey, played a major part in school functions. The orchestra presented assemblies, held concerts, and participated in contests.

Four concerts, two presented in the fall and two in the spring, featured medleys of Broadway show tunes and classical selections. A special concert for children was held in the Danzinger Auditorium as a part of a music appreciation series.

The production of Funny Girl demanded perfected orchestral work during the winter months. Continual practice polished the score of the recent Broadway musical hit.

As a finale for the year, twenty musicians from each SM school played in a district Honors Orchestra concert at SM West on May 12.

Pictures In Melody

Various classical and contemporary numbers provided a repertoire for the five vocal groups. Under the experienced direction of Jess Rose, the Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs, Girls' Choir, and Concert and Chamber Choirs spent class time learning the fundamentals, techniques, and interpretation necessary for competent music performance. Hours of rehearsal culminated in several concerts featuring the works of Hovahness, Dello Joio, and Shawnee Mission School District's first resident composer, Walter Skolnik.

Supplementing concerts with extra activities, madrigal groups entertained at private functions, and the Concert and Chamber Choirs performed for the MENC convention at KU in November. To gain experience and education for a musical vocation or avocation, several students participated in the state music contest, and eight delegates went to the Kansas Music Educators Association Festival Concert in Lawrence.

Delegate Staff Duties

Striving to produce a creative and informative publication, two semesters of Harbinger staff members pooled talents.

Each semester's staff was chosen on the basis of interest and grades in Journalism I. Under the direction of a new sponsor, Mr. Robert Dillon, Journalism II students laid out formats, solicited ads, and figured pica headlines. With circulation larger than ever before, copies were sent to alumni all over the country and to interested area schools. New features included lunch menus and exchange news from other Shawnee Mission schools. Patriotism, etiquette, and participation in school activities provided subjects for discussion in editorials. News columns summarized the academic and social highlights of the year, while humorous articles entertained with a lighter outlook on fads.

While reporting and commenting upon the news, seventh hour journalists gained practical newspaper experience.

Hauberk Expresses Moods And Events

Under the supervision of Mr. Pete Perdaris, faculty advisor, thirty students worked to capture the events of the 1966-67 school year.

Each approaching deadline demanded that one-fourth of the total pages be finished, requiring cooperation from all staff members. Harried photographers developed candid shots for captioning by literary and sports staffs, while all group and student portraits were arranged by studio staff members. The selling and designing of advertisements was handled by business and art staffs. Upon completion of the book, students focused attention on the April Hauberk dance, culminating in the coronation of a service queen by popular vote.

Senior staff members initiated a posterization process for division pages and use of the antique silver inlay on the cover. Unprecedented efforts by the business staff made more money available for color usage than in previous years. Traditional and new features made the 1967 Hauberk unique and expressive.

Stagecraft Requires Talent And Tasks

Searching for antique props, acting out skits, and painting scenery, the Thespians actively pursued their goal of promoting interest and participation in the dramatic arts.

Students earned points for Thespian entrance by working on crews or competing for parts in productions. Every ten hours of service backstage and every hundred spoken lines resulted in a point, ten of which constituted Thespian membership.

In addition to skits staged by members, weekly programs featured such prominent speakers as Giles Fowler from the KC Star. The annual Thespian assembly highlighted regular activities and the Thespian banquet climaxed the year with the induction of new members, installation of officers, and presentation of awards.

In February 1966, juniors took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The three-hour test was divided into five sections: mathematics, English usage, word usage, and social science. Semifinalists were announced in September, making them eligible for National Merit Scholarships. They were also invited to participate in Summerfield and Watkins scholarship competition at the University of Kansas and Putnam Scholarship competition at Kansas State University in Manhattan.

Students scoring just below the semifinalists were awarded Letters of Commendation in recognition of high performance on the qualifying test. In May, announcements were made of 1967 National Merit Scholars.

Quill And Scroll Honors Senior Journalists

Karen Woolpert and Jane Seifert receive Quill and Scroll honors from Mr. Dillon and Mr. Perdaris at an annual initiation ceremony.

Seniors who contributed to the newspaper and yearbook earned membership in Quill and Scroll, the international honorary fraternity for high school journalists. The goals of Quill and Scroll—Truth, Learning, Leadership, Initiative, and Integrity—were the guidelines for choosing new initiates.

A position on Hauberk or Harbinger staffs, academic standing in the upper one-third of the senior class, and recommendation by a staff advisor were requirements for membership in the society. The journalists were honored at the Quill and Scroll banquet held jointly with Shawnee Mission South. Students were presented with Award of Honor Certificates and Journalism Award charms or pins. Fifty-eight yearbook and newspaper staff members were commended with the highest honor bestowed on a high school journalist.

NFL Members Win Points By Speaking

Combining public speaking and debate, the S.M. East National Forensic League ranked high among member schools throughout the nation.

