Cutlines: (1) Show storms affected school life every little. (2) Shot of the snow storm that caused the school to close. (3) Mr. Weymuth's annual Christmas tree, has become a tradition among his students. (4) Schools out, but not because of snow on the ground, snow days were made little use of this term. (5) Queen Elaine Williams dances with escort Warren Smith, at Odyssey II.

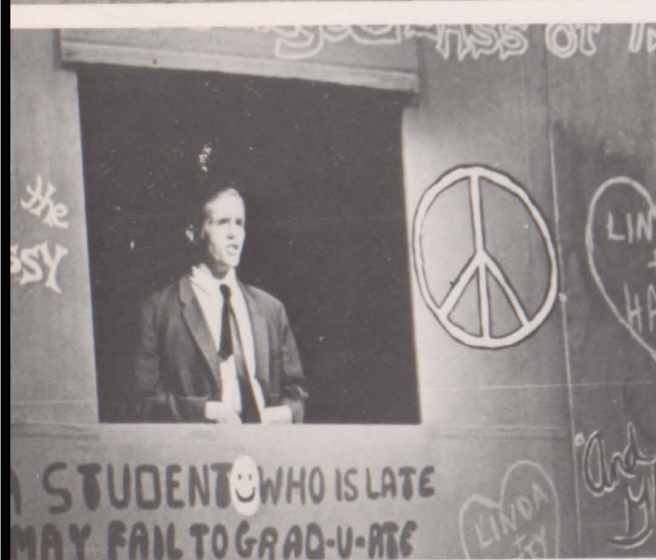

Theresa Johannes became Winnetonka's first Homecoming Queen. Karen Barnes returning Housewarming Queen crowned Theresa during the half-time ceremonies of the 29-28 Griffin victory over North Kansas City. The theme for the first Homecoming was "The Long and Winding Road." Barb Stanley was chosen to serve as Princess. After the game the Queen and her subjects were entertained by Morningstar.

"Up the Down Staircase," the Fall Play, was the first production sponsored by the Drama department. Sixty-five people applied for parts. Out of these sixty-five, 28 were chosen for the parts.

(Clockwise from upper left) Sylvia Barrett (Jane Moore) attends to students' grades. Student director Diane Taylor directs Bob Drew, who portrays Paul Barringer. Spotlight shines upon Alice Blake (Joy Cooley.) Typical scene of modern day classroom. Last minute preparations are made on make-up by Joy Colley and Jane Moore. Dispute between teacher-student takes place between Jane Moore and David Matthys. J. J. McCabe (Mark Ballard) dictates to the student body.

The Vocal music department, under the direction of Mr. Richard Weymuth, consisted of six choirs—A capella, Mixes Choir, Girl's Red and Girl's Gold, Men's Choir and Pop Choir. Each of the groups displayed their talents before various civic organizations, grade schools and in school assemblies.

The vocalists entered in district and state contest won first place for Winnetonka.

(1) Men's Choir. (2) Girl's Choir Gold. (3) Girl's Choir Red.

Elaine Williams, left, was crowned 1973 Odyssey Queen by Karen Kirgis in a setting of Ancient Greece. Held November 17 in the girl's gym, those attending were entertained by "Together". Intensive campaigning highlighted the preceding week, with the candidates being presented in an assembly Friday.

"Music Man" Is WHS All-School Musical

(Clockwise from upper left) Students pause for a few minutes of quiet during "Marion the Librarian" scene. Solemn faces appear during "Iowa Stubborn" led by Eulalie Mackechnie Shinn. Professor Hill tries to persuade Marion to become interested in him. Professor Hill attempts to woo Marion in "Marion the Librarian" scene. Young people are not the only ones to enjoy current dance steps. Mr. Richard Weymuth, musical director, finds a time to relax during final stages of the musical. "Pick a Little" depicts the scene where Marion is uncovered to Professor Hill.

(Clockwise from upper left) Town youngsters show the latest dance steps at ice cream social. Tom Hook and Bob Drew practice song "Wiser But Sadder Girl For Me". Wintrop shows his coronet to older sister Marion, while the mayor and his wife look on. Pit Orchestra practices for opening of "Music Man". Board Members and one time enemies practice their newly founded singing voices together.

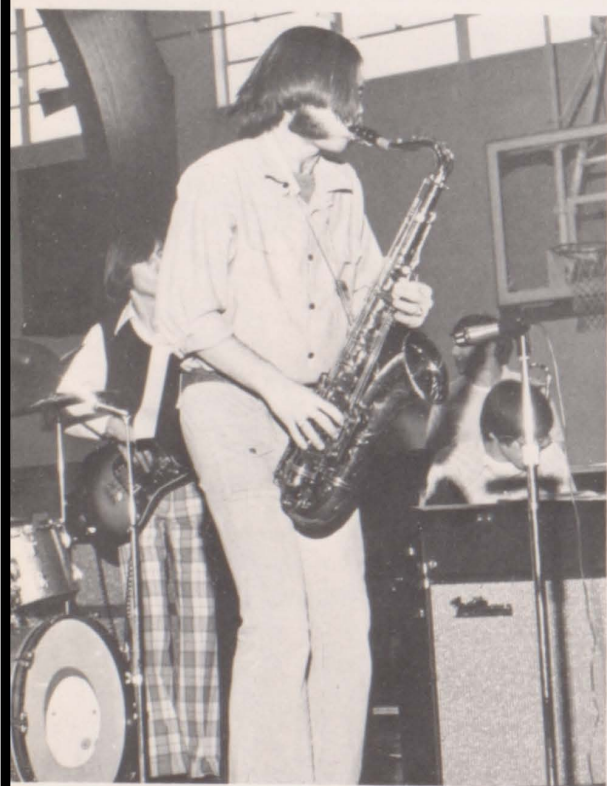

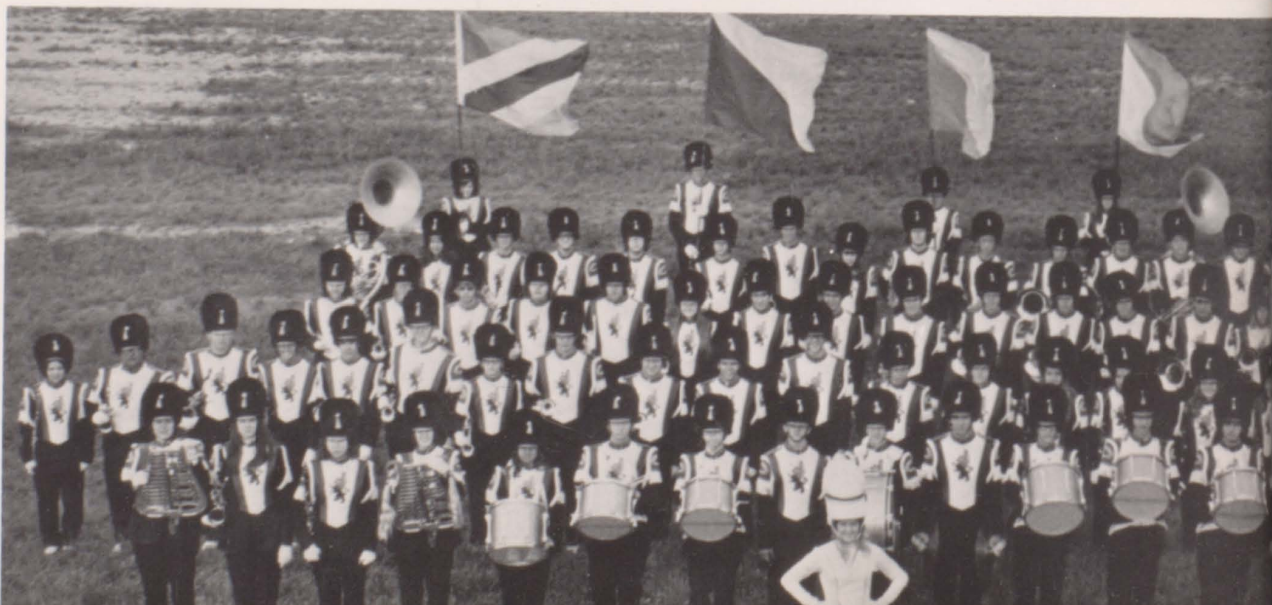

Stage Band engaged in many Jazz festivals around the state, starting with Lebanon on February 17. At Drury College in Springfield the jazzmen took first place in the Combo division.

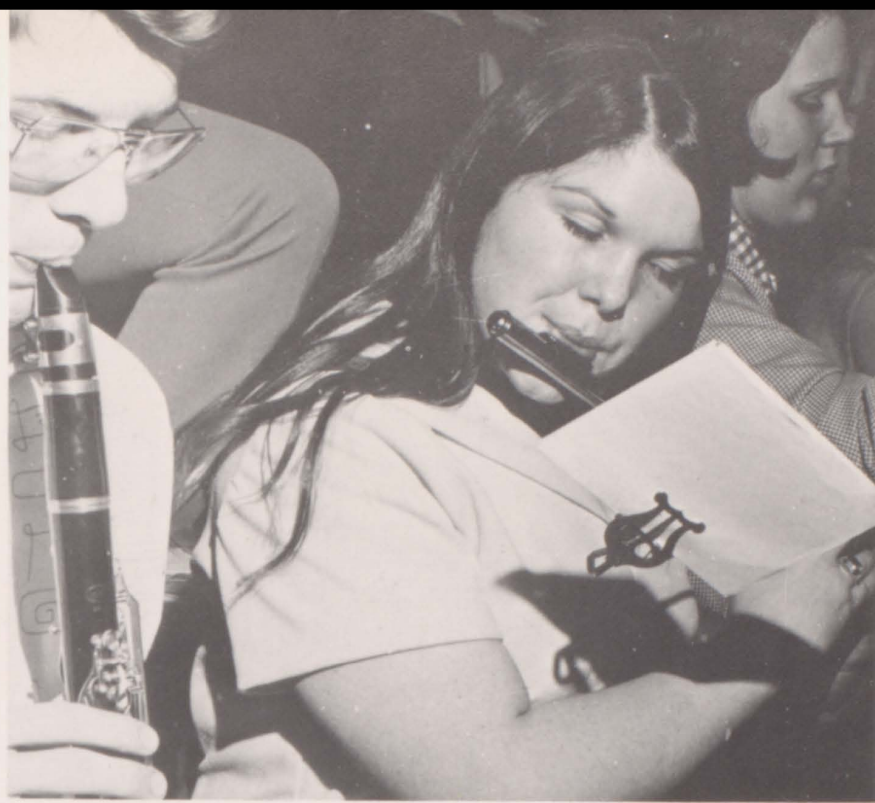

A "Chamber Music" concert in December was the Orchestra's first public performance. The concert included a brass ensemble, piano solo by Barb Bond, a Marimba solo by Jill Gruenkemeyer, and Mark Wilcox was featured on trumpet solo in "Trumpester's Lullabye." Not long afterward, the Orchestra began work on "Musical Man."

Sweetheart King

In a setting of soft lighting and pastel colors, King Danny Day was crowned Sweetheart King by his successor Derk Ralls. Escorting King Danny was Theresa Johannes.

The theme for the dance was "Love is . . ." Music was provided by Stonehenge.

Academics

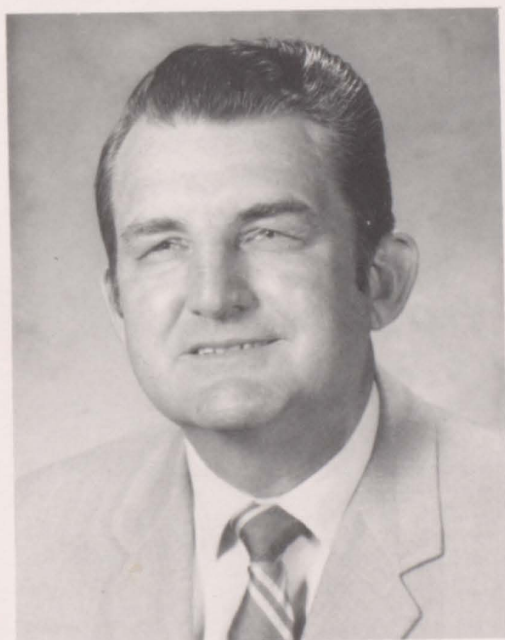

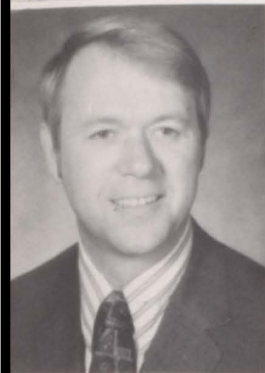

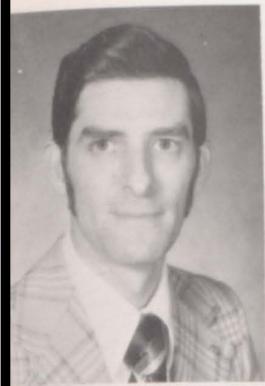

The office is the heart of Winnetonka, the place where it all happens. Between attendance, bookkeeping, and all the other administrative duties, there is always some activity in the office.

Center pictures, top row, Dr. Keith Sovereign, principal of Winnetonka High School, and Mr. Robert Litle, assistant principal. Second row, Mr. Richard Eitel, assistant principal, and Mr. Larry Markt, assistant principal. Third row, Mrs. Ann Hayes, secretary, and Mrs. Lucille Henson, secretary. Fourth row, Mrs. Marjorie Pearson, school nurse, and Mrs. Gladys Rasmussen, secretary.

The exterior pictures, clockwise from the left, Dr. Sovereign answers a call on the intercom. Mr. Eitel and Mr. Litle double up on office space as more problems confront them. Mrs. Hayes checks up on some of the school's financial matters. Mrs. Helen Pearson does secretarial duties in the office. Mr. Eitel and Mr. Markt are having a good time at Big "W's" open house. Dr. R. B. Doolin is superintendent of the North Kansas City School District.

Although school may seem to be a full-time occupation to many students, anyone who stops to really consider it knows that it is only a preparation for the "outside world".

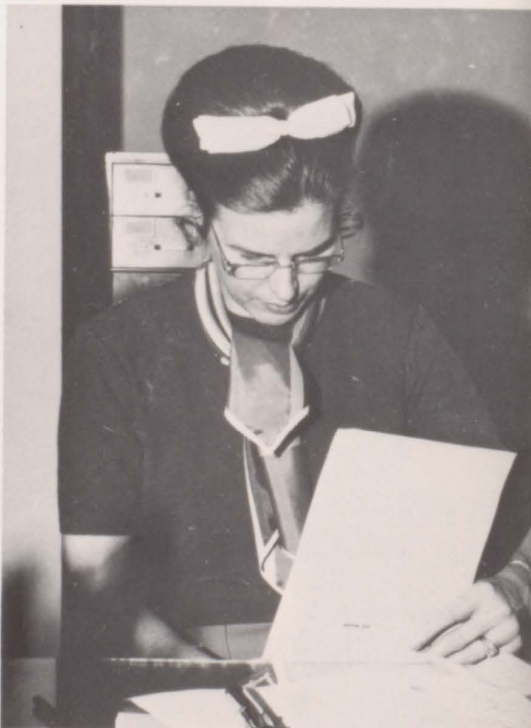

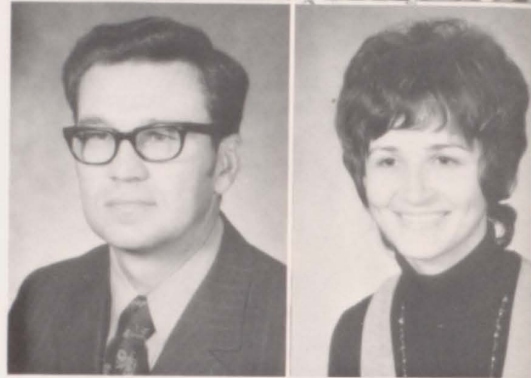

This is the area that the counseling office is virtually concerned with. Of course, the counselors are concerned with scheduling and all the other bureaucratic hassles of today's educational process, but the forwarding of transcripts and other career planning services make up a major portion of the counselors' duties.

