Strictly Business Class of 1994

The year is 1994. Seniors of Westport Business Communication Technology High School are ready to pack their bags and go. Nineteen ninety-four is a very special year. It will be the first graduating class of the business magnet theme.

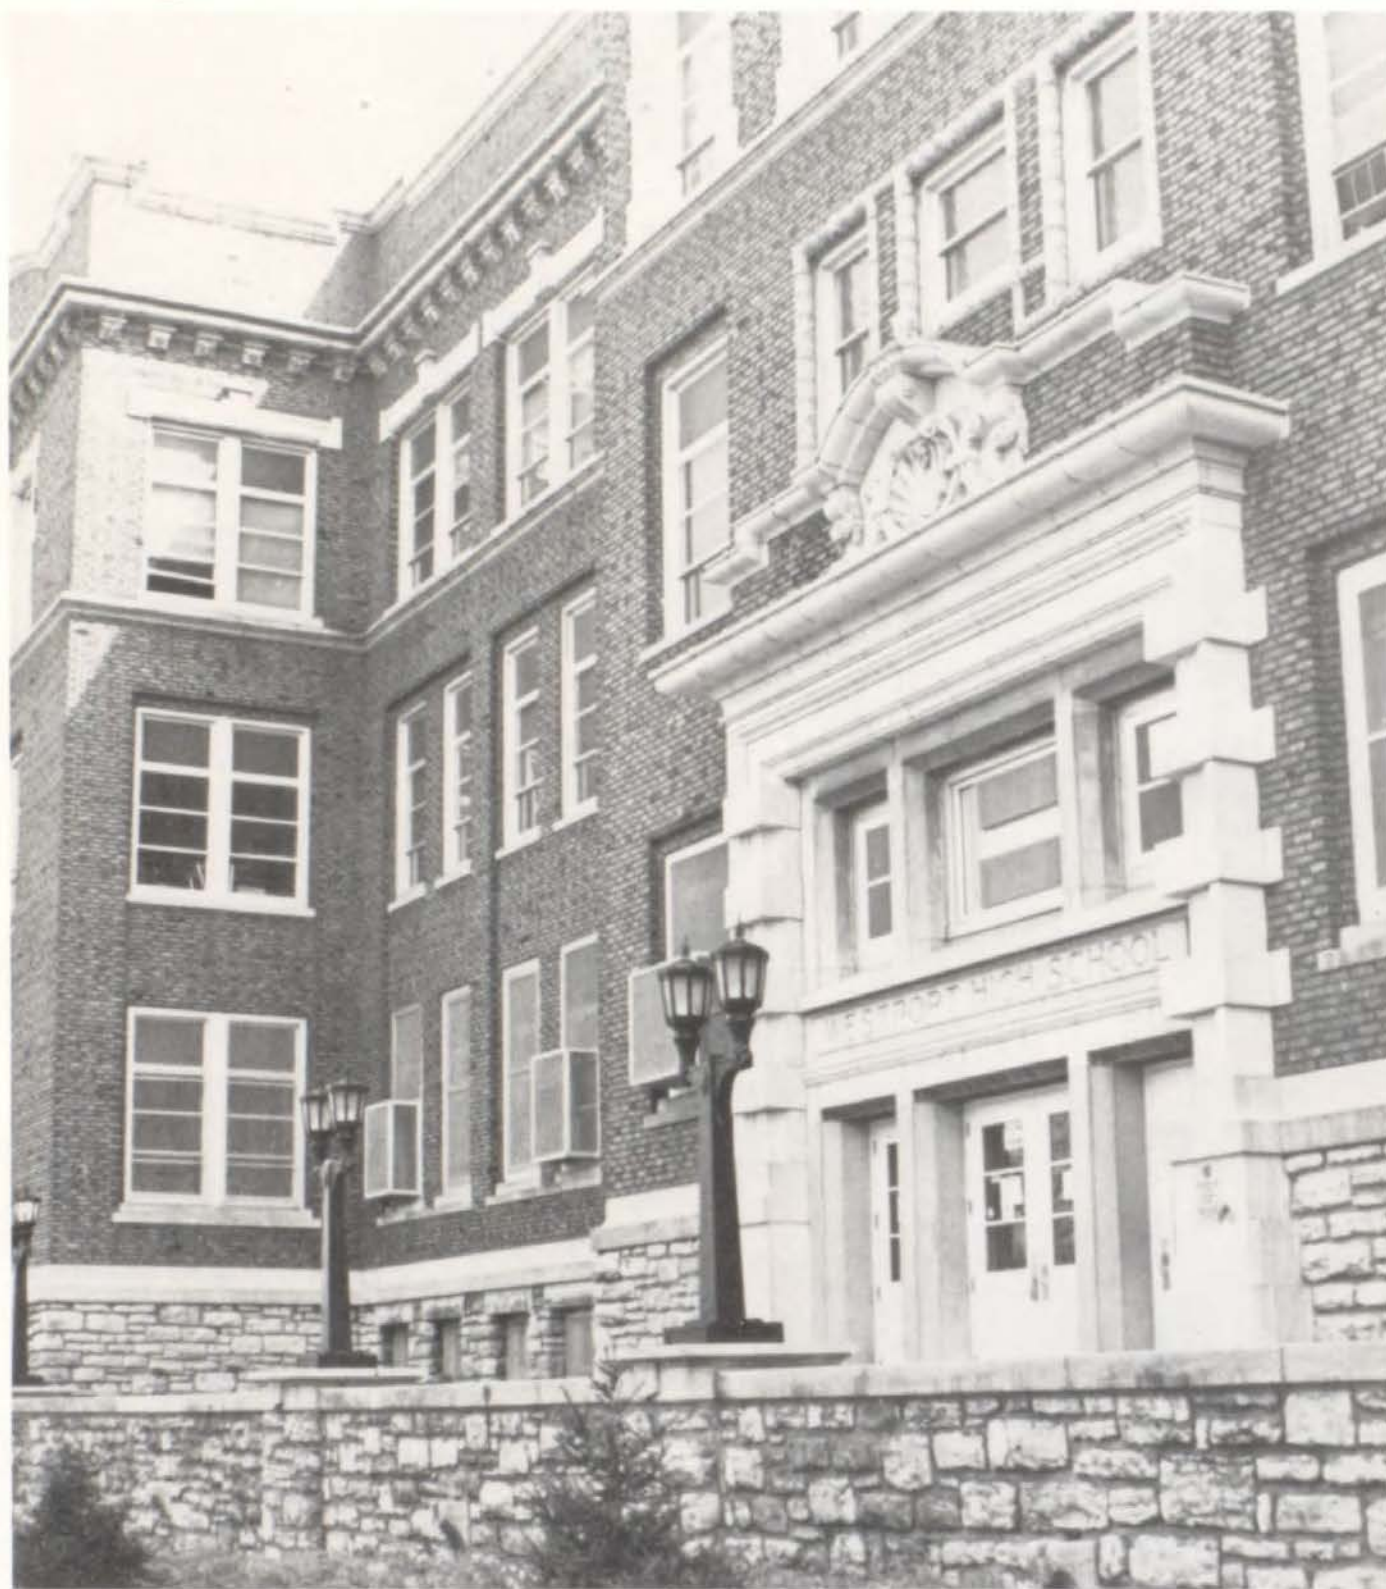

The year has been hard to face for the students this year, from a mental stand point as well as a physical one. The Seniors have been preparing for four years for that one special day and now it has finally arrived.

So, to all the Seniors,
Let's get down to business!

Learning with and from Mrs. Comeaux was different. She makes sure that you leave her class knowing something about American History.

When teaching, Veronica must first know her place in the World.

"EACH ONE REACH ONE" or two ... That is my charge as an educator and human being."
Ms. R. Johnson

Mrs. Robinson is a teacher who is very understanding, takes time to listen and not just hear her students. When a student is not doing his or her best, Mrs. Robinson is there with her words of encouragement. This is why she is so special.

Consuela Benson and Micheal Taylor say that Mr. McCreary takes an interest in the students and makes sure that they are not being deprived of their education.

Administrators: Some New Faces Some Familiar Smiles

Meet Mrs. Malone and Mr. McCreary. These two special people are the ones that make it happen here at Westport High. These two vice principals help run the halls, control the students, and basically keep the building in tip top shape.