To attain membership, students needed a minimum of twenty-five points. During the year, members increased their points by participating in various speech and debate tournaments in all parts of the state of Kansas and limited areas of Missouri. As points accumulated, Degrees of Merit, Honor, Excellence, and Distinction were realized by interested students.

The climax of the debate season was the annual Shawnee Mission Tournament, sponsored jointly by S.M. East, North, and West on October 28 and 29. Directed by NFL President Terry Tyrell, the S.M. East division accepted only senior teams for cross-examination debate.

Through these various activities, the National Forensic League integrated speaking ability with research techniques.

National Honor Society Recognizes Excellence

Initiated during the spring in a traditional and symbolic candlelighting ceremony, Shawnee Mission East candidates were introduced into the National Honor Society. Last fall the members elected Dan Stepp, President; Don Payne, Vice-President; Priscilla Pastrick, Secretary; and Diane Erickson, treasurer. These officers handled the details for the spring induction of new members, initiation ceremony, and the annual picnic. The group's activities were expanded this year to include a tutoring service. Resulting from a bill passed by the Student Congress, this service offered individual help to interested students.

During a long-awaited all-school assembly in March, the initiates were announced. Ten percent of the senior class and five percent of the junior class were chosen by the faculty on a basis of leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

The 1966 SM East Football season proved to be the most successful in the school's history. Highlights of the '66 campaign included a first place Sunflower finish and a record breaking 7-1-1 performance. Other honors captured by the gridders were a 3rd place ranking in the city and the single game scoring record of 64 points.

The core of 16 returning lettermen established a high scoring offense that averaged 31 points per game. An equally successful defense held its opposition to only 7 points per game. Featured in the Lancer offense was a balanced rushing and passing attack. Principle ground gainers were B.G. Miller, Chris Montgomery, and Tim Stealey. Back-of-the-Year Don Payne guided an effective late season passing attack.

Chris Montgomery set a single season Sunflower scoring record with 121 points. Included in Montgomery's scoring record were 31 PATs, 2 field goals, and 14 TDs. Another Lancer standout was tackle Mike Banks who made the city all-star team. Besides the fine individual performances, an overall team effort was a necessity to the success of the '66 football season.

East Initiates Season

A 32-7 victory over the NKC Hornets opened the season for the 1966 Lancer football team. Quarterback Chris Montgomery scored on runs of 19, 36, and 54 yards and passed to Bob McGahey for another. B.G. Miller and Mitch Rainen were leaders in the powerful land attacks.

The existing Lancer point record fell as East defeated the Topeka Trojans 48-6. B.G. Miller rushed for the first East touchdown, followed by Bob McGahey's 8-yard score. In the third quarter East exploded for 28 points as Montgomery ran 54 yards for a touchdown, Miller drove for two more, and Bob Harvell dodged 2 yards for another. Montgomery capped the scoring by converting 6 of 7 extra points.

SM South held back the Lancer offense to make the third game of the season basically a defensive battle. Miller led a 65-yard drive to earn the only touchdown of the game. The defense was led by Ray DiTirro, Mike Banks, and Dave Hazlett, and the pressure resulted in a 2-point safety, making the final score 9-0.

In addition to physical strain, football is also a game of mental stress, as shown by offensive star Chris Montgomery.

Despite the efforts of several Lancer blockers, the SM East ball carrier rests on one arm after being tackled by a Topeka West defender.

Improved Offensive Helps Surging East Gridders

While being pursued by two Topeka West defenders, Back-of-the-Year Don Payne displays his elusiveness as he rolls out to the left before firing a pass to his receiver Jim Maher.

Lawrence, rated first in the state, gave the Lancers their only setback of the season. A slack first quarter provided the Lions with two touchdowns while a resurging Lancer defense led by Bob Heath and Phil Murray succeeded in holding the Lions for the rest of the game. An 11 yard field goal by Chris Montgomery gave the Lancers their only score.

East went back to its winning ways by crushing the Washington Wildcats 26-13. Despite a slow starting offense, Don Payne plunged for two touchdowns and passed for another. A Montgomery to DiTirro touchdown pass strengthened the lead already held by the Lancers. Defensive standouts Mitch Rainen and Phil Murray prevented a Washington comeback.

A fast moving Lancer offense proved to be too much for Wyandotte. An offensive change, with Don Payne playing quarterback, resulted in Payne diving for two scores and passing to Don Brennan for another. Three touchdowns and 6 PATs by Montgomery combined with two Rainen interceptions added to the shutout 42-0.

Surrounded by Lancer blockers and Topeka West tacklers, East fullback B.G. Miller looks for a lapse in the Topeka defense.

Conference Scoring Record

Both offense and defense were instrumental in capturing the 4th consecutive Sunflower victory against Topeka West. The powerful Lancer offense exploded for 35 points against the Chargers. Besides the offensive power, the defense turned in its second consecutive shutout, and its third of the season in the 35-0 victory.