The counselors are the people with all the answers. If you want to know about colleges, vocational schools, summer jobs, or the draft, the counselors are the people to talk to.

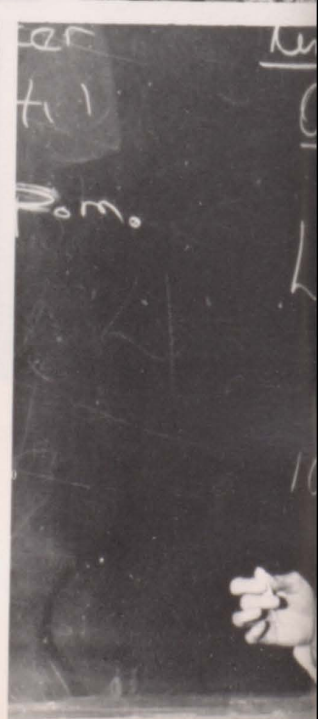

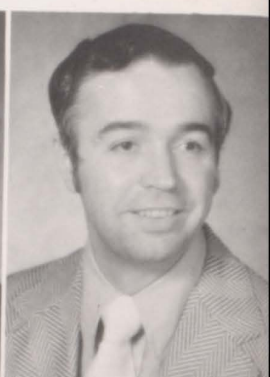

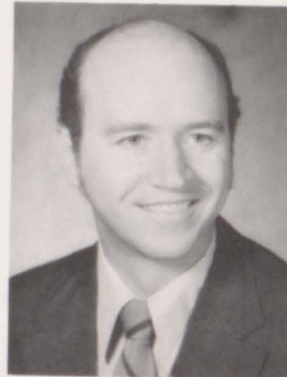

The counselors are always glad to see students, when they have the time. Appointments are almost a necessity.

The exterior pictures, clockwise from the left, are: Miss Nancy Files caught in the act of "stealing secret documents". Mr. Rolan Gorham talks on the phone more than he talks to people in person. Mr. Glen Eden and Mrs. Betty Sulzen appear to be busy as a photographer catches them with his camera. The student body, the clientele of the counselors', mixes on the west staircase. Mrs. Mary Kay Duckworth, the heart and soul of the counselors office, keeps working.

To the many students who do not plan to attend college, the business department represents a chance to learn a readily needed skill for future employment.

Everything from typing to bookkeeping to shorthand to business law is offered by the faculty of the business department.

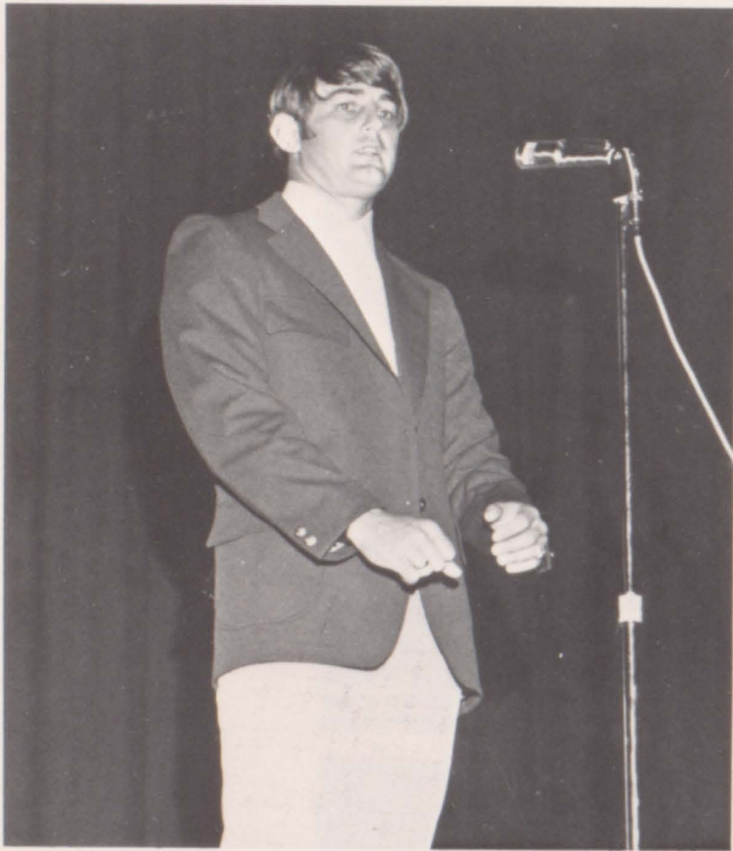

Off in a wing of its own, this department is often forgotten in the hustle and bustle of everyday life, but many students would be lost without it.

Outside pictures, clockwise from upper left: Business Education student learns to use adding machine. Mr. Downey explains accounting problems to Karen McCreary. Mrs. Schultz checks typing papers. Mr. Craft answers questions in class. Mrs. Sullivan jots notes on the board for class. Mrs. Raetz looks over student's work.

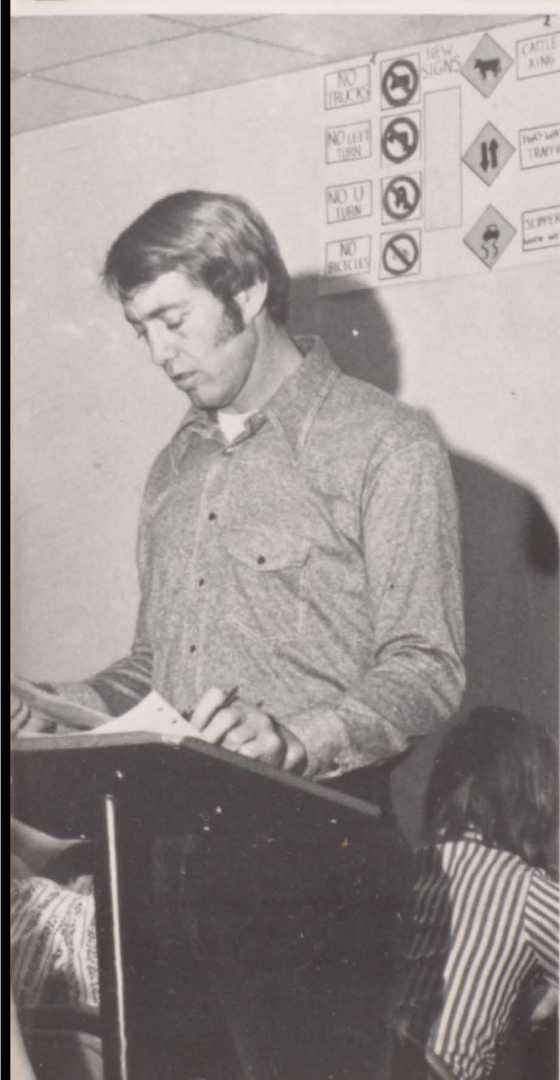

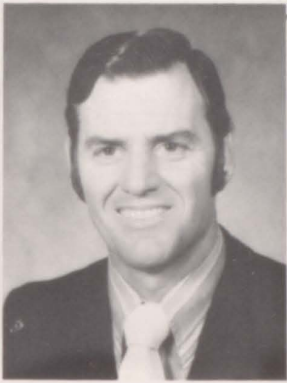

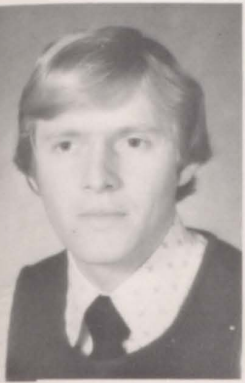

The "tin Lizzie" has come a long way since its conception and so has the skill of driving. No longer does a person learn to drive by "experience", just getting in and taking off. Drivers' Education is a class that helps students learn to drive, get reductions on their car insurance, and survive better in the rat-race of modern driving. It's an important class if you want to drive and survive.

The English department affects a great number of persons, both within and beyond Winnetonka. At any one time, approximately 75% of the students are enrolled in English courses.

The Griffin Rites, Big "W's" own newspaper has a readership that goes far beyond the student body and the faculty.

The fall and spring plays that are produced by the drama "department" brought many persons into Winnetonka.

And the speech and debate "faction" did much to further the Griffins reputation for fine performances in interscholastic competition. All these things brought attention to the fact that there is more to schooling, especially at Winnetonka, than the three R's.

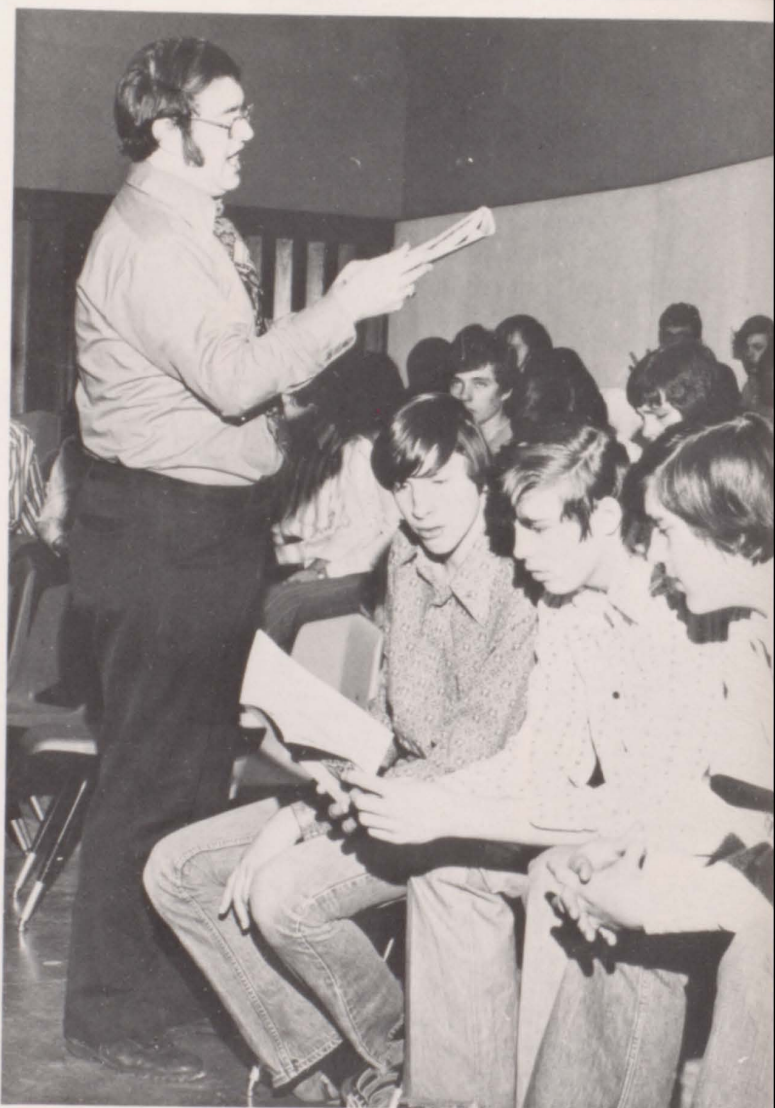

Pictured in the center section of these pages are the various members of the faculty that comprise Winnetonka's English department. They are, from left to right, first row, Miss Ellen Jane Beery, Mrs. Marjorie Douthit, Mrs. Cynthia Fisher, and Miss Nancy Garrison. Second row, Mrs. Aylene Keown, Mrs. Sandra Layton, Mrs. Rose Ann Lee, and Miss Ruie Pritchard. Third row, Mrs. Candice Scott, Mrs. Therese Searle, and Mr. Michael Trent. Fourth row, Mr. Jerry Weis, Mrs. Martha Wild, special education instructor, and Mrs. Regina Zahl.

The exterior pictures are some "action shots" of the English department and are identified clockwise from the left.

Winnetonka has an active and productive fine arts department. In addition to the fare offered within the classroom, Big "W" offers many opportunities to the student to follow up on their class work with extra-curricular activities.

Between Winnetonka's now famous musicals, the instrumental variety shows, art fairs and Christmas caroling, not to mention the various concerts, contests, and clubs open to the students, there is hardly a person who could not find something attractive in this diversified department.

The smaller photographs in the center of these pages are the members of Winnetonka's fine arts department faculty. This is sort of a catch-all department that is made up of primarily elective courses. In fact, most of the teachers in this department view their courses as just that, an elective course that will enable the students to further their talents. These teachers are, from left to right, first row, Mrs. Vickie Barman, French instructor, Mr. Allen Entine, photography teacher, Miss Davonda Hill, art teacher, Mrs. Diane Hitt, art instructor, Mrs. Donna Johnson, Spanish instructor, and Mrs. Carolyn Johnston, German teacher. Second row, Mr. Steve Lenhart, instrumental music teacher, Mr. Tom Schiller, head art instructor, and Mr. Rick Weymuth, vocal music teacher.

The exterior pictures, some candid shots of everyday activity in the fine arts department, are identified clockwise from the upper left. Mrs. Jackie Jones, instructional assistant for the music department, belts out a tune on the piano. Mr. Tom Schiller observes the creative process in action. Miss Davonda Hill carries on a dialogue with some art students. Mr. Richard Weymuth directs his men's choir in a burst of boisterous song. Mr. Steve Lenhart accompanies one of his students.

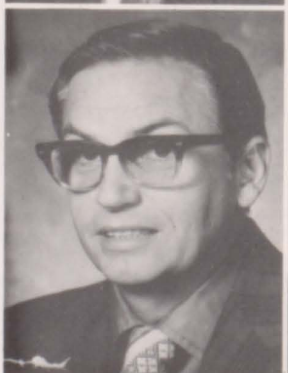

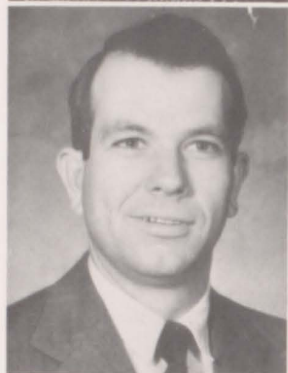

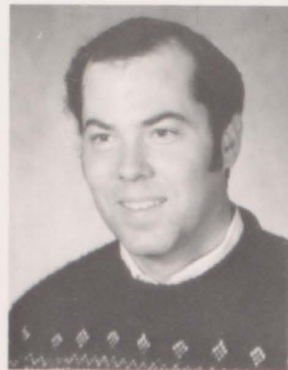

George Delaware crossed the Washington River! Mr. Bakker said so.

