Dedication

To someone whose unfailing patience and deep personal interest in each student have opened new doorways in learning . . . . .

who has been not only a teacher to us, but also a confident and lasting friend . . . .

whom we will always love and remember for the important part she has been in our lives at Sunset Hill . . . . .

To Mme. Henri Tron the Senior Class of 1962 dedicates this yearbook.

Sunset Hill School was founded in 1913 by Mrs. A. Ross Hill, Mrs. Justin D. Bowersock, Mrs. Wm. F. Patton, and a few of their friends who felt a strong desire for a school for their children more in keeping with new trends in education. Originally the school was located in Mrs. Hill's home but lack of space forced the school to move to its present location.

The students and faculty fully appreciated the lovely seven acre campus and buildings; however, it was soon evident that even more classrooms were needed. Therefore in 1920 the first new building was added to the campus. This building was used as a dining room, auditorium, and additional classrooms.

As the years passed and the needs of the ever growing school increased, the number of buildings and the size of the campus also increased. In 1926 Mrs. Clarence Shepard gave the Alfred Tyler Hemingway Gymnasium and Mr. and Mrs. Hunters Gary gave the hockey field, naming it for their daughter, Mary Lamora Gary.

A campaign to raise money for a middle school building was launched as the result of a generous donation by Mr. and Mrs. Jay V. Holmes, and in 1936 this building was completed. By 1950 the sixth building of the school had been added to the campus. This was the Mary Conover Mellon Building, given by Mr. Paul Mellon in memory of his wife Mary Conover, a graduate of Sunset Hill.

In 1957 Mrs. Jay V. Holmes gave the beautiful new nursery school building in memory of her husband.

Enrollment in the middle school had been steadily increasing and the curriculum had been broadened so that there was need for additional classrooms. In the fall of 1960 the junior high unit was added to the upper school.

At that time the Sunset Hill Development Program had been organized. Through the interest and efforts of parents, alumnae, and friends of the school, funds were raised to pay for the junior high building and to add the beautiful academic building for the high school. Contemporary in design, it has language and reading laboratories, a sound proof typing room, home rooms for the four grades — all the modern features which offer greater opportunities for learning.

This is only a brief story of the growth of the campus of Sunset Hill School, but campus and buildings do not make an educational institution. Throughout the years the faculty, parents, students, alumnae, and those concerned with the maintenance of the school have made Sunset Hill the fine school it is today.

MRS. ORVILLE C. GREEN

For the past twenty two years, Mrs. Green has been headmistress of Sunset Hill School. During these years, she has devoted her time, her energy and her knowledge toward the building and strengthening of the school. Her duties and responsibilities as head of the administrative staff, and sponsor for the senior class, are many.

Every girl in school receives Mrs. Green's personal attention. She supervises the course of study for each student, reads and signs her report card, and is available for special conferences with the girls and her parents. Much of her time is spent as the senior's sponsor. In this capacity, her guidance is invaluable in helping girls select colleges and fill out applications. In addition to this, she writes a detailed recommendation for each girl to every school that she applies.

Sunset Hill's growth and progress in these past years, as well as the favorable results the seniors have had in being accepted at the college of their choice and their continued preparedness to meet the challenge of college academics, are proof of the fine leadership Mrs. Green has given us.

Mrs. Green received her B. A. and M. A. degrees from Northwestern University and did advanced study at the University of Chicago. Before her appointment at Sunset Hill, she was Dean of Girls and teacher of Latin and history at the North Shore Country Day School in Winnetka, Illinois. For two years she was vice-president of the National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls and a representative on their council. For four years she was a member of the School and College Committee of that same organization. Mrs. Green is a member of the Headmistresses Association of the Middle West.

Organizations

Sunset's Student Council

The purpose of the Student Council is to represent the student body, to work in the school's best interests, and to honor and uphold the Sunset motto, "Freedom with Responsibility." Working closely with the entire high school in carrying out its duties, this year's Student Council has been one of the most effective ever at Sunset. With a strong president, Patty Catlin, the Council has heightened school spirit and has strengthened the good relationships between the different classes.

The Council, sponsored by Mrs. Green, is made up of two girls from each class, plus the president from the senior class and secretary from the junior class. This year, along with Patty, the officers were Sarah Birmingham as vice president, and Portia Adams as secretary. Only those members who are in Honor Study Hall may vote, but each girl on the Council has the right to voice her opinion at any time.