The following week an inspired Lancer team came within 30 seconds of defeating the rival SM North Indians. The game ended in a 20-20 tie on a last second field goal by North following an East fumble. An explosive offense piloted by Don Payne provided East with a lead throughout the game. Chris Montgomery was East's leading scorer with 14 points.

In the final game of the season the Lancers overwhelmed SM West by the record breaking score of 64-6. Led by Montgomery's 24 points, the Lancers forged ahead 30-0 at half. Scoring TDs for East were Chris Montgomery, Tim Stealey, B.G. Miller, Jim Maher, Bob McGahey, and John Cadwalader. The Sunflower victory gave East a share of the league title.

In play against Wyandotte, gang tackling by the Lancers holds the Bulldogs for little gain.

Being pursued by a Shawnee Mission North defensive back, Don Payne sprints around left end on an option play that went for 44 yards and East's first touchdown.

JV Is Unblemished For Sunflower Title

Action on the Junior Varsity and Sophomore football squads was anything but slow as one Sophomore team defeated Lawrence High for a 5-4 season, and the Junior Varsity ended with an undefeated record to claim the Sunflower Championship for the fourth consecutive year.

Averaging 26 points a game, the Junior Varsity forged to their best season at 7-0. Five of the games were shutouts, and only 20 points were scored against the Junior Varsity during the entire season. Season Highlights included a 13-0 defeat of Lawrence and a 20-7 trouncing of the previously undefeated SM North Indians. Standouts from the Junior Varsity who assisted the Varsity were Larry Couch, Bob Harvell, Jim Maher, Jeff Anderson, Denny Woods, and Bill Russell.

Due to lack of participation, the two Sophomore squads varied from the procedure of past years by working together almost as one squad. The overall record showed a 7-8 season.

Surging To League, Region, And State Champions

East harriers Keith Jantz, Dick Strandmark, John Wilson, Jim Forbes, and Bruce Nelson are evenly grouped among other runners at the beginning of a quadrangular meet.

Six returning lettermen led by captain John Wilson provided coach Cal Cormack with the needed experience required for distance running. Six first place trophies including the league, region, and state championships rated the Lancers in the top ten teams of the nation.

The Lancers opened their season at Wamego placing second behind Wyandotte in a field of 22 teams. Morning and evening workouts prepared the legmen for the Wichita and Salina invitationals where they captured two first place trophies. Returning to their home-grounds the Lancers paced to a second place finish with Denner Latham setting a school record on the home course. Taking a first place at the SM Quadrangular prepared the thinclads for the league meet the next week.

The harriers climaxed their season with first place finishes at league, region, and state. Jim Forbes placed second in league and regional meets and seventh at the state meet.

The 1966-67 cage season proved to be the roughest in the history of the school as the varsity cagers finished with only three victories against 17 setbacks. Key performers for the Lancers were seniors Bruce White, Skip Quimby, Don Payne, and Jim Ballinger. Junior returnees from the '65-'66 team, Bob Albo and Barry Edwards, rounded out the top six positions on the Lancer squad. Don Payne was the leading scorer, with several 20 point performances and a seasonal scoring average in double figures.

Although the roundballers could manage only three victories, two of the victories came in league competition and gave East a 2-8 record and a seventh place Sunflower finish. Also included in the victories were important, conquests of Shawnee Mission rivals North and West. In addition to the North victory, East lost to the league champion Indians by only one point in a return encounter.

In the final game of the season, East's hopes of traveling to the state championships were ended when Bishop Miege downed East 68-57.

Facing the rival Shawnee Mission North Indians in a non-league game, the Lancers opened their season with a 77-76 win. Bob Albo tipped in the game winning score with one second left. Effective free-throw shooting gave the Lancers 19 points and the margin of victory. A taller Lawrence team used superior shooting and rebounding to defeat East 58-40 the following night.

A fourth quarter comeback wasn't enough to topple SM West in the first league game of the season. Skip Quimby paced the cagers with 18 points in spite of the two-point loss to the Vikings 57-59. In the next game, East dropped a close defensive game to the Raytown Blue Jays by the score 41-38. Raytown capitalized on free throws to provide a victory in an otherwise evenly fought game.

Despite a first half stall utilized by Topeka West, East defeated the Chargers by the score of 42-31. Leading scorers in the game for East were Skip Quimby and Jim Ballinger with 8 points for the game.

The Lancers traveled to Topeka Central the next week and suffered an 83-50 setback. East trailed the Trojans by only 4 points at half; however, they fell out of contention the second half. East was unable to match the scoring power of Ward, and dropped a 79-55 decision. Leading scorer for East was Don Payne with 18.

The following Friday against Washington, the Lancers led throughout the game but lost in the final quarter. In the disastrous fourth quarter East could manage only 2 points as Washington forged to a 54-48 victory.