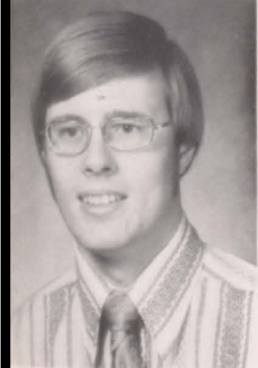

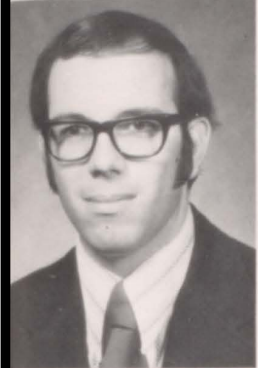

So goes the Winnetonka Social sciences department. Seriously, though, the social sciences department has a major impact upon the student body at Big "W".

There are a great majority of students enrolled in social sciences department. True, a lot of the courses are required, but still many students are studying them.

Perhaps there is safety in numbers.

To the girls who "plan" to get married, home economics represents a chance to learn a "marketable" skill. To the guys who "plan" to not get married (at least for a while) the area of food and cooking becomes a survival course.

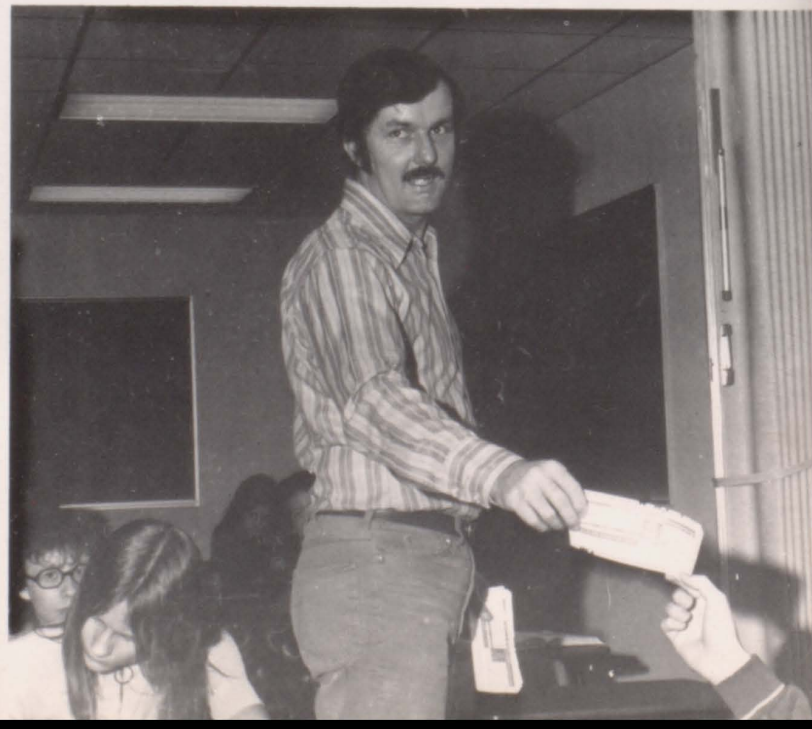

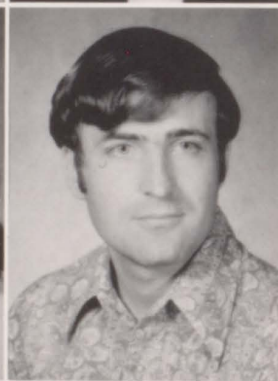

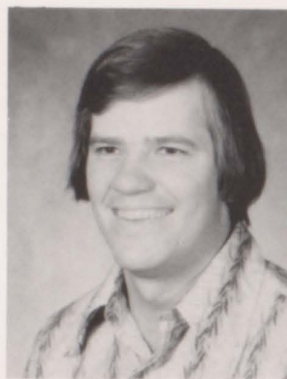

Common sense will not fill your stomach, clean your house, or fix your clothes, but a home economics course will help. The bachelor living course is one of the truly "relevant" courses offered at Big "W".

Mathematics at Winnetonka took a modernistic twist this past year. The math department had the opportunity to "test drive" some digital computers.

The math department escaped the image of the dull classroom with such things as field trips to lectures on the UMKC campus. Like the rest of Big "W", the math department offers students rare opportunities to expand and enhance their understanding of the subject.

A sound mind is not much without a healthy body to support it. The teachers in the physical education department made it their business to insure that every student enrolled in their courses met the criteria of having a healthy body.

But that is not to say that Physical Education classes are all calisthenics. Classes such as recreational P.E. and co-ed dance proved that taking care of oneself can be fun and educational.

The students were offered a variety of opportunities to participate in many different sports both indoors and out. The physical education department added another side to the diverse "personality" of Winnetonka.

Pictured in the center section are the instructors of the physical education department. From left to right, they are, first row, Mrs. Barbara Brantner, Mrs. Janet Bicknell, and Miss Nancy Bock. Second row, Mr. Ben Cain, Mr. Jim Shepherd, and Mr. Dan Stanley. The exterior pictures are identified, in order, clockwise from the left. Mr. Dan Stanley addresses the prospective football players before the start of practices. Don't worry, folks, the girls are only practicing gymnastics, it's not a lynch mob. Miss Nancy Bock steadies a student on the parallel bars. Mrs. Barbara Brantner demonstrates proper badminton technique.

The science department is more than a place to kill frogs and discuss the sex- life of worms. It's a chance to become a world famous biologist, build an atomic bomb, or graduate with the mandatory science credit.

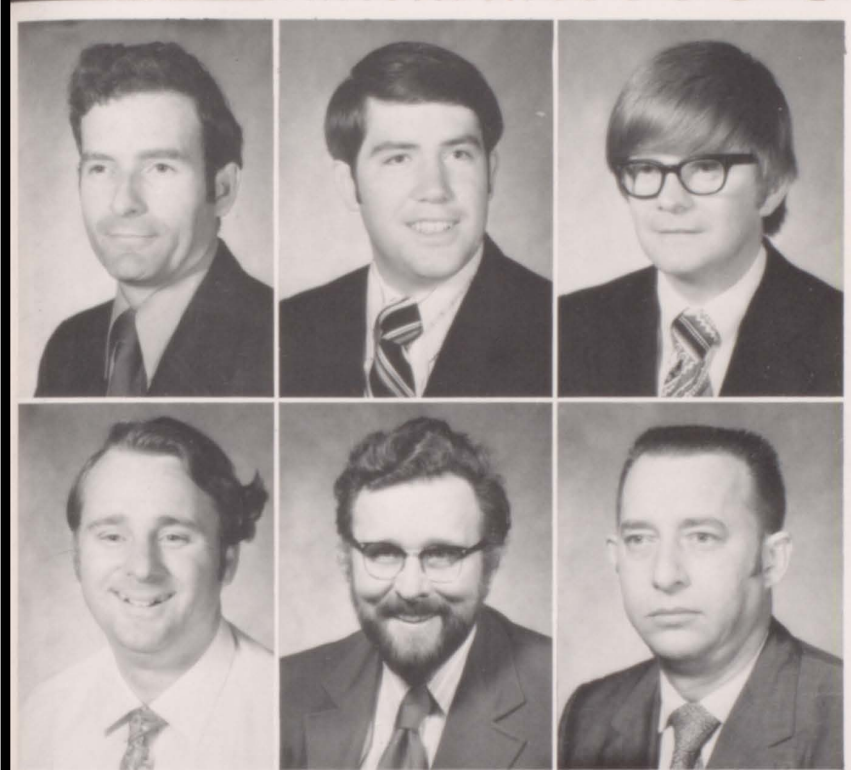

Biology students learn what their diet really consists of and what it will do to them if they eat only "junk". Perhaps a diet of soy beans would be better, or whatever the teacher recommends. Chemistry students learn that there is more to Alka-Seltzer than fizz. Physics students learn that, via the 47th law of motion, if they fall asleep, their falling motion will continue on into the grade-book.

Science is the mainstay of progress and the science department is the mainstay of many of Big "W's" college bound students.

Outside Pictures, clockwise starting from Top left, Loren Jeffers points out a reading assignment to two Chemistry students. Mr. Larry Cornine admires student's work in Biology I. Biology students may be turning to live specimens next year. Mr. Steinmeyer seems puzzled as he reads a student's Biology report.

The library staff knows more vocabulary than, "Shhhh!" That is a fact. Seriously, though, the librarians at Winnetonka seem to fight an uphill battle to run Big "W's" library. Between book thefts and cries of, "Censorship!", the frustrations mount. If it were not for the library staff, though, where would people go to pass the time and their classes?

Perhaps they would go to the cafeteria. Winnetonka saw the installing of a student advisory council on cafeteria menus this past year. Now the students do have a say in what will and will not be offered as the fare of the day. If they do not like the food, the students can't complain.

Cross Country

The Winnetonka cross country squad got off to a slow start in the 1973 season. The Griffins dropped their first meet with Raytown South and William Chrisman finishing third in a field of three. Having discovered what it was like to lose the harriers bounced back with two clear victories. Then came a series of good performances: seventh in a field of fifteen at the Raytown South Invitational; first over Belton, Center and Raytown; second at the Northland Invitational; and sixth at the Ruskin Invitational.

Big "W" finished third in conference behind Raytown South and Oak Park. Then, at the district meet, the Griffins finished only fourth, behind Fort Osage, Oak Park, and William Chrisman. Here the road ended for Winnetonka as a team. Only senior Rick Balagna qualified for the regional meet, where he continued on to state. Balagna also set a new school record of 10:01.

(Clockwise from top) Kent Ballanger's face illustrates the determination necessary in cross-country. The race is on as the Winnetonka Griffins surge forwards towards victory. Coach Pete Hager, like a general addressing his troops, speaks of and to his squad at the fall banquet. One checkpoint closer to the end, Rick Balagna "keeps on truckin' ". The anticipation mounts as the runners from Big "W" prepare for another race. The agony of defeat is mirrored by Rick Balagna's prone figure. The flying feet of a cross-country runner propel Mike Phillips to the finish line. Mike Phillips leads the way as Winnetonka follows Winnetonka.

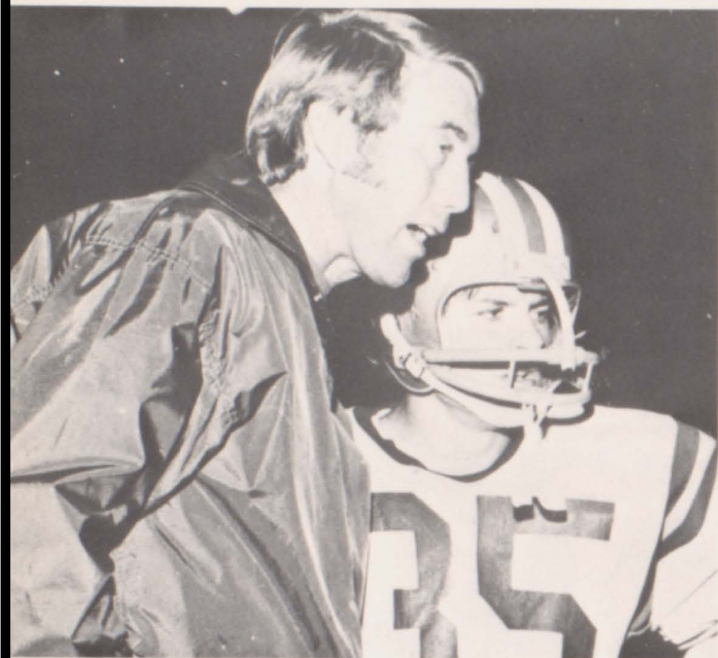

Winnetonka entered the 1973 football season as a team that had come upon its time. No longer could accusations be thrown as to the "stealing" of players from other schools. These were the original Griffins, and they were out to make a name for themselves.

