

Janus - god of beginning and end

The Sundial 1974

Sunset High School
Kansas City, Missouri

Janus, the god of beginning and end, best encompasses the beliefs and intentions of the nineteen seventy-four Sundial: cherishing the past, yet striving for the future. Change, in terms of basic programs and concepts, has been a constant factor in Sunset's history. But, more than ever, the school is witnessing outstanding innovations, and increased change is forecasted and anticipated by all involved in Sunset. However, it seems that few would like to forget the strong traditions held by the school. We look to the future, but keep the old. Some are silver, the other gold.

On the next few pages are comments about the school by members of the Sunset Hill community.

One of the most favorable aspects of Sunset is the school's philosophy which stresses the worth of the individual.
administration

Sunset is an ideal place for teachers to teach and students to learn; small classes, free and relaxed atmosphere, warm and friendly environment. It is the practical application of idealistic principles that causes us problems.
faculty

I really enjoy participating in the extracurricular activities, especially the dramatic and choral productions. It gives students the opportunity to not only sing, but dance and act as well in shows that are a step above your average high school production.

Experiencing the works of the masters of choral music, Beethoven, Handel, and Hayden has greatly broadened my musical horizons. I thoroughly enjoy the spring concerts, the soloists, and being accompanied by professional musicians.

The concept of coordination is good variety, diversity, etc. . . However this is not always easy to achieve and administer.

comments from Student Body

Coordination is a somewhat effective answer to the "coed craze" of recent years. It allows the option to students and parents of having our own traditions and attending a school that exists primarily for girls.

faculty

Athletics at Sunset are an organized way to express school spirit.

There is nothing like a brisk, lively game of field hockey to finish off a day of hard study.

SHS athletics provide an adequate means of letting off much pressurized steam at the end of a long day at school.

Comments from the High School

None of my students have any coordination—especially the ones on the hockey team.