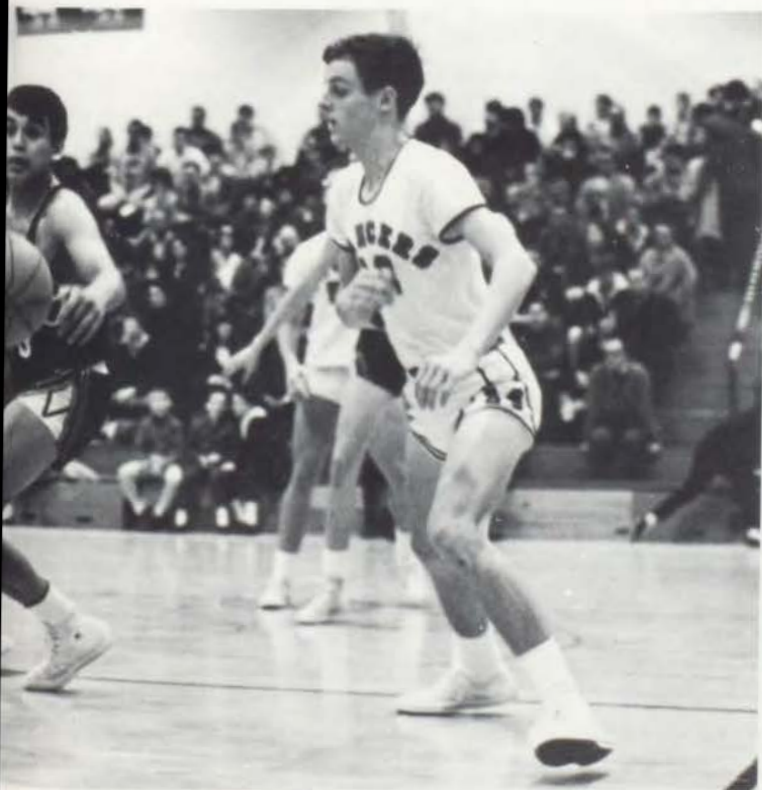

East dropped a league decision to Wyandotte by the score of 59-30. A tight zone defense held the Bulldogs to a 24-16 half time advantage. The Lancers suffered a second half collapse and were outscored 35-14. Another weak second half performance by East saw Manhattan fast break their way to a 74-58 victory. East's leading scorers were Bruce White and Bob Albo with 17 and 13 points respectively.

East Journeys To Dodge City And Suffers Three

Shawnee Mission East used a tight zone defense to force a shot and screen-out offensive opposition in the battle for the anticipated rebound.

Senior guard Bruce White, responsible for bringing the ball downcourt, fires a pass as he crosses the midcourt line.

SM East cagers traveled to Dodge City for the tournament which is open to Sunflower League teams. The first game of three was against Wichita East, which was rated second in the state at the time. Being also outrated in the height department, the Lancers suffered a 65-28 defeat. Bruce White scored more than half of East's points with 15 tallies. Being placed in the consolation class, the Lancers next played Goddard. East led the entire game until the end, when the score tied 50-50 at the end of the last quarter. In the overtime, East lost 55-52. In the final game the Cagers led by one point and had the ball with 9 seconds to play. The final score was Independence 57, East 56.

An eight-game losing streak was smashed as the Lancer team managed to defeat the SM West Vikings 58-57. East controlled most of the game, but the third-period jinx nearly led to another close loss. Don Payne had a career high of 21 points to be game high-scorer. Against Sumner, until the third quarter the Lancers were within one point. East lost the game 62-47.

Barry Edwards, leading scorer against North, adds two points to his total by shooting over a group of Indian defenders.

In a rematch against SM North, following East's first game victory, the Indians edged the Lancers by one point, 58-57. East's performance was marked by a spirited comeback in the fourth quarter. The comeback cut the deficit from 14 to 2 points. Trailing by 3 points with 4 seconds remaining, East scored on a tip-in, but failed to draw the necessary foul.

Returning to its own court, East dropped its last two games to Topeka and SM South. East outscored Topeka the final three quarters, but a first quarter press by Topeka proved victorious 72-60. Bob Albo was East's leading scorer with 17. The SM South game was closely fought with South winning 49-46. Skip Quimby took scoring honors with 18 points.

In the final regular season contest, East fell to undefeated Wyandotte. The Lancers committed 33 fouls and four Lancer regulars fouled out of the game. The Lancers trailed by only 5 points at half, but ineffective foul shooting allowed Wyandotte to pull away 78-55.

Playing on SM North's home court, junior Bob Albo leads an effective East defense by deflecting an Indian pass.

JV Finishes With 4-6 Record In Sunflower Play

Senior post Don Payne cannot avoid touching a Topeka Central offensive rebounder as the ball is grabbed from the boards.

The Junior Varsity scored 4 decisive wins over league opposition while compiling a 4-12 record. Although plagued with injuries and suspensions, coach Tom Hewitt led the roundballers to a respectable 4-6 league record. Rich O'Flynn, starting center, was the high point man of the season and provided the team with rebounding strength. Other J.V. standouts were Jim McMurtry, Mitch Rainen, Chris Henry, and John Smith.

