...IN THE BEGINNING

In the fall of 1978, Sumner Academy began the start of an enduring race. We paved our way to the starting line by making new friends, accepting new challenges and exploring a new environment. Sumner Academy was new to all of us and was molded by our ideas and efforts.

Many more favorable aspects came into view as we went through our first year. For many of us the transition from junior high to senior high gave us new opportunities and enabled us to become involved in many more activities.

The transition was made, and we will have everlasting memories of that first year—the beginning, the starting line.

Even though we have only completed a few laps of the race, we are winning.

...OFF TO A FINE START

As time progressed, we adjusted to the many changes that had occurred in our first year; the transition from junior high to high school, the heavy schedule, and the new environment. In 1979-80, Sumner Academy was introduced to a varsity schedule, and varsity football and basketball games became the highlights of our week. Students and teachers adjusted to the changes and began to settle into their daily routines. Many new clubs formed the first year, one of them was AFS. AFS had a great start, and by their second year, they had hosted their first foreign exchange student, Moses Kimemia. In time, students adjusted to the burden of heavy homework, and they had to plan time for both studying and extra-curricular activities. For many students, the long bus ride home became a social hour or a time to study for tests. For the first three years new students from all grades enrolled at Sumner, however, by the fourth year the only new students were eighth graders. In the beginning, we were strangers, now we are friends; this was a new environment, now this is Sumner Academy, our school. The result of our efforts and endeavors have sent Sumner Academy off to a fine start.

...ALL OF US

The past five years at Sumner Academy have been a remarkable success. The Academy was created as a school for academically talented students. Sumner expanded on that concept and has established a well known reputation. Many advanced classes were offered at Sumner. The students maintained a B average and still had time to participate in extra-curricular activities and community projects. This made the life of a Sabre exceptional. The lives of the students were active ones. Many students not only held down a heavy schedule but also worked part-time. Other students were involved in extra-curricular activities. During the school year, some students traveled to foreign countries, exploring different lifestyles and meeting different people. Our weekends were energetic. Students involved with debate participated in tournaments. Friday nights we attended varsity football and basketball games. On Saturday nights we could be found at the movies or concerts, or sometimes we just got together for an evening with our close friends. The two major dances, Homecoming and Prom proved to be the highlights of the year. In the few years the Academy has existed, the students had grown together and accomplished their goals. We survived the difficult times, we triumphed over the battle, we won, we have made history.

Sabres enjoy warm weather

Hot weather and sunshine offered a variety of activities to Sumner students during this summer. Seeking relief from the hot, humid weather, many students cooled off by going swimming, jet skiing, and sailing. Having a car wash was also a great way to cool off, have fun, and earn money. A popular sport in which to participate during the summer was baseball.

Some students spent some of their time getting in shape by jogging, bike riding, and exercising. Playing tennis was also a good way to get in shape.

Many Sabres did other things just for entertainment. Some improved putting skills by enjoying a round of miniature golf. Fishing was a way for some students to get away from it all and relax. Swinging racquets and birdees flying through the air made badminton a fun way for some students to relax.

The experiences, activities and opportunities not only created memories, but helped each of us to become better individuals.

Sabres find morning trying

Mornings were not a favorite part of the day for any student. However, Academy students found that even mornings can be worthwhile. Some enjoyed spending the morning talking to friends in the halls, outside, or even at McDonald's.

Others found morning to be an ideal time to finish homework in the library. Whether socializing or studying, Academy students made the best of the worst part of the day.

Sabres learn life overseas

During the summer, several students furthered their education by traveling to foreign countries. Foster Coburn, Helene Higbee, Lea Ann Moshier, and Ms. Severance went to France during the month of July with NACEL. Foster spent most of his time on the beach and sailboating in Marseilles. Helene went to Moulin, Gannet, and Vichy. Lea Ann, who stayed in Paris, Grenoble and Antives, enjoyed sailboating, and climbing mountains. Ms. Severance stayed in Verrieres le Buisson, a suburb of Paris.

Mark Holly traveled with AFS to Campinas, Sao Paulo, Brazil for two months. John Greiner and Susan Simmons traveled with their families. John spent two weeks in England. Susan stayed in Europe for over two months with the opportunity to visit Rania, her foreign exchange student, in Greece.

Greek student enjoys Sumner

Sumner Academy has had a strong foreign exchange program since its existence. This year Susan Simmons, junior, hosted an AFS student Rania Sarakatchanov.

Rania is 17 years old and has a mother, father, sister and a brother, in Greece. Some of Rania's favorite new American foods were hot dogs, hamburgers, chocolate shakes and Dr. Pepper. Two of her hobbies were playing tennis and dancing. Rania thought that Sumner was easier than her school in Greece. Another new experience for Rania was watching a football game.

Sabres raise needed funds

In order to raise money, many organizations participated in various fund raising activities. The prime money-making activity for the organizations was the magazine sale.

Student Congress raised funds by washing cars and selling Gold C Coupon books. Other organizations sold donuts in the morning before school and worked in the concession stand at various home sports games.

The pep club sold ribbons and shirts as a part of their fund raising activities.

The Sabres continued to build strong foundations for their organizations as they have in the past, which was just a part of making history.

Sabres get “fired up”

Spirit week initiated excitement among students who anticipated Homecoming. The overall goal of Spirit Week was to get students “fired up” for Homecoming. Spirit week featured five dress-up days. Monday was twin day. On Tuesday, Sports Day, students were found wearing football jerseys, baseball and volleyball uniforms. Sixty's day was featured on Wednesday. Students were accompanied to class with bears, dogs, rabbits, and monkeys on Stuffed Animal Day, Thursday. Blue and Silver day was Friday; this day promoted spirit and pep. By the end of the week, the Sabres were “fired-up” for an exciting Homecoming weekend.