Mrs. Lois Malone is the lady of the year. She came to us running things and letting everyone know that its all about RESPECT. No matter what happens, she is always there to help out as much as she can!

And winner of the Man Of the Year award is Mr. Walter McCreary. This fine gentleman has really made some progress with the students of Westport. He is very kind, and is even a friend when you need one; but he means BUSINESS! This is his first year with us and he grew on everyone. Mr. McCreary is the type who lets you get away with only so much, but not enough to take his kindness for weakness.

These are the vice principals of Westport High School who really do care. Thanks again for everything Mrs. Malone and Mr. McCreary... WE LOVE YOU!

Mrs. Malone is a new Vice Principal this year, coming to us from Westport Middle School.

"The PRINCIPAL Who Beat the ODDS!"

Remember Joe Clark? Remember East Side High School? Would you like to meet the female version of Joe Clark? If so, her name is Mrs. Vonelle Middleton.

She came to Westport High School as a vice principal in the middle of 1991-'92 school year and worked her way up to becoming the principal of Westport High School. In her three years at Westport she has made a remarkable change. From Westport to Fair Westport High. Mrs. Middleton is loving, caring, and very understanding. She also is like having a sister around when you need one. Students, faculty, and staff... meet the principal of Westport High School... Mrs. Vonelle Middleton.

Not getting an early start

The Westport Tigers were short handed this year on the football field. The Tigers were expecting to get a lot of strong and ready to learn new bodies on the 12th of August.

The tigers really didn't do well, but some players say that Coach Sands has taught the values of upholding a family. Some senior players say that they felt bad after the season because this maybe their last time in a football uniform and never play for a football team again.

Fighting Spirit, Winning Season

Winning their first competition at Blue Valley Northwest with a 4-3 victory over the Lightning Bolts, Westport's new soccer team, Coached by math teacher Perry Taleghani, quickly became a force not easily ignored. In an interview with the Kansas City Star, Taleghani said, "We had nothing before...we played in the gym...without uniforms and played without nets in the goals." With a donation of two portable goals and four soccer balls, as well as some uniforms from the Blue Valley Soccer club, Westport's new soccer team was on its way.

At one time up to 50 students were participating, but that dwindled to about 20 players. Evidently, this was enough to form the nucleus of a strong varsity team.

"They played their hearts out," Taleghani said, "and that made up for lack of experience and equipment." The Tigers now have plans to play competitively in the fall.

W e Mean Business at the Westport Business/Communications Magnet

Westport Business Technology/Communications Magnet High School: committed to providing an education for all students regardless of economic, cultural and language diversity. Given a safe and orderly environment, appropriate resources, and proper guidance, we believe that all students can achieve. It is also divided into different strands, for example: Information Systems, Financial Management, and classes that deal with the whole person. Business training helps to provide critical thinking skills and to equip students with the basic foundation in principles and theories of business. Business Department Staff members include Ms. Myers, Ms. Lee, Ms. St. Hill, Ms. Strobol, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Butler, Mr. Stevenson, Ms. Bruemmer, Mr. Morris, Mr. Steinley, Ms. Nunn, Ms. Green, and Mr. Ray.

Lights, Camera, Action... Students participate in live television production classes Westport

"Lights, camera, action...", that's what the students taking television production classes are learning, whether one just takes the class for a quarter or decides to advance all the way to their senior year. Classes like television production, enable a student to decide what field of study they would like to go into in the future. "These classes are excellent for the students," says Mrs Suzanne Steward, a teacher in television production. It can give them a head start for colleges and on the job training if they choose to go into the television field.

These classes are excellent for every student. Classes like these are designed especially for students with strong career goals.

Belinda Snider and Tracy Cox focus in on a shot.

Students learn hands on experience while having fun.

The equipment at Westport is some of the finest around. "We have more sophisticated equipment than majority of the schools and even the colleges in the 4-state area, and if not better it is as good", stated Mrs. Steward. These classes offer students the skills that they need to survive in the job market of today. Classes like television production give students the experience that they need. Many of the students like the television production classes and all of the other communication classes that Westport gives the students. These classes teach discipline that will help the students in their future studies, and further advance them into their career choices. Hopefully these classes will stay at Westport.