The Sophomore Varsity finished the season with a disappointing 1-15 record, the only win being against Center High School. Inexperience the first of the season hurt the squad most; however, Coach Matuzak developed some fine varsity potential in Dave Harvey and Dave Edington. A Shawnee Mission East sophomore tournament made its debut with Washington and Lawrence taking first and second. East managed to take fourth place by beating Center their first and only win.

In Season Highlighted In Second Place At State

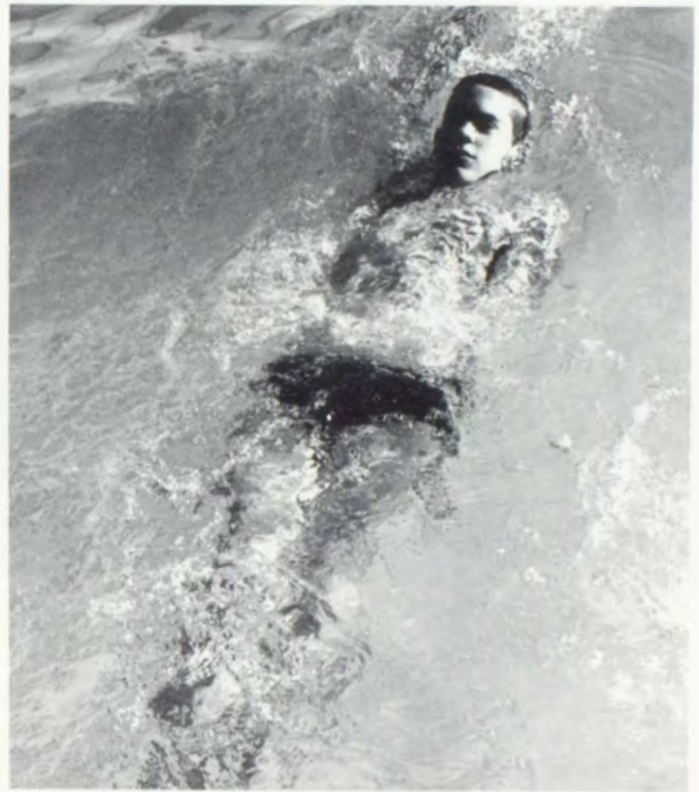

SM East's tanksters won their first two meets of the season by wide margins, dunking Washington 59-36 and SM South 66-29. Jeff Liss established a junior record in the 400 yard freestyle and later cut it down more to 4:14.3.

A tough meet in East's most difficult schedule ever, ended up with a second place in the Coffeyville-Edison High Triangular. Co-captain Steve Brodie led East with two firsts and Jeff Sanders won first place in diving, by a 62-point margin. SM North and Topeka were next to fall.

After losing to first place Wichita East, the Lancers were edged out by rival Wyandotte because of a judge's decision in a split-second touch at the wall. Due to a brief loss of swimmers, the Lancer tankmen fell short of Wichita Southeast in another dual contest.

Southwest and Van Horn both lost to East's resurging power. Although Wyandotte edged East in the League Meet to take East's former title, the State Meet ended with a defeat of Wyandotte and Wichita Southeast, and a second place in the State for East. Brodie did the state's best 100 yard free in the record-setting 400 yard relay.

Golf at Shawnee Mission East came with spring as Coach Glenn Saunders began to prepare for the upcoming tournaments. Aided by returning letterman Tom Smart and by a strong senior backing of Rick Conner, George Brandt, Bill Howard, and Bruce White, the team's outlook was good for the numerous scheduled two and four-man team competition.

Shortly after tryouts were finished and the golfers had sufficiently warmed up after the long winter layoff, six Lancers traveled to Topeka for the first meet. The team consisted of the five seniors and junior Barry Praver. The Blue and Black placed well in the final standings of about twenty entries.

The Shawnee Mission Invitational Tournament in middle April was tight competition among fifteen invited area schools. Other big meets were the Salina Invitational and the Regional meet which determined the top three teams to go to the final State Meet.

Lancer Tracksters Display Optimism And Speed

The 1967 track squad exhibited excellent potential with a state championship distance team and seasoned varsity sprinters. Head Track Coach Karl Englund expects this year's team to be a strong contender for the state championship.

Senior letterman Bob McGahey provided the needed strength in the 100 and 220 with John Cadwalder and Bill Russell as back-up men. Outstanding performers in the quarter mile were Bob Albo and Scott Pro. In early meets the relay teams lacked strength, but this weakness was expected to be corrected.

Depth was one characteristic of the distance men with talent spreading to the J-V and Sophomores. East's 880 star John Wilson demonstrated his talents as a likely school record breaker. The mile was paced by Denet Latham, Bruce Nelson and sophomore standout Bill Good. Proficiency in the two mile was not lacking with Dick Strandmark and Jim Forbes setting the pace.

While leading his heat of runners, Hank Winslow swings his leg into the air to clear the hurdle and maintain his momentum.