"We've Only Just Begun"

This year's homecoming theme was "We've Only Just Begun." This theme seemed appropriate because once you decided you were going to the dance, you had only just begun. First you had to find a date. Then you had to buy a new dress or suit, order a flower, and make dinner reservations. When the night of the dance arrived, you could find yourself impatiently waiting for your date, or in some cases, your date waiting for you. When pinning on each other's flowers, occasionally a few fingers were pinned too. Then your mother, father, or little brother, or any other semi-professional photographer in your family took pictures. Then it was to dinner, dance and parties, not necessarily in that order. Whether you had a great time with your date, or hid from him behind the cafeteria doors, homecoming was a memorable time for all.

Music groups perform well

The first concert of the school year was held October nineteenth. Among the vocal groups who performed were A Capella Choir, Treble Chorus, Junior Mixed Chorus, and Chamber Singers. A choreographed rendition of "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" was performed by the Treble Chorus. Instrumental groups showcased in the concert included Intermediate Orchestra, Symphonic Orchestra and Stage Band. An impressive "Danse Macabre" by Saint Saens was performed by Symphonic Orchestra. Mr. Watz, instrumental music teacher, and Miss Fick, vocal music teacher, agreed that all the groups performed exceptionally.

Sabres' play real success

On Tuesday, November 23, the first production of the 1982-83 school year was performed. The Doctor In Spite Of Himself, by Moliere, told of a man named Sganarelle, who was in actuality a woodcutter, but because of a trick his wife played on him he was forced to assume the role of a doctor.

Students from grades 8 through 12 tried out for the play. The actors in the play put many hours of hard work into the play. Students stayed after school, and working together made the play a big success. The play attracted many people which made the actors' hard work well worth the time and effort.

Nighttime fun enjoyed by all

Staying awake wasn't a problem, even from 1 to 4 in the morning. Students were more than willing to miss out on their sleep. Why? Because the night of Sat., December 4th, or more accurately, the morning of December 5th, was the annual King Louie Nite.

Ice skating was a natural for some, but for many the bruises and scrapes showed it wasn't as easy for them. For those who decided against skating, there were several pool tables, bowling lanes and even a dance floor. Also there were plenty of pinball and video games that rang all night.

History completed by leader

Teacher, coach, administrator, friend . . . H.D. Neill is retiring as principal of Sumner Academy at the end of this school year. Mr. Neill grew up in Kansas, served his country during World War Two and returned to Kansas to complete his education. His long career of service to young people began in Council Grove, Kansas. After a brief stint as teacher and coach in Council Grove, he came to Kansas City to teach and coach at what was then Washington Rural High School. At Washington he taught biology, coached track and football, and drove a school bus! He was appointed assistant principal in 1964; five years later he was named principal of the school.

Mr. Neill was named principal of the Academy when it was established in 1978 under court-ordered desegregation. He saw the Academy through the uncertain early days of student and staff recruitment. He has been host to a multitude of visitors who came for a closer look at the "new" school at eighth and Oakland. He has been a significant force in the ongoing transition of the physical plant from comprehensive high school to magnet school. He has been at the center of Sumner's success for its five years of existence. Significantly, his retirement will follow by about a month the graduation of the first class to complete the entire Academy program . . . over thirty years in education . . . five years of strong leadership at Sumner . . . a job well done . . . Thanks, Hobe.

...WHO'S WHO

This year Sumner Academy of Arts and Science was five years old. In that time, the enrollment had increased from 620 students in 1978-79 to approximately 760 students in 1982-83. There were 137 graduates this year compared to 29 graduating seniors in the class of 1979 when Sumner was in its first year.

In 1978 Sumner Academy was established as a college preparatory school for the top scholastic students in the USD No. 500 school district. The Academy set high standards by offering a wide variety of classes. This curriculum met college prep standards and enabled the student to be prepared for college. In the future, those students who do not enroll as eighth graders have very little chance of enrolling at a higher grade due to capacity enrollment this year. The increasing size of some classes this year has not brought about any change in curriculum, however.

The particular mental attitudes of the students at Sumner show that the classes have a desire to be better. As a select group of students, they are oriented toward learning and improvement. They focus on a positive future because they are associated with an environment, a faculty, and an administration which supports them and the goals they set for themselves.

First year brings challenges

The first year at Sumner was an exciting one. Being an eighth grader meant facing new challenges with a new atmosphere, new classes, and new friends. The class of 1987 worked together as a team. They participated in the magazine sale, elected new officers and planned a dance in the spring. Even though being an eighth grader was hard at times, it was truly a time for learning, growing, and maturing.

Freshmen no longer rookies

The Class of 1986 met many challenges this year with a full schedule including Geometry, Matter and Energy, Explorations in Genre and Composition, Western Civilization, and a foreign language. They had survived their eighth grade year and were no longer rookies. They were familiar with the school and the teachers. The freshmen matured and set an example for the eighth graders. The Class of 1986 contributed to the school by participating in the magazine sale and other fund raisers. Many freshmen were involved in extra-curricular activities such as sports or clubs.

Sophomores stay involved

The Class of '85 was very much involved this year. Sophomores not only immersed themselves in their studies, but in other opportunities that the Academy had to offer. Students debated, put on plays, worked on the newspaper and yearbook, displayed their art, performed their music, danced, and participated in athletics. They still found time to pursue their own individual hobbies and interests outside of school. The result of an active school year resulted in an easy transition from junior high to high school.

