We wish to dedicate this Crusader to the Knights who have gone from the halls of Southeast High School into the armed forces of these United States of America.

FOREWORD

As the knights of old rode forth to right the wrongs of the world, today graduates of Southeast go out with the same thought in mind, to make the world a better place in which to live. Many have gone from Southeast's halls to distant battlefields to fight for the security and safety of all people.

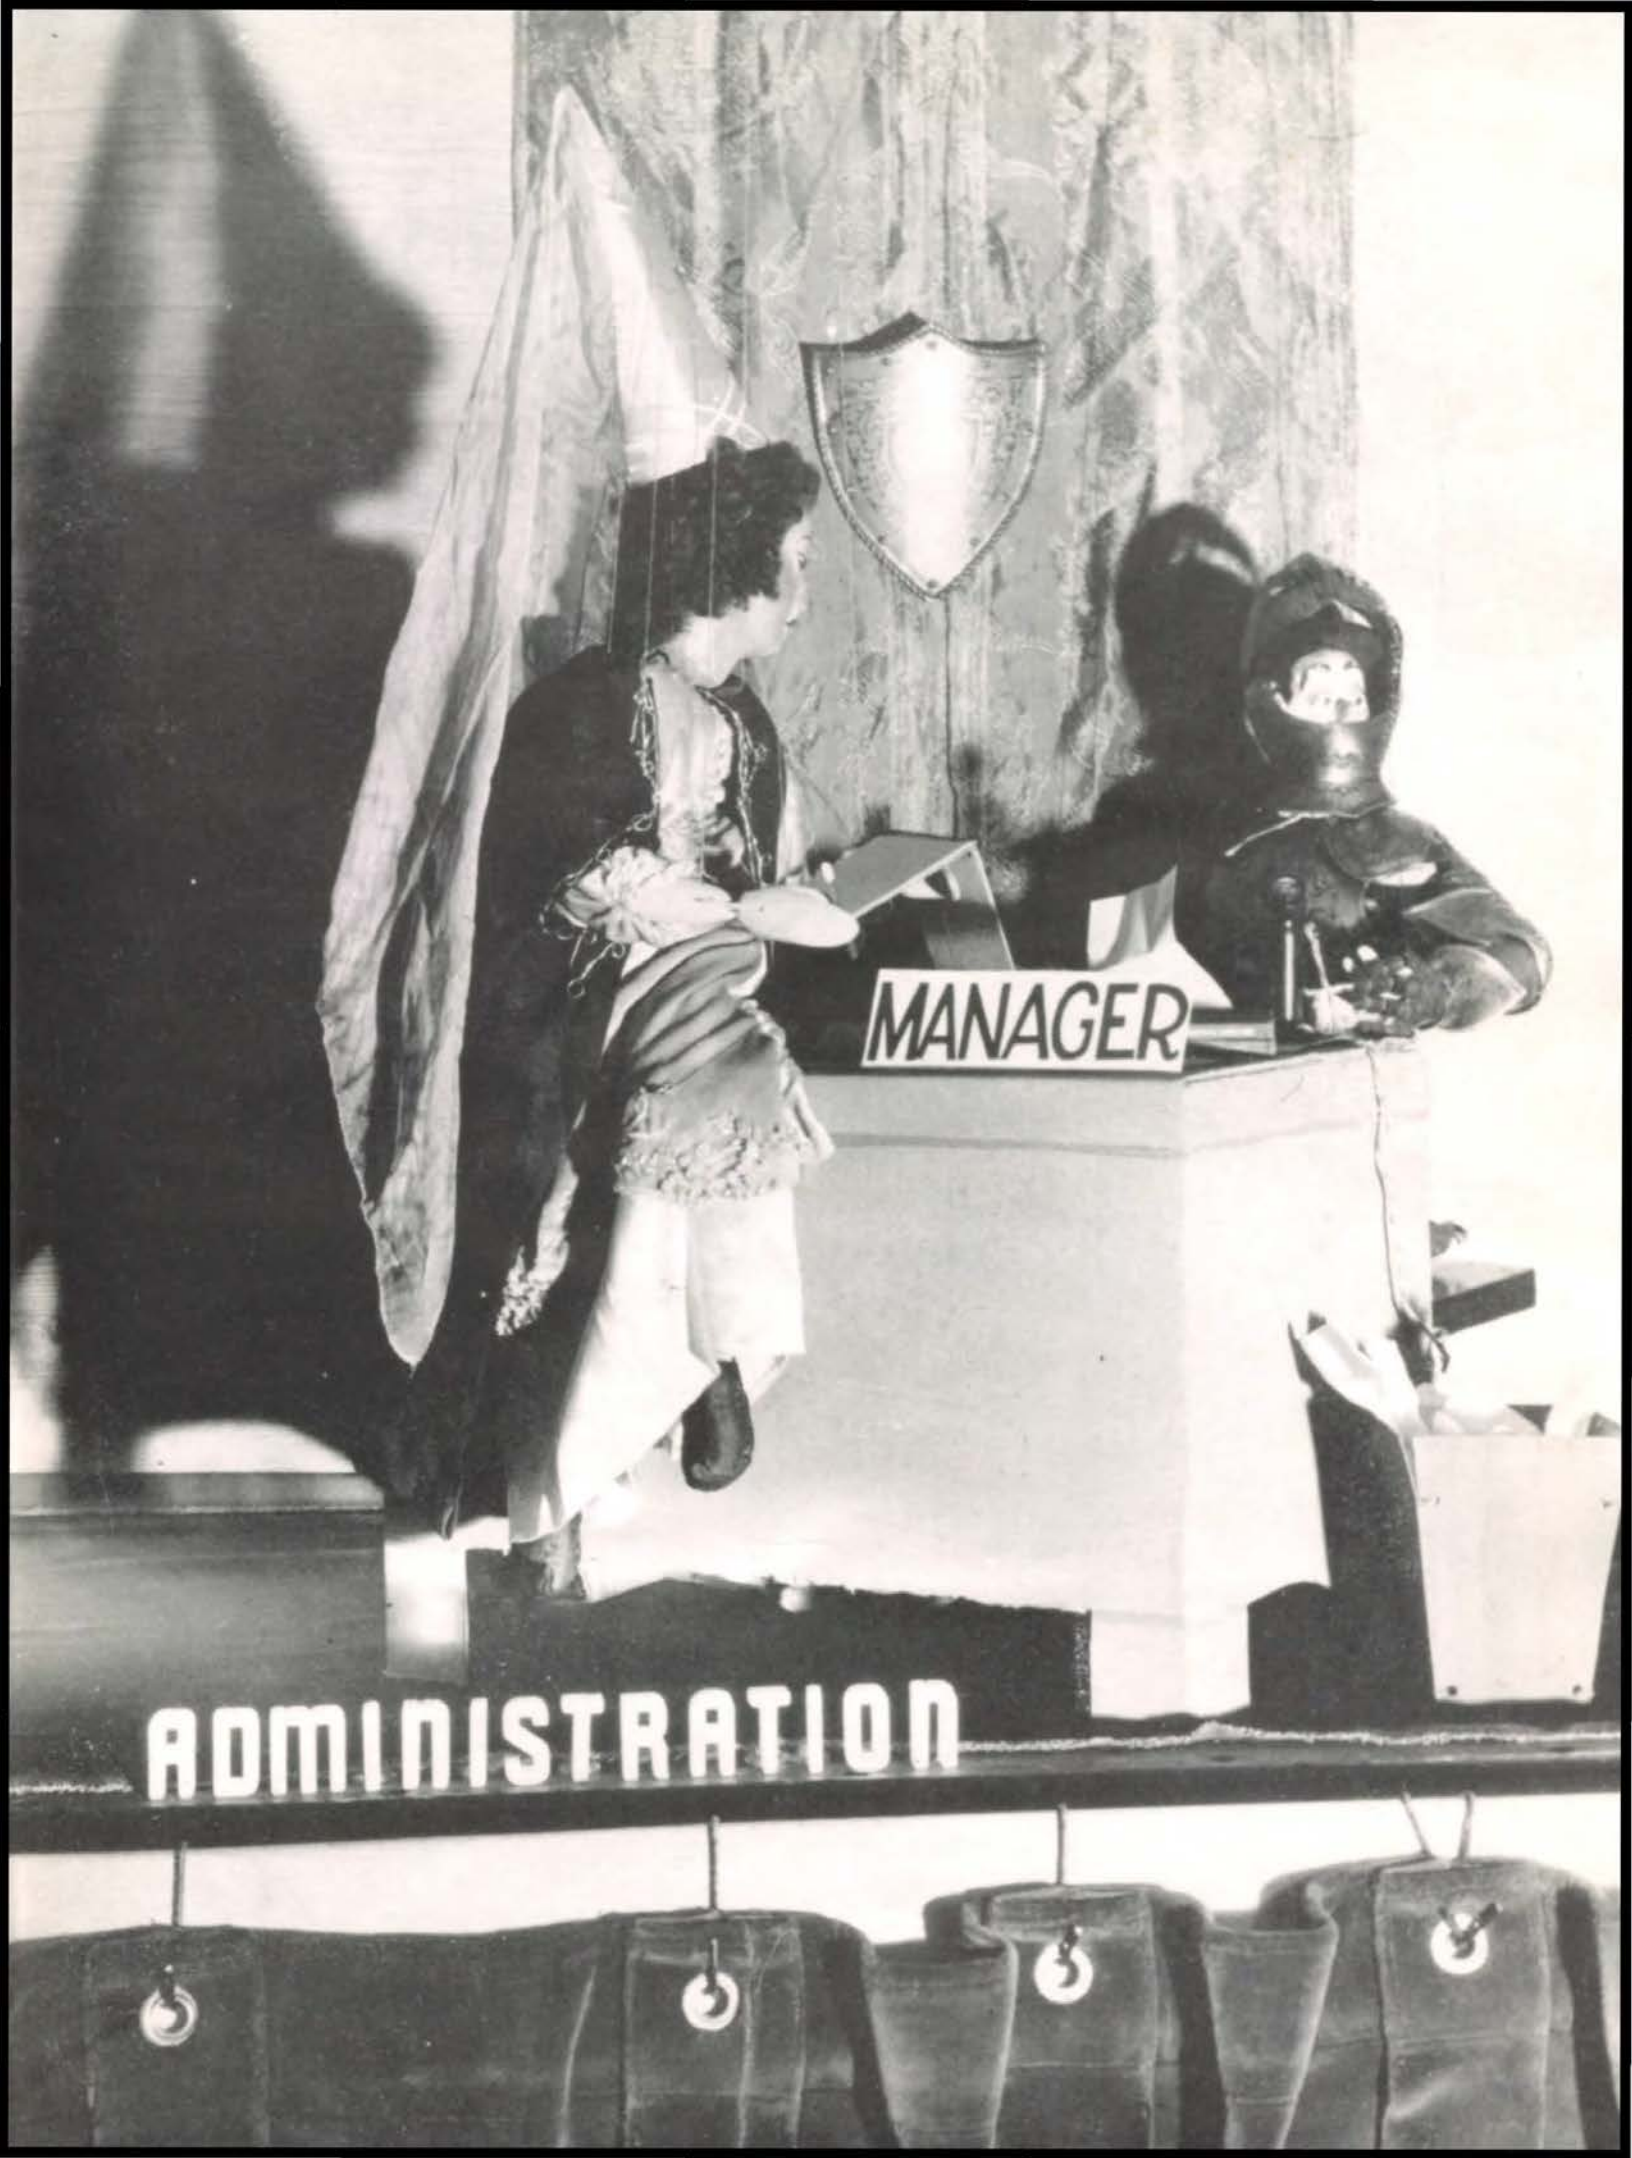

We at home have assisted in this effort whenever the opportunity presented itself. The Minuteman Flag, rippling in the breeze, signifies that ninety per cent of our students have purchased war bonds or stamps each week. The Junior Red Cross co-operated with the national program of that organization.

This year we have more than ever been conscious of the need to educate ourselves for lasting peace. History and language classes have especially stressed this necessity. For the first time at Southeast, the German language is being taught. This indicates the interest students have in world affairs.

To the preparation for a new world fellowship and the peace to follow, this book is dedicated.

The suit of armor used on the Knight on pages 7, 23, 51, 67, 77, 83, and 97 is a miniature suit of armor, insignia of St. Luke, which was a gift of Mrs. William H. Chapman to the William Rockbill Nelson Gallery of Art and Atkins Museum of Fine Arts. The maiden and her costume are from the marionette equipment of the education division of the William Rockbill Nelson Gallery of Art and Atkins Museum of Fine Arts.

We are extremely grateful for the use of this equipment.

HARRY McMILLAN, Principal

DEAR SENIORS:

With mingled feelings of satisfaction and pride in the achievement of the past four years, of regret and sorrow in the inevitable breaking of cherished associations, of disappointment in thwarted peacetime plans, and of bitterness in the call to war made possible because adults failed in their obligation to control would-be aggressors but with patriotic willingness to answer "here," each one of you approaches high school graduation and the responsibilities and opportunities of an uncertain future. The war must be won. In this challenge, your immediate responsibilities lie. World peace must be made secure. In this determination, your opportunities begin.

Military power and political organization are temporary forces by which our peace-loving nations may postpone conflict with aggressor nations. Be alert, therefore, to the mighty force of world education to improve the thinking of men of all nations to the extent necessary to outlaw war, develop similar ideals, establish better understanding of differences among nations, desire continuous peace and believe it is possible, and measure human and international relations by the Golden Rule.

Just as Hitler in a few years developed haters and ruthless killers, it is possible through education to develop lovers of peace.

Best wishes to each of you.

Sincerely yours,

Harry McMillan

GEORGE R. POWELL, Vice-Principal

DEAR SENIORS:

Recently one of our seniors presented to me, for my office, a statuette of a Knight in full armor. Fire strikes from its head. I would like to think of it as symbolical of all Knights and Ladies who leave Southeast. May each be protected with the whole armor of God. May the fine character of each be fired with a determination to win this war and free the minds of men over the world from the chains of ignorance, hate, greed, and selfishness. May our public schools continue to serve all communities and rid them of the prejudices and influence of any faction, race, creed, or class of men. It is my hope that Southeast students will in this way help to keep open all avenues through which truth may enter the minds of our youth who are to shape the destinies of all mankind for full participation in the abundant life of tomorrow.

Sincerely,

George R. Powell

FIRST SEMESTER ROUND TABLE

Fourth Row—Barbara Young, Gloria McClintic, Ann Gross, Jim Phillips, Don Williamson, Ben Miller, Tommy Gillette, Lee Davis, David Douthat, Bob Foster, Dona Lou Kelly.

Third Row—Millicent Mielke, Nan Hilburn, Phyllis Uzell, Pauline Cheatam, Pat King, Melba Hightower, Betty Fasci, Margaret Roach, Harriet Paulson, Homer Evans.

First Row—Inset: Lee Davis, Doris Clark, Marjorie Jo Hill, Betty Mallman, Phil Huff, Thomas Henry, Pauline Cater, John Purdue, Jean Frerking.

The Round Table of Southeast High School, the governing body, accomplished much during the first semester. Each year and again this year the Round Table held open house one night during American Education Week, affording an opportunity for parents to visit the school and become acquainted with the various faculty members.

During this year of war, the Round Table sponsored and stressed the sale of war bonds and stamps. The students have responded very well to all announcements.