Blue And Black Wins Second In Quadrangular

The field events displayed no outstanding varsity potential; however, this obstacle was overcome with hard workouts and intersquad competition. Phil McMannis and Chris Montgomery formed the nucleus of this year's high jumpers. Earning meet points was no problem for the broadjumpers with Dennis Woods and Jim Hessler also double teaming on the long jump. Juniors Jim Dibble and Bruce Steele pole vaulted for the Lancers, setting records in varsity competition.

With sufficient strength in the track and field events, the battle of weights presented an altogether different problem. Varsity experience was not to be found except in the shot put where B. G. Miller displayed his seasoned abilities with junior Steve Schwartz backing up. Two seniors, Bill Harrington and Phil Murray, could be counted on to throw the javelin. Combining strength and coordination, George Williamson and Steve Crase developed record breaking distances in the discus.

Steve Crase concentrates on both balance and form before throwing in the discus competition.

Lancer Tennis Squad Aims Toward State Title

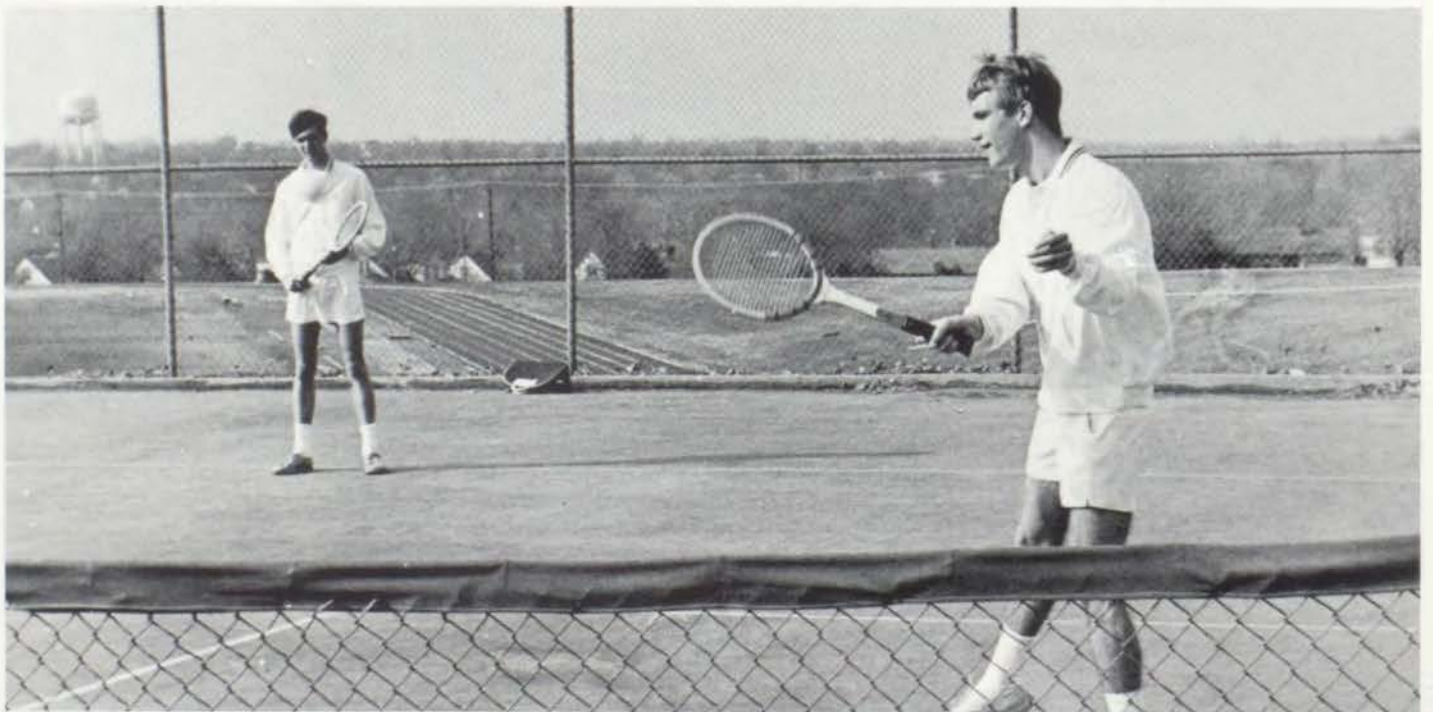

Under the guidance of coach Phil Berg, the 1967 tennis team appeared to be another talented squad in the tradition of strong Shawnee Mission East tennis teams. Led by five returning lettermen, East opened defense of its league title March 31 against Washington, and closed the season in defense of its state crown on May 18 in Wichita.

Returning from the traveling squad that placed first in State last spring were Bob Alloo, Jim Ballinger, and Chris Henry. Alloo finished first in singles at State last year, and is expected to repeat this year. Jim Ballinger also won first place honors at State in the doubles competition. In single's play, Chris Henry advanced to the quarter finals before being eliminated. Other lettermen for East include valuable seniors Dick Gochnauer and Bob Plump.

