SOUTHWEST HIGH SCHOOL
Kansas City, Missouri

Summer came to an end and the doors of learning again stood open to the old and new students of Southwest. Fall, winter, spring—time passed all too quickly from '61 into '62. The world observed American astronauts launch three separate flights into space, one of which was the first orbital flight. In November, Kansas Citians and world-wide visitors participated in the rededication of the Liberty Memorial "To the cause of understanding and friendship among all the world's people." Bouffant hair styles for girls, crewcuts for boys, and the "twist" for young and old alike comprised social fads. Meanwhile, Southwest students strove to better themselves in scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Twelve seniors became National Merit Scholarship finalists. The highest grade point average ever achieved at Southwest of 4.875 was the result of advanced placement courses begun four years ago. As state president, Southwest hosted the Missouri Association of Student Councils Convention in March. A city-wide honor, Southwest was privileged to have the Mayor of the student City Hall day. A wonderful, eventful year—and now the doors close on '62.

OFFICE

W. LAWRENCE CANNON

Principal

The 1962 Sachem preserves for all who are interested in Southwest High School the records of the graduating seniors, the members of the undergraduate classes, and the outstanding achievements of the school year. At the same time, it points out to newcomers the opportunities provided for vocational exploration through a broad and varied curriculum, for superior academic training and competition, for cultural and recreational extracurricular activities, and for leadership development through service responsibilities. Like Ali Baba's Arabian lamp, Southwest High School can be the "Open Sesame" to an exciting and satisfying future.

ROBERT F. BIBENS

Vice-Principal

It is a well-established fact that students gain a great variety of experiences through their associations in the formative high school years. The modern secondary school curriculum is designed to extend the young man or woman to the fullest possible degree, so that hidden or undiscovered talent may be developed to the best advantage.

Although the school and its faculty take great pride in the students of Southwest, we must not forget that each person associated with the school leaves more than he takes away. We certainly feel that our efforts contribute to the building of strong character, high morals, and mental and physical development; but the students' contributions to Southwest tradition and history are what really make a school great.

William M. Greenstreet

Director of Activities

Working with club officers, Mr. Greenstreet has been able to expand, co-ordinate, and promote social functions and activities sponsored by Southwest. Among other events, he has advised in the successful planning of the Summer Orientation, the Magazine Sale, the M. A. S. C. Convention, the Carnival, and the Leadership Dinner.

As the graduates of 1962 abandon the halls of Southwest, they are taking with them many memories accumulated over a period of five years. The annual school productions, various assemblies, interscholastic sports events, club activities, college entrance tests, and familiar faces now fade into the past as the Seniors anxiously look toward the future. Their list of accomplishments is long and full and covers every aspect of school life. The year is over for the Class of 1962, but Southwest high school will always be near to their hearts.

The Senior Business Committee

Again this year the senior class selected twenty of its most capable leaders to serve on the Senior Business Committee. They were subdivided into seven groups that planned the Junior-Senior Prom at the Kansas City University Student Center, the Senior Party, the graduation ceremony, the Baccalaureate Service, the selection of the Senior Gift, the sale of Senior Play tickets, and the nomination of senior class officers.

Maritza is the center of attraction as she meets Mrs. Hydeman, past chairman of the Southwest chapter of the American Field Service.

Maritza Amadori sees Kansas City for the first time at the Municipal Airport.

Foreign

This year Southwest was very fortunate in having Maritza Amadori y Maurer from Santiago, Chile, as our twelfth foreign exchange student. She was sponsored by the American Field Service program and lived with the Norman Hoyt family for one year. She was active in many school activities and contributed much to Southwest school life.

Maritza ushers at the Redskin Revels.

Washing dishes is not a pleasant job, but Maritza enjoys helping out at Southwest.

Maritza does not complain at all about the American way of life.

Maritza is welcomed by her American family, Mrs. Norman Hoyt, Terry, and Sandy.

Exchange

During the month of July 1961, Carol Cole and Dan Sudran were Kansas City's delegates to the American Red Cross Study program in South America. Twenty-seven students from all over the United States participated in an orientation program in Washington, D. C. and lived with families in Colombia, Venezuela, and Mexico.

Carol stayed with the Humberto Conti family in Bogota, Colombia.

Carol and Dan leave for Washington, D. C.

Unfortunately, Jeff Hantover, Southwest's American Field Service candidate, did not get to travel abroad this last summer because of a lack of homes.