The revision of the school constitution was undertaken by the students of the Round Table. This activity required much time and energy from several students.

Financial support was given by the Round Table to the English department for sending the traditional Christmas greeting to alumni in the service of our country.

First Row—Milstead Zahn, Mary Belle Hileman, Patsy Smith, Charlene Morris, Joan Crist, Dona Etherton, Pauline Cater. Inset: Paul Griffin.

The Second Semester Round Table has furthered the work in sales of war bonds and stamps. This has been a war activity of the Round Table each semester since this sale began.

Mixers are another steady undertaking of our student governing body. Clubs are helping the Round Table provide good times for the students.

Further consideration of the constitution has been undertaken by our governing body. Our school has greatly benefited from this work.

Our Round Table has greatly aided our school in all activities and undertakings through the leadership of the president, Paul Griffin, and the sponsor, Miss Mary Louise Ballinger.

Middle Row—Metalwork classes make ash trays of tin cans; Veteran boxes on display.
Bottom Row—Collecting coat hangers and magazines for canteens; Woodwork classes make chessmen for service clubs.

The Junior Red Cross, under the direction of Miss Margaret McKemy, was very active this year. In early December, the group filled fifty boxes for war veterans. These boxes were decorated in attractive Christmas wrappings and were delivered to the Red Cross center.

Members of the Red Cross also helped sell Tuberculosis Christmas seals during the lunch periods

For their project of early spring, they helped collect old clothing for the Mutual Help Division of the Parent-Teacher Association and for the Russian War Relief.

Another of their valuable, completed projects was the filling of boxes for the children of the war-torn countries of Europe.

LIBRARIANS

"All the known world, excepting only savage nations, is governed by books."

—VOLTAIRE

Is it not natural then that the library is coming to be considered more and more by educators as the center of the modern school? Webster defines it in part as a "collection of books and pamphlets kept for study or reading." We hope you have found it more than that.

At Southeast the library reflects the activities and assignments of every classroom from shop work to history. It supplements, aids, and abets both teacher and student in preparation of lesson or thesis. This last year has challenged us to keep abreast of the latest developments in science, medicine, race problems, and international affairs. In addition, we have tried to supply you with recreational reading, both enriching and entertaining.

The room itself, with the sun streaming through southern windows all day and the soft colors of murals depicting scenes from Mark Twain's books, will be symbolic, we hope, of the light and color books will bring to your future lives.

"In proportion as society refines, new books must ever become more necessary."

NURSE'S ASSISTANTS

Second Row—Ralph Blinstom, Lora Smith, Frances Comer, Dorothy Finnell, Jean Keele, Doris Songer, Norma Rolando.

First Row—Celia Kraft, Joanne Crist, Aline Runkle, Norma Koehn, Alice Larson, Irene Bell, M. M. Bills.

Wanda Phillips, Joy Carey, Dolores Patch, Ruth Hundley.

The collectors are a select group of students, chosen because of dependability, industry, accuracy, and scholarship. They call at the home rooms to collect any money for school activities, and then return to room 311 where they turn the money in at the cashier's cage. There it is counted and recorded.

This group has taken on an added burden in the sales and distribution of war stamps and bonds.

Mr. M. M. Bills and these students handle accounts of all school activities.

The girls who work in the Health Center are interested in the nursing profession as a career. They learn the routine procedure of the Health Center under the supervision of Mrs. Oleeda Mall Smith. The girls who did the work this year were Ruth Hundley, Joy Carey, and Wanda Phillips.

For four years this faithful one has worked diligently and has strived hard to serve his Castle in all ways possible. He has fought and won his battle and reached the far-away goal of Knighthood. Throughout these years of labor, he has gained a deeper understanding of his fellow Knights, and he has advanced in the knowledge of the ages.

Truth is the pathway that leads through the doorway of Honor into the hall of Virtue where Chivalry waits to greet him. Truth, Honor, Virtue, and Chivalry; these four will help him trod life's way, wherever he goes.

No matter what life gives him to do, he will meet his tasks as a truly loyal and faithful Knight.

UNDERCLASSMEN

After eight years of preparatory work, the youth continues his progress under the guidance of specialized guildmasters. As a Novice, he soon learns he must lay a sturdy foundation if he is to become a worthy and successful Knight.