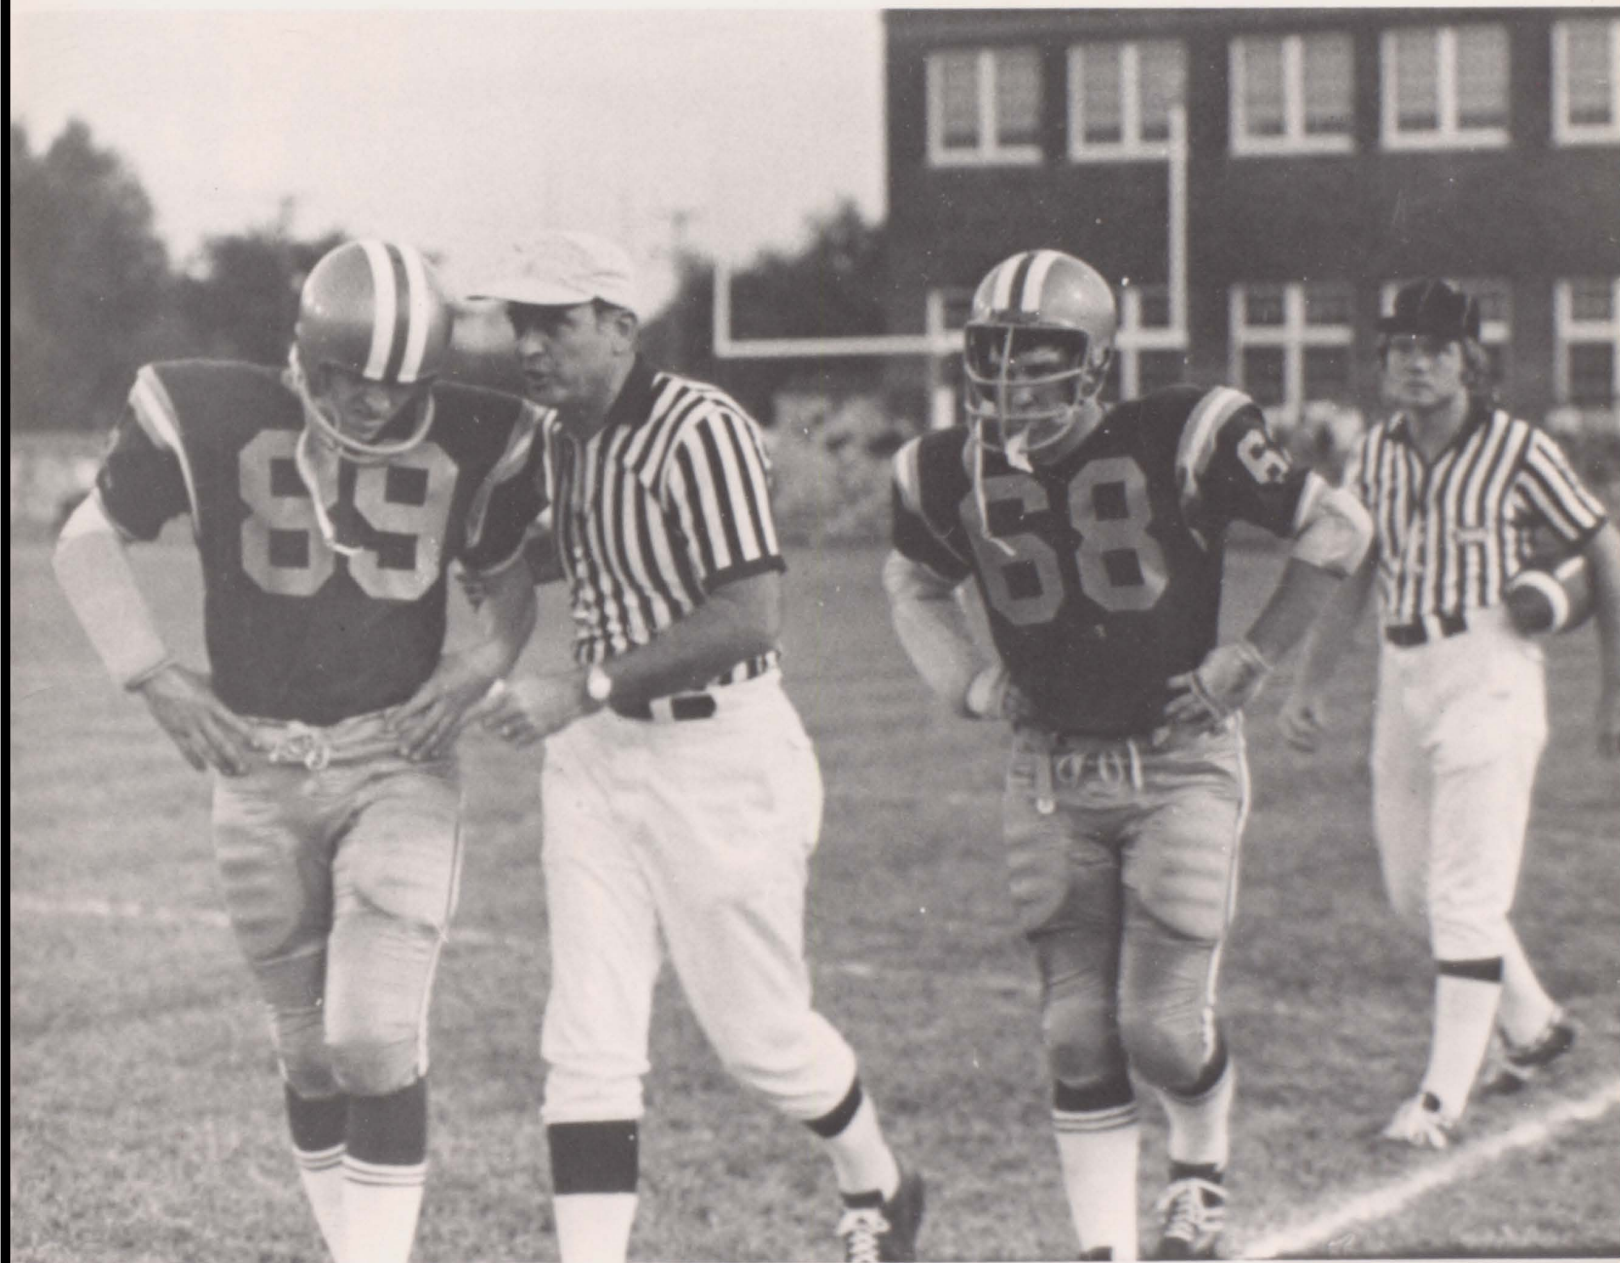

The stage was set. Big "W's" squad had been practicing since early August and a pleasant picture had begun to develop. Winnetonka had a squad with an enormous amount of experience. Did the Griffins have depth, though? Well, if still waters run deep, the Griffins' steam was absolutely motionless.

And so it was with eager anticipation that the Winnetonka football squad sallied forth against their first foe, the Park Hill Trojans.

(Clockwise from right) Eldon Gorbet consults with a referee as he and Greg Hastings walk into the field of battle. Steve King watches the action intently as the Griffins fight another gridiron battle. Spirit and support are always important in any sport. The Winnetonka marching provided a lot of both at all home games. Coach Charles Booth discusses the position and possible strategy with Warren Smith.

Winnetonka's Varsity Gridiron Warriors Open Season Successfully Against Park Hill

"Winnebago" Shuts Out Park Hill 19-0

If you make a good impression or get off to a good start, it's that much easier to do well the next time. Winnetonka opened the 1973 football season on a good note, the sweet sound of the victory trumpet. Winnetonka, or "Winnebago" as the announcer would have had it, defeated the Park Hill Trojans by a score of 19 to 0.

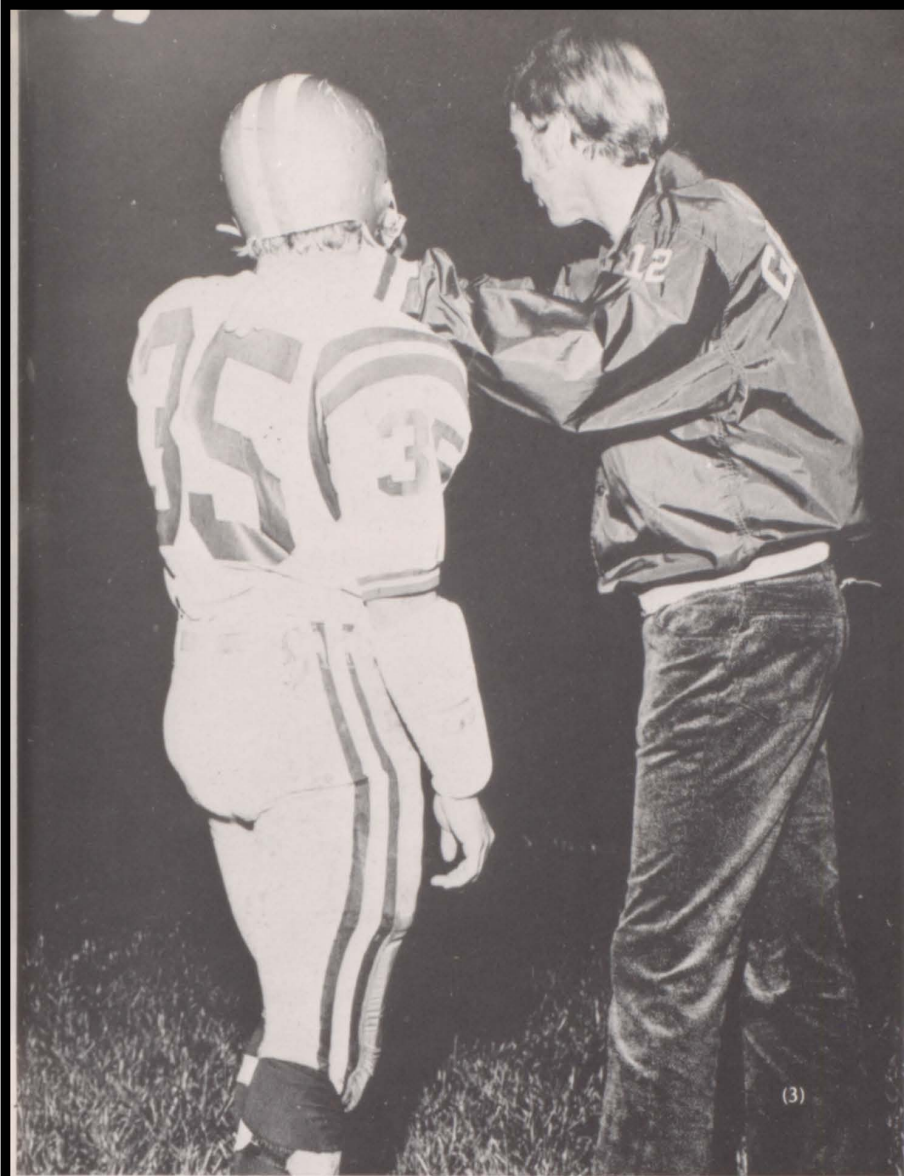

The score said three things about Big "W's" squad. First, it showed everyone that the Griffin defense was something to be reckoned with. Park Hill went on to take first in their conference, yet Winnetonka held them scoreless. The nineteen points "pointed" out that the Griffins were also capable of putting points on the board.

Clockwise from upper left: (1) The Griffin offensive squad prepares another attack on the Park Hill Trojans. (2) In what was to become a familiar sight to WHS fans, Steve Reusch outdistances his opponent. (3) Coach Charles Booth discusses weaknesses in an opponents defense with Mark Peters. (4) Many foes found that it was easier to force Winnetonka's running backs out of bounds than it was to stop them. (5) Following the interference, Gary Patton, Big "W's" quarterback, sprints for the open field.

(5)

Winnetonka's 19-0 victory over Park Hill was an excellent showing of "Griffin power" but that game was only the beginning for Big "W". Against Raytown, the Griffins held their opponents to only seven points and scored more points than against Park Hill, i.e. 29 of them. 29-7! Where, if anywhere, was there a team that could stop the constantly improving Griffins?

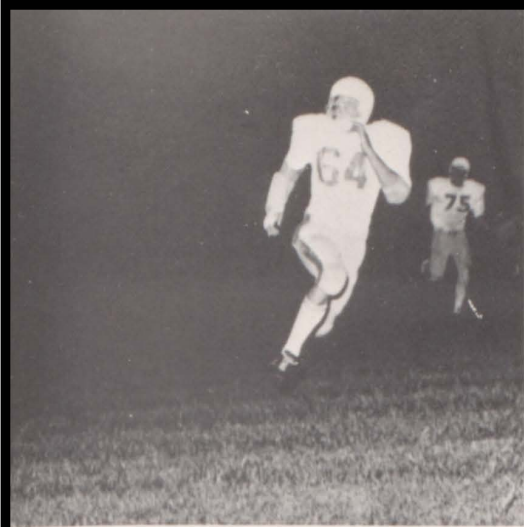

The team was certainly not the Ruskin Eagles, the Griffins next victim. The Winnetonka Machine crushed Ruskin by a score of 50-14. And seven of Ruskin's points were on a recovered fumble, a fluke, certainly not earned.

Only one of the Griffins' touchdowns was via the air, testifying to Big "W's" running game.

Some persons would not predict anything this early in the season, but those people were not the sports writers of the Kansas City Star. According to the Star, Winnetonka was rated third in the state, and after only three games!

Clockwise from upper left (1) An action shot of one of the unsung yet vital elements in a football game, the officiating crew. (2) It's hard to find daylight in a night game, but Steve King makes it look so easy. (3) Winnetonka fans saw many fine things in the Ruskin game, but the scoreboard wraps them all up in a single statement: Winnetonka 50, Ruskin 14. (4) Big "W's" running game looked that much more impressive when the Griffins' defense put such flawless stops to the opponents on the run. (5) Calling the signals on the home turf, Gary Patton stands well protected behind his strong, mud-splattered front line.

The Truman Patriots ventured into NKC Stadium to face the Griffins in much the same way the early Christians faced the lions. In football, though, there are no martyrs, only losers. Truman lost 25-8.

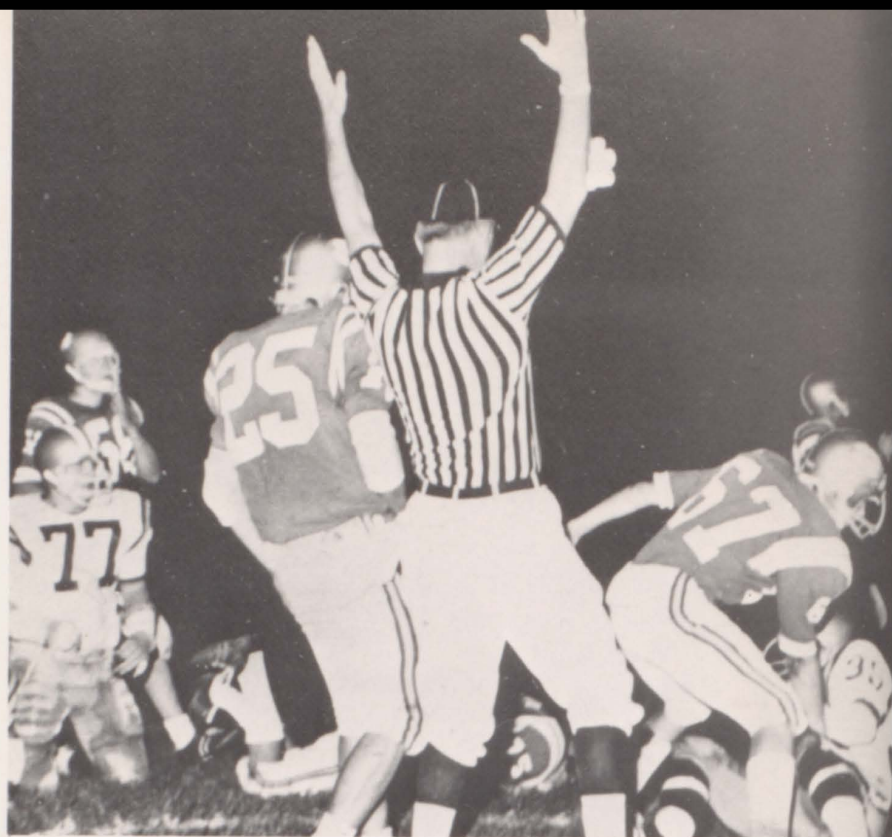

"The bigger they are, the harder they fall," says the old adage. The Griffins went into the Oak Park game with this in mind. Oak Park was the only team standing in the way of the Suburban Nine title for the Griffins and, as popular opinion held it, also the only obstacle to the state championship. Oak Park was the team to beat.

Unfortunately Winnetonka did not prove to be the team to beat Oak Park. In a game scarred by fumbles, the Griffins lost 33-7. That the game that was.

(Clockwise from upper left) If you cannot go through them, go over them. And Steve Reusch does just that. Dirty but satisfied, Mark Peters watches his teammates "do their thing". Coach Dan Stanley offers some words of wisdom to Gary Patton. When he's not going over his opponents, Steve Reusch goes around them. Bruce Whitmer shows that linemen can run too. Mark Peters runs out of room as an ominous "Oakie" closes in. Defensive lines such as these braced themselves all season long against the mighty Griffins.

Griffins End Season 9-1

After the loss to Oak Park, the Griffins bounced back well and defeated the remainder of their opponents. Although their 9-1 record could not top Oak Park's 10-0, the Griffins were still number one in the minds of many.

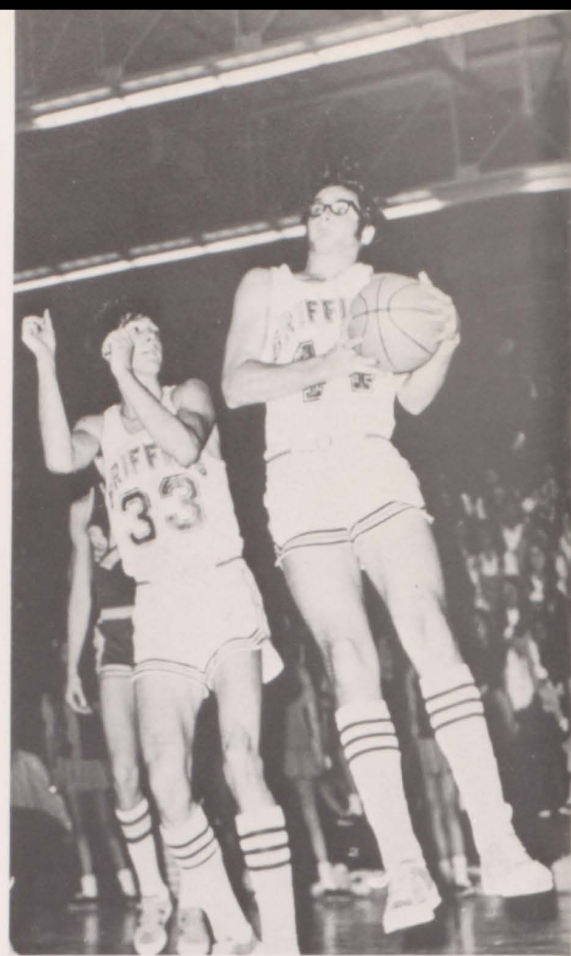

Winnetonka's performance during the latter part of the season, the "post Oak Park era", fulfilled the prophecy of a note posted on the bulletin board in the varsity locker room shortly after the Oak Park game. The note said, "Life has disappointments but the strong survive to become great—Griffins will be back."