Juniors find common bond

With leadership, closeness and determination, the junior class worked enthusiastically at making the year a success. A major responsibility of the class was the Junior-Senior Prom. The juniors raised money by sponsoring a grab bag and by selling magazines, doughnuts and carnations. The class officers especially put forth a lot of time and effort. Together the juniors shared many valuable experiences and accomplished many goals. The responsibilities of the junior class caused them to grow and mature, therefore becoming better individuals.

Senior class makes history

The senior class of 1983 was a special class in that it was the first to complete the full five years at the Academy. Attending Summer Academy has not only been a unique learning experience in academics, but also in life. Each one of us has changed and matured since the first year. As we look back on all of our experiences, those with the most emotions seem to have a lasting impression. High School can be a very trying time. There were times that seemed to be the best, such as making the team. There were also times that seemed to be the worst, such as failing an important test or losing in a class election. Yet our lives have also been very exciting. Who can forget their first kiss, their first date, the first time they could drive the car or their own car, and of course their first love. All of this was so exciting and new. We remember all of the parties, football or basketball games and dances that we anticipated. We will never forget endless conversations with our best friends on the phone. We have seen friendships and relationships grow, change, and then grow apart. We have learned to accept change. Even though each of us will take our journeys on separate roads, when we graduate, there will always be the road of our memories that will lead us home, home where the people and events that touched our lives will have a lasting impression forever.

...HITTING THE BOOKS

The history of Sumner Academy of Arts and Science began in 1978. We celebrated our fifth anniversary with the graduation of the class of 1983 this year.

Sumner Academy of Arts and Science was especially designed to provide a unique educational opportunity to students having a high level of academic interest and ability. The Academy had promoted a high sense of social and civic responsibility in each student throughout its five year existence. A broad range of academic and extracurricular activities gave students opportunities to become very involved in daily school life. As they learned to work and cooperate with others they developed skills to become participating individuals in society as a whole.

Those people providing the instructional program for Sumner students included the administration, counselors, faculty and librarians. They served to provide educational programs in the study of humanities, the sciences, mathematics, social sciences and the arts during the five years of study at Sumner.

As graduates of Sumner Academy of Arts and Science we were committed to a continuing pattern of study and personal involvement in all areas of life.

As students, our sense of direction remained unchanged, and our future contained a framework created by the establishment of Sumner Academy of Arts and Science just five years ago.

Sumner runs smoothly

The administrative staff kept Sumner Academy running smoothly. Everything from finding substitutes to supervising extra-curricular activities was done by the administration. Public relations was also their responsibility. Although much of this work was done behind the scenes, the results could be seen every day of the school year. "The accomplishments have come about by a united team effort of faculty, administration, and all support personnel," said Mr. H. D. Neill.

Staff helps maintain order

The office staff, librarians, counselors and nurse were essential in our everyday life. The office staff provided solutions for student problems. They were responsible for the attendance, bookkeeping, reception, and secretarial work of the school.

The counselors assisted the students in many ways. They helped students plan their schedules. They were active in helping seniors to choose a college and plan a career.

If one needed assistance in the library, the librarians were always there to help. They helped to find books for research papers, assignments, or just for enjoyment.

Students face challenges

Speaking, listening, reading and writing composed the language arts, or as it was commonly called, the study of English.

Students were very much involved in a variety of English classes throughout their years at Sumner Academy.

Bard of Avon and American Lexicon were two classes added to the curriculum after the first year Sumner was in session. The English 12 AP class had a total of 36 seniors this past year compared to 9 students the first year the AP class was offered to seniors.

Foundations of College English was also an elective English class. Other elective classes for juniors and seniors included Crossing the Cultures, Writing Creatively, Contemporary Literature, and Literature of the People.

Several additional staff members have joined the faculty of the English department over the past five years. The faculty was increased because of the additional student enrollment during these years. The faculty of this department was encouraged by the special interest shown in this area of study and offered more challenges to English students. "So much more class preparation is done by the faculty of the English department now because of the nature of the various courses offered to the students. The students are more aware of the challenges that Sumner offers in this department," commented Dr. Stan Jasinskas, head of the English department.

Practice gains rewards

Sumner Academy offered its students many opportunities to excel in the areas of theater, speech, and journalism.

Efficiency, interest and enthusiasm were the requirements for Sumner debators. Accomplishments, honors and experience were their rewards. Debators spent hours in the library researching material needed for tournaments. In addition, they spent time in practice sessions to gain experience with colleagues.