Comment from the Math Department

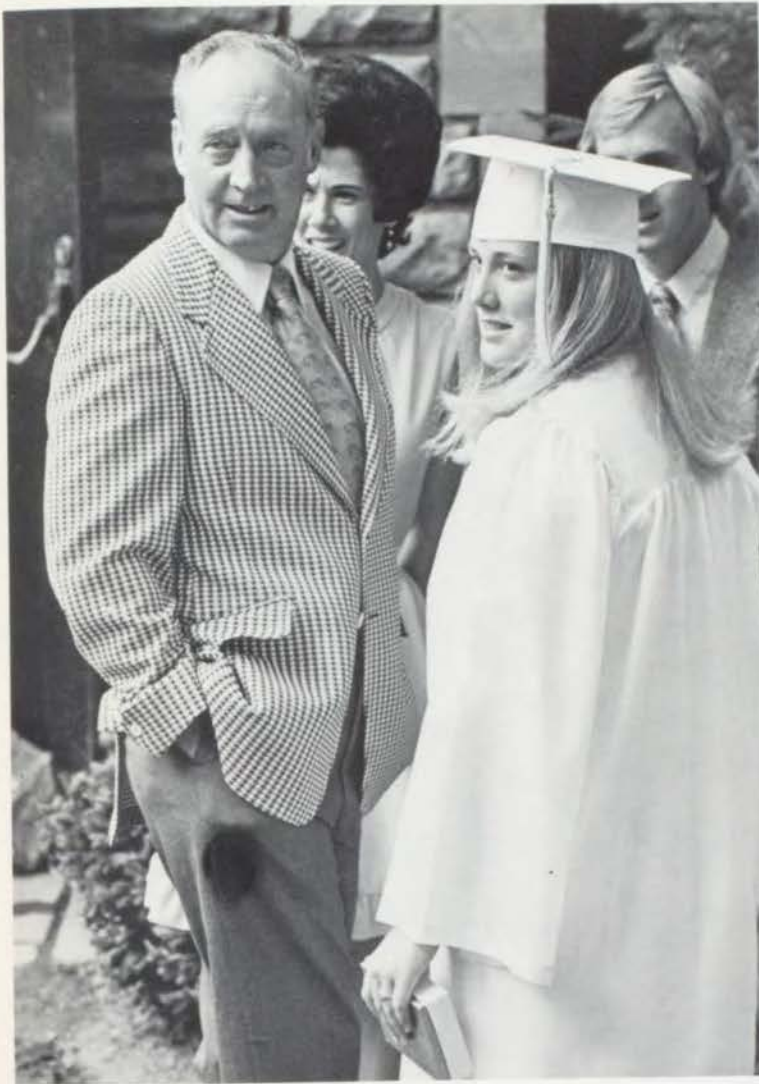

I like it here because you're not restricted to one room all the time.
You don't have to wear uniforms.
You can wear jeans!
The days seem shorter.
It's fun because everybody knows everybody.
comments from the middle and lower school

I would say of the faculty that they are a very sincere, dedicated group of people. "They try harder."
anonymous

Sunset is potentially one of the most agreeable places to spend the day in Kansas City.
faculty

The student-faculty cooperative government has fulfilled its responsibility, to a certain extent, in making Sunset an honorable environment to advance and learn. Rules and regulations have been made and many privileges have been passed by this government. All that is left now to complete a near perfect academic society is the cooperation of the whole student body. They are the ones who make up the school and who can really benefit from it. There just has to be a certain amount of effort from each individual, then the ideal conditions can actually exist.

Comments from the student body

Students need to reflect on what they have here and be glad they have it. They should stop complaining and use to their advantage the suitable environment that is provided for them.

Administration

From PSAT's, SAT's and Achievements, to graduation, she has guided and pulled us through some of our most trying high school experiences. Our mother away from home, she has kept us out of the halls and off the streets. Her quick wit, humor and understanding have kept Sunset going. From ordering us to stop sunbathing on the lawn to giving comfort and advice, she was always there. We the senior class of 1974 wish to dedicate this yearbook to our MOA, Mrs. Atwood.

There she is again! guarding the extension phone.

Ms. Atwood peruses a desk memo during a rare moment of solitude.

It is in deepest appreciation that we give a special tribute to Coach Reuter in this yearbook. Her value as a gym teacher and her patience, prodding, and perseverance on the hockey field and on behalf of the team is worthy of recognition. We cannot adequately express our gratitude for her unceasing, limitless efforts to mold a bunch of high school slobs into a great group of all around female jocks.

During the 1973-74 school year the Helios underwent a total upheaval of its past system and began the awesome task of creating a "different" image. With the guidance of Mr. Hayes Walker, the first semester staff attempted to "divide and conquer," by appointing a distinct job for each staff member to be responsible for. Under the editorship of Margot Patterson, the staff tried to make the paper one of more polished journalism, containing more universally significant articles which would hopefully spark reaction from "the often bovine student body." Its achievements were valuable and set up precedents for the incoming staff.

In January, the new staff was appointed with Susie Swartzman and Julie Crow as co-editors, and Laura Starr as managing editor. Under their supervision, the seven editors produced more voluminous issues, and successfully strove to maintain a level of competency. The new staff instigated new columns, dealing with women in the community and helping the students to identify with the Helios' role as the publication of a women's school.

The business staff, headed by Melody Walker, proved quite efficient. At a nickel a word, Cindy Cowerd's amusing "Personals" column extracted many reactions from its readers. With Denyse King at the camera, the pictures were comical, interesting, and occasionally controversial. Other visual aids included unusual and talented cartoons drawn by various members of the staff.

Considering all the difficulties encountered, the new system of changing staffs mid-semester, worked out quite well. Both staffs committed themselves with diligence, creativity, and determination; and, in retrospect, the Helios improved vastly in quality and public reaction this year. The Helios' long-standing goal is to make the paper a truly first-rate medium through which faculty and students can freely communicate their ideas.

What a Year!

A time of new experiences, of learning and understanding; of seeing and traveling and living.

A time of love, of desire and being homesick, of pleasure and being blue and hardly being able to handle all the joy.