And so it ended. The Griffins did come back . . . as greats.

(Clockwise from the upper left) The thrill and excitement of scoring a touchdown was always present for Winnetonka's players and fans. Mark Peters and Greg Hastings walk away from the last game of the season as the perfect personification of the emotions present at the end of the season. This is the side of football that the average fan seldom sees and what football is really all about. This is what locker rooms are for; the tumult, exhilaration, joy and relief that are present in the faces of Joe Summers and Greg Hastings.

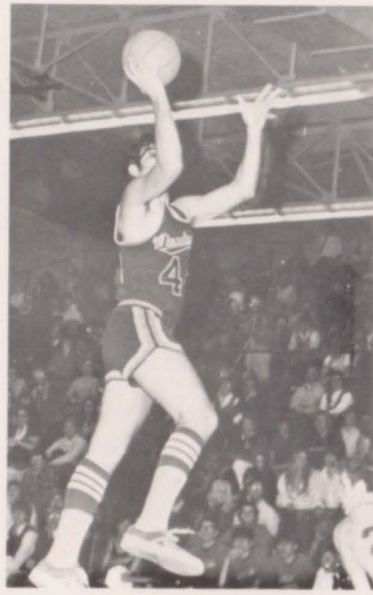

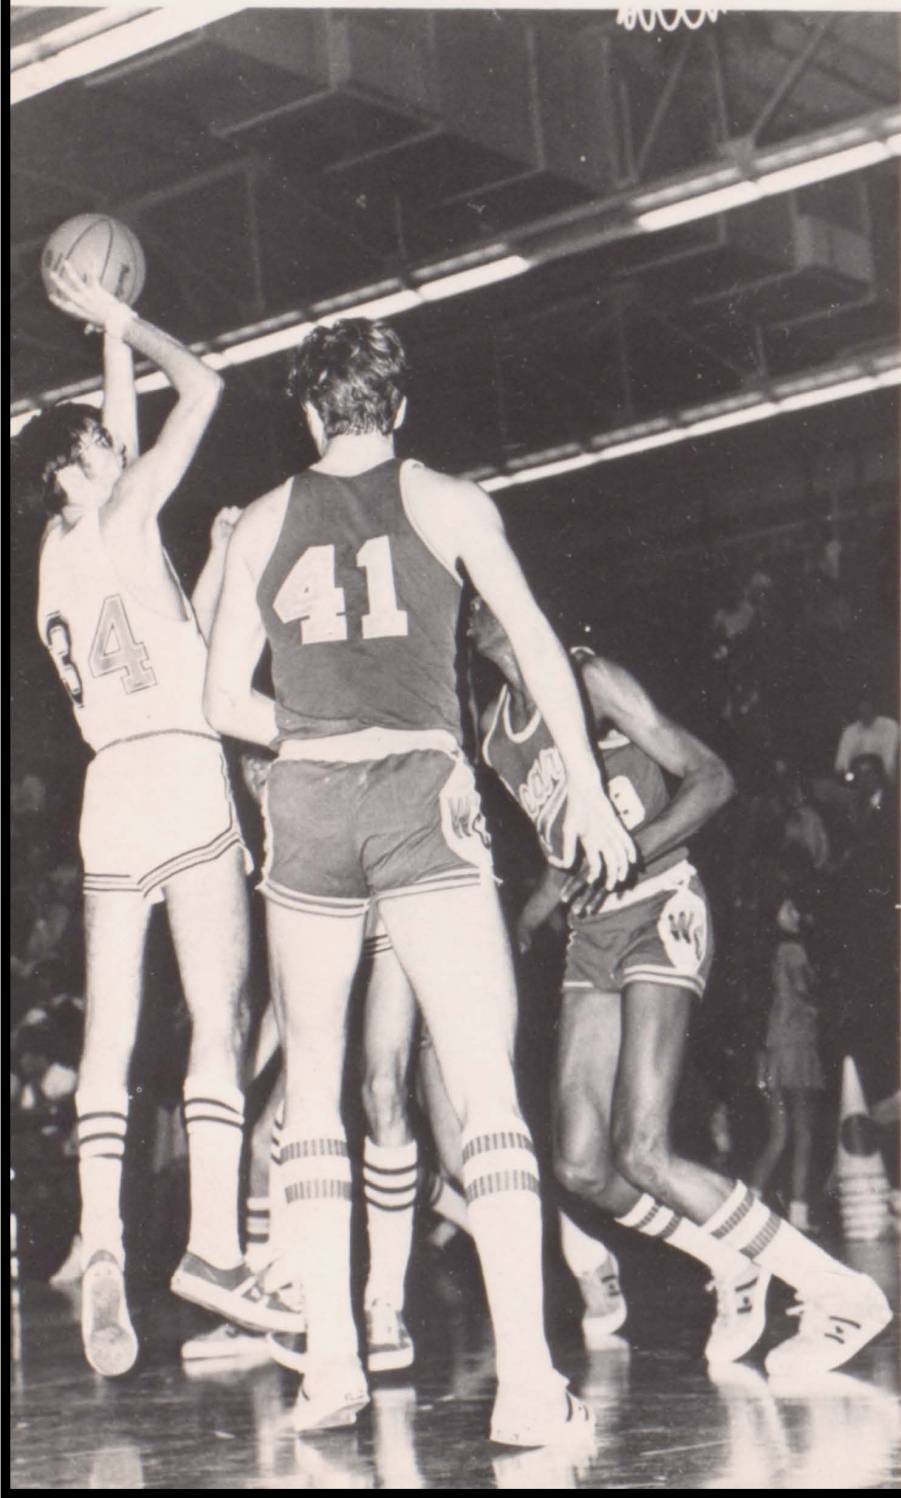

WHS Basketball 1973

Basketball is the only wide-spread sport that is truly American. It is also a game of giants. The Griffins fielded their own squad of "giants" this year, but failed to arouse more than passing interest. Winnetonka has not been known as a basketball playing school in the past but this last year brought about some promise for the future.

Big "W" had a somewhat mediocre season, winning only two games. But the fact that this represents a 100% improvement over last year and the fact that many of the losses were quite close shows that Winnetonka is working its way up.

(Clockwise from upper left) Larry Wessling goes into a tangle of limbs hoping to score. Gregg Drew gets out of Tom Parr's way as Tom grabs a rebound. All alone, Ed Jarman puts up a shot. Watching pensively as his squad practices is Coach Jim Shepherd. Bill Thompson is a study in form as he shoots for the basket. Gregg Drew leaps up through a crowd of bodies to aid the Griffins. Muscles strain as an opponent attempts to stop Tom Parr.

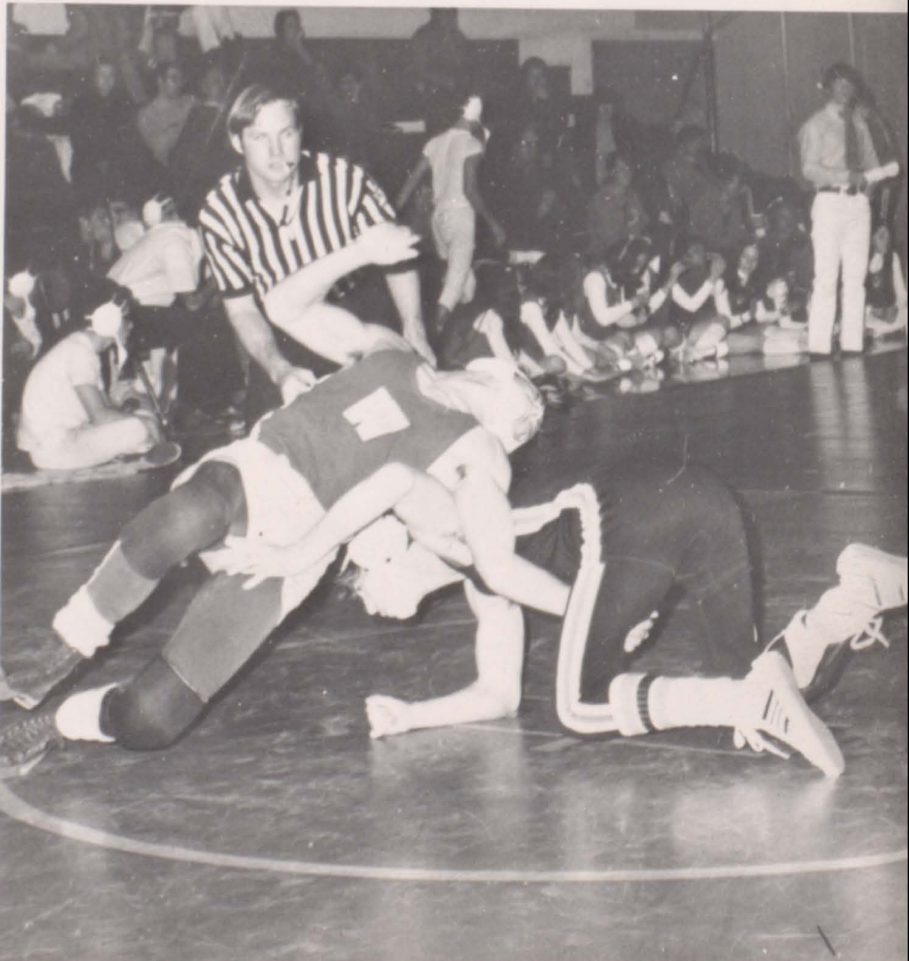

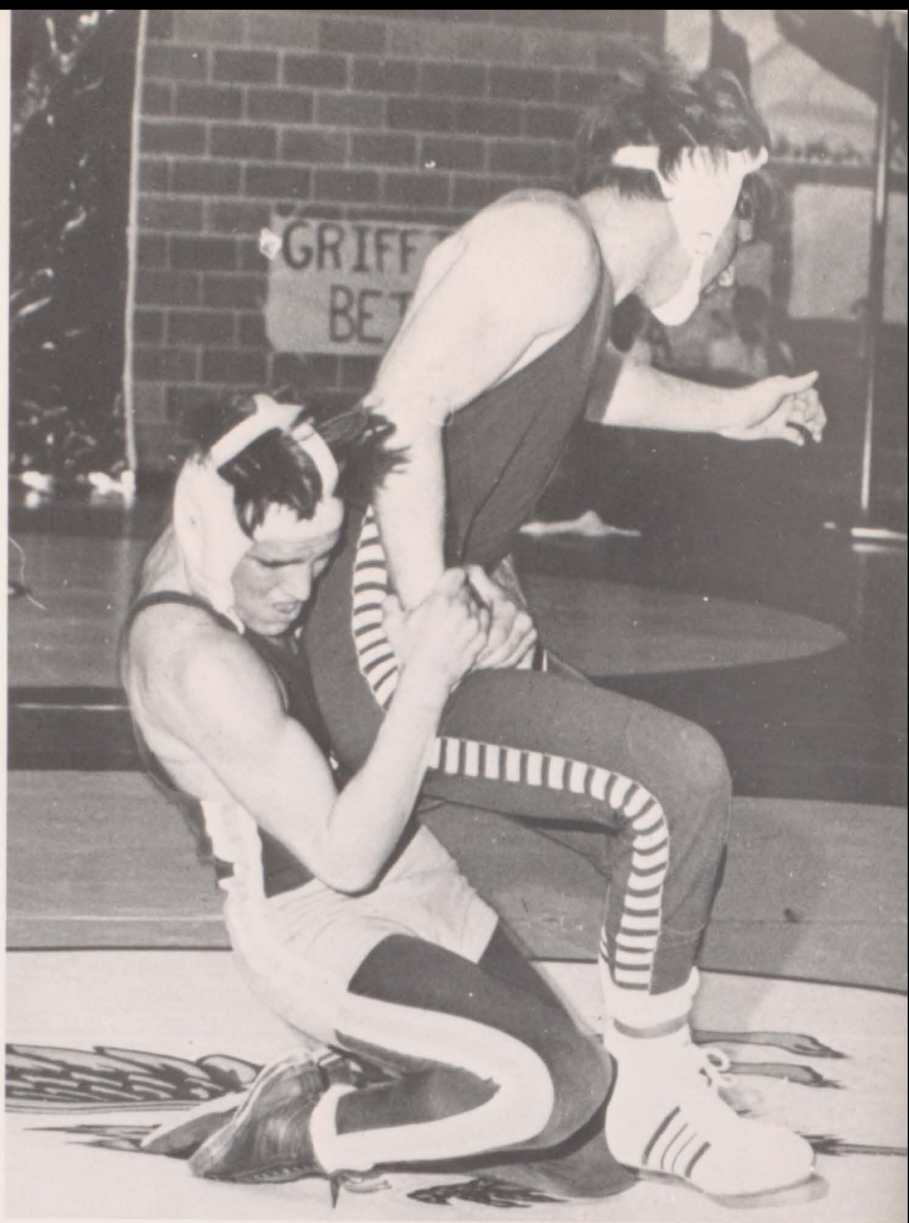

Winnetonka Takes Two

It takes determination to continue when all seems hopeless. The Griffin roundballers must have used three or four times their quota of "what it takes" this year, but they kept right on fighting.

Big "W" was 1-11 for the season when a second victory was recorded against Grandview. Two wins were all that Winnetonka collected this year but the Griffins collected much more. They collected experience. Next year's squad will have a great deal of varsity experience. This, coupled with the performance of this year's sophomore team promises even greater improvement by next year's squad.

(Clockwise from left) Larry Wessling jumps to shoot over the heads of his opponents, the Chrisman Bears. Up in the air it's a bird, it's a plane, it's Tom Parr. Charlie Kormanik stretches as he prepares to shoot. John Brown leaves the Park Hill squad flat-footed as he sails towards the net. Tom Parr shoots over the out-stretched arms of a Trojan defender. Neither Winnetonka nor Raytown South can seem to find the ball, but it's up there somewhere.