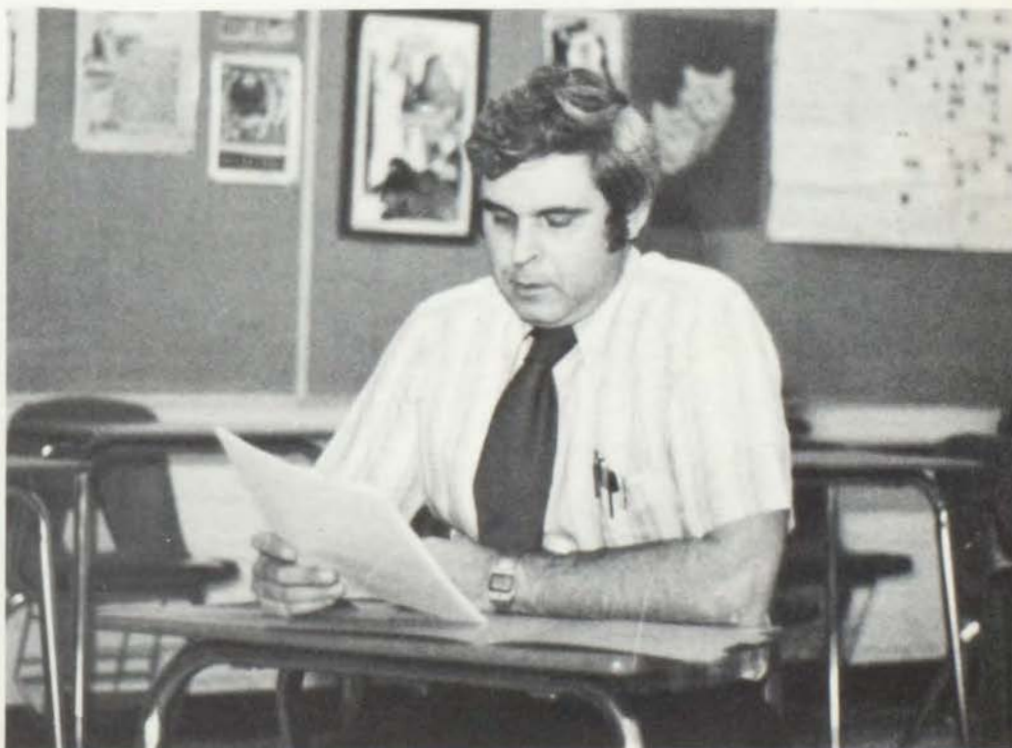

Debate I-IV was offered to the debate student. A first-year debator was totally inexperienced; however, by the fourth year he had acquired much experience in debating. This year Sumner competed at the 5A level with increased competition.

"Debate is a training ground for leaders. When a student takes debate he becomes a more rational thinker and a better speaker," commented Alan Gould, speech and debate teacher.

Under the direction of James Shepherd, head of the theater department, students took on new personal ties as subjects of selected plays. The technical aspect of every theater production was most important.

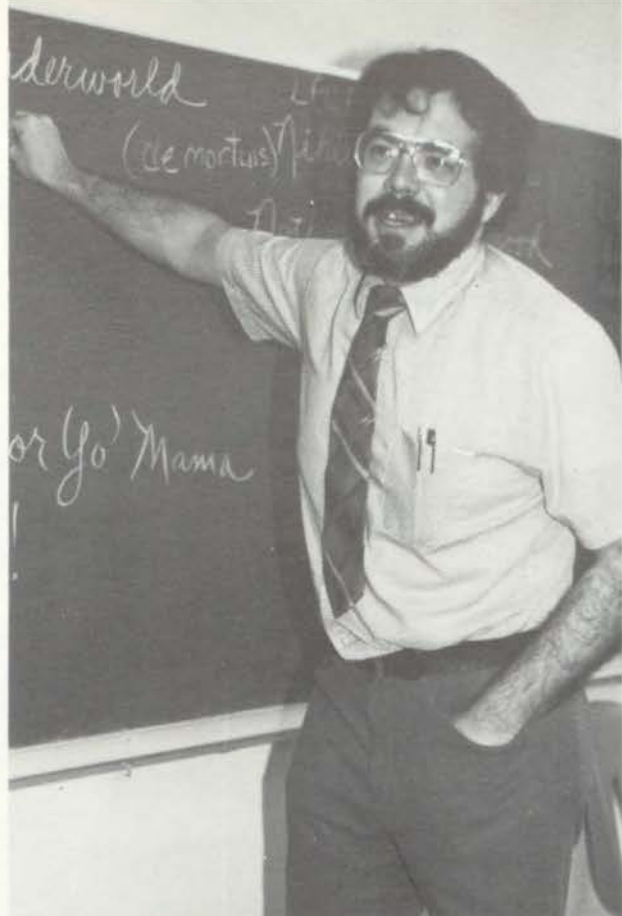

"Theater is not any more or less important than any other fine art, but I think it is more effective in saying something significant about humanity," commented Mr. Shepherd.

Students grow with languages

Why study a foreign language? The best reason was that, as members of the same world, people must learn to live and work together, in peace and harmony if possible. To do this it was necessary to understand the people of other countries. The best way of doing this, short of living among people in foreign countries, was to read their literature and study their language. Our own vocabulary was greatly enlarged and improved by knowing the meaning of Latin words.

A foreign language student at Sumner learned to read, write, and speak the language. There was special emphasis on the comprehension of the spoken and written word. The grammar of the foreign language was also stressed as the student developed his vocabulary in German, Spanish, Latin, or French.

When teaching a foreign language, the instructors kept in mind the student's requirements for a college degree.

The student's education was enhanced with the study of a foreign language during high school years. New textbooks will be adopted for the foreign language classes in the 1983-84 school year.

Computer classes offered

For those interested in computer programming, classes were offered to students in grades 9-12. BASIC was a class offered to teach a simple programming language and enable the students to program various types of problems. FORTRAN was a course designed to teach a more powerful computer language than BASIC. It was used by the mathematics or science student in solving complex problems. Programming III or Advanced Programming was constructed so that a student could do additional work in BASIC or FORTRAN. For those really interested and wanting to make a career of it, Programming IV or COBOL was offered. This taught popular business programming language. Whether one wanted to take a class for enjoyment or for a future career, a variety of classes were offered.

1) Mr. Hampton and Mr. Morris discuss a program before school. 2) Mrs. Johnson helps Kathy Kotz, Anthony Jordan, and Penny Burkard with their Algebra. 3) Leigh Ellis and Mrs. Johnson discuss various topics after school. 4) Ms. Bartels prepares for her next class. 5) Mr. Morris checks Bill Norris' program as Kevin Doggett looks on.

Mathematics was important

Mathematics was an essential part of our education and the foundation for our future careers. Summer Academy offered a variety of math courses, including Analytical Geometry and Probability and Statistics as electives. Computer Programming classes were also offered. The math requirements were as follows: eighth grade, Algebra I; freshmen, Geometry; sophomores, Advanced or Intermediate Algebra. Juniors could take Pre-Calculus. Seniors having no math their junior year were required to take Pre-College Math.