Students learn basic techniques and principles of radio broadcasting with hands on experience while creating their own message.

"Radio is one of the most marvelous things a student could ever take," says Mr. Chester Boyd, radio teacher at Westport. Students who enter into the radio and broadcasting field, learn how to perform duties associated with radio broadcasting.

The main thing that is stressed in radio broadcasting is A.I.D.A., or Attention, Interest, Desire, and Action. These skills are used mainly in the writing of radio commercials or other live broadcasts, which students perform in the studios.

Journalism at Westport, its a whole other way of writing

Students writing for the school newspaper, yearbook, or newswriting are taking part in the journalism field of the communications department at Westport High School. Journalism gives students an opportunity to improve their writing skills and techniques,"

Even if students cannot write that well, they can learn the basic techniques in Journalism classes.

said Mr. Stan Willis, a teacher in the communications department.

There is a lot of equipment and potential here for students to use. The students can develop their talents more by attending classes in Journalism.

Senior Locy Smith shows Tiffany Dydell how to correctly type in her sports story.

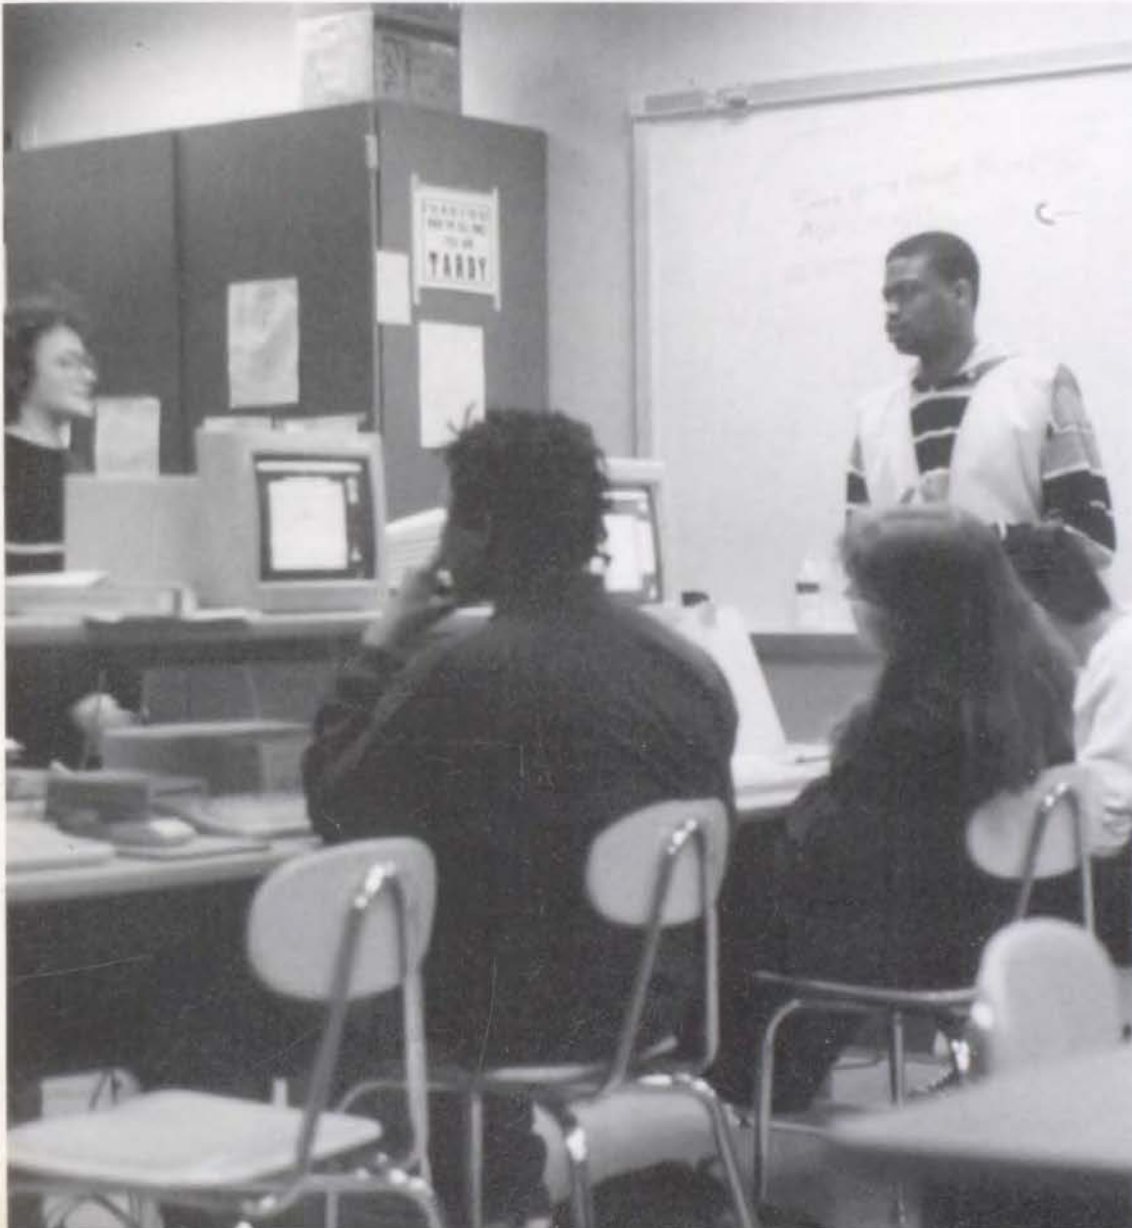

Computer Graphics allows students' imaginations to soar!

What happens when students are allowed to set their imagination free on a computer screen? One can see the results when they walk into Westport's computer graphics classes. These classes teach students the basics in programs such as animation, scanning, and painting. Westport's graphics department is on a roll this year by already winning many contests and awards. Mrs. Fight and Mrs. Hecht are teachers in computer graphics. "The students enjoy these classes because it lets them express themselves and learn something at the same time," said