He is instructed in many matters needed for his future life. He attains knowledge as well as poise and social grace. At tournaments and work he soon realizes that he is a part of the school—no longer an outsider—but one privileged to enter into the spirit of learning and play.

Often he is bewildered by everything required of him to become a Knight. He makes many mistakes and is burdened with disappointments, but watching over him are his guildmasters who lead and instruct him.

SOPHOMORES

The Herald has triumphed over the ups and downs of his year as a Novice in the Castle. He has friends among the other Heralds and the Guildmasters. Through two tournament championships, he has become inspired toward greater achievement for himself and increased loyalty to his Castle. For these accomplishments, he has seen his name mentioned in the Tower.

He is half-way through his high school career, and is feeling proud of himself. He is aware of his tasks and has hitched his wagon to a star—the star of Knighthood, the goal of his dreams.

More important to him, his diligence in his work is preparing him for bigger things to come. Each year in school adds another stone to his foundation for Knighthood.

JUNIORS

Ahead of the Squire lies the shining beacon of Knighthood, his greatest ambition. The Squire has learned that life in the Castle means work. He has found that achievement is the reward of hard work and feeling of success spurs him on. Mixed with his work is a certain amount of play; both of these wisely combined make a truly proficient Knight.

He knows that the Guildmasters, whom he feared a bit as a Novice, are his friends. They have proved many times to him that they are always willing to share their wisdom, gained from past experience, to help him overcome difficult matters. The Squire is now ready to mount the high-stepping Challengers that will carry him to his goal of Knighthood.

JUNIOR OFFICERS

Doris Clark, Bob Palmer, Noel Cooperider, Jo Ann Tucker, Dale Leathers, John Hunt, Gwen Gibby.