Social studies expands insight

In the area of social studies, Sumner students learned that our way of life was affected by the geography, economy, and politics of other nations. By learning lessons of the past, we saw the need to achieve a future where we could learn to live in peace and harmony. Class discussions, audio visual aids, and interesting lectures helped to stimulate the students interest in social studies. Classes were offered in Western Civilization, American Government, Sociology, Psychology, and Anthropology. Mr. Robert Hassig joined the social studies staff this year. He taught Western Civilization and American History. The addition of this new faculty member, added a new teaching style to the department. Mr. Arthur Hathway, head of the Social Studies Department, joined the other teachers of Humanities and taught the historical part of the class for seniors this year. In the future, the Social Studies Department hopes to expand their subject offerings and the History AP classes. "We cannot function without history, government, sociology, and psychology without remaining in the most primitive state" commented Mr. Hathway.

Sumner holds opportunities

Many types of science were offered at Sumner Academy, whether the student was interested in science as a hobby or as a career. Sumner provided the foundation for the education of a future chemist, biologist, physicist, astronomer, or many other professions with its large curriculum.

Scheduled field trips supplemented the classroom learning experiences of science students.

Mr. Roberts' trip to the planetarium, and Miss Hobb's trips to the Linda Hall Library and the Shawnee Mission South March of Dimes Assembly were examples of these outside experiences. Mr. Elbl, who teaches Chemistry I and Chemistry AP, commented on his classes, "They are all the same. They all fire me up!"

Music and art attract students

The study of art and music achieved a twofold purpose: it gave pleasure to the students as the students gave pleasure to others.

The vocal music program aimed to train students to recognize good music and to provide a satisfying means of self-expression. Concerts, auditions, and small group competitions were some of the activities available for those vocal music students.

The instrumental music students had the potential to excel in a large group. Mr. David Watz, head of the instrumental music program, stressed accuracy of playing as he encouraged each student to play one step above his ability.

Art was concerned with color, form, texture and design as media of expression. The student arrived at standards of good taste and he learned to give expression to his own artistic concepts.

Many courses inspire sabres

Sumner Academy offered three business courses, typing, economics, and accounting. Typing and economics were required for eighth graders and juniors. Accounting was an elective offered to juniors and seniors.

A wide variety of physical fitness courses were offered to students. Experiences in Physical Education was required for eighth graders. Offered as electives were swimming, gymnastics and dance.

Staffs aid in successful year

The custodial and cafeteria staffs were important people in the successful running of Sumner Academy. The custodial staff was busy with not only cleaning duties, but also with maintenance and repairs. Other duties included taking care of the boiler room, the heat and water, and putting up the flag. The cafeteria staff prepared our daily lunches, which included two or three entrees, various vegetables and deserts. They also provided a salad bar. Surely the Academy could not have functioned without the help of the custodial and cafeteria staffs.

...GETTING TOGETHER

In addition to academic emphasis, Sumner Academy also offered many extra-curricular activities for the student. The many unique clubs enabled the student to match his unique talent or interest and further develop it. The specialized clubs gave the student a chance to match his skills, deepen his interest, and make new friends along the way. Teachers became involved by sponsoring the students and offering help and encouragement throughout the year. By giving the student a chance to get a preview of his field, the student was better prepared to make his future career choice.

Because the students come from all over the district, a new student at Sumner may find it hard to make friends; he is suddenly surrounded by a new environment full of strangers. By joining a club, he can make new friends with others who share his interests. Through the years at Sumner a student may develop a stronger interest in his activity as well as a deeper relationship with those around him.

Sumner dropped and added various clubs to meet the student's varying interests during the past years. The clubs and organizations have been successful in catering to the talents and skills of the student's varying interests during the past years. The clubs and organizations have become an essential part of the Academy. The organizations and clubs of Sumner Academy have truly become a place to make friends and a time for getting together.

Squads help motivate teams

The eighth grade and freshmen cheerleaders supported junior high athletics throughout the year. The cheerleading squads were sponsored by Candee Hoffman. The cheerleaders prepared for the upcoming school year by attending camp, practicing in the morning and choosing uniforms. The cheerleaders showed their spirit not only at games, but at school during pep assemblies.

Squads aid in sabre spirit

Three squads composed the Senior High cheerleading section. The squads were the following; Varsity, composed of six members, Junior Varsity, composed of four members, and the Omni Squad, composed of ten members. The cheerleaders were a vital part of our school, promoting spirit and pep at pep assemblies and at athletic events. During the summer, prior to the 1982-83 school year, the squads attended a cheerleading camp at Emporia. Each squad exhibited outstanding skill and leadership, winning many awards and ribbons at camp.

Acadettes obtain superiority

The Acadettes, with more than half new members, worked hard this year to provide half-time entertainment at Varsity football and basketball games. The drill team practiced twice a week during the summer. The Acadettes attended the American Drill Team Association camp at Avila College for a week. At camp, the Acadettes won the spirit award and ribbons for overall excellence, showmanship, precision, and creative performance. They also won the congeniality award. The team took second place at camp overall. During the school year, the drill team practiced two nights a week and occasionally on Saturday. They performed at the District Marching Band Festival and marched in the American Royal parade.

Full of spirit for the school, Pep Club was there to lend support at all school games. This large group was sponsored by Ms. Brown and Miss Marietta. Pep assemblies were held to raise students' spirits even higher. Pep Club officers sold ribbons and buttons to enthusiastic students. The officers and members were responsible for decorations at the Homecoming dance. Some advantages for Pep Club members included discounts on pep bus tickets and tickets to King Louie.

Instrumental music keeps busy

Sumner Academy's Instrumental Music Department had a busy schedule this year. With new director, David Watz, the music department performed many times.