Dan rides a bicycle on the streets of Tabio, Colombia.

|------------------|---------|---------------------|
| Chairman | | Chips Schmelzer |
| Secretary | | Sunny Yeddis |
| Sponsor | | Mr. James C. Reneau |

The members of the Junior Business Committee, elected by the popular vote of their classmates, have served in conjunction with the various other class officers in promoting Junior class and all-school activities. A bright spot in this year's activities was an exciting basketball game in which Junior boys played and defeated Junior girls. The purpose of the game was to raise money for a second foreign exchange student. The committee's most important project was the Junior-Senior Prom held May 5 at the Kansas City University Student Center. Members who served on prom committees this year were the following: theme and decorations, Justine Boehm, Ronnie Bodinson, Betsy Jackson; publicity, Dave Cohn, Cam Schutte, Sunny Yeddis; refreshments, Randy Cox, Mimi Fessler, Pat Taylor; entertainment, Jim Roberts, Chips Schmelzer, Gail Young.

Concert Choir

"The hills are alive with the sound of music" whenever the members of the Concert Choir begin to sing. Southwest is fortunate to have one of the most popular choirs in the city. Activities outside of school included singing at the Liberty Memorial Rededication, on television and radio, at the M. A. S. C. Convention, and at the district music contest where they were given a number one rating. Whether singing in the Revels, Vagabond King, assemblies, or just practicing, the choir provided many moments of relaxation and enjoyment.

Assemblies, Redskin Revels, Vagabond King, and a tea for parents in the fall filled the schedule of the Girls' Choir. The choir also received a number one rating at the district music contest. The girls are known to Southwest audiences for their versions of "Meet Me in St. Louis" and "Hey Look Me Over."

Band

Dressed in black and orange uniforms, the Southwest marching band gained recognition by performing in half-time shows at football games and marching in the American Royal and Westport Day parades. Working with their director, Mr. Alter, the members presented a Winter Concert. The band did much to bolster school spirit by their peppy music and enthusiasm at games and rallies.

Woodwind, string, percussion, and brass instruments all go together to compose an orchestra. Even more important, however, are the people who play these instruments. Southwest had many talented orchestra members as their year's activities indicate. Fifteen students from Southwest played in the all-city orchestra and everyone participated in the Winter Concert, Revels, and the operetta. The orchestra was supported by an organization of parents called the Tooters' Club.

Mississippi

"The Mississippi Queen is again privileged to dock at your lovely little city with the newest show on this river," announced the captain, Woody Cozad, in this year's Red-skin Revels. Awaiting the steamship's arrival, the Concert Choir opened with "Zip-A-Dee-Doo-Dah," while down by the river the deck hands harmonized on "Ol' Man River." Once the boat arrived, the captain held auditions. Pat and Regi Taylor with a fast-moving tumbling act were the first to try out, and Tom Cummings meditated on his accordion with "Can't Help Lovin' That Man of Mine." Giving an excerpt from the show were the Indian Belles singing "Summertime." Later, when the girls informed Chris Paterson about the glass port in the bottom of the showboat, she told them "It Ain't Necessarily So." Closing the first act was the underwater scene viewed through the glass port.

Showboat

As the curtain opened on the second act, Chips Schmelzer was found informing Maria Rice of his maturity as he sang "Sixteen, Going on Seventeen." At St. Louis the cast was entertained at the Purple Garter by the Minutemen, consisting of John Carmichael, Dick Dickinson, and Larry Hill, who sang "Frankie and Johnnie." The Southwest Singers echoed Brent's amorous thoughts on his new romance, "Louise." Back at the night club, Bill Griesel soloed on the trumpet with "Stardust"; and Dick Fogel and Steve Woods gave a speech act. Dressed as cowgirls in black weskits and bright pink skirts, the cheerleaders displayed their dancing ability in their usual peppy style. After the finale, student director Ginie Lemmon received a bouquet of roses for her time and talent.

Woody Cozad portrays the leading character, the captain of the Mississippi Queen.

Fingers flying, Steve Dawson plays a swinging version of "Bumble Boogie."

Ardyce Chinnery and Laurie Fenimore are glad that they are "Sisters."

Dick Duncan and Michelle Koshland sing "All or Nothing."

Playing opposite Woody Cozad is Bill Barr in the role of Brent.

Headed by their manager, Staley McDermet, the stage crew operated the lights, curtains, special effects, and scenery. Also assuming a large responsibility in the production were the managers of the ticket sales. With the combined help of all the cast members, orchestra, production staff, and faculty committees, the Redskin Revels at last arrived at opening night.

Behind the glamour of the stage and footlights, the production staff and faculty advisors worked diligently to make the Revels a success. Student director Ginnie Lemmon and her secretary, Martha Groening, wrote script, directed rehearsals, and took care of all other necessary odds and ends. More help came from the make-up committee and Mr. Alter who directed the orchestra.

"Sire, is Francois still alive?" asks Huguette, unaware that the Grand Marshal to whom she is speaking is actually Francois in disguise.