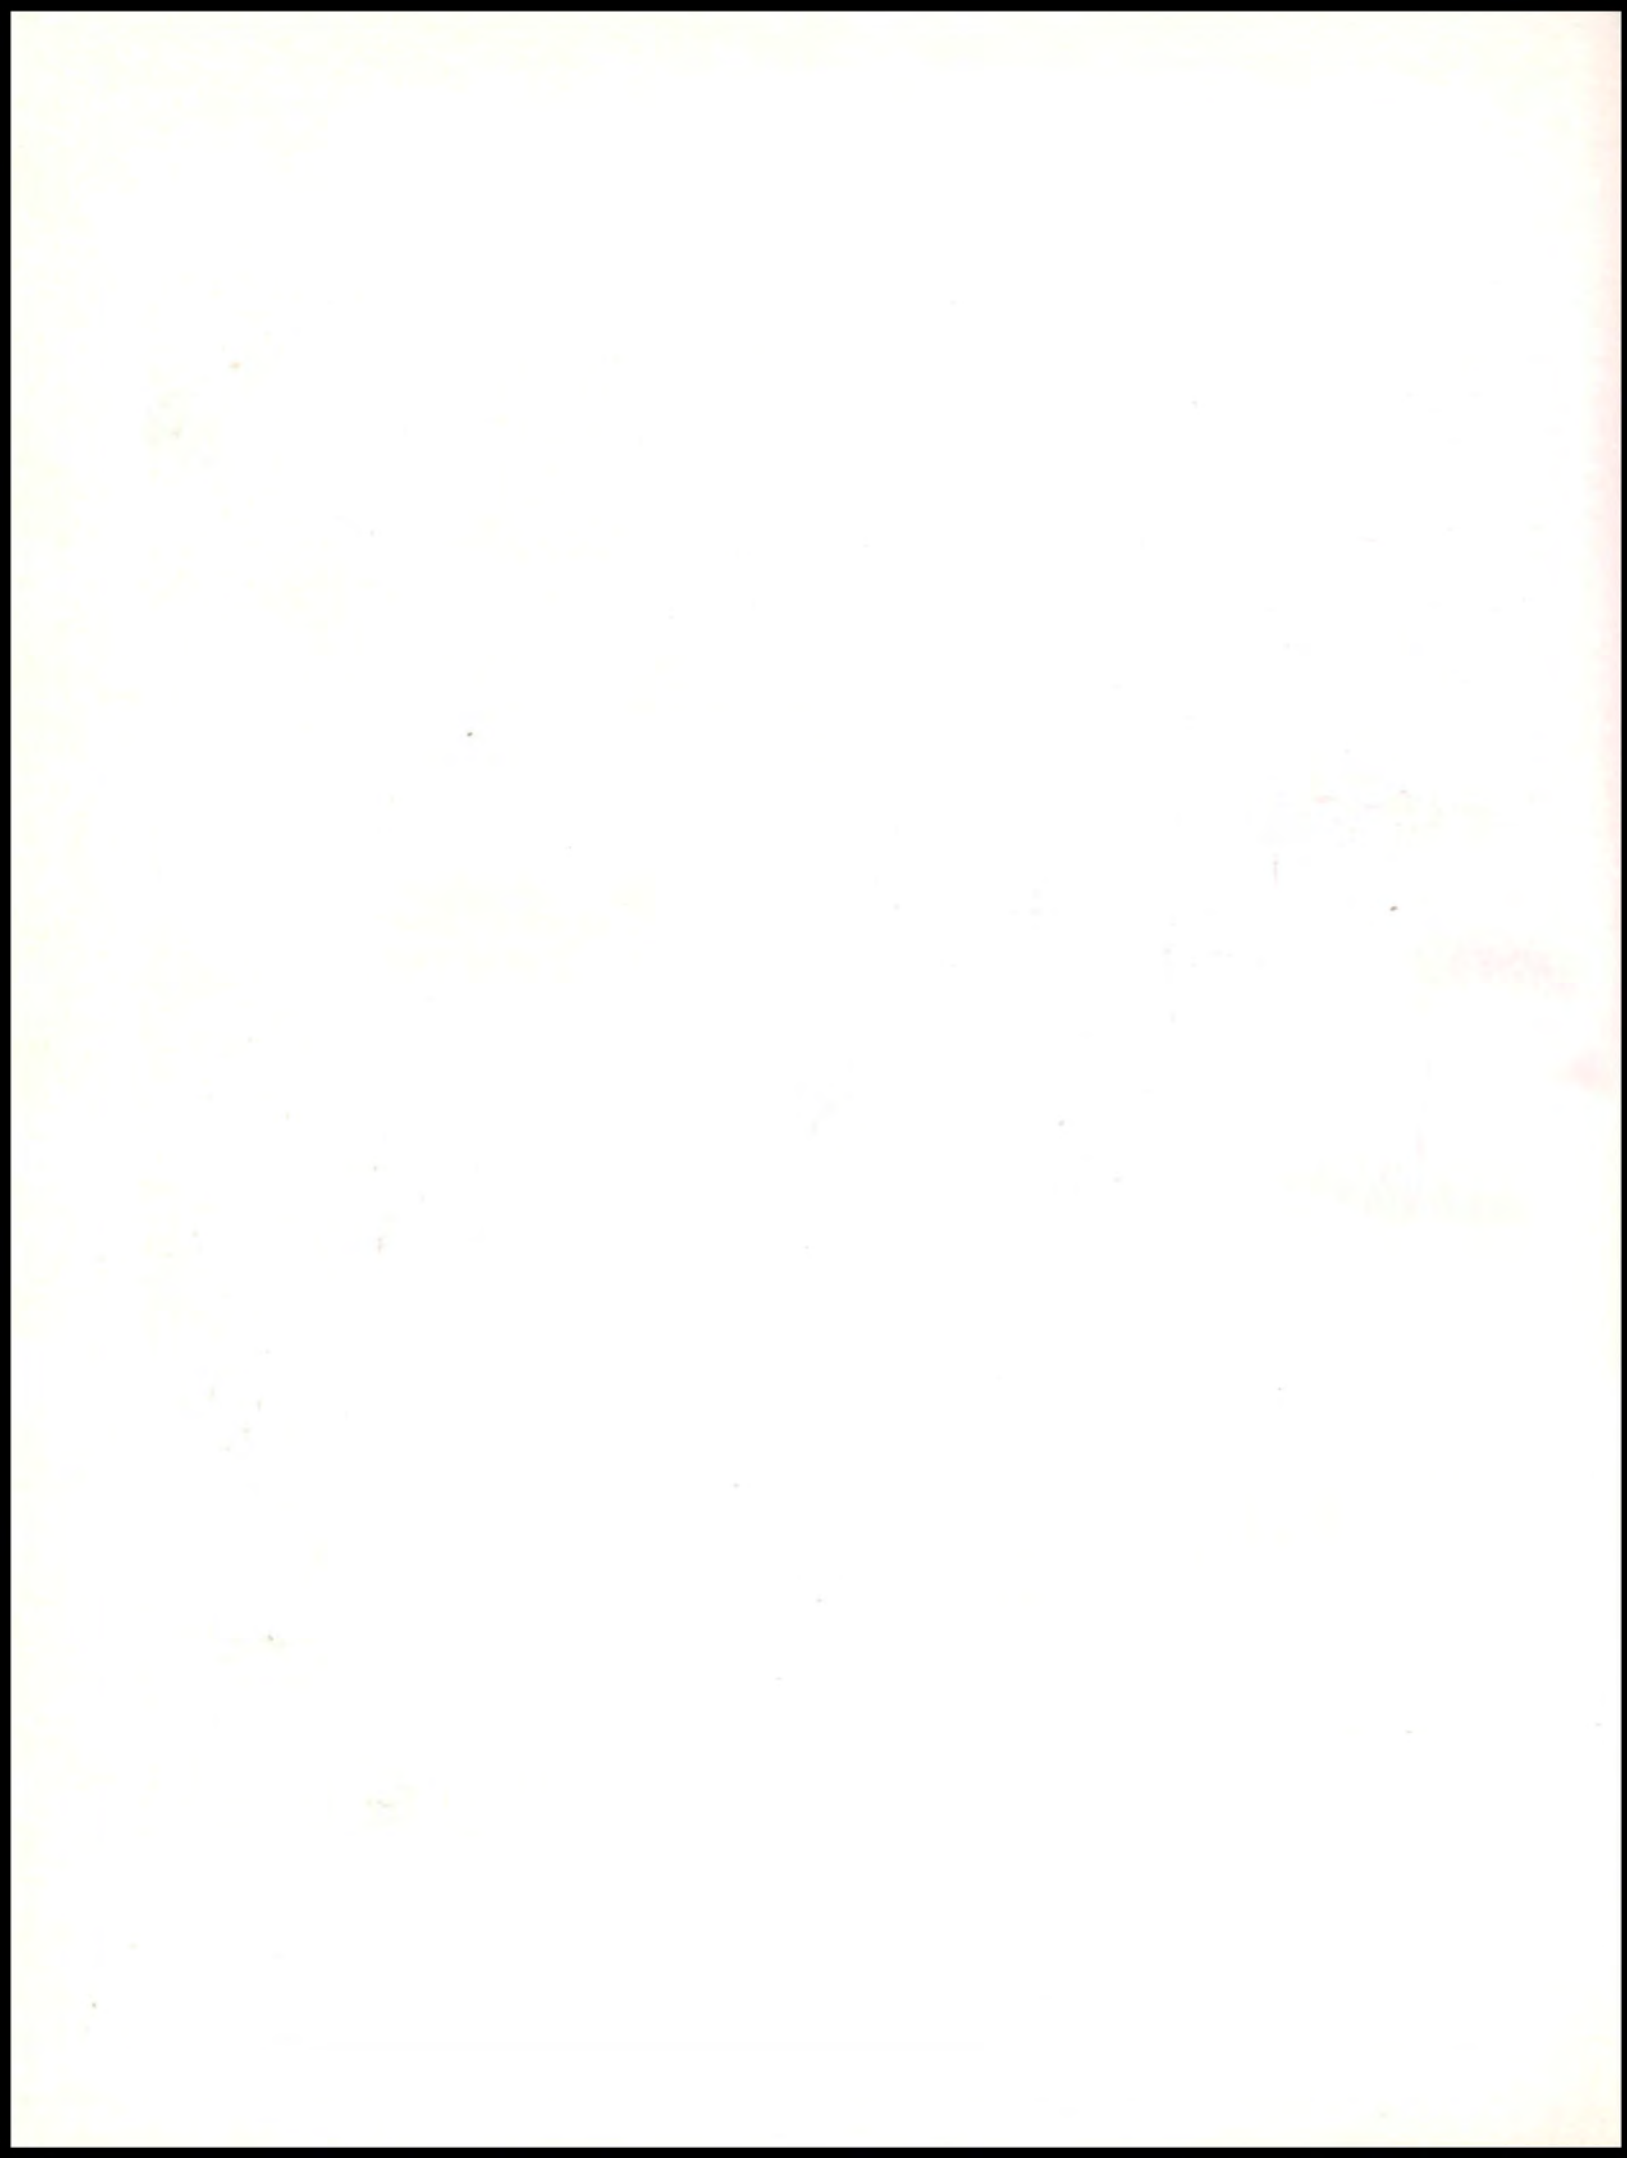

These students are elected to represent the junior class and organize its activities. Their main task is to plan the Junior-Senior Prom. Each year juniors and seniors look forward to this event as one of the highlights of the year. The beautiful decorations, the refreshments, and enjoyable entertainment are the result of the hard work of these students and their sponsor, Miss Carlotta V. Cunning. The lovely formals of the girls plus the immaculately groomed appearance of the boys add to the setting and make us realize that juniors and seniors are growing up.

CRUSADER STAFF

The Crusader staff was selected in the spring of 1944 during the preliminary enrollment period. As an experiment this year, a course was introduced in high school annual production under the name of "Publications."

The Crusader staff is organized in the following manner:

The editor-in-chief does all the general layout work, supervises the work of all the staff, and is responsible for assembling the Crusader properly.

The assistant editor aids in supervision, proof reading, and edits all written material before it is inserted in the book.

Each division of the Crusader has an editor to draw up the dummy for his section and account for the pictures he is to use. The section editors collect materials under the following headings: administration, underclassmen, seniors, clubs, activities, athletics, and the productions.

The photography editor, aided by his staff, is responsible for taking and producing most of the photographs of groups and underclassmen.

The business managers plan the budget for the annual, figure the cost of engravings, and handle all contracts.

The make-up staff cuts each picture to a proportional size and assembles the pictures on cardboard so they may be engraved.

The division pages and all other art work are done by the art editor and the art staff.

The secretarial staff carries on all necessary correspondence for the Crusader, mimeograph all questionnaires, and assist in typing copy.

The Crusader staff has been fortunate in having such fine sponsors with whom they have worked. Mr. Elwood B. Shirling deserves much credit for his general supervision of the entire Crusader. Under the guidance of Miss Anna B. Shouse the literary work of the annual was written. The art work was supervised by Miss Martha Abbott.

TOWER STAFF

With much "big news" to report this year, the Tower staff came forth with a new and interesting paper. From the first issue published by the "green" news-writing students to the last by a finished staff, the bi-weekly Tower continued to be enjoyed by all who read it.

The staff was charged with several duties similar to those in the production of a city newspaper. The reporters and staff writers gathered the news and wrote it up, wrote features and editorials, edited copy, and made up the dummy.

The circulation staff was in charge of distribution of the Towers to homerooms, and of wrapping and mailing papers to subscribers, school officials, and advertisers.

The advertising staff solicited ads, wrote and edited copy, wrote contracts, and did the bookkeeping.

In each of the past six years the Tower has received a high rating in the Missouri Interscholastic Press Association. The Tower has also received the International Honor Award of the "Quill and Scroll," an international honor society for high school journalists. Two former editors of the Tower have attended the National Journalism Institute of Northwestern University.

Staff members have won honors for their individual achievement. Several students who gained their experience through the Tower won prizes in the annual Justice Brandeis essay contest.

This year the Tower Staff had the responsibility of keeping the Service Honor Roll of Southeast High School. Miss Maude Mueller, Tower adviser, and the news-writing class "kept tab on" servicemen in all parts of the world, many of whom are subscribers.

CHOIR-BAND-ORCHESTRA

The music department has developed into one of the leading contributors of talent to Southeast.

The varied activities of each organization are planned primarily to give the student a chance to express himself and enjoy himself in that experience, to grow in ability to perform, and to have a valuable hobby. The students of these organizations consider themselves as service groups for the school and offer their services as entertainers to the entire student body and the community in assemblies, plays, club programs, athletic events, patriotic gatherings, Parent-Teacher meetings, churches, and civic events.

One of the outstanding experiences of the a cappella choir and orchestra was their presentation of the musical program for the opening session of the Missouri State Teachers Association at the Municipal Auditorium in November. The seventy-five member choir and fifty orchestra members gave a program that was enthusiastically received by the five thousand visiting teachers.

The Christmas assembly has become a traditional presentation of the music department and is a serious and impressive observance of the significance of the season. The girls' chorus, boys' chorus, a cappella choir, and band all joined and were assisted by students from the speech department who performed to beautiful and inspiring music in a cathedral-like setting.

The girls' chorus, made up of freshman and sophomore girls, directed by Mrs. Wanda Musgrave, gives training to about one hundred twenty students. They appeared in two major presentations during the year—the Christmas assembly and the Festival of Music.

The major full dress activity of the music department each year is the Festival of Music in April. At that time, the orchestra, band, girls' chorus, a cappella choir, and several small ensembles offer examples of their most serious work with special staging and costuming. Fine choral works are performed, and, as a result, students widen their cultural horizon. Community interest and attendance has been very fine for the past two years.

Solo playing and singing is encouraged among the members of the music classes, and talented performers are discovered each year. These students find expression for their talent in assemblies, programs in the churches, community groups, in Knightlites, and the Music Festival. As a special incentive the past two years, the music department has sponsored a solo contest, both vocal and instrumental, within the school. Contestants are judged by competent musicians from the city, and awards are made to the best performers. The winning students are heard by the student body in a special assembly.

As concrete evidence of the growth in appreciation of music at Southeast, the student attendance at the Philharmonic Orchestra concerts may be cited. More than two hundred fifty students were present at the concerts at the Music Hall each semester, and the major symphonic works were received intelligently and enthusiastically.

As extra-curricular and extra interest activities, a number of small instrumental and vocal ensembles function through the year. Besides providing training to the participants, the groups serve as entertainment units in the school and about the city. The girls' octet, the flute trio, the brass quartet, and the string quartet are examples of these ensembles.

The director of the band, orchestra, choir, and some smaller groups is Mr. Ben E. Markley, a most efficient leader.

DIRECTOR

KNIGHTLITES

"First Nighters" who entered the auditorium December 8 and 9 to view the annual variety show, Knightlites, were greeted by an opening chorus of twenty-six feminine voices. Miss Martha Abbott directed the performance; Pat King and Lucille Palis helped teach routines and assemble the program material.

Hats provided an interesting theme and setting. L. D. Fiser was the bell boy and Sue Reynolds the hat stand.

A merry pace was set to a good old-fashioned square dance, with violinists—Fred Foerster, Juliene Williams, Billy Rollert—and caller, Joanne Rice. Jim Greenen sang "Don't Fence Me In," and Charlene Lambertz danced. A villain, called "Panhandle Pete," impersonated by Ted Blocker, was slain by Irma Eldridge, Mary Jane Griffith, Bonnie Banister, Betty Bates, and Shirley Subert.

Betty Bradford was enticing as a Spanish senorita.

Pat King did a graceful Dutch dance. Betty Cochran and Pat Young sang "Wooden Shoes."

Without a doubt, talented Lucille Palis is an outstanding tap dancer. Her peasant headdress was beautiful. Kenny Welch, '42, accompanied her for the Saturday evening show and also entertained the audience with a few of his many talents.