A loud time, with many days of silence, activity and exhaustion, accepting, turning down, laughing, crying—and smiling, beauty, ugliness, work, leisure and friendship, anger and tears.

A hard time, but filled with beauty and strong emotions, sometimes overwhelmingly strong.

A time I would not have liked to have missed—and therefore thank you all—it was magnificent.

Martina

My family

My AFS summer was spent in West Germany. I was placed by AFS in an experimental work camp for the first half of my stay. The camp was in the small village of Leck, where I lived and worked in squalor and joy, with 14 other students from other European countries. We dug ditches in the rain and constructed a cottage, jungle gym, teeter-totter, swing set, and a balance beam out of raw materials in order to create a glorious playground.

After my work camp experience, I was sent to my AFS family, the Werreses, who welcomed me with open arms. My stay ended with lazy summer evenings of talking, lemonade, and much laughter (mostly at me). Part of me will always be with them.

"A Day In A Spring Garden" was presented by classes One, Two, and Three on May 8, at 9:30 a.m., in the dining room. This program was given for classes four through seven and the parents of classes one, two, three.

Flowers, Bumblebees, Grasshoppers, Mosquitoes, Butterflies, Birds, a Caterpillar and a Ladybug enjoyed singing and dancing through the sunlit garden. Under the moonlit sky, pixies danced and fireflies flashed their lights in the night.

Edith Johnson, Director, was assisted by teachers and mothers of classes one, two, and three.

"As You Like It"

Facing Frito was a twelve-foot specter shrouded in red satin, shod in bejeweled riding boots, and mounted on an obese, pate-blue unicorn. Around him fluttered winged frogs, miniature Valkyries, and an airborne caduceus. The tall figure offered Frito a six-fingered hand which held a curiously inscribed identification bracelet simply crawling with mysterious portents.

"I understand," said the stranger solemnly, "that you undertake quests."

Frito banged the door shut in the specter's surprised face, bolted, barred, and locked it, swallowing the key for good measure. Then he walked directly to his cozy fire and slumped in the chair. He began to muse upon the years of delicious boredom that lay ahead. Perhaps he would take up scrabble.

Your children are not your children.
They are the sons and daughters of life's longing for itself.
They come through you but not from you, and though they are with you yet they belong not to you.
You may give them your love but not your thoughts,
For they have their own thoughts.
You may house their bodies but not their souls,
For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams.
You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you.
For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday.
You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth.

Kahlil Gibran

It is my joy in life to find
At every twining of the road
The strong arm of a comrade kind
To help me onward with my load.

And since I have no gold to give,
And love alone must make amends,
My only prayer is, while I live—
God make me worthy of my friends.

I love you not only for what you are, but for what I am when I am with you.

I love you not only for what you have made of yourself, but for what you are making of me.

I love you because you have done more than any creed could have done to make me good, and more than any fate could have done to make me happy.

You have done it without a touch, without a word, without a sign.

You have done it by being yourself. Perhaps that is what being a friend means, after all.

Senior Wills

I, Fifi Bliss, will the honour code to anyone who thinks they can uphold it.

I, Barbara Brink, will Oakwood to Jennifer Highley.

I, Lori Brown, will my senior year to the birds.

I, Gretchen Bruening, will enormous stature to Helen Heddens.

I, Gail Byers, will my inherited driving ability to Jane Curran.

I, Helen Cooke, will yearbook meetings, the camera we no longer have, and C.H. to Denyse King.

I, Jennifer DeWeese, will Tammy O'Neill everything I've got that she hasn't got.

I, Emily Dillon, will the best of luck to Melody Walker in creating the newspaper which we both envisioned and has yet to be realized.

I, Susan Duboc, will my absences to Mr. Herron and my nickname to Annie.

I, Michele Hudson, will my flies to the lab for eternity.

I, Susan Jacobson, will my seat in the PCD senior room to Adrienne Ramos.

I, Karen Kamen, will my pet peeve to anyone who wants it.