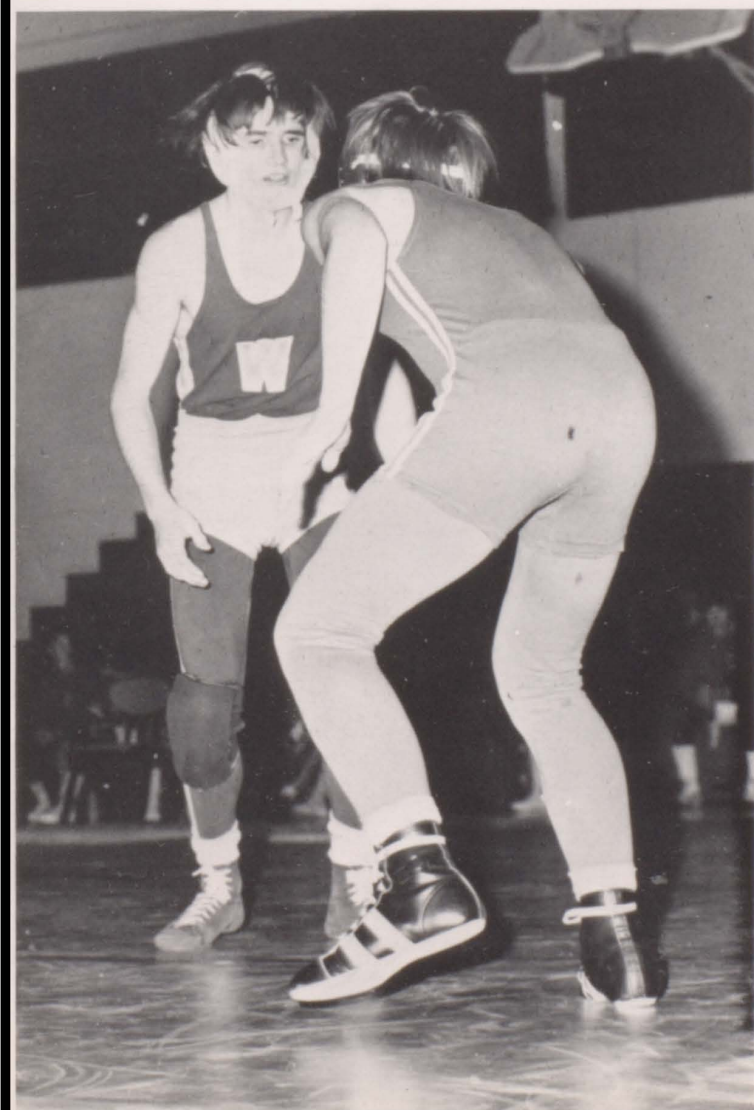

If any one sport has endeared itself to the hearts of Winnetonka's fans, that sport is wrestling. Wrestling is a rugged, individualistic sport, but it is also one in which Griffins have seemed to have a natural ability. 1973 will be remembered as a good year for wrestling at Winnetonka. Big "W" took the conference championship and sent three men to state. Yes, 1973 was a good year. But then, what year hasn't been a good wrestling year for Winnetonka? Big "W's" three year record for dual meets is 68-0. That's right, three undefeated years.

(Clockwise from the upper left) George Black's opponent, a Maryville "Spoohound", struggles vainly to escape from George's grip. A familiar sight to Griffin wrestling fans is big Bruce Whitmer on top of an unfortunate adversary. The referee awards three points to Chuck Calvert for his efforts as he pursues victory. Mike Bratcher and Jerry Cason take it easy as they warm up for the approaching contest. As his match begins, Don Karther eyes his opponent warily. Wrestling requires not only a great deal of strength and endurance but also a bit of agility, as shown by this photograph.

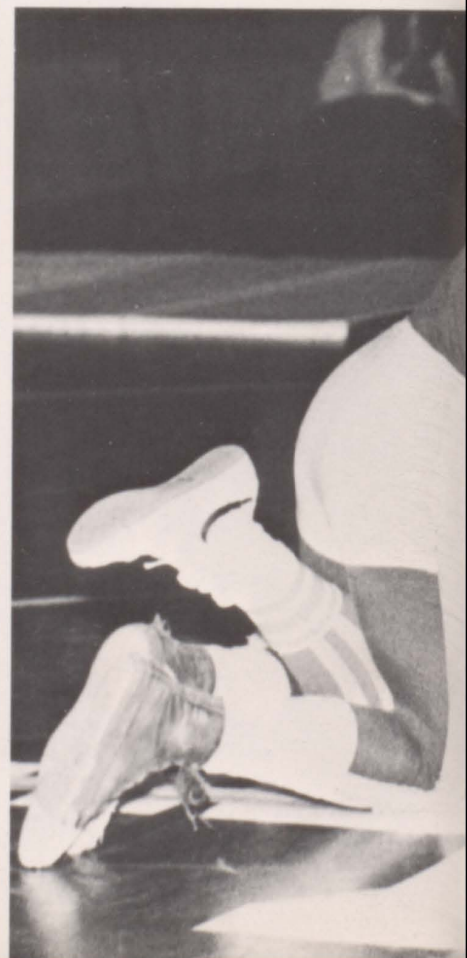

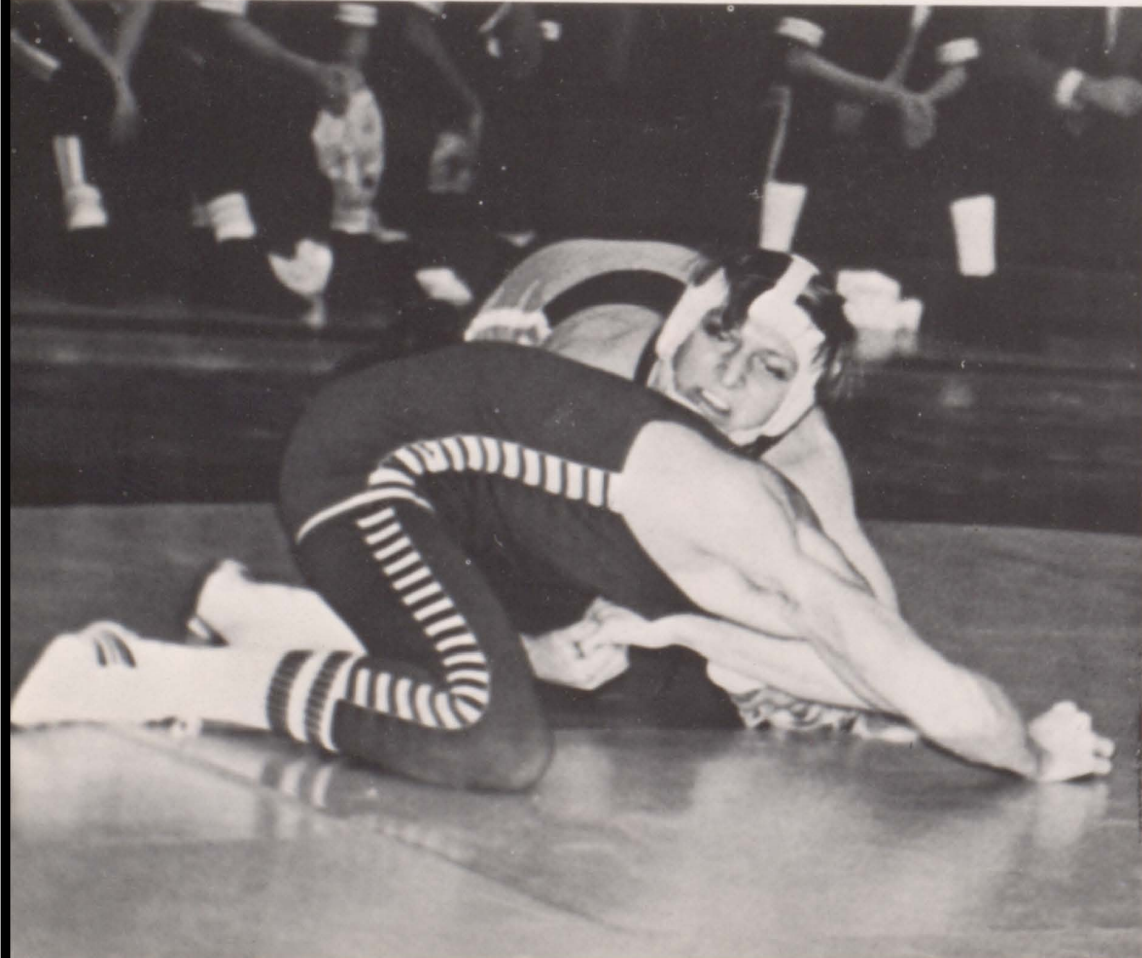

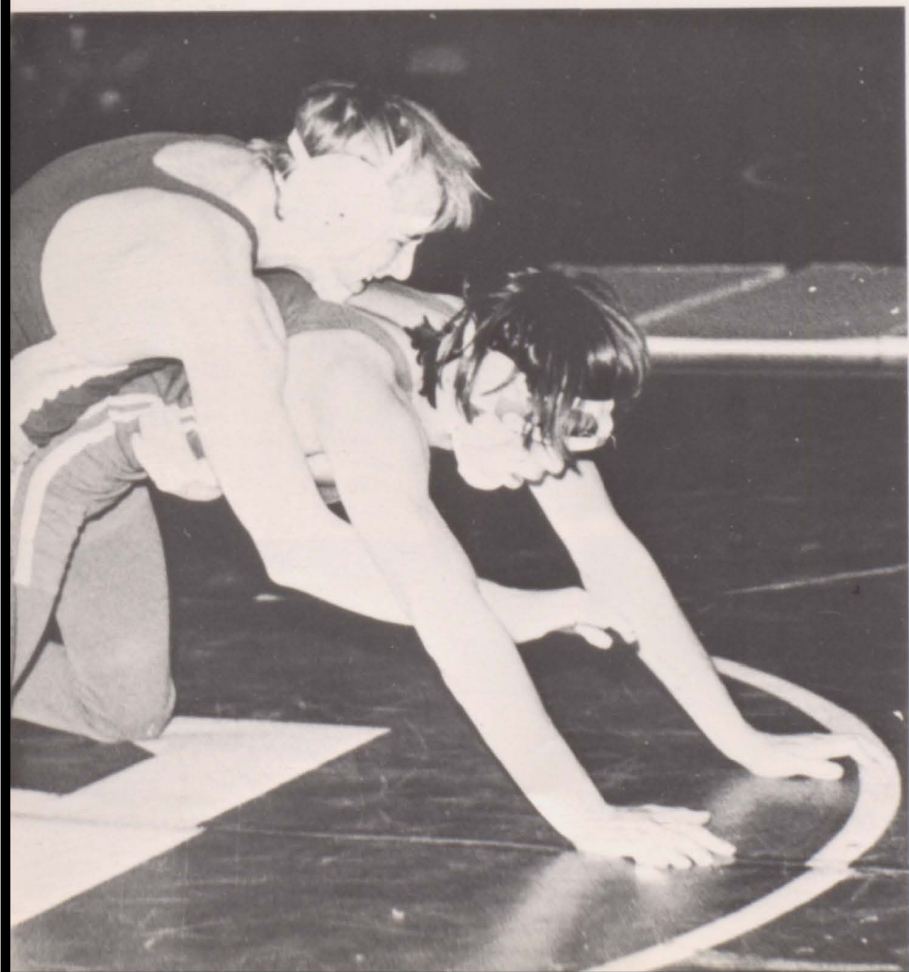

WHS Ties NKC In Knots

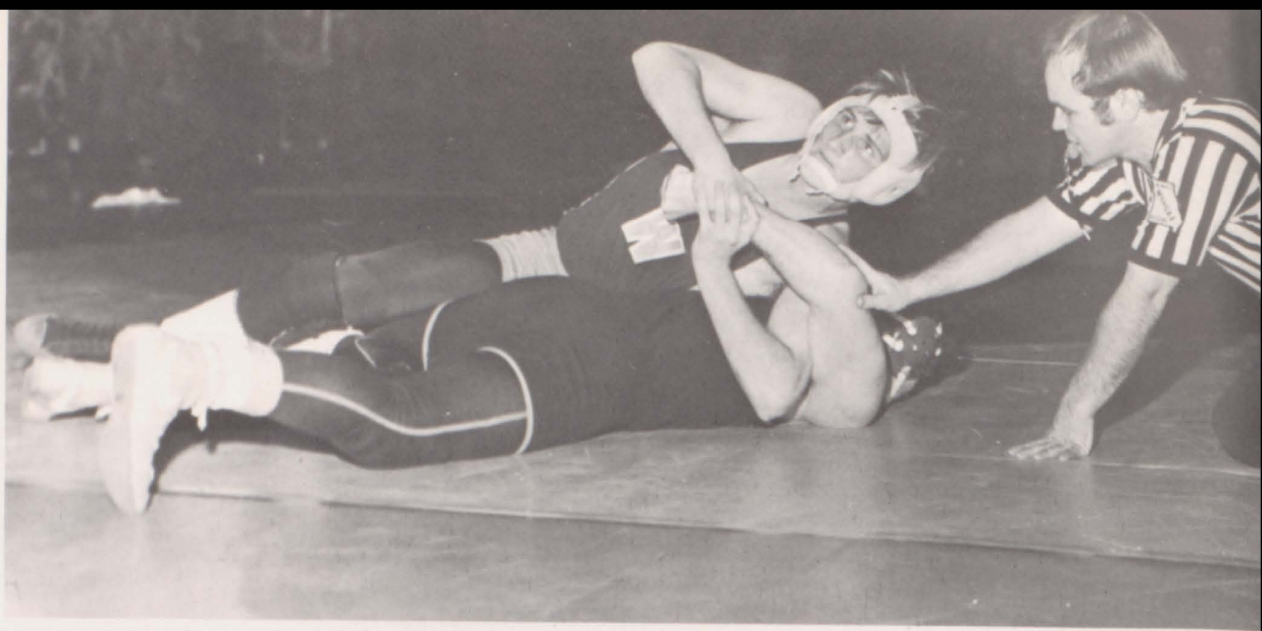

Winnetonka opened the 1973 wrestling season against the grapplers from Center High School. Seemingly picking right up where they left off last year, the Griffins won easily by a score of 36-16. There were pins by Chuck Calvert, Eldon Gorbet, Ralph White, and Bruce Whitmer in the 126 pound, 155, 185, and heavyweight classes respectively. The Griffin Monster that had wrestled so well in the past was getting warmed up for another season of phenomenal wrestling.

The next stop for the Winnetonka Manglers was North Kansas City, an old rival. There the grapplers made quick work of destroying the Hornets. Coming out on the winning end of a 41-12 score, the Griffins were now 2-0 for the season.

After winning their first two dual meets, the Griffins journeyed to Blue Springs where they participated in the Blue Springs Tournament. Placing a man in final in every weight class except one, Winnetonka walked by every other opponent to capture the first place honors. Eight of the Griffin grapplers brought home first place in their respective weight divisions: Gary Sambursky (105), Don Karther (112), Chuck Calvert (126), George Black (145), Eldon Gorbet (155), Dave Jones (167), Ralph White (185), and Dennis Balagna in the heavyweight division.