The boys' ballet number literally "brought down the house." Their graceful, dainty motions seemed to enthrall the audience. The "ladies" of the ensemble were the Misses Johnson, Krom, Laury, Linck, Mills, Pittenger, White, and Wyatt. Dorla Dean Eaton sang "Turn Off the Rain," while Leon Brownfield and James Redding played.

Betty Mason emphatically impressed the fact upon her two star pupils, Jackie Jenkins and Bob Spradling, that you're not supposed to carry tales out of school.

Bobby Jones did his famous vanishing act, in which the audience disappears. Bakers' hats were worn by

Mary Jane Cates, Nancy Chiarelli, Marilyn Gibby, Joan Hansen, Shirley Harrman, Sally Sloan, Joan Soxman, Marilyn Stockton, and Virginia Rimms as they sang "Patty Cake Man."

Picture hats were worn by the bridesmaids, Bonnie Banister, Shirley Davis, Gwen Gibby, Margaret Hof, Betty Sagaser, Nancy Rouse, Mary Louise Watson, and Betty Lou Brown, who sang beautifully. Jack Greenen and Polly Ann Andrew were the bride and groom. The parade of pretty girls was just as the title implies. The girls were Dona Lou Kelly, Mary Cozad, Margaret Roach, Melba Hightower, Helen Dunkelberg, Charlene Lambertz, Frances Comer, Claire Harbolt, Martha Hilburn, Pat Williams, and Doris Fretz.

The acme of the show was the faculty "doll dance." Limber Raggedy Anns—the Misses Birkhead, Fetters, Harman, Perkins, Robinson, Schacklett, and Mrs. Ward, with their gallant Andys—Messrs. Cross, Harman, Lasley, Markley, Powell, Shirling, and Smith, skipped and pranced merrily.

One might have sworn Betty Hutton was on the stage when Janet Stites sang and danced to the "Rocking Horse Song." The young master who displayed his talents was Mike Greenen.

Roland Berry, '44, returned and sang a stirring patriotic song. The realistic background was done by several R.O.T.C. cadets.

The student director of the Knightlites orchestra was Robert McDonald.

Thanks were given to Miss Helen Howell, Miss Mildred Wright, Miss Helen Wilkin, and Delores Patch, for their work on costumes; Miss Maude Mueller, the News Class, and Mr. Sidney Lasley, for publicity; Misses Latshaw, McMaster, and Towner for the properties; Martha Hilburn, Robert Clark and Jane Mossman, as accompanists; and to the call boys, Howard Harrenstein and Bill Cain; to Jack Gibby, '44, for returning to assist in scene painting.

Top Row—Lee Davis, Bert Jefferson; Rita Saunders, Lorraine Sheldon; Patsy Sade, Assistant to Director; Ted Blocker, Banjo; Jean Frerking, Maggie; Phyllis Lapidis, Mrs. Stanley.

"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"

"The biggest success in years" was one comment on Southeast's production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. Hailed as the best play ever done at Southeast, it brought waves of spontaneous applause from one of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences ever to witness the annual Spring Play.

The scene of each of the three acts is laid in the living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley, Mesalia, Ohio.

Mr. Sheridan Whiteside, Falstaffian play critic and wit, takes a spill on the ice on the Stanleys' front steps. Whiteside takes over the house and is never at a loss for phrases to express his measured opinion of his host and hostess, his nurse, his doctor, and even his treasured secretary.

Upon the initial raising of the curtain, the Stanleys are expectantly awaiting the entrance of Mr. Whiteside. He is wheeled into the room and abruptly informs the Stanleys that he will have to conduct his business in their home until he is able to return to New York.

To add to the confusion, Maggie, his secretary, falls in love with Bert Jefferson, a young reporter for the local newspaper. Whiteside, irritated at the thought of losing his efficient secretary, plots to bring Lorraine

Sheldon, a glamorous actress friend of his, to Mesalia. Lorraine arrives and immediately captivates Bert with her charms.

Finally, Whiteside realizes how much his secretary, Maggie, loves Bert; so he wishes to get rid of Lorraine.

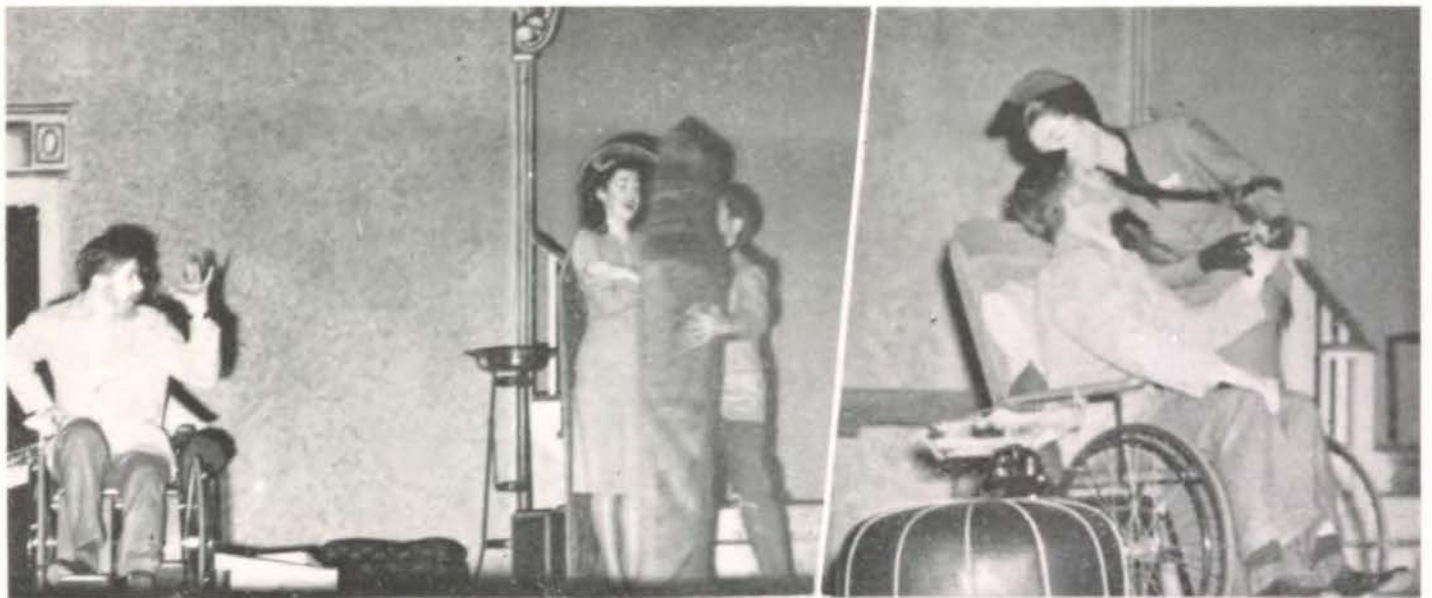

At this point, Banjo, a pixie-like gentleman from Hollywood and a friend of Whiteside's, appears on the scene. Maggie enlists the aid of this clever impersonator.

One day, Lorraine—in an adventurous mood—steps into a mummy case. Banjo, casually whistling "Dixie," slams the lid, fastens it, and immediately ships the case to Nova Scotia.

Mr. Stanley discovers that Whiteside's hip is not broken, so he orders him to leave. Before going, Mr. Whiteside, who has taken a great interest in the two children of the Stanleys, advises the father to allow them to follow their own wishes for the future. He sees that Bert and Maggie are reunited, and then he walks sweepingly out of the house.

A moment later there is a loud crash followed by an oath, and Whiteside is carried back into the room. He has fallen on the front steps again.

The play ends as it began with slippery steps and a broken hip.

Second Row—Helen Newsom, Elaine Brazeal, Helen Frances Woodruff, Alice Jean Bailey, Barbara Parker, Joan Beggs, Eleanore Rowe.

First Row—Doris Clark, Gwen Gibby, Pat Cowan, Pollyann Andrew, Donna Clark, Carol Grayson, Mildred Dahlstrom.

The National Beta Club is an organization composed of juniors and seniors. To qualify, the student must have high scholarship standing, high character ratings, must have performed a service to the school, and must have shown leadership in his school years.

Each year the club undertakes some project that will benefit the school. This year Miss Claribel Woodward, the sponsor, assisted by various members of the club, decorated the show cases. Each spring the club sponsors a formal dance which is always outstanding for its beauty and pleasure.

First Row—V'Ann Calvert, George Calvert, Marolinn Graham, Jewel Stone, Dean Audsley, Everett Wilson, Elaine Brazeal, Mary Louise Watson.

The Spanish Club, or Centinelas, had another big year, "getting off to a flying start" with a clever initiation in October. From then on, big events occurred, one after another, from games at the annual Chili Supper to the breaking of the pinata at the Christmas party, and the Pan-American banquet added the finishing touches.

The banquet is always held on or near Pan-American Day. At that time a medal is awarded to the most proficient Spanish-user among the Spanish students.

With much student talent, the club was able to have skits, songs, and games. In addition, outside speakers helped to make the programs more interesting and the study of Spanish more enjoyable.

First Row—Miss Cunning, Dona Lou Kelly, Helen Landry, Mary Cozad, Charlotte Harris, Helen Henderson, Margaret Hof.

The purpose of the Commercial Club is to acquaint those students who plan to enter business professions with the different types of business methods. The club provides many opportunities for its members to get an inside view of the business world.

At their meetings, they have demonstrations of different office machines, talks by prominent business men and women, and movies. The club also sponsors trips to offices and plants of large concerns.

However, social life is not forgotten, for parties and skits are enjoyed.

The Girl Reserves, which has done much for our school, is the junior organization of the Young Women's Christian Association.

The name "Girl Reserve" has a very significant meaning. A Girl Reserve has qualities which will help her to take her place as a Christian citizen in her home, her school, her church, and her community.