Mrs. Fight. The students can advance in these classes throughout their high school years.

Science students' soil project may detect local lead pollution problems

Mr. Klafta's Science Club students have been conducting a soil testing project this year to determine the lead content in local soil samples.

The research project will address this important environmental issue to determine the effect lead contamination has on children. Ultimately, the students want to do something to help reduce or eliminate the possible dangerous levels of heavy metals which are known to cause sickness and even death especially in children.

Selected sample sites throughout the Kansas City Metro area were used over an eighteen month period. EPA guidelines were used, along with soil testing kits, data and computer enhancement analysis and field hand tools.

Soil samples were collected from various sites and tested for lead.

TEACHER POLL

Teacher Poll

What is the biggest challenge facing this generation of students and how can we, as students, avoid becoming a statistic?

What impact, as teachers, do you think you have on students?

What can teachers do to enhance great leaders for the new century?

Hey, Let's Avoid Becoming Another Statistic!

Mrs. A. White said, "I think deciding whether students want a world that is centered on valuing material things or centered on valuing human beings. It is the choice that future leaders have to make. Our generation is forgetting the value of human life. Students could avoid becoming another statistic by going back to the belief that we are our brother's keeper, so that we may have closeness in our society. We feel responsible for taking care of each other.

"We, as teachers, should help the students develop an attitude to model how to be kind and treat others with respect. Learn that the desires to learn comes from the inside of one's heart. Be determined on setting his or her mind on what goal or obstacle it is that he or she wants to achieve."