Oliver and Guy Tabarie vie for the hand of Lady Mary.

As the final curtain falls, Katherine vows she'll marry Francois to save him from the gallows.

Katherine tells Francois of her love for him as she sings "Only A Rose."

Thibaut d'Aussigny is challenged to a duel by Francois Villon.

With swords flashing and wine mugs raised in merriment, The Vagabond King whirled its way across the Southwest stage March 9 and 10. The adventures of Francois Villon, vagabond poet and pickpocket of the fifteenth century, led the audience through songs of romance and laughter. The court of Louis XI rang with the strains of "Only A Rose" and "Love Me Tonight" and reverberated to the triumphant "Song of the Vagabonds." A colorful operetta was presented through the coordinated efforts of a hard-working production staff, striving to put modern touches into a period musical.

Martha Groening

"Oh, Huguette, if you ever want a perfect revenge, get a barrel stave with a nail in it!"

"Helen, I can explain everything—but it'll take a long time."

"We get primitive!"

"It's called 'Come and Get It, Number Eleven'."

"How-do-you-do, Miss Joy?"

Best Foot Forward

On April 13 and 14 the Seniors stepped out with their Best Foot Forward, a delightful play about life at Winssocki Prep School. Pandemonium pervaded when Bud Hooper invited movie-star Gale Joy to the school prom without the consent of his regular girl, Helen Schlessinger. When Bud was threatened with expulsion, Gale came to his rescue. The final curtain closed with the reinstatement of Bud with the faculty and Helen.

"Cheer up! I'm a good kid, and I'm here for fun!"

"What's this?"

SACHEM* QUEEN MISS EMILY RICH

Miss Nancy Turner

For the second year, five candidates vied for the title of "1962 Sachem Queen." The girls were chosen by the staff not only for their personality and charm, but also for participation in school activities and events. With the voting very close, the staff is happy to announce that this year's Sachem Queen is Miss Emily Rich.

Sachem Staff

Amidst a flurry of layouts, copy, picture I. D.'s, art glue, dummy sheets, and the clanging of the typewriter, the Sachem staff worked together to compile a book that would highlight the year's memories. The staff wishes to express appreciation to their sponsor, Mr. J. H. Woods, for all his devoted time and labor, and to Miss Ruth M. Beck, Mr. William J. Brewster, and Mr. O. L. Hoover, Jr. for their assistance.

This year's staff added many improvements to the Trail bi-weekly publications. There were many six-page issues, timely editorials, a high quality of feature stories, and new picture layouts. In addition, a safe driver's contest was sponsored with the co-operation of the Drivers' Education Department; and a "safety issue" stressing the value of good driving followed the contest. Recognition should go to the staff and their sponsor for doing such an efficient job of taking the Trail through a busy year.

Literary Contest

The excitement didn't spoil the appetites of these Thaliens!

With Zend-Avesta striving to win the cup for the third consecutive year, the Thirty-fifth Annual Literary Society Contest began with a dinner at the Country Club Christian Church and then progressed to the school auditorium. Tension mounted as the oral presentations and traditional round of songs drew to a close. Visions of victory and a silver cup vanished for some as the winners' names were read. The final tabulation revealed a tie for first place between Excelsior and Sesame with seven points each and a tie for second place between Thalian and Veda with five points each.

Debate Team

This year's national high school debate question was "Resolved: That the Federal Government should equalize educational opportunity by means of grants to the state for public elementary and secondary education." The first debate tournament was at Rockhurst where Joe Hirsch and Alfred Volkwitz won the championship debaters' trophy by debating six rounds, both sides of the question. Other tournaments were at William Chrisman in Independence and Central High School in Springfield.

Stage Crew

The tasks of moving scenery, adjusting the lighting and sound, and controlling the curtains rest in the hands of the seven capable members of the stage crew. The skillful work of these boys added to the success of the many productions at Southwest.

“To See Ourselves

As Others See Us”

To give you the much clamored for “more pictures, less copy,” the 1962 Sachem staff is introducing a new section which we call “CC” for Candid Camera. The following four pages (which were the maximum that could be pilfered from the Index) are made up of informal shots taken around the school—at dances, athletic events, production rehearsals, and parties. We hope you will enjoy this section where you can see yourselves as others see you.

"I see a tall blond coming into your life."
 —"That's my Mom!"

The Bobbsey Twins as game mascots.