This organization endeavors to help a girl grow through normal, natural activities into those habits, insights, and ideals which will make her a responsible, eager woman, capable and ready to develop and share in those group expressions which are making effective the purpose of God in the world.

The club started with a membership of forty-seven, and now after seven years the membership is one hundred fifty.

The insignia is a blue triangle with the letters G.R. inscribed within. This insignia symbolizes the national and international movement for girls and women.

Their programs this year have been very interesting and entertaining. They included dances, picnics, social work, talks by inspirational speakers, panel discussions, and various other types of activity.

The director is Miss Wright who for five years has been understanding and helpful in her work with the girls. Miss Rebecca Birkhead has been her able assistant this year.

First Row—Creighton Burk, Melvin Hill, Harold Rutherford, Paul Chaffee, Jack Conrad, Mr. Heinberg, James Johnston.

The Stage and Screen Club, a service organization, is composed of boys who meet to discuss problems that arise during productions and assemblies. From this group, the stage crew is picked by the sponsor, Mr. Claude N. Harman. Three or four of these boys handle the electrical equipment.

The stage crew is an important factor to all productions put on at Southeast, for it is the stage hands that arrange all scenery and properties for these productions.

The Engineers' Club is composed of students who are interested in mathematics and who are looking forward to a career in engineering or some related work.

The club's program includes lectures given by representatives of colleges and local engineering firms. The club also enjoys mathematical recreations and practice in the use of engineering instruments, such as the slide rule and the transit. The members gain first hand knowledge of the work of the engineer by visits to local engineering firms.

First Row—Celia Kraft, Jean Parrish, Roberta Link, Alleen Armstrong, Margie Mayfield, Margaret Nolte, Pat Cowan, Diane Coleman.

The Debate Club, the first of its kind in Southeast, was organized and sponsored by Mr. Laurence C. Cooke. Debating develops confidence which comes as the result of clear thinking, sound judgment, foresight, and concise expression. It is hoped that this club will continue in the future and compete with other schools in debating pertinent questions of the day.

The Dracones is composed of students taking Latin. Those who wish to join act as slaves to the old members until initiation when they appear before Pluto and his judges who grant them freedom when proof of their originality is given. At meetings the members study famous Romans and Roman life. They also sing songs and give plays in Latin.

The Knights of the Hi-Y Club have enjoyed a year with an abundance of fun, entertainment, and worthwhile service. Some of the Hi-Y's activities included the President's Ball, the Father-and-Son Dinner, and the presentation of the small gold footballs to the fifteen football lettermen.

Ronald Mills and Mel Connet were the presidents of the club for the first and second semesters respectively. This year, the club was under the capable direction of Mr. Jess Cross.

PENTHOUSE PLAYERS

"MESSAGE FROM KHUFU"—E. C. Linck, Lee Davis, Ted Blocker.

"ELIZABETH AND ESSEX"—Rita Saunders and Lee Davis.

"RINGING IN THE GROOM"—Jo Ann Swetnam, Charlotte Whitaker, Janet Stites, Bob Seitter, Mildred Roach.

Third Row—Eddie Glasscock, Miss Fetters, John Schoap, Harry Henry, Charles Rapp, Dorla Dean Eaton, Bill Leavey, Lee Davis, Ted Blocker, Bob Milburn.

Second Row—Ben Miller, Don White, E. C. Linck, Charlotte Whitaker, Charlene Lambertz, Carol Winton, Phyllis Lapidis, Rita Saunders, Marita McGinnis, Joan Rupert.

First Row—Peggy Ragland, Frankie Rowland, Marceline Ethetton, Pat Young, Mattie Greer, Patsy Sade, Sue Reynolds, Betty Cochran, Jo Ann Tucker.

Southeast's dramatic group, the "Penthouse Players," produces one play in the "little theater" each month. The aim of the club is to give its members added experience in acting, costuming, make-up, scenery effects, and the thousand-and-one other things that go to make up a finished production. Once every year they give a production for which admission is charged in order to raise needed funds. The play this year was Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Requirements for membership are to have a genuine interest in dramatics and to have taken at least one year of speech.

ART CLUB

Third Row—Norma Souther, Pat Williams, Kenneth Krom, Marcus Paden, Frank Laury, Ross Cook, Elaine Durham.

First Row—Carol Grayson, Richard George, Bill Hayward, Jo Ann Tucker.

All these students have shown talent and superior interest in the art work they have done in class. Candidates for membership must have at least an "S" grade in art the preceding semester and must receive a majority vote of the old members to be accepted in the club. Meetings are held twice a month to develop and improve ability in clay modeling, in the use of the air brush, in water color painting, modeling, and other forms of creative arts and crafts.

A.A.U.W.

Second Row—Cynthia Morrish, Melba Hightower, Joan Beggs, Dorla Dean Eaton, Lenore Carlson, Blossom Douthat, Alice Jean Bailey.