I, Julie Kemper, will my luck with colleges to next year's senior class.

I, Sheila Kemper, will my chemical wit to Jennifer Highley and Dr. Sam to Susie Kander.

I, Laura Kline, will 1001 West 58th St. to anyone who's big enough to handle it.

I, Katie Leary, will my freckles to Jill Kay.

I, Marjorie Lewis, will to Emily Fowler all the joys and pleasures of one C.W.

I, Lindsay Lunt, will to the class of '77 one Curt Matthes.

I, Barbara Marshall, will my mouth to Becky Brimacone.

I, Nancy Nesselrode, will the senior couch in the prospects of nookie-nookie to Jennifer Highley and her man.

I, Colleen O'Neill, will my "length" and interminable ability to hold my liquor to Sharon Roach.

I, Margot Patterson, will my athletic ability to Susie Kander and my nervous breakdown to the editor of next year's Helios.

I, Beth Pollard, will my 21 I.D. to Pam Green.

I, Rita Romine, will my fingernails to Jill Koenigsdorf for her orange addiction.

I, Sherree Ross, will Denyse 12:00 o'clock.

I, Jane Schertz, will my old somewhat battered, perpetually out of tune Price & Teeple upright to Susie Swartzman.

I, Jill Shackleford, will towel-streaking, Village demeanors, and "O" language to Ab.

I, Betsy Shaver, will my responsibility to Julie Barickman.

I, Susan Shopmaker, will life to the living.

I, Julie Townsend, will my unmistakable, crackling, booming voice to Jean Gill for A.A. announcements.

I, Mary Weltmer, will my beauty queen wave to Ann Willoughby.

I, Barbara Brink, will Commander Cody, N.R.P.S., F.B.B., and the Grateful Dead to anyone big enough to appreciate them. (Not the Sundial editor, alas.)

Get Involved in Pollution Control

PLANT TREES AND SHRUBS

You can start your own pollution control program, just by planting trees and shrubs. For these and other plants absorb pollutants and generate huge quantities of life-giving oxygen.

What's more they're specially useful in reducing noise and visual pollution, too—to say nothing of their beauty, their cooling power, and the ability of their leaves to catch solid particle pollution.

A visit to our Garden Store or a call to our Landscape Department can get you started on your own pollution control program.

Evincing the intrepid spirit of the yearbook staff, Gail Byers merrily shuffles through the great maw of paper work better known as the Sundial.

"Be a secretary and make big pay!" exclaims Barbara Brink as she completes her course at the famous Katherine Gibbs Stenographers School.

Ennui strikes Fifi Bliss, a former stalwart member of the staff.

With all extraneous objects enveloped in the darkroom, Jill Shack is illuminated by the shining light of divine inspiration.

Editor Helen Cooke learns to master scissors, paste, and rulers as she artfully lays out this very page.

These are pictures of the girls who have bravely, perseveringly, and downright idiotically devoted themselves to turning out the SHS yearbook. This staff will always remember those Sunday afternoon meetings where we slaved away, screaming at each other and laughing madly, devouring pounds of no-bake bars, pepsis, green koolaid etc...completely demolishing the kitchen, icebox, and food contents of whosoever house the meeting happened to be held at. Completing this book was hard work, it took time, patience, and a sense of humor, and I think there is a little part of each of us in it. Most importantly however, I hope you have enjoyed reading it, that it has brought back memories and entertained you at least, for just a moment.

Helen Cooke
Editor

The stunning Romanesque profile of Jill (Basic) Shack is starkly etched against the Black Hole of Calcutta.

Fifi takes time off from her heavy schedule of singing gigs to "get on down" with the yearbook copy material.

Barbara Brink desperately clutches a pencil as she is accosted by the specter of her own repressed desires.

Egore makes a special guest appearance to the delight of yearbook editor Helen Cooke and staff.

We would also like to thank a good friend and crony, Debra McGee Thompson, for her boundless typing efforts.

Photography editor Barbara Brink experiences a cerebral inspiration as her EEG reading accelerates off the graph.