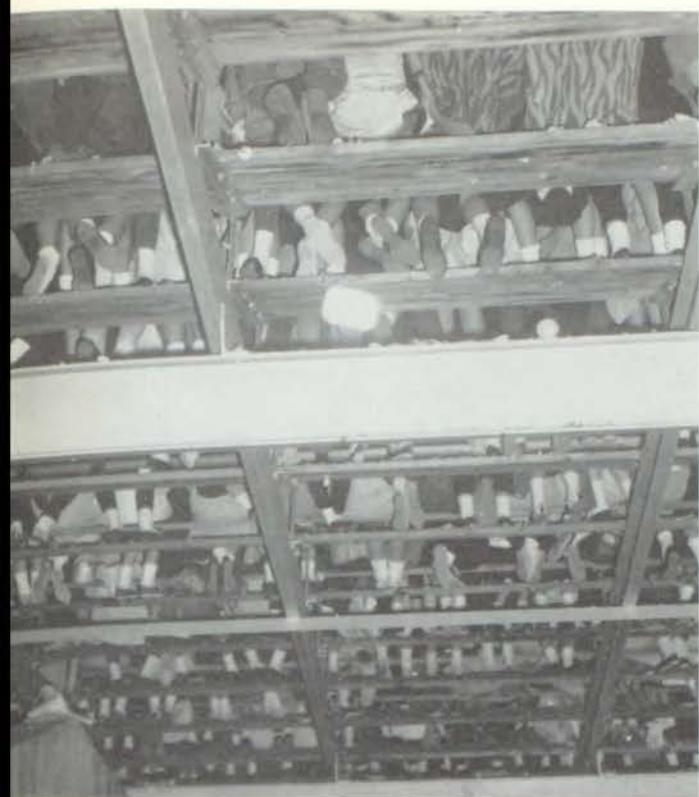

Go! Fight! Win!

It's fun to be a manager.

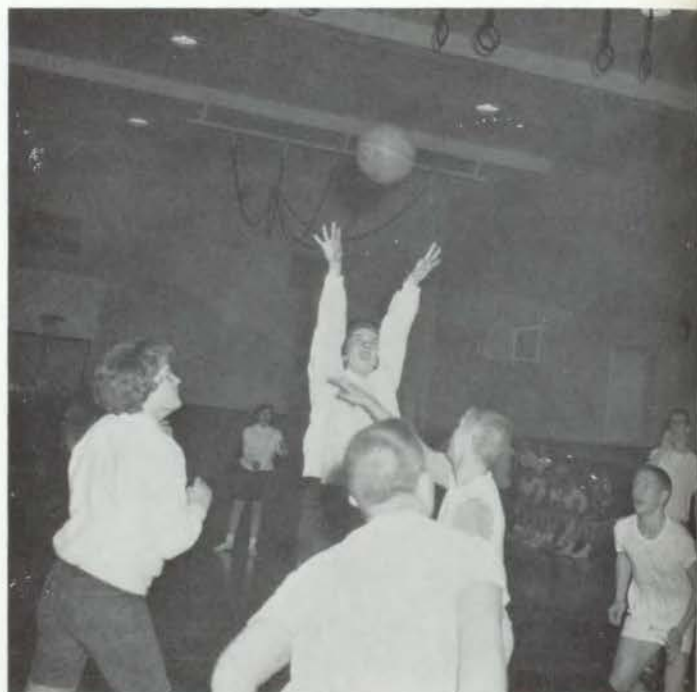

Surprise! We managed to put in the Junior-Senior Prom . . . from last year.

Looks rather tame? This was before the Twist invaded Southwest.

Hmmm . . . What can I do next to that choir!

Hey, Staley, your antennae are in the wrong place!

National Honor Society

The highest honor that Southwest can bestow upon its students is initiation into the National Honor Society. Those who achieved excellence in scholarship, character, leadership, and service were inducted into this society in an assembly in May. The impressive ceremony was conducted by seniors who had been elected in their junior year. Approximately fifteen per cent of the senior and three per cent of the junior class were eligible for membership.

Red Cross

The industrious Red Cross Council contributed much to student life this year. The Baby Doll Dance, eagerly anticipated by all girls, was a smashing success. To care for emergencies, first aid lockers were installed and equipped with first-aid essentials. To fulfill its goal of service, the Council took over in handling Southwest's charity drives. Representatives worked diligently to fill the chests sent overseas. Students also distributed Christmas stockings at the Veterans' Hospital and assisted servicemen's wives in recording Christmas greetings to their husbands overseas.

Student Council

The Student Council was actively planning events for the school since last summer. Following Orientation Day, it held a successful back-to-school dance. Something new was added in the form of a club workshop in which leaders of all organizations met to air their views. In order to raise money for next year's foreign exchange students, everyone was urged to participate in a magazine sale. Second semester saw the council knee-deep in plans for the spring carnival and the Missouri Association of Student Councils Convention held at Southwest.