QUILL AND SCROLL

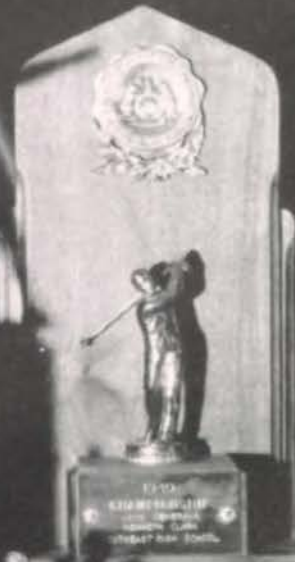

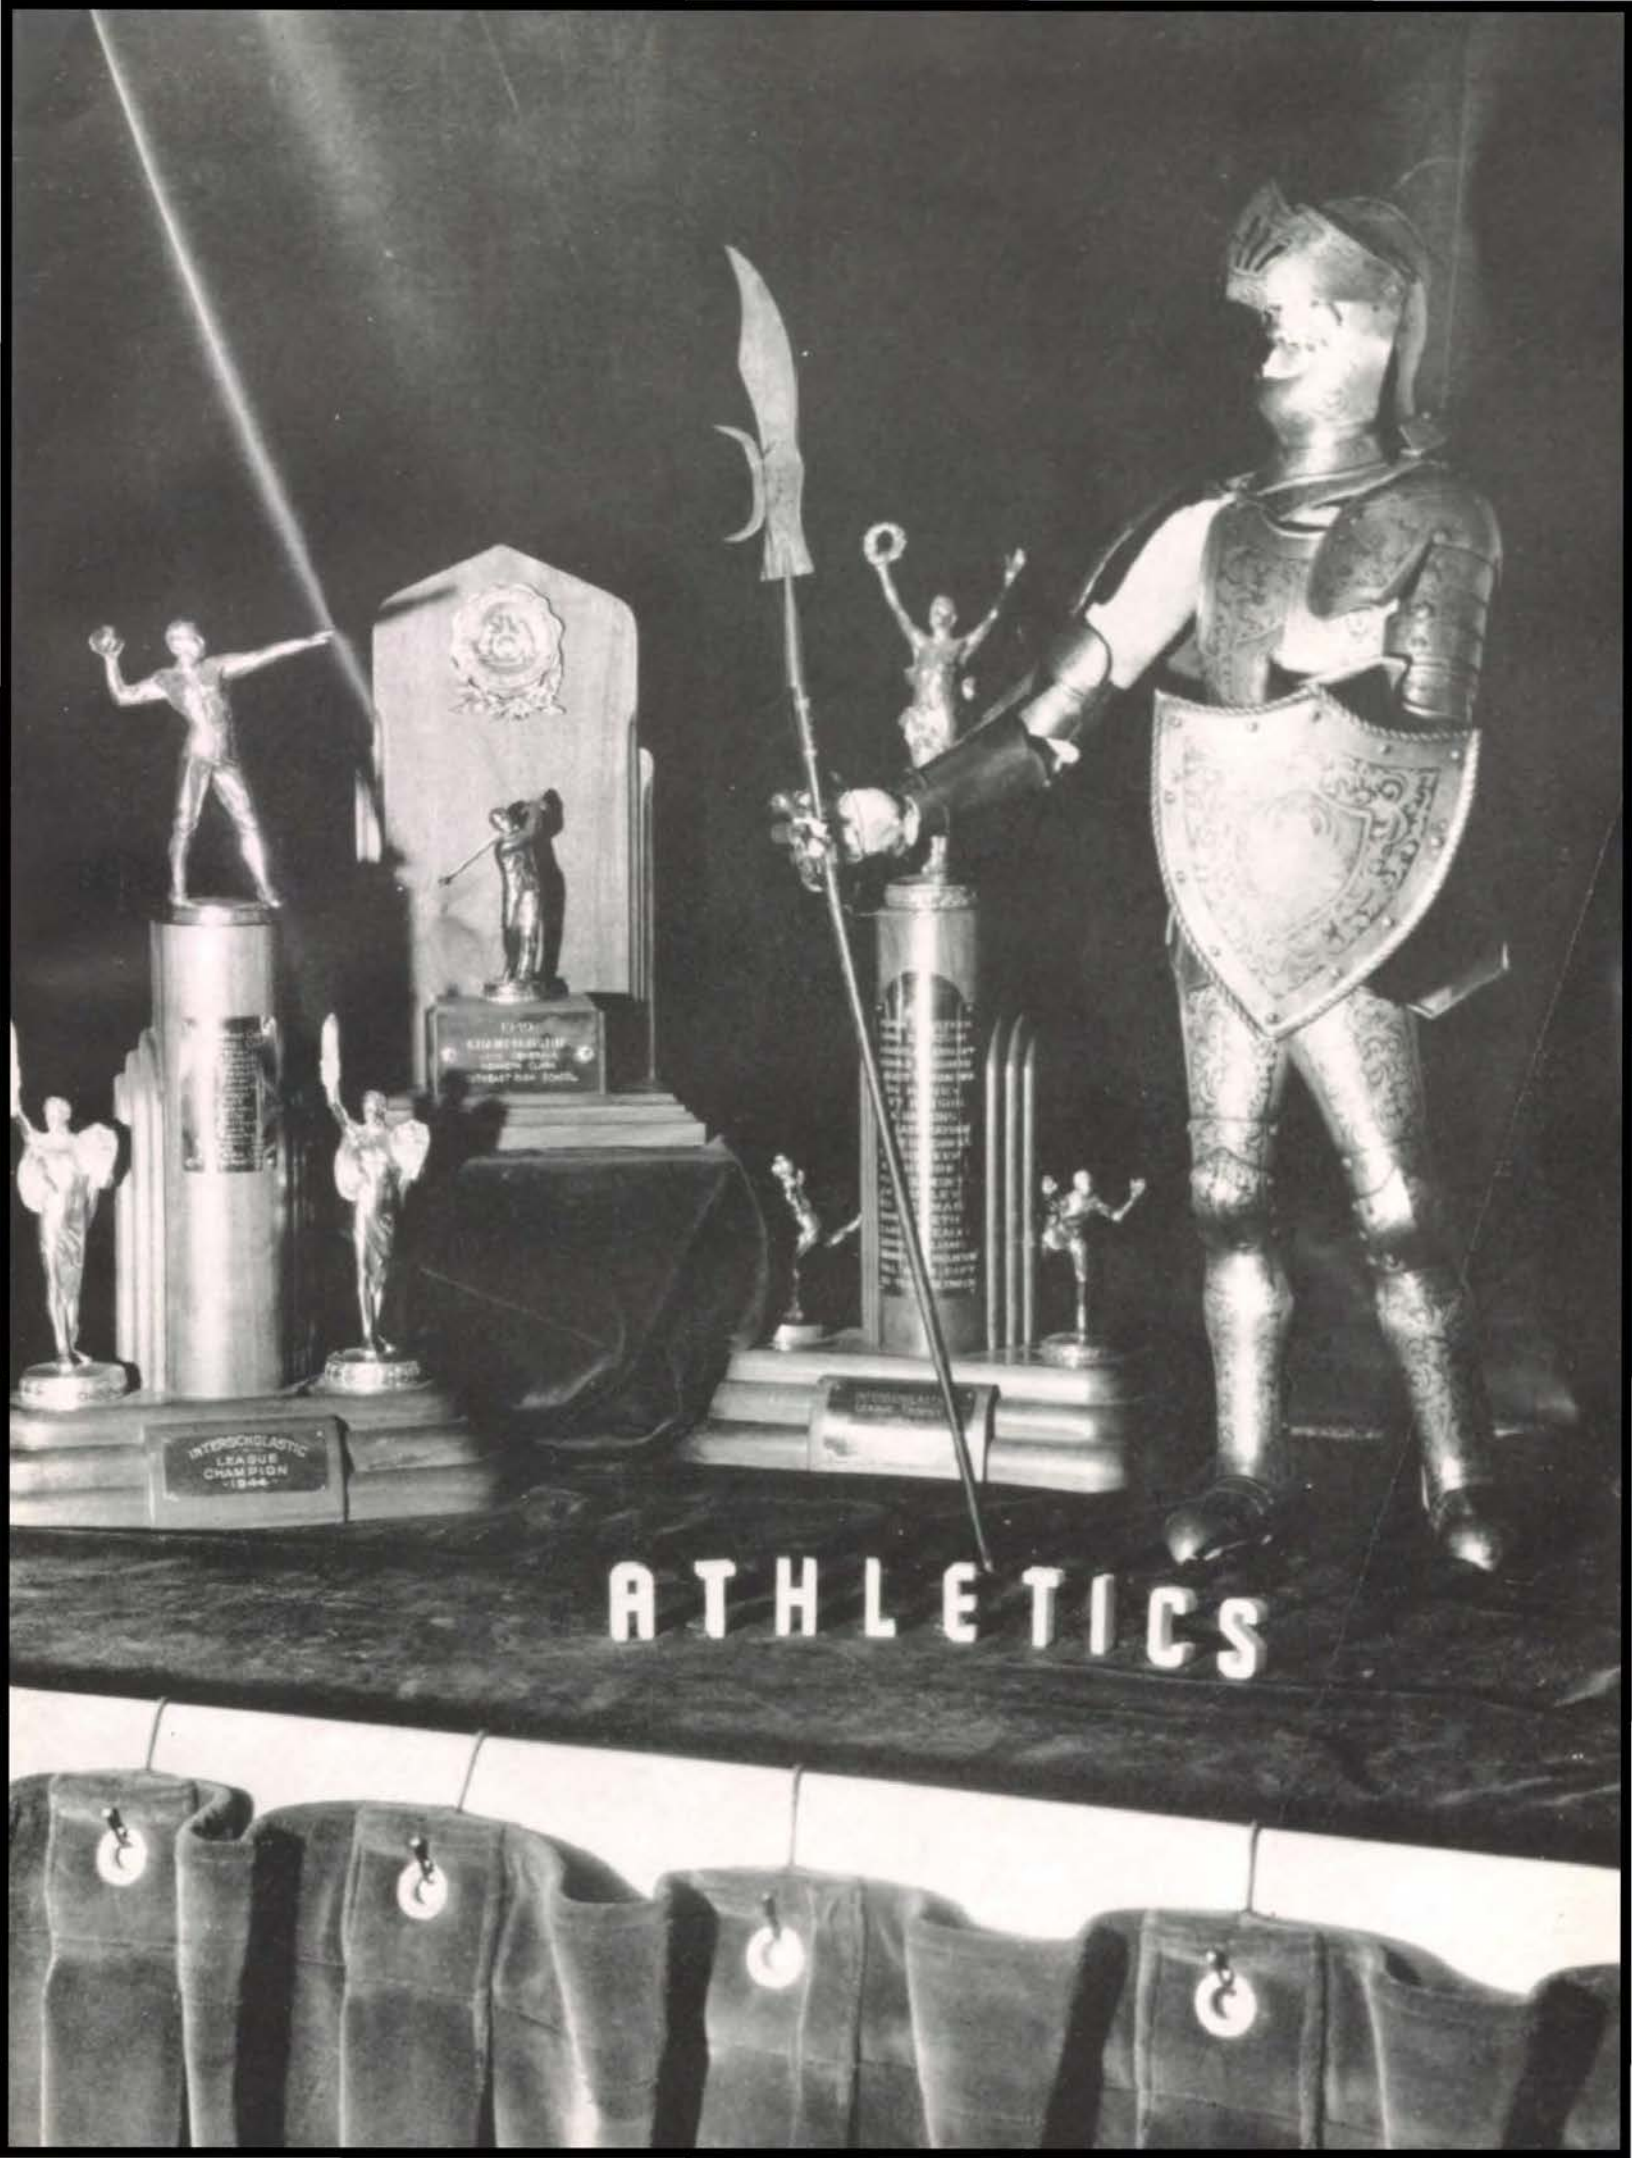

Mary Rae Rogers, Mary Anna Said, Allen Welch, Helen Tree, Phyllis Wells.

The A.A.U.W. is composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls who have shown superior scholastic ability. Freshman grades are used as a basis for the selection. Usually, three girls with the highest grades are chosen each year, but if more are on the same scholastic plain, they are added. Each year open house is held to provide information concerning the different colleges and universities to assist the girls in deciding which school they wish to attend for higher education. Talks and lectures are also given.

The Quill and Scroll Society is an international honor society for high school journalists of junior or senior classification. Candidates must be elected from the newswriting class. At the time of their election they must be in the upper third of their class in general scholastic standing.

Superior work in writing, editing, or business management must be achieved. Each candidate must be recommended by the faculty supervisor and must be approved by the Executive Secretary of the Society.

This year's football team brought to Southeast High School its most successful season. The team tied with East in winning the Interscholastic League co-championship. Our team won five and lost one in the league games and lost one and tied one in non-league play.

The team got off on the wrong foot by playing the T-formation against North Kansas City and East. After these two losses they began playing on a modified double wing-back formation and did not come out with a low score after that.

After a victory over Paseo, the team gained confidence and went into the battle with Westport determined to win. After this success, Southeast had a solid hold on second place. In the game with Northeast, which proved to be a thriller from start to finish, Southeast won by a one-point margin.

The next week Southeast played Southwest, which was Southeast's game all the way. On the same day, the defeat of East by Northeast tied East and Southeast for first place.

In the last game, which proved to be Southeast's most difficult game, the team, in the final minutes of play, scored a safety and defeated Central 2-0.

Coach Laurence Cooke, who has been at Southeast only two years, is very deserving of the credit due the best coaches, of whom he is one.

Individual players were well rewarded for their excellent play.

Ed Donahue, Southeast's stellar fullback, made the First Team All-Star Squad for his splendid line plunges and kicking. "Dumbo" was on the team two years. Jack Greenen also made the All-Star Team for his fine job as a tackle. Jack played one year for Southeast. Kent Evans, Southeast's three-year letterman, made the second team All-Star Squad for his work as a halfback. Five boys received honorable mention. Their names and positions were: Gordon Cramer, center; Jim Greenen, guard; Mansell Baker, guard; Mel Connet, tackle; and Ronnie Mills, quarterback. Other letter winners were Alex Hodges, Johnny Hunt, Bill Gosney, George Dunn, Cyril Baucke, Tommy Phillips, and Irvin Chiarelli.

Although we had our share of injuries, they were very slight. Possibly the most serious was that received by "Big Bill" Gosney when he suffered a knee injury during the middle of the season and was kept out of the rest of the games.

Jim Greenen was knocked unconscious during the William Chrisman game, but was all right by the next game. Ed Donahue received a knee injury in the last game.

Next year there will be two returning lettermen in the Southeast lineup. They will be Johnny Hunt, an end, and Bill Gosney, who has completed two years as a guard. We are counting on these two boys to carry their share of the load with much success.