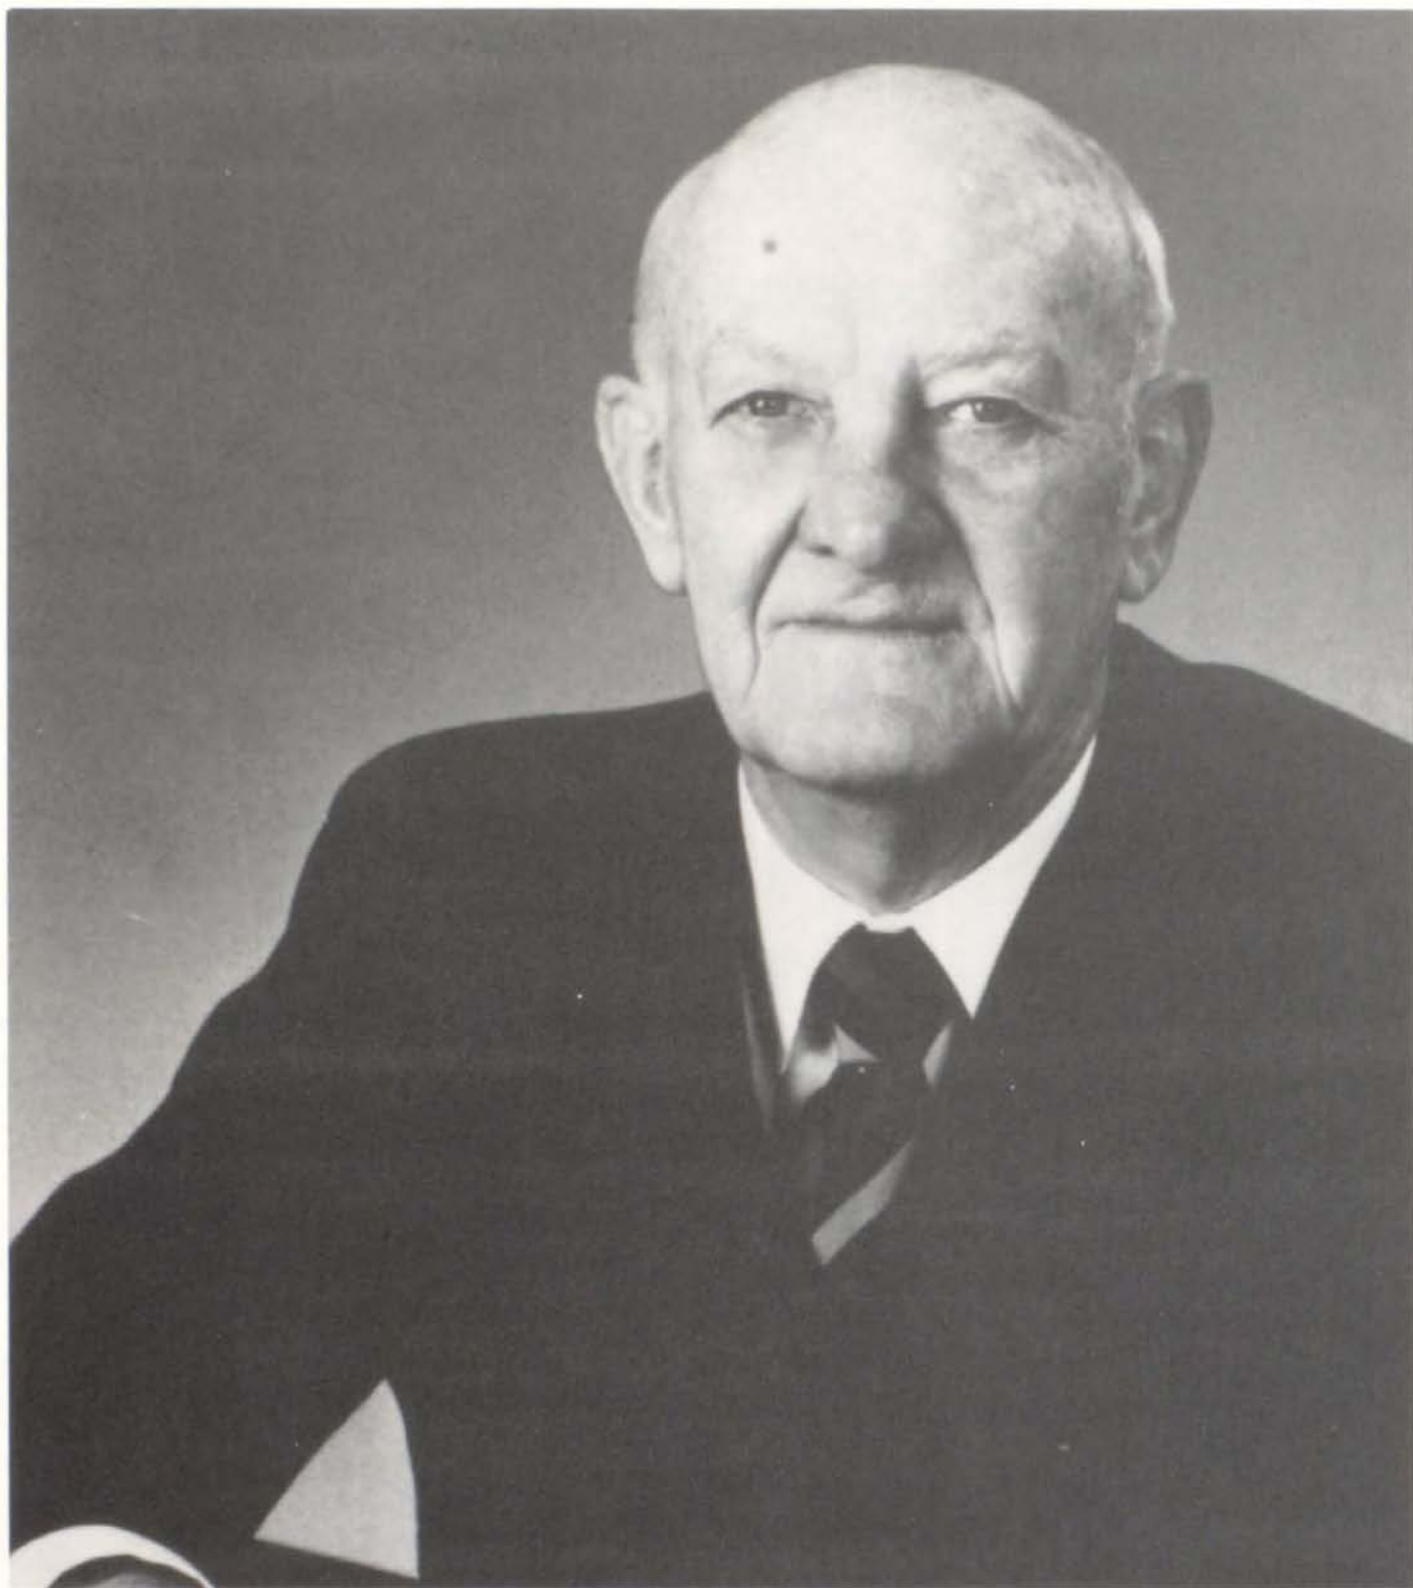

Mrs. Robinson's response was that "Identifying meaningful goals and developing a plan for reaching those goals" is important.

"It goes back to focusing on their goals and then chances of reaching those goals will become greater.

"The impact varies from student to student; I can be an encourager or a discourager. It is therefore important that I communicate a caring attitude in as many different ways as possible: i.e., my words and actions should be consistently positive and fair. I should ask for forgiveness as often as I need to.

"As teachers, we should demonstrate love, caring, understanding, patience; we must continue to find ways to make our subject matter relevant and interesting. Be an example by modeling what we wish the students to gain academically and personally. They must challenge and question everything. They must also become keen observers and careful listeners.

On August 1, 1993, one of Kansas City's most giving, caring, big-hearted visionaries left us here to carry on. Ewing M. Memorial to

Antonio D. Washington

Mr. Antonio Demetrius Washington was born January 3, 1977 to Miss. Sheila Ann Washington and Mr. Charles Trice. He was born in Kansas City, Kansas. Antonio lived in Kansas City, Missouri most of his life.

Antonio was a Junior at Westport High School. He departed his life on January 6, 1994, and will be truly missed by all his friends and loved ones.

Message From Heaven

Sorry, I had to leave you right away. I'll look and smile at you everyday, I had no time for goodbyes, I'm sure you read the farewell in my eyes and I'm happy, so don't cry. Please carry on as you did before, Till all of us meet on Heaven's bright shore. Remember, but I Love You even though, you don't see me there any more!

NOW THAT I'M GONE

When I am gone, Release me, let me go, I have so many things to do.

You must not tie yourself down with sadness and tears. Be happy and think back and remember all those happy years I gave you my love, you can only guess how much you gave me in happiness. But now it's time I must travel alone. So grieve a while for me, if you must, but recall all our memories with all your heart.

Then let your grief be comforted, cause it's only a while that we must part, so bless the memories within your heart.