The many functions of the council are extremely important in the organization of the school. Its work begins on the very first day of school when the president presides at the opening assembly. But there are even more activities led by the Council as the year progresses. Soon after the starting of school the Student Council and the Athletic Association work together in the management of the first Bronze-Gold hockey game followed by the Student Council Picnic. As Always, this year's picnic meant enjoyment for everyone.

One of the most important jobs of the Student Council was started four years ago when the American Field Service program was instituted at Sunset. The second exchange student we had, Pat Morgan, suggested an idea which tied A. F. S. and the Student Council even more closely together; our exchange students are made honorary members of the Council. This year the bond was closer than ever; Michele Allan, our exchange student lived with Patty, the Student Council president.

These activities are examples of the hard but efficient work carried out by the Council this year, but it did not end here. It was also in charge of paper sales and the announcing of the results of these, and in charge of the care of Sunset's foster children overseas. The secretary corresponded with them regularly and the proceeds from the paper sales were sent to these children.

After seeing the good work which the Student Council has done this year, it is not hard to see why it is regarded as an extremely necessary part of Sunset life and why it deserves every bit of support the student body is able to give.

Patty Catlin, President

High School Activities Were Initi-

I'll never go to a plastic surgeon again.

If everyone's organized we can start.

Oops! Somebody was looking.

Each fall, high school social activities at Sunset Hill are initiated by the Student Council Picnic, which consists of a hockey game between the Bronze and Gold teams, a picnic dinner, and original skits presented by each class and the new members of the faculty. This year the hockey game, which is traditionally the first game of the season, was won by the Gold team with a score of 5 to 2. The game was followed by a delicious dinner, arranged and served by the Student Council members. We ate picnic-style in groups scattered about the campus. As twilight fell, we gathered in the dining room for the entertainment of the evening. The teachers and their foibles were a favorite target as three classes put on skits buffooning their various eccentricities. Colorful costumes added to the effect of these impersonations. The Freshmen served their histrionic skill in a modernized presentation of "Cinderella" replete with a hopped-up heroine and two cool if cruel step sisters. The contribution of the new faculty was a very original one act play in verse, entitled "Murder in the Lighthouse". The Seniors would like to take this opportunity to add that the traditional "freshmen raid" on the Senior Stairs was unsuccessful for the first time in four years.

Gaiety Of Revels Ushers In

On the last day of school before Christmas vacation comes one of the favorite events of the school year, Revels. This celebration, which follows closely the customs of the Old English Revels, is a tradition at Sunset Hill.

Gina McDonald, this year's Master of Revels, started the festivities in the main building by having the girls sing the "Yule Log Song" as some of the seventh graders pulled in the Yule Log with the smallest first grader, Sally Strauss, riding on it. Miss Strother then lit the log with last year's brand. To make the celebration even more fun, two beggars told Christmas stories in return for the warmth of the fire. After more songs and gaiety, Gina led the way to the gym. As each girl left the main building, she sang the "Wassail Bowl Song" and put her money in the Wassail Bowl.

The Christmas Season

In the gym, more excitement was in store. Everyone was given a cookie, one of which contained a bean. Katy Poindexter found the bean, making her King of Revels, and her partner Linda Wymore, Queen of Revels. Before them paraded the rest of the school in wonderful costumes. Then came games, such as "Trim the Christmas Tree", "Fill the Stocking," and "Pass the Gift Around." The Senior play, "The Night Mrs. Santa Claus Stole Christmas" added even more to the merriment.

When the games were over, there was a rush to the dining room. The Sophomores carried in the boar's head while everyone was eating the delicious turkey dinner and singing songs.

The fun was ended all too soon but with a gay note, a Merry Christmas wish to all.

A Basic Of

Before I came to America an American Field Service returnee told me that she had had an even more wonderful experience than she had imagined, and assured me that I would too. I did not believe it possible, since I was very expectant and my family and school sounded almost too good to be true. But she was right. It is impossible to imagine the wealth of friendship and opportunities offered an American Field Service Student.

In many ways Australians and Americans are very much alike. We are both English-speaking, fond of outdoors, casual and freedom-loving. Yet within broad similarities there are naturally differences. Some of these are minor, although perhaps interesting. For instance Australians play cricket but of course, no American football. Others are more basic. Instead of locally organized education for example, our education is organized by the individual states, and instead of a "balance of power" between the various branches of government, the legislature is supreme.