The Symphonic Band, which also doubled as a pep band, marched with the Acadettes at halftime during Varsity football games. They also supplied music for Acadette routines and marched in the District Marching Band Festival.

The Orchestra and Symphonic Bands competed at the State Music Contest, and, along with other Academy Bands, performed at concerts throughout the year.

This year's bands included the Concert, pep band and Jazz bands, along with Intermediate Orchestra and Strings I. Their performances at extra-curricular activities helped to make this school year a successful one.

Students learn through music

The Vocal Music Department, under the direction of Miss Annette Fick, sang their way through a busy year. In addition to giving five school concerts, the groups also participated in numerous contests in which they entered soloists, ensembles, and other groups. The four vocal groups: Chamber singers, A Capella Choir, Junior Mixed Chorus, and Treble Choir, also enlisted the aid of instruments during the year to enhance their choral pieces. The groups brought entertainment to those outside of school by giving concerts around town. The students were able to further their interest in music, as well as gaining valuable experience.

Activities benefit German Club

Sponsored by Mrs. Daniels, the German club worked at bringing a little bit of German culture to Sumner. During Octoberfest, a few of the members went to Worlds of Fun. The second year students in German club planned the activities for Sportfest. Several games were played and everyone cooperated as a team. The first and second year students competed against the third and fourth year students for the prize of a free day in class. During Sportfest, Gummi Bears were sold to the members. The club went to the Bijou to the German movie, Nosferatu. Beethoven's birthday was not forgotten by the club. A drawing contest on Beethoven was held for all members who wished to participate.

Spanish Club learns culture

The Spanish Club was formed to provide students with further knowledge of the heritage behind this language. This was done by planning activities for the students to take part in and to supplement the knowledge gained in class. Such activities included several parties held during Activity Period, as well as outside of school. They also attended a theatre production, dined at a Mexican restaurant and ordered special sweatshirts. Several holiday parties were held to familiarize students with the holiday traditions of the Spanish people. Overall, the Club had a prosperous year, full of both fun and learning.

Honor clubs recognize talent

Two clubs that offer students recognition for special talents were International Thespian Society and Quill and Scroll.

Sponsored by Mr. Shepherd, the International Thespian Society recognized outstanding students working in the theatre. To be eligible for the lifetime membership, a student must have made significant contributions in two productions and worked in more than one area of theatre. The members of this group were primarily responsible for producing the theatre productions at school.

Quill and Scroll was a national organization that honored outstanding high school journalists who had put forth effort in producing either the newspaper or yearbook. Eligibility was based upon the sponsor's recommendations, academic skill, and the student's devotion to his work. To be a member of either of these honorary clubs, a student must have a genuine interest in his work and be willing to spend much of his free time furthering his skills.

Group benefits student needs

There were two organizations that served the interest of the students at the Academy. They were Student Congress and The American Field Service. Student Congress had members that represented each grade level. Student Congress discussed current issues or problems of the students and looked for solutions. They also raised money and sponsored student activities. AFS sponsored a foreign exchange student and enabled students to learn about other countries.

Staff begins production early

The Excalibur was produced by 42 students as an extra-curricular activity. Early in the year, the new members attended training classes, in which they learned yearbook basics. The production of the yearbook began in the summer and continued until the last page was completed in February. The senior members attended a yearbook workshop camp during the summer, at which the theme, colors, and cover design were chosen. Under the leadership of sponsor Charles Burgess and co-editors Vicki Victor and Janelle Albertson, the staff donated long hours after school to the creation of the book. Through this involvement, the staff members had the opportunity to further their interest in journalism by developing skills in such things as headline and copy writing, graphics, and layout design.

... BEING PHYSICAL

When the Academy opened in 1978, the students, faculty, and coaches knew that they would have to build an athletic program that would not only be competitive in the Kansas City, Kansas League, but one that would be able to be compared to the academic excellence at Sumner Academy. The first year made the athletic program look promising as both the junior high football and volleyball teams won first place in their respective leagues. Due to the small number of students enrolled in the upperclasses when the Academy opened, varsity athletes were allowed to return to their resident school to compete for the first two years. Since the varsity programs have been added, Sumner now competes with schools of its own size in football, volleyball, cross-country, basketball, wrestling, swimming, track, tennis, golf and baseball. The varsity athletic program has produced teams and individuals that have been competitive at the city, regional and sub-state levels. Future athletes look forward to winning a state championship. With the class of 1983 being the first to complete its secondary education at Sumner Academy, a tradition of athletic as well as academic excellence has been established.

Teamwork aids in success

The Junior Varsity squad, coached by Mr. Alvin Mobley and assistant Coach Marquis enjoyed a winning season due to the experience of the squad. Coach Mobley commented, "I was satisfied with the overall record (5-1) which was indicative of the way the young men played on the football field."

The freshman squad did well this season. Coach Smith commented on the season, saying, "the highlight of the season was beating Rockhurst since they are basically a football power year-in and year-out."

The eighth grade squad ended the season with a 5-1 record. Coach Mark Summed up the eighth grade season by saying, "The young men pulled together as a team, and played hard every play of every game."

Injuries take toll on Sabres

Plagued with injuries, the Varsity football team finished a rough season with a 1 and 8 win-loss record. The team entered its third season of competition in the KCK league with a young but determined squad. Coach Richard Gleichman commented on season: "I was proud of our effort, but disappointed in the outcome of the season. I was encouraged by the enthusiasm of the young men that went out, and I enthusiastically look forward to next year."

Hard work brings success

The junior high and junior varsity season for volleyball proved to be a successful one with junior high finishing with a 7-1 record and a 6-2 record for junior varsity.