I won't be far away, so if you need me call and I will come. Though you can't see or touch me, I'll be near. If you listen with all your heart, you'll hear and all my love will become so bright and dear. Then, when you must come this way all alone, I'll greet you half way, with all my love and welcome you home.

In Loving Memory Of Mark Nguyen
 Mar. 30, 1976/Dec. 18, 1993

Mark Trung Nguyen was born March 30, 1976 in Springfield, MO to Mr. and Mrs. Hgong Nguyen. Mark's education began here at Westport in 1990 when he was a freshman. He then joined Project Choice to further his education. In his spare time Mark enjoyed fixing electronic devices, listening to music, and playing video games. Mark was employed at Abadah Electronics. Mark fell in love with Araceli (Sally) Gallegos and in the summer of 1993 he made her his wife. Two weeks after Mark's passing, his daughter Vanessa Nguyen was born. Many Westport students mourned his unexpected passing.

Mark will always be remembered as a person who's never greeted anyone with anything less than a smile. He was a thoughtful, kind, and considerate person loved by many. Mark is survived by his parents Ray and Hgong Nyugen, his wife Araceli Gallegos de Nguyen, daughter Vanes-Krishawn Fortune helps Frances Brown try on her gown.

Finally it's 1994 and the seniors are preparing to head out the big door. Passing through the big door, we will always remember our high school days. The time has come to put all the playfulness aside and all seriousness up front. Seniors are really preparing themselves for graduation they are studying, getting credit checks, making college choices and taking ACT test. As freshmen, June 5, 1994 was a eternity.

JROTC

The Westport JROTC once again had a busy year according to Senior Army instructor Major Reuben H. Siverling and Army instructor SFC Charles E. Martin.

Some of the activities the cadets were involved in included the Veterans' Parade, a trip to Fort Riley, Kansas, and the Saturday Snake Dance Parade.

Social activities for this year included the Color Guard at the Ritz Carlton May 17th, and the Annual JROTC Ball at the Adam's Mark Hotel.

Major Siverling also said he expects his cadets to do well on the upcoming annual inspection.

Project-Choice

In the early months of 1988, Ewing Kauffman called together parents and eighth grade students at Westport Middle School to illustrate for them his vision of a program that would provide a solid opportunity for young persons to become productive members of society and set up a cycle of giving back to their community. The program as he envisioned it would assist students in making personal informed choices about their individual futures. Further, it would help students satisfy the primary aspiration of completing their high school education and, if it were their choice to do so, a means of going on to pursue higher education consistent with their career goals. The program, as the objectives suggested, would be called Project Choice.

"Class of 1994 Seniors Rule"

by Ana Galindo

On a warm and glorious evening in June of 1992, 117 senior students prepared to make history as the first high school graduates representing Project Choice. The commencement speaker was none other than the man who had made so much possible for them - Ewing Kauffman, by now affectionately referred to as Mr. K. As he approached the lectern, the class rose to their feet with cheers of admiration, affection and true appreciation. Mr. K fondly recalled the night in 1988 when first they had met, and he reciprocated the admiration for job well done over the last four years by students for whom he felt a deep and genuine affection. In the final words of his address, he reminded the students of the founding reason for their assembly that night. "We were born with freedom to pursue an education and a worthwhile occupation. With your high school graduation, you now have the power to choose what will make of your lives. I urge you to choose well. Choose well." In memory of Mr. K and in recognition of the Westport Business Technology Communications

"What a great opportunity we have."

Magnet High School Class of 1994 and all of "Kauffman's Kids." We extol the continued efforts of Project Choice students to make those choice that engender pride in themselves for love of Mr. K.

What did they think?

Javier Vargas
"I plan to attend Columbia College."

Yolanda Guillen
"I'm very thankful to be in Project Choice because now I have the chance to get a college education."

Leroy Cox
"With this opportunity I plan to attend Rolla College."

Aracely Gallegos
"Project Choice is the opportunity of lifetime."

Marky,
Emotions we felt feelings we revealed differences we talked out Love never forgotten memories always remembered.
Recalling these things, always brings a smile on my face.
Kind and considerate you always were, caring for others, You never said "No." Honey bunny never shall you be forgotten or dismissed from our minds.
With Love, Your Bunny