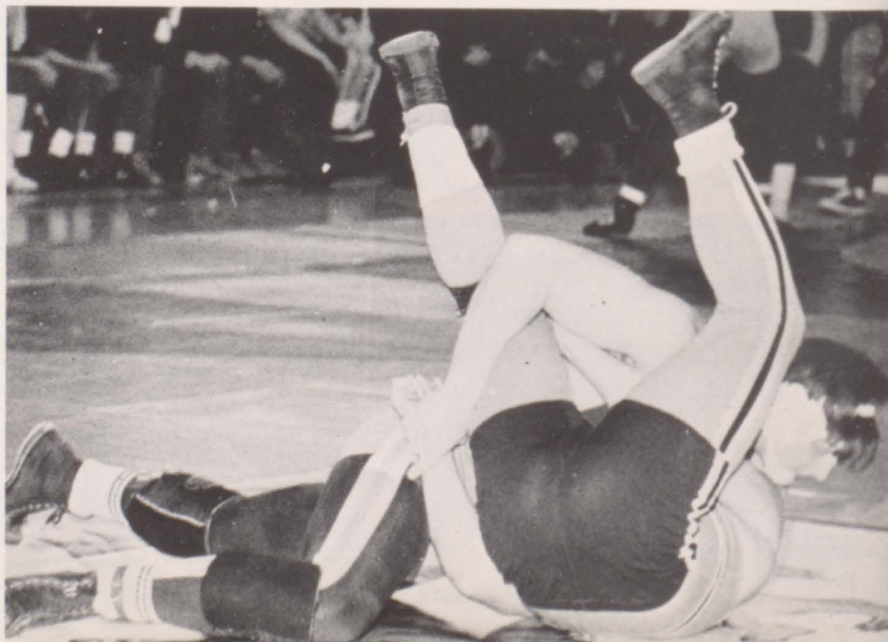

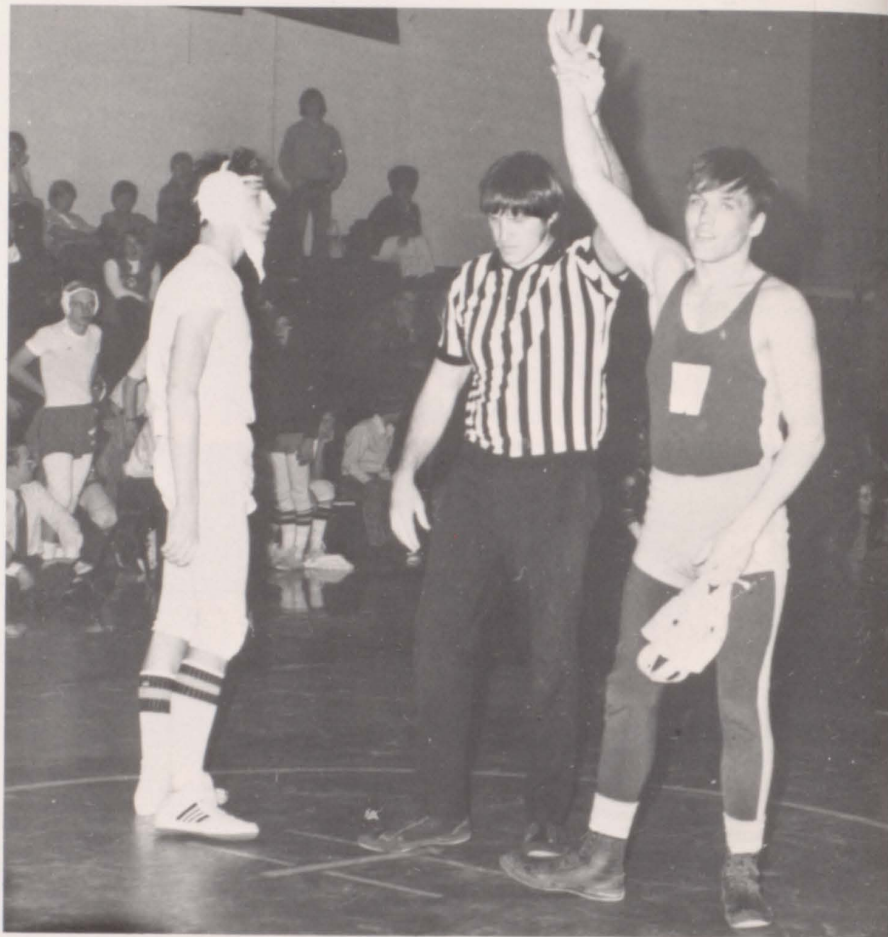

Winnetonka was on the way to another undefeated season. They won their first two dual meets and had now proven themselves against a field of opponents in a major tournament, even though the Griffins didn't have a wrestler in one class and Dennis Balagna, who took first place in the heavyweight division, wasn't the starting heavyweight.

(Clockwise from upper left) If Dave Jones were to try such maneuvers on some one in public, he'd be put away for manslaughter. Carl Jarman relaxes in a position Griffin wrestlers are quite used to: being on top. Dave Jones shows all the fans that the easiest way to get an opponent to see things his way is to show them where to look. The Griffins always enjoyed favorable positions on the mats and on the scoreboard. Jerry Cason helps a Maryville wrestler along the path of so many before him, the road to defeat. Dave Jones keeps his opponent "well covered" as he moves for an advantage. George Black tries to convince his foe that he shouldn't just lay down and quit. Eldon Gorbet awaits the start of the round and perhaps ponders the choice of tying his opponent in to a square knot or a bow. It's almost unreal how Dave Jones "plays" with his foes. It's poses like these that spelled the beginning of the end for so many of the Griffins' victims.

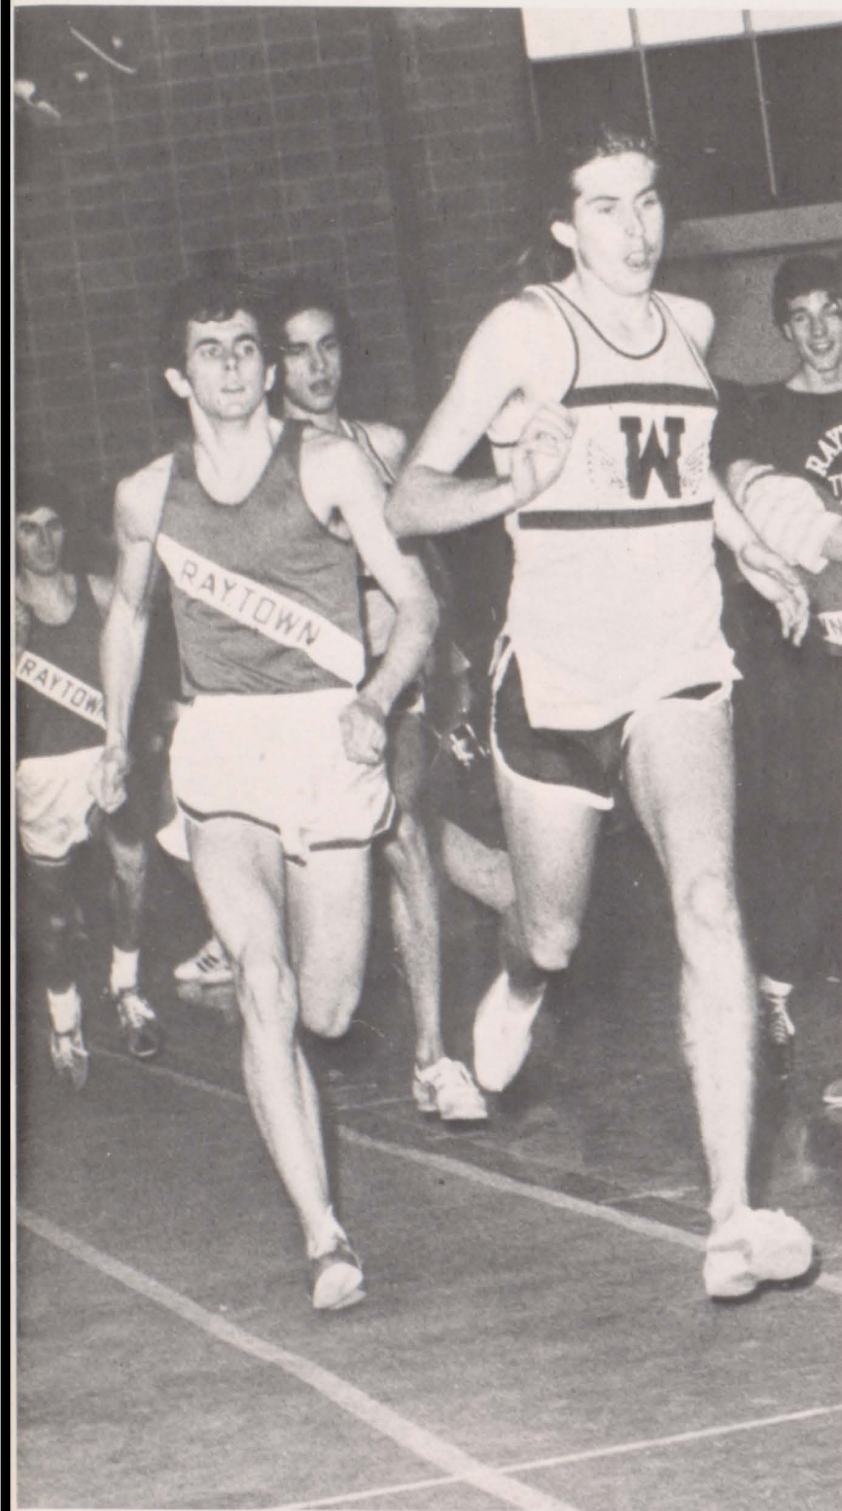

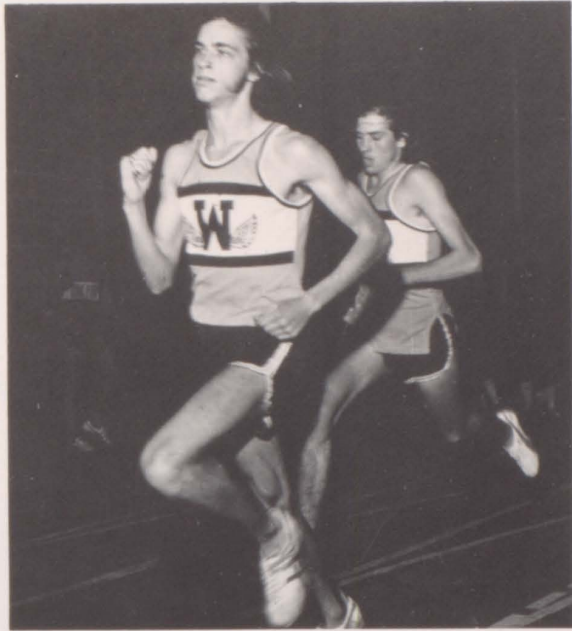

Track Field 1973

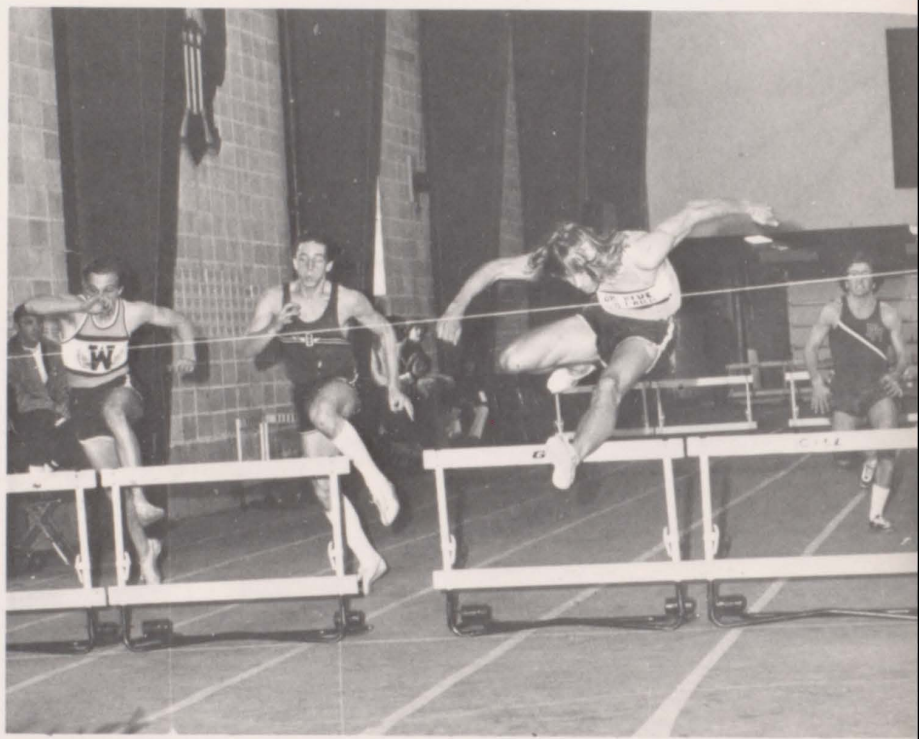

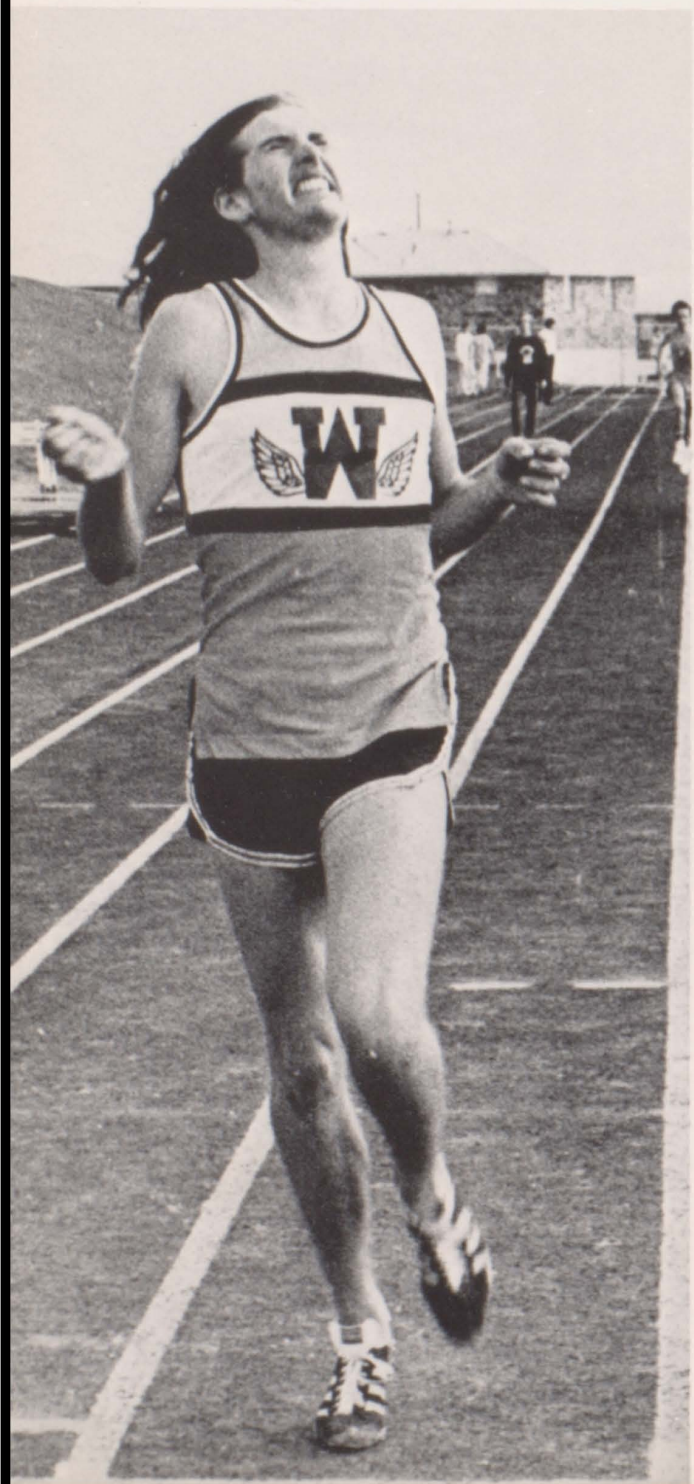

Track is a sport that, although it is probably the oldest of sports, has yet to come into its own. Until recently, there was not a professional counterpart to track, unlike football, baseball, etc. Also unlike football, high school track meets do not generate a lot of enthusiasm.

Winnetonka had a track squad of tremendously dedicated individuals. Such dedication paid off, though, especially for the twelve Griffins who had the honor of competing at the state meet: Danny Day, Steve Reusch, Mike Phillips, Rick Balagna, Kalem Rogers, Dale McCloud, Joe Summers, Dwight Duncan, Ed Bunch, Bruce Whitmer, Greg Hayes, and Chris Owen.