Although I have learnt that there are such differences I have also learnt how true the statement "people are the same everywhere" is. Widespread realization of this is what the American Field Service is working for, for it is only through this basic understanding that the peoples of the world can branch out and resolve problems and differences of opinion between their nations.

Understanding Others

Last summer I had the opportunity of being Sun Hill's exchange student in the American Field Service American's Abroad Program. The excitement of the summer really began early in April when I heard from the American Field Service that I would be spending the summer with the Jardel family who live in Portiers, France.

It seemed as though the day when we sailed for Europe would never come, but finally after weeks of preparation I left for Montreal, the port from which we embarked. At Montreal I boarded the boat and found there were nine hundred other excited American teenagers bound for various European countries. The days on the ocean flew by as we were kept busy with language classes, American history classes, debates and, of course, plenty of social activities.

We docked in Rotterdam ten days later and each group of students set out for its respective country. There were twenty one of us who were going to France. We all spent the first week together in Paris where I'm sure we saw more sights than any one has ever seen in one week's time. After this we all boarded different trains and set out to join our French families.

It would be difficult to tell about everything I did this summer. I stayed with a wonderful family who did everything possible to make my summer enjoyable. We spent the first month in their home town of Poitiers, France. The history of this town goes back to the days of the Romans and on every street one sees buildings which are hundreds of years old. During the month I spent in Poitiers my family took me to many of the famous chateaux of the Loire as well as many smaller less renowned chateaux.

The highlight of the summer was the two weeks I spent with my family on the Riviera. The days were not long enough for us to do all the things we wanted to. We swam, sailed, went mountain climbing and sight-seeing. However, all good things must come to an end, and all too soon it was time to board the train for Paris and begin the trip home.

Sunset's Athletic Association

The Athletic Association, as the name suggests, is an important board which organizes the athletic activities at Sunset Hill. The purpose of the A.A. Board is to promote good fellowship, school spirit and further interest in athletics. The Board is composed of a representative from each high school class and the officers elected by the entire high school. The faculty adviser for the Board is Mrs. Margarie Allen our high school physical education teacher.

The Board arranges the hockey and basketball play days with Barstow and the varsity hockey game with John Burroughs. This year we came closer to beating John Burroughs than ever before. The final score was 2-0. There was no score until the fourth quarter which made the game very exciting.

The A.A. Board organizes two dances, one in the spring and one in the fall. All of the girls in the high school help in decorating for those dances which are always very colorful and lots of fun. In June the Board is host at the annual A.A. luncheon during which the various trophies, letters and awards are given for athletic ability and team spirit. The year the Board has been more successful than ever in creating and supporting school spirit.

Bronze Team

Pat Morgan

Each girl in the high school belongs to one of two athletic organizations at Sunset Hill, the Bronze Team or the Gold Team. The two teams give everyone regardless of ability, a chance to participate in an entertaining outside activity. The friendly rivalry in the hockey, volley ball, and basketball games promote school spirit and inspire the girls to gain better playing skills. This year the Bronze Team showed excellent team spirit under Pat Morgan as captain and co-captain, Sarah Birmingham.

Gold Team

The Gold Team was captained by Jane Siefert and her co-captain, Laura Grant. The Gold Team, as did the Bronze Team, showed enthusiasm in support of their team and in their playing. At the end of the regular hockey season the two teams were tied. In a play off, delayed by bad weather, the Gold Team won in a hard fought game and so captured the Hockey Cup which will be presented to their captain at the annual Athletic Association Luncheon.

THE JOHN BURROUGHS VARSITY

Friendships Are Formed Over The Week-End

John Burroughs head master- would you like to tell him you lost?

Our annual hockey game with John Burroughs of St. Louis was once again the highlight of the hockey season. The excitement began long before the Friday night when the hockey team arrived from St. Louis. It began weeks before with the preparation by the varsity team and their mothers for the entertainment of the visiting team, their parents, and friends.