First year junior high coach, Mr. Normandin stated that "the junior high girls had an exceptional season." They worked very hard on certain areas of the game, especially the serve. "The serve was the best point of the girls game" said coach Normandin. They proved themselves to be a very promising group for Sumner's future volleyball teams.

"The junior varsity team would have won league if there was such a thing as J.V. league" declared coach Morris. The girls worked after school on more advanced techniques of the game such as the spike. The competition for junior varsity players increases therefore the girls must be prepared with the best techniques. With their record of 6 wins 2 losses, the young ladies saw that their hard work paid off.

Because most of the girls on the volleyball team have been playing together since junior high, their ability as a team has greatly improved.

Lady Sabres capture success

In their second year of Kansas City Kansas Varsity League competition, the Lady Sabres finished by placing first with an undefeated league record. The girls brought home first place trophies from the Atchison Tournament and the Lady Blue Devil Classic, as well as a Sub-State runner-up trophy. Several team members received individual honors this season. Jackie Mason, Carrie Webb and Heidi Willett were named to the Lady Blue Devil Classic All-Tournament team as well as to the Kansas City Kansas All-League team. Wendy Miller was named to the All-League Team and Cathy Mannasmith, Lillian Joyce, and Nancy Corporal were

All-League Honorable Mention. Coach Allan Morris said of the team: "The six seniors Jackie Mason, Heidi Willett, Carrie Webb, Wendy Miller, Lillian Joyce, Cathy Mannasmith, and Brandi Myers will be sorely missed next year but we have some enthusiastic, talented young people coming up. They hope to continue the tradition of excellence in volleyball at the Academy."

The Academy's successful history of volleyball began when it first opened. Many of the same team members, then eighth graders, began to build the strong volleyball program into what it is now and hopes to be in the future.

Teams utilize their abilities

Natural ability and the strong desire to win were the keys to success for this year's junior high cross country teams, according to Coach Archer. The eighth grade team had an undefeated season. The senior high cross country team had eight returning lettermen and was coached by Mr. Carter. For the first time in the history of the Academy, the boys' varsity swim team was able to participate as a complete team and hold a competitive record of 4 and 6. The future for boys' swimming looks positive.

Quality shown by small team

The 1982-83 Junior Varsity girls' team was coached by Winnie Ayers. Even though the Junior Varsity girls' basketball team was small, they were able to demonstrate a great amount of talent and dedication. They had a win-loss record of 5-8. The Eighth grade girls' basketball team consisted of six and sixteen players, divided into two teams. Their record was 0-8 and 1-8. Coach Bartels stated that even though the records and scores didn't reflect it, the team did very well and improved tremendously throughout the season.

Group effort guides team

The Varsity girls' basketball team that was guided by Coach Cecil Carter and assisted by Winnie Ayers, went further this season than anyone expected. Mr. Carter was pleased with the dedication shown by the girls. Coach Carter commented on the team, "This bunch here is probably the most enjoyable team I've ever coached, because there aren't any negative attitudes." Some of the seniors commented on the success of the team. "The togetherness of the team has inspired me to work for our goal which is to go as far as we can possibly go," commented Jackie Mason. Dawn Porter stated, "I feel that the unity and the encouragement I've received from the team has helped me become a better person as well as a better player." The girls on the Varsity girls' basketball team have not only built a strong team, but friendships.

Early practice pays for team

Dedication and determination were two words that described the 1982-83 eighth and ninth grade basketball teams. The two teams practiced from 6:30 to 8:00 each morning before school because there was no available court time after school with the varsity and junior varsity teams practicing. The eighth graders had a good season with their toughest opponents being Northwest and Coronado. The ninth graders had an equally tough season. Coach Elbl commented on the teams, saying, "This has been an enjoyable bunch of athletes to coach. They had to love basketball and be dedicated to get up early in the morning to practice. We had outstanding support and enthusiasm from the parents who showed up at many of the games."

Individuality improves team

The Junior Varsity Boys' Basketball team was coached by Mr. Gleichman. The coach summed up the 1982-83 season by saying, "I've been surprised by the contributions of some of the sophomores that were brought up to play on the junior varsity level and was impressed with the improved play of the juniors that were on the team. As a team, they worked hard and never quit, and that quality will translate itself into more important aspects of their lives than basketball victories." The Junior Varsity team not only improved as a team, but also as individuals.

Young team works to adjust

The 1982-83 varsity basketball season proved to be a learning experience not only for the young team, but also for first year coach Robert Hassig. Both the team and coach had to adjust to new coaching and playing techniques which may have been difficult for the young team. The Sabres started the season with only five senior players which proved to be a drawback, as the number decreased to three about half way through the season. The sophomore and junior team members held up under the pressure though, and combined with the remaining seniors to finished the season. Coach Hassig said of the season, "Because we had only a few returning lettermen, we had to depend on the underclassmen for our varsity team. The high points of the season were when we took third place at the Tonganoxie tournament, and when we beat Bonner Springs. At the time we played Bonner, they were ranked fourth in the state. We played our best games against Wyandotte, though they were our toughest. If we would have played more of our other games like we played against Wyandotte, we would have won more games. Though we were hurt by inexperience, it was a developmental year not only for the young players, but also for the older ones."

This year's junior high wrestling team was coached by Mr. James Antos, a teacher at Central. The team consisting of eleven wrestlers, finished its season with a win-loss record of 3-4. The team was small, therefore, many matches were forfeited. Because of the small number of wrestlers, Coach Antos was able to spend more individual time with each wrestler. The success of the team, according to the coach, could be attributed to the ability of the wrestlers to work as a team.