M.A.S.C. Convention

Howard Brown greets a delegate. Mr. Gerald M. Van Pool speaks on the efficiency of Student Councils. As a delegate and host, Paul Pritchard checks the sponsors' list.

The President, Steve Woods, and General Chairman, Dick Fogel, stand before the MASC crest.

The delegates are fascinated by the Twist.

Following the theme of "Live-Learn-Lead" the fourteenth annual spring conference of the Missouri Association of Student Councils opened on Friday, March 16. Presided over by Steve Woods, the first session included a speech by the director of the National Association of Student Councils, Gerald M. Van Pool, entertainment, and discussion groups. That evening the delegates were entertained at a banquet and dance in the new student center at K.C.U., and on Saturday morning the sponsors were honored at a breakfast. Following the election of the 1962-63 officers at the Saturday session, the convention was closed with the formation of a friendship circle.

The convention placed upon Southwest students the responsibility of providing housing, entertainment, meals, and transportation for over six hundred people. However, the success of the convention and the formation of new friendships were ample rewards.

Literary Societies

Among the most active organizations at Southwest are the seven girls' literary societies and the three boys' literary clubs. The purposes of these groups, composed of freshmen through seniors, are to promote interest in various literary forms and to instill in the members the desire to further their literary skills.

Requirements for membership are a 3.0 scholarship average in English and a 2.0 average in all other subjects.

In the fall all girls interested in joining a literary society are invited to a tea. Here they are introduced to the sponsors and officers of each club. The members are hostesses and answer any questions the girls may have concerning the clubs. The boys' clubs sponsor various activities through which they can become acquainted with possible new members. Several weeks later, all ten clubs vote on whom they would like to have join their groups. The prospective members also choose which clubs they prefer. After careful comparisons of the two lists are made, the students are assigned to their literary societies.

Throughout the year, the clubs work toward the annual literary society contest held in April. Each member may try out in one or more of the following categories: essay, short story, verse, oration, and declamation. Through intra-club elimination, two entries in each field of writing are submitted to the judges of the inter society contest. On the night of the contest, the two oral entries from each club deliver their selections. The names of the winners in all categories are then announced. Two ratings are given: Superior (one point) and Very Superior (two points). When the totals are tallied, the club with the most points is awarded a silver cup to be held until the next contest. Should a club place first for three consecutive years, it is awarded the cup permanently. Zend-Avesta won the contest in 1960 and 1961; should it place first again this year, it will gain permanent possession of the cup.

Scherzo

Scherzo started off the school year by merging with a group of students interested in forming a jazz club. Thus, the organization broadened its interests in instrumental music.

Besides receiving the award for the best car in the homecoming parade, the members participated in adopting a family during the Christmas season.

Romani Hodierni

The Romani Hodierni will gladly testify that Latin lives today. Their unique and interesting programs ranged from an exhibition of juggling to a mythological baseball game and a birthday party in honor of Vergil. Because the club's past president, Steve Goodman, was elected district secretary of the Junior Classical League at the All-City Convention last year, the club was in charge of planning the theme for this year's convention. In addition to this over-all responsibility, the group presented a skit, "The Fall of Troy."

Russian Club

The Russian Club held true to its name this year as its members grew in knowledge and love of the Russian culture. Besides seeing films on life in the U.S.S.R., members also attended a performance of Don Quixote and Ballad of a Soldier in the Russian movie versions. The big success of the year was a completely Russian dinner that was held at a Russian Orthodox church.

Le Tricolore

The well-known traditions of the French Club were again carried through this year. "Pere Noel" paid his annual visit at the Christmas party. The group also caroled through the halls during the holiday season.

It was the hope of the club that by conducting the meetings in French, the members would grow in knowledge of the French people, their language, and their customs.

Future Teachers of America

In an effort to become better acquainted with the variety of opportunities in the teaching profession, F.T.A. members entertained several experienced teachers, including a woman who teaches blind and deaf children. From learning to read Braille to strumming guitars at a slumber party, these girls enriched their lives by adding to the wealth of experiences which will comprise their background for a lifetime of teaching.

Hestia

Hestia opened the school year with a membership party to celebrate its twenty-fifth birthday anniversary as the homemaking club. One of the worth-while projects of the club was the making of bean bags which were given to a children's hospital. It also participated in such school functions as the adoption of a family at Christmas and operating a booth in the spring carnival.

Socratic Society

The Socratic Society, one of the newer clubs, was organized in 1961 to promote interest in comparative philosophies, religions, theologics, and morals. This purpose was furthered by such speakers as a candidate for the United States Senate, a retired headmaster in Paraguay, and a criminologist.