Sunset looked forward eagerly to this game, for we felt that this year our team was really qualified to beat Burroughs, and we were anticipating our first victory in the series. The excitement of the game rose as the score remained 0 to 0 throughout the first half. Then in the second half John Burroughs scored two goals in the last few minutes, despite the efforts of a tired Sunset Team, and so won the game. However, everyone felt that both teams had played excellent hockey. The game was followed by a delicious luncheon planned and served by the parents of the team. After the luncheon everyone moved to Pem Day and saw the Burroughs Bombers beat the Pem Day Raiders in football. The day and the excitement came to a close when the team boarded the train once again to return home.

Visit Of John Burroughs

The John Burroughs visit is one of the most enjoyable traditions at Sunset, for there are always so many wonderful friendships made between the girls of the two schools over the weekend, friendships that can be renewed, year after year.

Varsity Games

This year the Social Service Board has been under the leadership of Gina McDonald, president, and the guidance of Miss Ida Weid, sponsor. The board is composed of two representatives from each class, freshman through senior. These representatives are elected each semester by their classmates.

Through this board, the girls at Sunset extend aid to those less fortunate than they. The board organizes fund-raising drives for organizations such as the Red Cross, March of Dimes, and United Funds. Other activities of the board include collecting for needy families which each class adopts at Thanksgiving, and gathering food, toys, and clothing for these same families at Christmas; making favors for those in hospitals during Halloween and Easter; and taking underprivileged children on a picnic in the Spring.

Perhaps one of the most important functions of the board is filling a Red Cross chest with useful articles such as crayons, pencils, paper, soap and towels. This chest is sent to a foreign country by the Red Cross where it is given to people in need of such materials.

This year the board has been very successful in all its activities, and has also succeeded in making every one more conscious of the needs of others.

Assemblies

This year Sally Stotts, the chairman of Assemblies, and Mrs. Scott, her sponsor, did a fine job in planning our many varied and interesting assemblies.

Some of the best assemblies were presented by our exchange students and girls who had visited foreign countries. Michele Allan gave us a fascinating picture of her native country, Australia. Rise Terney's description of her experiences with a French family was both interesting and informative. After Laura Grants assembly we were all envious of her Summer as a French student in a Swiss School.

We also had several assemblies of an educational nature. Mr. Clyde Nichols in a highly amusing manner enlightened the fairer sex in the field of economics. The Science I class brought us up on the latest information on space and man's attempts at its conquest. In the History of Art assembly, we learned of art techniques and forms. The History assembly, commemorating George Washington's birthday, dealt with the presidents and the development of their powers. The English assembly gave us an appreciation of our contemporaries theme-writing ability.

We also had several assemblies of a general interest. One of the most notable was a mock Youth Court which was enlivened by the addition of jury members from other schools, especially Pem-Day.

This has been a year when everyone looked forward to the Thursday assemblies.

The Sunset Hill Choir

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Thomas McMillan the choir has developed into one of the most important organizations at Sunset. It is composed of about forty five girls, who are elected from the high school, and meet twice a week in the afternoon.

The choir does most of the singing at school functions, such as Vespers and Graduation, and on several occasions the members of the Choir have sung at other events by request. Annually at Christmas they carol on the Plaza, and until recently the choir has put on an operetta with Pem Day. Last year, however, they appeared instead at the Sunset Building Kick-Off Dinner, at a luncheon of the Auxiliary of the Jackson County Medical Society, and at Pem Day. This year personal appearances have been limited by concerts of the Philharmonic and additional activities which have been part of the curriculum at Sunset. These have curtailed practices and have eliminated the possibility of other performances such as the once-planned Spring Concert.

In spite of the smaller amount of activities in which the choir has participated, the year has provided for the members of the choir enjoyment as well as a familiarity with the works of great composers. The songs presented by the choir have been chosen to acquaint the student body with a variety of fine music. Explaining this goal in her own words, Mrs. McMillan has said, "I have selected certain works on the premise that there is so much fine choral music which is rarely heard and which otherwise the girls would not be able to hear and perform. I have had the choir sing works of Polestrina, Haydn, Mozart, Franz, Brahms, Mendlessohn, and Howell in the hope that they will develop a love and understanding of this fine music which they will always have."

The Sunset Hill choir has been an invaluable experience to all who have participated, and future years seem to promise even more, for Mrs. McMillan hopes to do the Spring Concert and an operetta again.