In addition to the lettermen, other fine prospects lent strong support. Heading the list was senior Eric Engstrom and underclassmen Jim McMurtry, Ken Watson, Terry Kilroy, Kevin McCaul, Mac Witter, Bob Gibson, and Dave Crawford.

Team spirit is fierce as a Senior volleyball intramural team tries to match the courage to talk with courage to play.

Spirited participants and spectators provided impetus to athletic competition.

The Girls' Athletic Association, headed by President Margie Farber and sponsors Mrs. Howard and Miss Pepper, furthered girls' fitness. Members and prospective members earned points by participating in field hockey, basketball, tennis, and bowling intramurals. Dues and concession stand sales raised funds for interschool sports days and the father-daughter picnic.

The Saturday morning intramurals program for boys offered team tournaments on a class basis. The program, sponsored by Coach Hammig and the StuCo Intramurals Committee, was extended to include volleyball intramurals in the spring.

To complete the intramurals season, the annual basketball game held to earn money for the StuCo AFS Program pitted the senior champions, the Lost, against the Senior All-Stars. A 36-32 victory asserted the supremacy of the Lost.

The face of an individual. . .
the characteristics of one person that showed originality, non-conformity, diversity.
Incentive as sophomores and juniors carried on the traditional effort to outdo seniors.
Each emotion, each mood revealed a person's growing confidence in self-expression. . .disgust as efforts for organized team support were continually squelched. . .delight as two unexpected days of heavy snow provided a needed semester rest. . .apprehension as counselors stressed the importance of grades.
A face seeking a good test score. . .hoping to be asked to prom. . .wondering if all the competition for activities would result in success.
The average face at Shawnee Mission East had a better-than-average goal. . .a brighter-than-average future.
A student. . .truly unique. . .but part of a whole . . .the face of an individual.

Filling an empty study hour with a library period, a sophomore boy casually leafs through an engrossing book.

Facing the confusion of a new school and the challenge of a new year, sophomores acquainted themselves with SM East during orientation week. As initial bewilderment passed, sophomores elected John Rooker, president; Bill Chambers, vice-president; Nancy Senter, secretary; and Sharon Gershon, treasurer; in campaigns highlighted by a tie in the treasurer's race. Class officers collected dues, conducted Tuesday assemblies, and planned a sophomore dance.

In a school dominated by juniors and seniors, sophomores strove for recognition by participating in StuCo, playing on sophomore athletic squads, debating as novices, and acting in minor drama roles. The majority concentrated on learning the ways of senior high life, evading office eighth hours, surviving boring assemblies, and maintaining dignity in the face of senior scorn. The year of initiation prepared sophomores for two more years of leadership.

Senior athletes made outstanding contributions, capturing second place in state swimming competition, the Sunflower League Football Co-Championship, and State Cross-Country Championship.

Unanimously supporting excellence, senior class officers shouldered the ultimate responsibility for their classmates. John Wilson, president; Ron Stitt, vice-president; Julie Barkley, secretary; and Diane Gray, treasurer; combined talent, ideas, and effort in arranging the details necessary for a successful senior year.

Claus Adams decides American girls are just as beautiful as Germans as he meets Debbie Bryant, Miss America, 1966.

This Was 1966. . .

... This Was 1967

A warm spring evening, solemn speeches, and a diploma give students serious thoughts while waiting for the closing.

The long-awaited commencement exercise prepares to begin as teachers in caps and gowns take their places.

. . . . And Then We Graduated

Filled with the nostalgia of graduation and the excitement of college, Shelley Griffith and Beth Hartley exchange best wishes.

The processional music by the band and the awaiting aisle formed by the newly-selected drill team signified the beginning of graduation and the closing of high school.

Preparation for ceremonies included the mid-year measuring for caps and gowns and the ordering of commencement announcements and personalized calling cards. One full school day of practice for seniors insured the smoothness of all graduation exercises. Baccalaureate, a devotional service held in the East gymnasium, was optional for parents and students to attend. The final gathering of the senior class as a group was the Commencement exercises, held in the outdoor stadium at Shawnee Mission North. Parents and interested spectators filled the bleachers to witness the gown-clad seniors officially complete their high school careers.