To Coach Charles Huhn, we devote these few words of praise for his work as coach of the Sophomore Team, which went through this season undefeated. The "Rinky Dinks" won all of their games and are very promising as "future champs."

CHAMPION GOLF TEAM

This year the Southeast Golf Team again captured the Interscholastic Golf Championship for the third time in the six years that the team has participated. Paced by Bob Withey, who has rounded out two years of successful golf, the team came through with a 32 point lead over the closest school, Southwest.

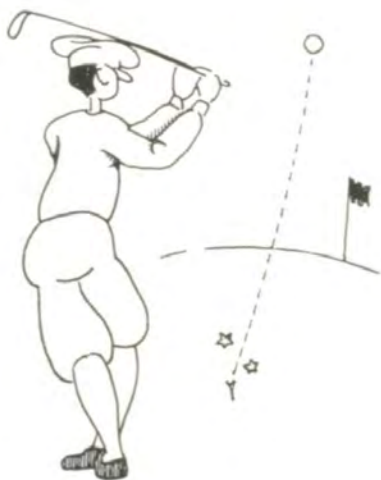

Bob Withey of Southeast and Yarmo of Southwest tied for first place for 18 holes with a score of 74. Bob also tied Marvin Shuman of Paseo for second place for 72 holes with a 307, which was one point behind Jim Neuner of Westport with a 306.

Don Palmer, another second year player, was captain of this year's team and offered much to the success of the team.

Ross Cook has played three years of golf for Southeast and was captain of last year's team when it placed second in the city.

First year boys on the team were George Allmon, a freshman, and Charles Dietrich, a sophomore, who are both very promising players. We are expecting much out of these two boys in the years to come.

Much of the credit goes to Mr. Claude N. Harman who has been the coach of the team all six years. He has been watching the boys carefully to see that he has the best boys for the team.

YEA... TEAM!!

1944-45 CHEERLEADERS—Charlene Lambertz, Lucille Palis, Pat King, Dona Lou Kelly, Jack Wyatt, Kenneth Johnston, Frank Laury.

BASKETBALL

This year's basketball team could be called "The Season's Hard Luck Team," because of their bad luck in losing three games by just one point.

In the Interscholastic League race, Southeast finished in a tie with Manual for sixth place by winning two games each. Southeast's victories included Manual and East. The Southeast-East affair was an over-time game.

The three games that Southeast lost by one point were to Northeast, the Interscholastic League 1945 Champions, Westport, and Central, the last two finished in a tie for third place. Southeast's other two games were lost by larger margins.

Ross Cook was elected captain of the team by his fellow players. This was his second year on the team, making him the only two-year letterman. Other letter winners were Earl Niewald, Homer Evans, Paul Chaffee, Jack Bollinger, Ronnie Mills, and Lorne Buchner. Two senior boys, Mansell Baker and Don Palmer, received reserve-team letters. Lorne Buchner will be back next year as the only letterman. Earl Niewald won special recognition by receiving honorable mention on the City All-Star Team.

Our hats are off to Coach Huhn who has completed his first year as coach of the Southeast Team. We consider this a successful season for a new coach.

Right—440 and 880 yard runs: Kenneth Soxman, Robert McDonald, Alex Hodges, Cyril Baucke, Lorne Buckner, Ronnie Mills, Bill Eckenroed, Howard Pinkard.

In the dashes this year we have fast runners in Ed Donahue, Dick Livingston, Bob Hill, Paul Chaffee, Leslie Banghart, and Paul Griffin.

In the 440-yard dash and 880-yard run, Southeast has several outstanding runners. Alex Hodges, letterman, and Lorne Buckner are very outstanding in the 440-yard dash along with Bob McDonald and Ronnie Mills. In the 880-yard run there are Howard Pinkard, Johnny Hunt, Kenneth Soxman, and Cyril Baucke.

Paul Griffin, Mansell Baker, and Bob Withey consistently score in the broad jump. Bob Withey is also a high jumper along with Roy Sappington, Ross Cook, and Guy Haines.

Southeast ranks high in the pole vault with Marcus Paden, Jack Bollinger, Bill Snyder, Charles Forbes, and John Myler.

Marcus Paden and Earl Niewald, the low hurdlers are doing very well in this event. In the high hurdles, with an equal record, are Gerre Pittenger and Don White.

The shotput is another well-balanced event with Bill Gosney, Ed Donahue, Dale Leathers, Johnny Hunt, and Ronnie Mills. Bill has won first in all three meets this year.

FIRST PLATOON

The First Platoon was led by First Lieutenant Charles Bixman. Under his command, the cadets were schooled in the following R.O.T.C. subjects: Military organization, infantry drill regulations, courtesy and discipline, sanitation and first aid, military history and policy, physical training, rifle marksmanship, map reading, interior guard duty, and combat training.

First Lieutenant James Graybeal, who was the company's plans-and-training officer, came from the ranks of the First Platoon.

Sergeant Melvin Smith was the platoon sergeant; Corporal Kenneth Bonar, the guide; and Private Bill Christy, guidon bearer. Cadet Ralph Trower was Company A's first sergeant.

Hard-working cadets won ribbons this year. A proficiency ribbon was awarded to each cadet of the Kansas City regiment who made a 3.5

scholastic average during a semester. If the cadet already wore this red-white-and-blue ribbon over his left pocket, he was awarded a silver star instead.

Theoretical ribbons were awarded to the first, second, and third year cadets who attained the highest semester rating in all theoretical military subjects in his group.

Neatness badges were awarded to each first and second year cadet who attained the highest semester rating in military bearing and neatness.

Gold, silver, and bronze medals were awarded to the three cadets who established the most efficient rating among the first and second year men. These medals were sponsored by the Heart of America Post of the American Legion. In addition, each year the Sons of the American Revolution award a medal to the best cadet of the regiment.

SECOND PLATOON

Commanded by First Lieutenant Allen Welch, the Second Platoon participated in the annual R.O.T.C. Field Day, at Government Inspection, and at the Armistice Day parade.

Staff Sergeant James Smith was the platoon sergeant and Sergeant Keith Kisse was the guide. Private first-class Ronald Coit was guidon bearer.

Captain Eddie Glasscock was promoted from the Second Platoon to command the company.

Squad leaders drilled their squads intensively before Field Day, in preparation for the competitive drilling which takes place at 39th and Gillham. Each high school with an R.O.T.C. unit is represented. The competition between individuals, closely judged by officers of the War Department, is always the highlight of the day.

Government Inspection, one of the two big events of the year, started with a company parade, and proceeded into platoon and squad drills. Later, the cadets were placed in different classes, and they received instruction in various military subjects from cadet officers.

The company won for Southeast the designation of Honor School at last year's inspection. For that reason the cadets wore red stars on their sleeves this year.

British Enfield rifles were used for the first time this year. Southeast received six cases of them on October 27. Cadets had quite a job cleaning them, and later found them quite heavy compared to last year's Victory trainers.

Another "first" for Southeast's R.O.T.C. this year included the new manual, the "Junior R.O.T.C. Manual," published by the Military Service Publishing Company.

Third Row—Howard Chappell, Carl Coggins, George Conrad, Jacob Kraft, Robert Peterson, George Herd, Jimmie Chapman, Blaine Roland, William Leavey.

Second Row—William Adams, Clint Edwards, Paul Walkup, Jack Mountjoy, Bob Crosswhite, James Schnebelen, Sam Benningfield, Charles Jones, Kenneth Bonar.

"A" COMPANY

Third Row—Joe Hirt, Billy Viles, Arnold Futvoye, Paul Glinn, Robert Landon, Jerry Wolff, Ted Stressner, Clark Scheidt, August Paulson, Murrill Nicholas, Chase Clark.

Second Row—Harry Henry, Herbert Gardner, Roger Bolas, Robert Ganser, Beverly Hodges, Russell Jacobson, Glen Russell, Roy Husband, Don Smith, Neal Burris, Edward Adams, Ronald Coit.

First Row—Ronald Saunders, Foster Redding, Eugene Baity, Paul Williams, Jack Waldrop, Buddy Bledsoe, Roy Ells, Alfred Perrenoud, Robert Whitehead, Frank Mountjoy, Jimmy Smith, Keith Kisse, Allen Welch.

RIFLE TEAM

The rifle team began firing November 20 for championship in the city match. Each battalion is represented in this City Gallery Match by a five-man team. These five men were, of necessity, early risers, because practice started at eight o'clock in the morning.

The team shot four positions: prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing. Southwest won the city championship and received the trophy. Manual and Central, who placed second and third, respectively, also received cups.

In February and March the team fired in the Seventh Service Command Gallery Match; in March and April each battalion was represented in the Hearst Trophy Match.

A proficiency badge was awarded to all members of the rifle team who qualified in the city match.

OFFICERS

The purpose of the R.O.T.C. is, exclusively and specifically, educational. Its accomplishments depend upon the devotion to duty and the professional efficiency of instructors, and upon the public-spirited cooperation between military officials, high school authorities, and the student body.

The right combination of all four has provided a successful year for Company A of Southeast. Staff Sergeant Carl E. Hoffman, as the instructor, has given the company the snap, the accuracy, and the spirit which goes into a smart unit.

Lieutenant Colonel E. W. Bondy, Professor of Military Science and Tactics—as the military authority—supervised Kansas City's R.O.T.C. regiment. Mr. Harry McMillan, representing our high school authority, has assisted. The rest has been up to the cadets.

Cadet Captain Eddie Glasscock commanded A Company. Glasscock was promoted to cadet second lieutenant on October 3, along with Cadet Second Lieutenants Allen Welch, Charles Bixman, and James Graybeal.

On November 7, Glasscock and Bixman became cadet first lieutenants. And in December, Welch and Graybeal became cadet first lieutenants, while Glasscock was moved to cadet captain. There was no major at Southeast this year because of the size of the unit.

For the first time, Southeast's officers this year wore "pinks," light tan ties, officers' belts, "pink" overseas caps, and officers' shirts.