1. Don's coming home the 18th! 2. Hey Grant this way! 3. No Miss Kaatz, I'm not doing Barb's Latin. 4. Oh Blair's chewing gum again. 5. No Miss Strother we won't get off the desks. 6. There are 3 varied expressions. 7. We've got to stick together against those Seniors and Sophomores. 8. That May Day Dance is the living end. 9. How much did you raise the weight of your papers? 10. Caroline you can't come in during the press conference. 11. I'm sorry Robin but Mrs. Green said to bring you in. 15. Michele tries a new painting technique.

Faculty

Spreich'en 'z francais?

Darling's, where did you put my silver platter?

Buttering up our leader.

What did you put in this coffee?

Bite it!

Please get me some coffee, lovey.

Snaps

Mommy told me not to cross this line . . . tee hee!

Jackie, the First Lady of Sunset.

No comment necessary.

And then you wiggle what?

Friends, Romans, countrymen.

How did this get on the faculty page?

Jane plays it cool.

The Seniors have this study business all figured out.

Where are Social Service funds, Gina?

Could it be Patty's spied Grant?

Senior Snaps

Beaming beauties of '62.

A Frog's heart for Bart!

A Senior candidate for homecoming queen.

A wise senior gives some needed advice.

Becky, is this the first or the second of the two you must do?

First period, Monday morning.

Kookie lent me this comb.

Barbara, this dreaming of Peter has got to stop!

Senior Snaps

Mitch and Patty working on a new cheer?

Emily's best friend (Greg) told her.

The law of survival in the Senior room--don't share.

Gina, don't look so happy--it's the wrong Woods!

Junior Snaps

Hmmm. . . ?

Ve did it for our country

So vat's with all the happiness

Slop or not, it's food.

And she wonders why she gains weight.

Make up or food, Laura

Honor or supervised?

Terry and I are through again

Junior Snaps

73 days 'til Hank gets home

Get the hook!!

This is an institution of higher education??

Anything smells in that position!!

Larry had a date with Susie who?!

Dear John,

That's how they did it last summer??

Oh, really Miss Straulman
How could you say that. . .

That's right Nicky--just keep dreaming.

What spicy novel is Wenona reading now?

Sophomore Snaps

This is before the grade card got home.

This is a formidable gathering

Bill who?

Just give me a little bite

I've seen this smile before somewhere.

We most certainly did not flush your frogs down the toilet.

There's a first time for everything.

Sophomore Snaps

Pat doesn't usually look quite so calm.

Haw, haw, haw,

Climbing on the building has become quite a sport with the sophomores.

No, Mrs. Green, I will not tell on my friend, Keith.

Frances, you must outgrow those toys.

Some freshmen are ladies

Plaster them!

Ginger's got that look again.

Why would Kathy copy from me?

Freshman Snaps

You need braces.

My, you have talent.

Beth, Leap frog in study hall?

Why are frosh so proud of their braces?

She's a freshman and she almost looks pretty!

Get the punch line Kathie?

Get'm mush, you've already gotten Ginga.

Freshman Snaps

It looks like Jane can handle Noah and Sullivan.

Something constructive for a change, Ginger?

The night after, the night after.

Yes, it's the same girl you've seen in the previous pie-throwing scenes.

The group---shudder.

Lower School

I'm showing at the Guggenheim now.

It may not be Putsch's Cafeteria, but . .

Lower School Is A Valuable Experience With Many Diversified

Almost makes you want to read, doesn't it?

Well, I figure if we launch him here

A smile? . from a server?

Double, double, toil and trouble

Studies And Outside Interests

What are you doing here?

Darryl Zanuck does it again.

PICTURES OF LIFE

Guess where teacher is this time?

May we assume this picture was posed?

Bats in the belfry.

Get out the war-paint, girls, the pilgrims are back!

IN LOWER SCHOOL

How can I multiply on fingers?

The high school hasn't learned this dance yet.

These must be the fifth graders Mrs. Green is always comparing us to.

Girls we hate to be suspicious, but we know you're not that angelic.

Miss Smith won't give us a music test today.

That's the way Sara, laugh at the teachers joke.

Pictures Of Life

These girls are ready for high school-they know all the tricks.

The Sophomores are teaching them young these days.

It's realistic... at this age the girls are always taller than the boys.

Me? ... seen cookies on your desk?

In Lower School

No, mummy, I haven't been playing under the bleachers.

Now this one looks like an upper school study hall.