(Clockwise from upper left) Rick Balagna turns it on as he pulls away from a Raytown competitor. Hours of long practice allowed Bruce Whitmer to develop his skill at "putting" the shot. Mike Phillips and Rick Balagna pace the distance to the finish line without a rival in sight. Rick Thomas displays his running ability during a meet held at night. The blur of speed gives Rick Balagna an almost phantom-like image. Chris Owen arches his back until he is almost doubled over as he attempts to clear the cross-bar.

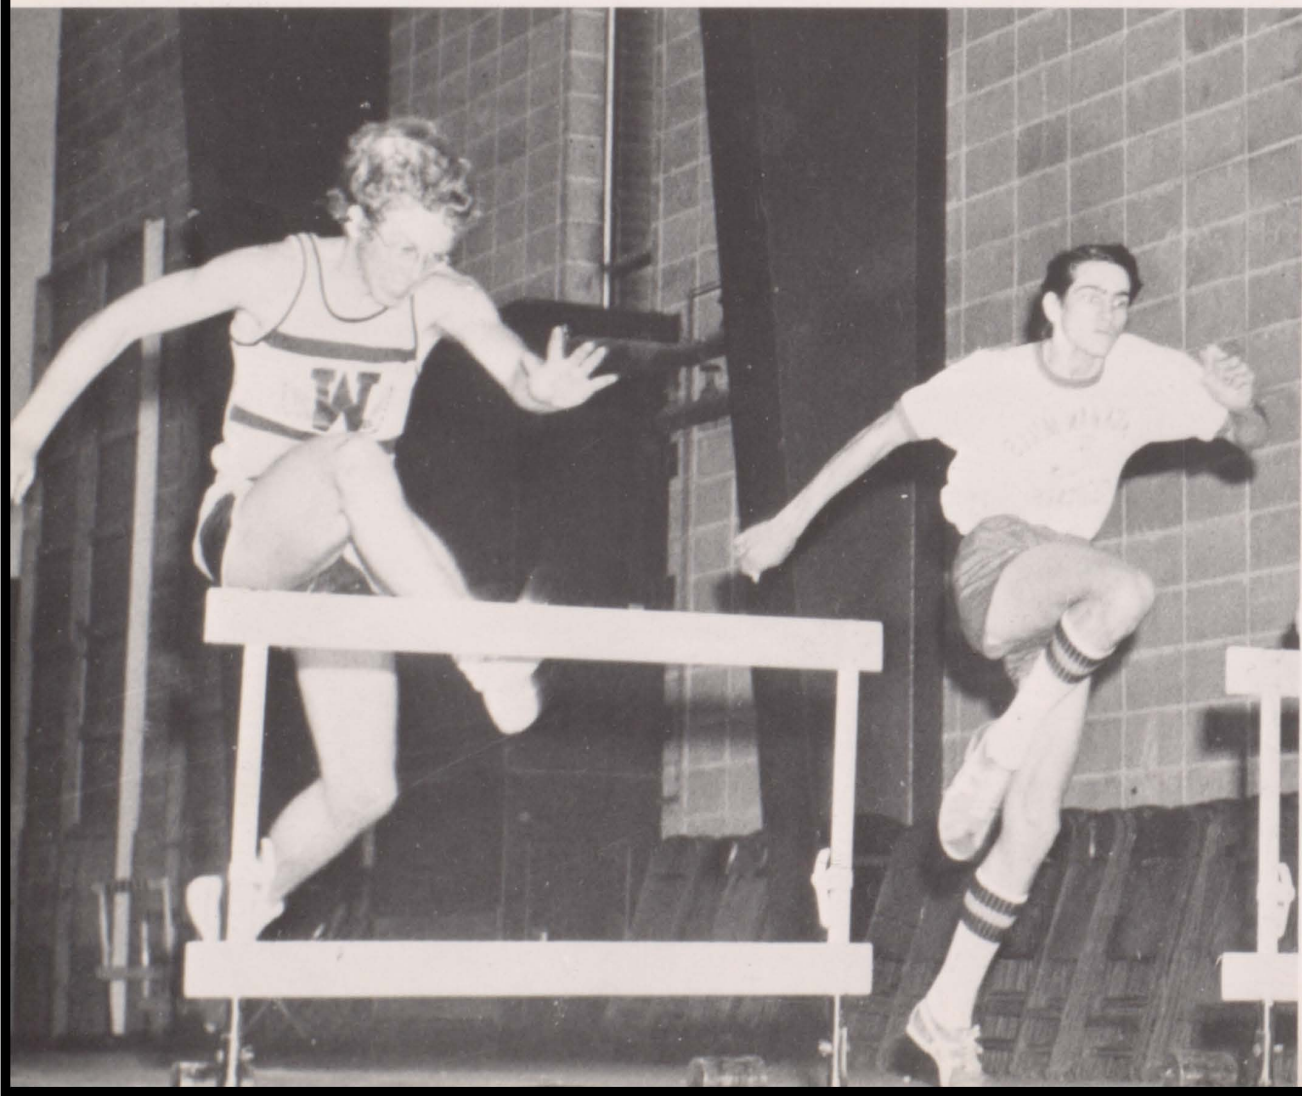

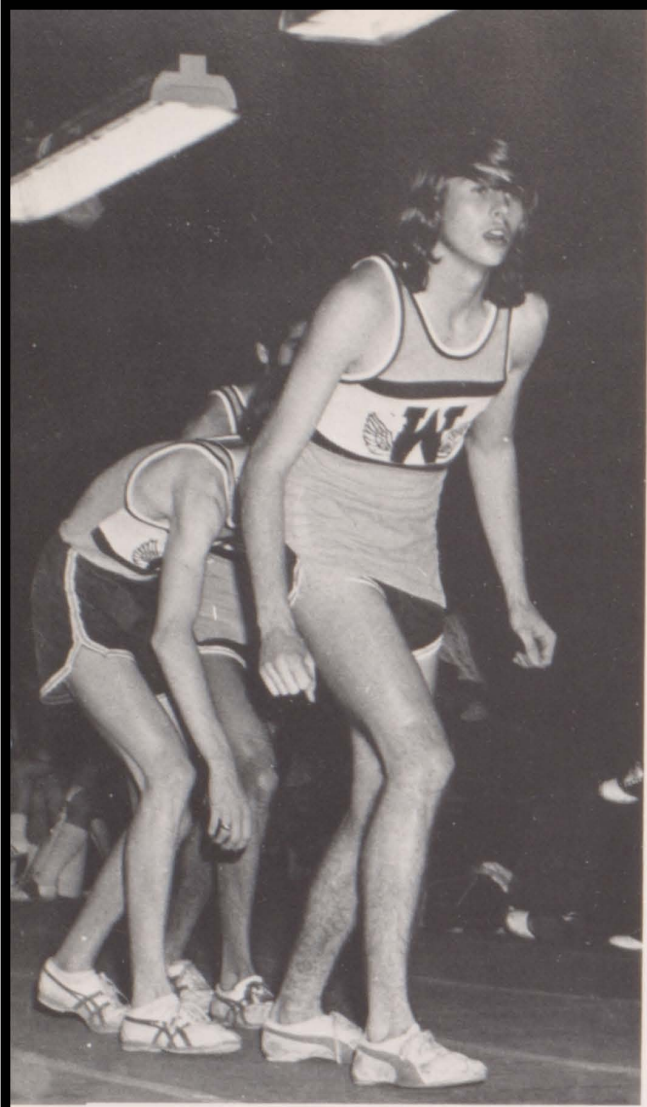

(Clockwise from right) Baton in hand, Steve Reusch pours it on in the stretch to the finish line. A soft landing and a feeling of accomplishment are what Chris Owen has to look forward to after clearing the cross-bar. Coach Pete Hager consults with Chris Owen and Steve Roland during a meet. Rick Balagna grimaces as he crosses the finish line. The race draws close as the finish line approaches. Chris Owen pulls away from his opponent in the high hurdles.

WHS Golf 1973

Golf is a neglected sport around WHS. The squad is small, but dedicated. Sit up and notice them because in a few years they'll either be on the PGA tour or behind a desk in some high corporation. You know how golfers are.

(Clockwise from top) Coach Jim Shepherd offers advice to prospective golfers. Bob Orr demonstrates "how it's done". Concentration is the key.

Tennis Squad 4th

Tennis is the fastest growing sport in America. To the Griffins who compete in this sport, though, tennis is more than a fad, it's serious business. Long hours of practice both on and off the courts have helped make Big "W" a force to be dealt with. Although they only finished fourth in the conference, the high number of underclassmen on the squad makes its future a promising one.

Griffins Take First

Winnetonka took first place in the Suburban Nine conference in 1973. The addition of the baseball crown to the wrestling title made Big "W" the most successful conference school in the area of athletics. Not bad for a three year old school.

The Griffins took first place after a close race in a rain shortened season. Only the time span of the season was shortened, though, not the schedule. Mother Nature forced the postponement of many games throughout the season. As a result, the Winnetonka squad often found itself playing games on Friday night, Saturday afternoon, and Sunday afternoon. A grueling schedule, but one the Griffins handled well.

(Clockwise from upper right) Cliff Pummill gets a hit and aids the Griffins in defeating another opponent. Gary Patton attempts to steal second base against Oak Park. Holding on to his helmet, Chris Patton scrambles back to first base. Eldon Gorbet attempts to stop a Hornet runner.

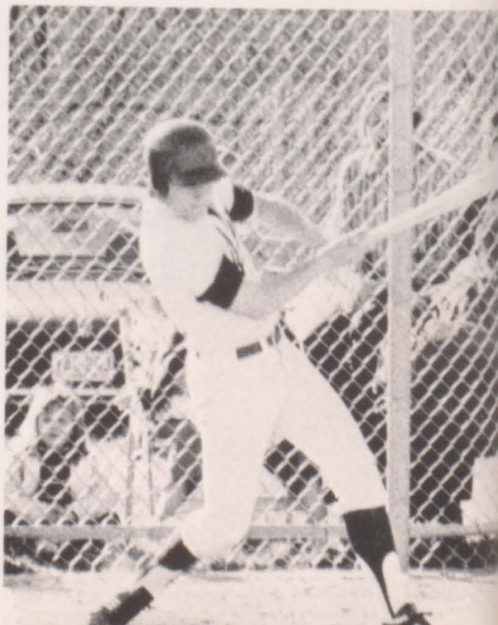

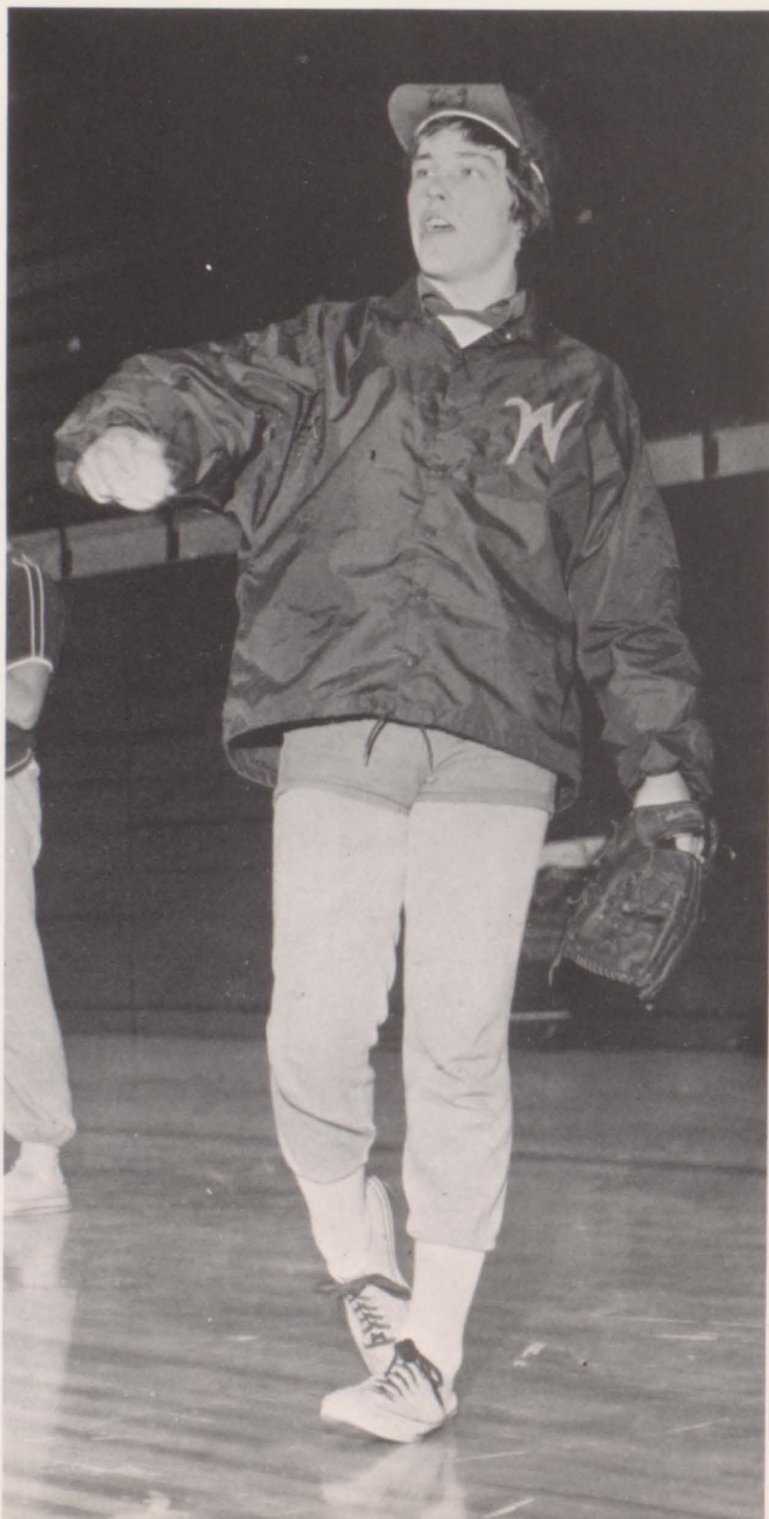

In order to take it all as they did, the Griffins had to do it all. And they did.

(Clockwise from upper right) Ben Westman displays his form as a varsity pitcher. Chris Patton goes down low to scoop up this ground ball. Ed Minor brings his bat around quickly to help the Griffin cause. Duey Arnold watched intently as his teammates battle. Ben Westman, a pitcher, practices his form inside due to inclement weather. Coach Ben Cain walks away from an umpire with an air of frustration. Eldon Gorbet taunts an opposing pitcher with his behavior in the base path.

Letter From The Editor

To close a door and to reopen it seems such a menial task. Yet, when one closes the door to his school days, it will remain shut. Except for those fleeting flashes, when one remembers that certain little instance.

The Odyssey is a book created to help one recall those important events of the past. It also shows a part of our lives that will never be again.

The thing one must remember when he closes the door to the past, is that there will always be another door to open. A door to the future. Reaching for that door is not so unattainable as it seems. Each one of us felt that reaching the door to our Senior year would never come to be. Yet, look at us now we the class of nineteen hundred and seventy-three have closed that door.

We sometimes think that the journey from the past to the future is a bleak time. But, look on the other side of that door and one can see the sunshine. Not a bleak world at all.

Each student of Winnetonka will pass through the door to the future. He and he alone will make for himself what his life will be. The Faculty and Administration of Winnetonka High School has tried to prepare each of us for the step through that door.