Science Club

Basing many of their programs around the theme of careers in science, the Science Club featured speakers in various scientific fields including psychology, dentistry, medical technology, and the Pure Food and Drug Administration. It is the hope of the club that this type of program will interest members in investigating the possibility of a scientific vocation. The culmination of the club's endeavors for the entire year was the annual science fair held in March.

Bridge Club

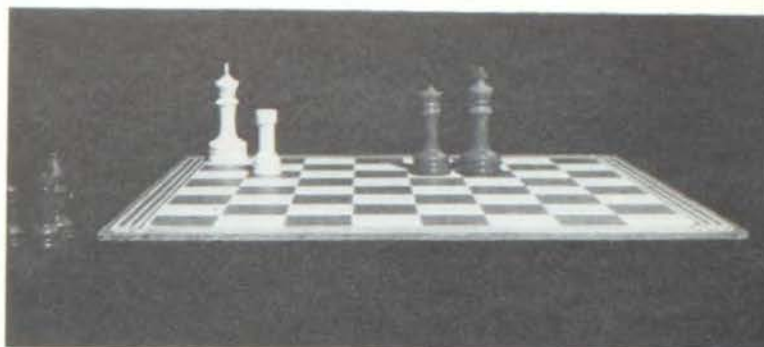

One of the most popular clubs in the school consisted of four-membered groups which sat around square tables and handled rectangular pieces of cardboard marked with hearts, diamonds, spades, and clubs. Better known as the Bridge Club, this group often met for such a purpose. Inspired by lessons from one of the more proficient members, students participated in several tournaments.

Football

There was seldom a dull moment during the 1961 football season as Southwest fought its way to a record of three wins, four losses, and two ties. The victories against Northeast, Manual, and Paseo were thrilling; but the high point of the season, as Coach Robinson pointed out at the post-season banquet, was the inspired performance against Southeast. Outweighed, but not outplayed, the team exerted every effort to represent Southwest well.

In the first televised Interscholastic League game Southwest battled highly-ranked East to a 13-13 tie. The Indians took advantage of a short East punt in the first quarter to gain a 7-0 lead, with Greg Curtis scoring the touchdown and Ronnie Stewart the extra point. Having yielded 13 points in the second quarter, Southwest came back after halftime to tie the game on a 14-yard Stewart run. A tenacious goal-line stand in the final seconds halted East's bid for victory.

Coaches Phillips and Robinson discuss the action on the field.

In their second game the Indians scalped a hapless Northeast team, 26-0. Craig Lewis starred, scoring the first three touchdowns on runs of 8, 67, and 8 yards. Ronnie Stewart added the final touchdown in the fourth quarter to complete the rout.

Ahead 7-6 after the first quarter of the Van Horn game on a touchdown by Greg Curtis and an extra point by Tom Goodwin, the Tribe was stalled as Van Horn scored 7 points in each of the next two quarters. Long runs by Craig Lewis and Ronnie Stewart were stopped short of pay dirt. Thirteen Van Horn points in the fourth quarter sealed the Indians' doom, who scored only on a Lewis run.