The varsity boys' wrestling team had a good season, considering its size. The team was coached by Mr. Drosselmeyer and was composed of four returning seniors and nine underclassmen. Coach Drosselmeyer stated that the men went into the season dedicated and with a positive attitude. The team worked hard on improving technique, mobility and strength. With a combination of things, the team won second place in the league, and individual wrestlers were allowed to participate at the regional and sub-state levels.

Team's work shown well

The 1982 Boys' High School Track Team finished the season placing 3rd in the league. Despite the bad weather and injuries, the team managed to have a good season. Coach Carter was optimistic that the team would do well at state. With many members returning next year, Mr. Carter expects the team to be even stronger.

With only a few newcomers, the Girls' High School Track Team was composed of 13 members. Coach Winnie Ayers, explained that the girls had a bad start due to weather. Even though the weather might have hindered the team's performance, Mrs. Ayers was pleased with the team's overall performance.

Teams work hard to excel

Learning by trial and error was how the Junior High Girls track team experienced the 1982 season. Because of weather, the team was only able to compete in three of their five scheduled meets. Miss Bartels, coach, commented on the season, "I thought we should have done better, but we had some errors that we learned from." The team tied for fifth place with two other teams.

Improvement, cooperation, and dedication were the three words that Mr. Archer, coach of the Junior High Boys track team, used to describe the 1982 season. The team not only improved their times in running events, and distance in field events, but also improved their attitude about competition. Their competitive attitude rewarded them with a first place at the city meet.

High goals aid in big success

Progress, attitude, and ability were a few of the improvements made by the Girl's Swimming Team, according to Greg House, coach. The team consisted of 17 swimmers. The team competed in ten meets and had a record of 3-6-1. One unique quality of the team was that the girls were able to set individual goals as well as team goals.

The 1982 golf team had an exceptional season, winning two duals, 1 triangular, and one quad. They competed in four large tournaments, placing in the top four. The team was composed of 11 golfers. They were runners-up at Regionals, qualifying for State. "We had an outstanding golf squad, probably better than last year's, because our scores were grouped lower than last year's," commented Coach Gleichman.

...WHAT WE DID

As individuals and as a unified group, the students at Sumner Academy have learned to set goals and see that they are accomplished. Before we could accomplish these goals we had to remove the obstacles in our way. These obstacles were talking on the phone, going out with our friends, or even participating in a sport. When we were faced with a deadline, we had a tough time deciding what to do. It was all just a matter of setting our priorities straight. Students not only showed an enthusiasm for academics, but also excelled in them. They also managed to take part in extra-curricular activities.

These activities ranged from varsity sports to foreign language clubs. Even though years from now, the goals we accomplished in high school will seem small, the accomplishment of those goals was a foundation of our character and a small stepping stone towards success.

SUMNER ACADEMY

We dedicate this to one who has helped lay the foundation of the Academy by his leadership. By his dedication and humanity he has been our mentor and guide through these five years of new beginnings.

By his faith and trust, he has attained the respect of the students and parents. His understanding, charisma, and insight have helped us to mature into well-rounded individuals.

We, the 1982-1983 Student Congress, salute you, Mr. H. D. Neill, because you epitomize the principles of the Academy.

You are the end of a memorable era, the beginning of a distinguished tradition. We too, though the end of a beginning, are also the dawning of the future.

Staff reflects Sabre history

Throughout the last five years at Sumner Academy the events and people have made history. We hope that this year's Excalibur will record the history that was made and also remind you of all the special times you have had at Sumner.

The 1982-83 Excalibur staff spent a lot of time and effort in preparing the yearbook. We would like to express our thanks to all the individuals that aided in the production of the yearbook. This was the first year that the Excalibur used computers to aid in the processing of the yearbook. We would like to thank Mr. Hampton and Mr. Morris for writing programs. Also thanks to Mr. Roberts and Mr. Janne for technical advice and thanks to Dr. Jasinkas for assisting in the schedule and writing help.

Without the cooperation of the entire student body, the yearbook could not have been successful. As you look back at the yearbook, we feel that you too will feel as though history has been made.

...STILL GOING STRONG

This year for the class of 1983 was their last year at Sumner. However, many of us will have memories that will stay with us forever. We have learned many things from the teachers and other students in our surroundings and we all will carry a part of Sumner in our minds forever. The many ideas we have accumulated in the past five years will help us to continue successfully not only in our educational careers, but also in our daily lives. They will help us to make the right decisions and help to give us a better outlook towards foreign ideas, people and places. Those students that will remain at the Academy will continue to uphold the standards set by the previous student body and administration. The Academy will continue to display it's show of excellence in providing an academic background for the new and present students. Sumner has contributed to each individual something that will help them in the years ahead and keep them going strong just as we, the students and faculty, have also contributed a part of ourselves. In the beginning, we were unsure of which direction we were going, but we developed a path that led to a shining success, and we will keep these traditions.

... FORMULA FOR SUCCESS

The past five years at the Academy have made Sumner what it is today. A path of striving for excellence was set down and we at Sumner have learned to succeed.

We accomplished much that first year at Sumner. We established our school logo, colors, and names for the yearbook and newspaper. There were many good times to be remembered that took place in that first year. We had our first official school dance, "The Beginning" and our freshman football and volleyball teams had great winning seasons.

The roll of becoming a Sabre the second year was a challenge to students and faculty alike. But as the tasks were completed, we could look back with a sigh of relief and take pride in our new accomplishment.

In our third year we were able to conduct a full varsity schedule in athletics, and accommodate our first AFS student. This was to lead to what Sumner is today.

In our fourth year we grew closer together. We created some memories and friends that would live to be cherished in our minds forever.

As we look back, we see ourselves reaching new goals and setting new ones to obtain. The years spent here at Sumner have helped us become what we are today. We have learned from our failures and have succeeded. We have found our formula for success.