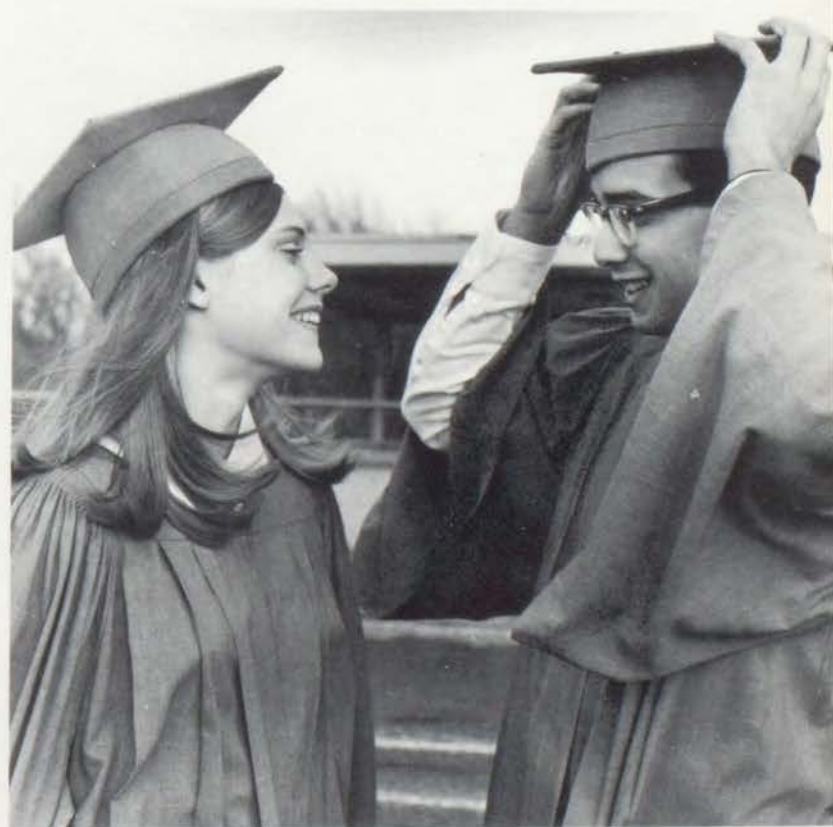

Priscilla Pastrik and Charlie Struby find a few unplanned moments for a light-hearted conversation of summer plans.

Parents and friends of graduating students await the commencement of graduation ceremonies in a familiar stadium.

Harvey Grossman and Pam Kulp discuss the minor problem of anchoring caps during a windy outdoor ceremony.

a will to work...awareness of community and world problems and a deep commitment toward the solution of some of these problems.

These are the hallmarks of an educated man or woman.
Their attainment is a rich exchange for your investment of time and effort through the years, and a source of pride to the educators and

Letter From The Editor. . .

As the 1967 Hauber editors began planning this yearbook and working together as one staff, we realized that our facial expressions communicated so much more than did our verbal replies. And so in choosing a theme for our book we considered those students who make the name Shawnee Mission East a reality — the individual faces which express the ideas, moods, and reactions that together comprise a student body. We have tried to capture a synonym of each one's face — the administrative face, the academic face, the athletic face, the student's face.

The '67 Hauber has not been the result of an editor's ideas and guidance, but rather its been a staff that would never quit — that would keep on working until the job was done and done well. It's been Judy who learned photography techniques in 10 days to carry out her job, Jane who donated her living room setting for everything except the NHS picture, and John who vacationed for three days out of necessity as a result of his artistic endeavors. Our staff was the contributions of Tom who always joked around but came up with a 93% sale and Jill who frantically tried to keep our books in the black as we kept spending more money. There was Diane who didn't want her picture taken because she insisted there was no film in the camera, and Darry who never seemed to succumb to the last minute rush, but always came through with his deadline. It was Peg who made so much of our book possible, selling more ads than ever sold before. More than ever though, these pages are the efforts of a couple of photographers, Bill and Dave, who would photograph anything except vertical Thespians and the school in a rain storm, who would print 24 hours, and produce color pictures and effects that would compare to the professionals. This book, too, has been a sponsor who gave unending support and trust and a publisher who never lost faith in our efforts, Mr. Perdaris and Mr. Frischer. Too, the book has been the 1800 individual faces expressed by the students of SME who gathered for group shots or acted themselves for candid.

We've often sacrificed activities, grades, and God knows how many hours of sleep, but none of us regret the time we've spent. This book has become very special to each of us. To the twenty-nine of us the copy and the pictures recall the hours of work we spent — to you we hope the faces and copy represent very personally your first, second, or last high school year — 1966-1967.

Editor-in-Chief

Martha Mangelsdorf

The face of completion. . .

one that had matured greatly within one short year. . .an expression of a subtle change.

We demonstrated self-confidence, but clearly remembered feeling lost and alone in a crowd of 1800 students.

Our final semester was filled with the admitted desire to get out of school and the unvoiced regret that another high school year was over.

Inwardly, we clung to memories of the past as we mechanically faced the last six-weeks routine of pep club, assemblies, morning announcements, six-weeks tests, homeroom.

Eyes that could look back and remember . . .the daring of the hog pack. . .the let-down of the North game. . .the excitement of the WPA. . .the all-night numbness of slumber parties and card games. . .the drowsiness of continual lectures. . .the preparation for a school play. . .the regularity of car pools. . .

The face of finality. . .the memories of accomplishment. . .semester tests. . .prom. . .trying out for anything and everything. . .it was all over

. . .the face of completion.