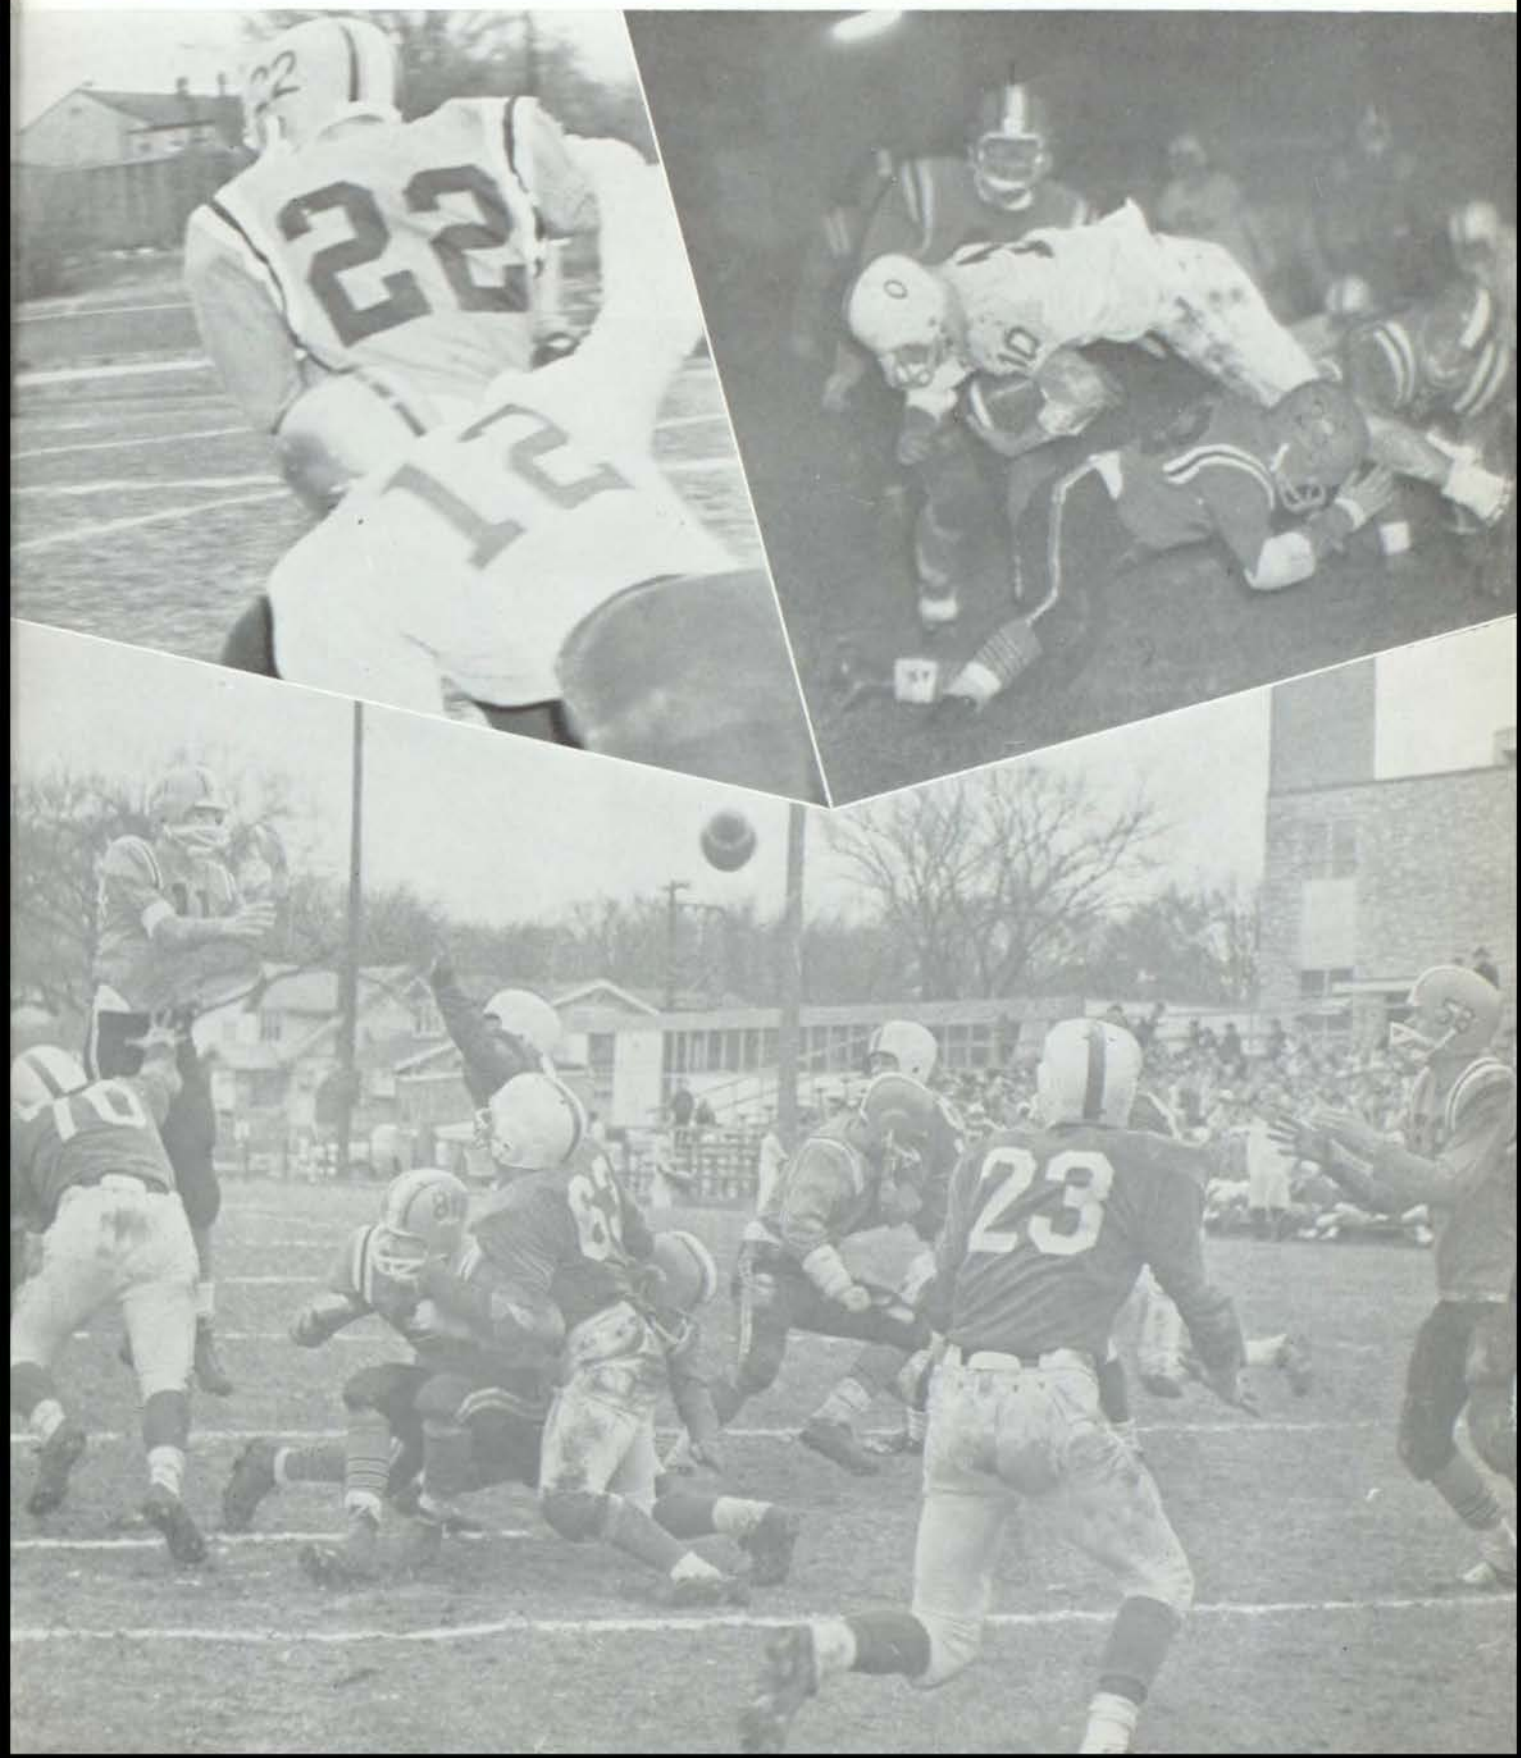

Powerful Westport rolled over the Indians 33-0 on a dreary night at the Southeast field. Totally outmanned, the team deserves credit for the gallant fight it made. There is some consolation in the fact that Westport also shut out 4 of its other 6 league opponents, yielding a scant total of 12 points.

Southwest's loss to Southeast was the hard luck story of the football season. In a game marked by bruising line play and unyielding defense, the Indians thrice threatened the Knights' goal line, only to be repulsed on each occasion. Meanwhile, Southeast scored the only touchdown of the game on a sustained drive in the third quarter.

After a brief scare in the first quarter caused by a Manual field goal, Southwest proceeded to romp over the Redbirds as Greg Curtis scored 13 points, Craig Lewis 12, Ronnie Stewart 7, and Tom Goodwin 2. Manual also made two fourth-quarter touchdowns to make the final score 34-15.

In their second televised game of the year, Southwest, sparked by a 19-point second quarter, triumphed over Paseo 28-19. A safety by Ronnie Stewart followed by a touchdown, both in the fourth quarter, were necessary after Paseo's third-quarter rally. Craig Lewis scored two touchdowns while Ronnie Stewart and Tom Goodwin added one each.

On a bitterly cold night at the Rockhurst field, Bishop Miege defeated Southwest 12-0, scoring one touchdown in each half. Southwest ended the season as it began, with a televised 13-13 tie, this time against Rockhurst. Pat Palmer and Craig Lewis scored the touchdowns. Another touchdown that would have given Southwest a victory was called back on a penalty.

Homecoming

Excitement ran high as the Homecoming Dance opened to the music of Jay McShan and his band in the boys' gym on November 11. Amid festive decorations on a Japanese theme, couples danced and talked, speculating on who would be crowned queen. About 10:30 the music stopped, and an aisle was cleared for the candidates. The suspense was broken as Francie Feild was proclaimed queen and Susie Rowland was announced as the runner-up. After the traditional flowers and robe had been presented to the queen, the dancing resumed and continued for the remainder of the memorable evening.

Basketball

The 1961-1962 Southwest basketball team went through one of the roughest seasons in Southwest basketball history. The record of only three victories does not reflect the hard work and fighting spirit exhibited by the team. One bright spot was the play of Tom McCaffrey, whose scoring and rebounding earned him a place on the Interscholastic League all-star first team. Greg Curtis also received honorable mention in these ratings.
